SO AUTHENTIC IT ALMOST HURT

Michael Molseed stares with horror at his horribly mutilated arm this morning as College of Marin drama student Lenny Herz paints a few drops more artificial blood on the fake wound. He was among a group of students who were made up as victims of a simulated earthquake, slated to hit West Marin at 2 p.m. this afternoon and trigger off a full-scale Marin County disaster drill. All the "victims" were to be promptly dispatched by ambulances, buses and helicopters to hospitals and treatment centers by emergency medical squads.

Plan For Regional Type Government

Barrows Envisions Multipurpose Units

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County Administrator John F. Barrows has recommended that county supervisors support efforts to reform local government by creating larger, multipurpose agencies.

The board will discuss the proposal Tuesday and submit its conclusions May 18 to a subcommittee of the Governor's Council on Intergovernmental Relations, which is conducting a series of statewide hearings on local governmental reform.

The council eventually will forward recommendations to Gov. Ronald Reagan for use in drafting new legislation on local government structure.

Barrows, long a supporter of regional government as well as city-county consolidation, said yesterday his letter to the board is only "a starting point for discussion."

"The board of supervisors never has supported these ideas as enthusiastically as myself," he said, adding he expects revision of his proposals.

In his letter, Barrows said the myriad of local and regional agencies often causes agencies to waste their time and energies "attempting to coordinate authorities and revenue sources with other agencies.

"Program development and innovation, scrutiny and improvement of existing programs often become secondary considerations and the real needs of the citizens take a back seat to the wheeling and dealing with and among governmental agencies," he wrote.

"Restructuring is needed and needed now in order to make government responsive and responsible," he said, listing a number of "suggested solutions" to what he sees as overlapping administration and services.

His suggestions include:

1. Creation of a strong, multipurpose regional government with many of the powers now residing with cities or counties.
2. Creation of a multipurpose regional government carrying out the functions now provided by several existing regional entities (such as the air pollution control district and bay conservation and development commission).
3. Legislation to enhance revisions in county boundaries to provide more realistic service areas.
4. Legislation to enhance more realistic city boundaries reflecting logical service areas.
5. Legislation to enhance the possibility of city-county consolidations.
6. Legislation to enhance the possibility of city consolidations.
7. Legislation removing the limiting counties to financing services only in the unincorporated area.

The most extreme revision of his first suggestion, Barrows said, would call for "the total elimination of cities and counties as we now know them and delegation of most responsibilities to the regional government with the retention of some purely local services in small cities or boroughs."

A somewhat less radical approach, he said, would be to transfer only those services which transcend city and county boundaries such as transportation, parks and law enforcement.

His second suggestion to consolidate existing regional agencies would end the proliferation of single-purpose agencies, Barrows continued. "In this way, service demands, budgetary priorities and public interests can be evaluated one against the other and the frustrated public can look to one regional entity for services rather than a dozen or so (in the Bay Area)."

By revising county boundaries, he said, services could be improved, especially in the heavily developed metropolitan areas where service jurisdictions are ended abruptly due to county boundaries.

County boundaries are virtually unchangeable under

Petaluma Housing Probe Set

The state Contractor's Licensing Board announced today it will launch a two-week investigation of complaints by Petalumans against Condiotti Enterprises.

Residents of East Petaluma told the city council Monday that Condiotti Enterprises has failed to correct major defects in their homes. Many said plumbing, heating and foundation defects have been brought to the attention of the contractor and that no effort has been made to correct them.

Mayor Helen Putnam said today that Norman Perrault, supervising deputy of the contractor's licensing board, will spend two weeks in Petaluma listening and investigating complaints from homeowners.

Mrs. Putnam said persons wishing an appointment with Perrault should contact the city manager's office. No group meetings will be held with disgruntled homeowners, but Perrault will meet individually and investigate complaints. A follow-up meeting will be held when necessary.

The licensing board has the power to remove a contractor's license if it finds enough grounds.

Condiotti Enterprises released a statement today saying the firm has attempted to rectify legitimate complaints.

"Where investigation has shown that remedial work was necessary and the developer was responsible or felt he should solve the problem, this work has either been completed or is in the process of being completed," the statement said.

Representatives of the firm said they welcome the investigation by the contractor's licensing board. They said representatives will also continue to meet with disgruntled homeowners to demonstrate the company's good faith.

County Hopes Of Getting Hamilton Housing Dimmed

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — County hopes of acquiring Hamilton Air Force Base housing for low and moderate income families appeared to dim today with word that most of the housing probably will be retained by the military.

Representative William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, said yesterday the Coast Guard has applied for 320 of the housing units, the Army 300 and the Navy 200. The Air Force, scheduled to deactivate the base, has asked to retain 150 units, Mailliard said.

Hamilton has about 1,200 dwelling units, 500 of them in Rafael Village outside the base.

A spokesman for the congressman said today in San Francisco the requests by the military have not been acted upon by the Defense Department.

Marin supervisors last month voted 4 to 1, Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste against, to investigate acquiring Rafael Village for senior citizens and low and moderate-income family housing.

San Quentin Replacement Plan Dropped—New Prison Is Eyed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Plans to build two 400-man prisons to replace San Quentin have been scrapped and a new institution is being considered for the San Quentin site, the Reagan Administration said yesterday.

Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections, said the present San Quentin facility still is scheduled to close in late 1975, but a more modern facility could rise in its place.

San Quentin is "an impossible place to run," because of its size and age, but "you won't find any better location" for a prison, Procunier said.

New prisons also are under consideration for other locations, Procunier told the Senate Finance Committee, in view of the increasing inmate population statewide.

"What it's going to take I don't know — but we should have some idea in a very short time," he said.

Procunier's disclosure of the decision to abandon the plan to create two, 400-inmate prisons was revealed when he asked the committee to delete from next fiscal year's state budget a $1.1 million appropriation which would have financed working drawings for the facilities.

An alternative to the two prisons, he said, might be a central facility with "satellite" prisons of a few hundred inmates each nearby.

The plan, under which kitchens and power facilities could be centralized at a cost savings, might be compared to a college cluster concept.

Procunier said the cost of 400-inmate institutions appeared to be prohibitive because of per-capita cost projected at up to $25,000 annually.

The corrections department has said the prison population has increased by about 1,700 since mid-1972. It is expected to go up an additional 2,000 during the next 15 months to a total of about 23,000.

While the department has said it is sticking to its timetable for closing San Quentin, it has cautioned that the shutdown may have to be delayed because of the rise in the number of inmates.

The finance committee voted to provide the department with $160,000 to draw alternative plans to the 400-inmate facilities.

Reuss Says Nixon, Agnew Should Consider Quitting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said today President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew should consider resigning because he said the Watergate scandal had crippled the administration's credibility in foreign affairs.

Reuss, believed to be the first member of Congress publicly to suggest Nixon's resignation because of the Watergate affair, is just back from meetings in Europe and said he found "Europeans cannot understand how America can limp along with a fractured presidency for the next 44 months."

"Since he has accepted full responsibility for his administration, Mr. Nixon should consider resigning for the good of the country," Reuss said. "As a member of that administration, so should Agnew although there is no suggestion of his implication in the Watergate."

Reuss, 61, is serving his 19th consecutive year in Congress from Wisconsin. The Harvard law graduate made the trip to Europe as a member of a congressional delegation that attended a European Parliament meeting in Strasbourg, France, this week.

Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., another member of the delegation, said, "European legislative and political leaders were absolutely stunned by the continuing revelations of the Watergate affair."

Reuss's statement came as John W. Dean, fired last week as White House legal counsel and who has vowed not to be a scapegoat in the Watergate scandal, was summoned before Senate investigators for questioning under oath.

A few hours before his scheduled 3 p.m. EDT appearance, however, sources close to the

U.S. Attorney's Probe Was Kept Close Secret

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. attorney's investigation that led to the indictments of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans was kept secret from the FBI and other federal agencies, a source close to the investigation said today.

Mitchell and Stans were indicted yesterday on charges of perjury and obstructing an investigation into a financier's dealings in exchange for a $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign. They will be arraigned May 21.

The four-month investigation by U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour's office was conducted under tight security, with less than a dozen persons aware of it until it was near completion, the source said.

No one close to the investigation would spell out specifically why the assistance of other agencies was not requested.

There was speculation, however, that if FBI investigators had been used, progress reports would have been forwarded to then acting FBI director, L.

Scouts Will Show Skills Tomorrow

Fifty years of scouting will be marked tomorrow at Marin's annual Scout-O-Rama, a show of youthful skills highlighting a long list of weekend events in Marin and Southern Sonoma.

The Scout-O-Rama, in which 2,000 Scouts, Cubs, Explorers and their leaders will take part, is to be held from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael.

Elsewhere in San Rafael meanwhile, the four-day Pacific Regional Ballet Festival will conclude at 8 p.m. tomorrow with a gala show at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Also on the weekend calendar is the opening tonight of Brendan Behan's play, "The Hostage," at the old Festival Theater in San Anselmo, the fourth annual writers' conference today through Sunday at the College of Marin and a Fire Service Recognition Day program tomorrow at local fire departments.

The schedule:

TONIGHT

Writers' conference, College of Marin Fine Arts Building, through Sunday.

"Butterflies Are Free," Actors Playhouse, 8:30 p.m., Miller Creek School, Marinwood. (Also tomorrow.)

"Survival of Spaceship Earth," documentary, 8 p.m., Olney Hall, College of Marin.

Sonoma State College Dance Workshop, 8 p.m., Warren Auditorium. (Also Saturday and Sunday.)

Talk on reptiles and amphibians of the Tiburon Peninsula, 8 p.m., Del Mar School.

Jack E. Leonard Dies In New York

JACK E. LEONARD
Comedian is dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack E. Leonard, the rotund comedian who built a career on rapid-fire insults, died Wednesday of diabetic complications. He was 62.

Leonard had been hospitalized at Mt. Sinai Hospital for six weeks since he collapsed from a heart condition. At that time he was performing at the Rainbow Grill in Rockefeller Center.

Leonard, who started in vaudeville and became well known during the last two decades for his work in nightclubs and on television, used barbs and insults, especially directed toward other celebrities, as the basis of his act.

He once told deadpan television host Ed Sullivan, "There's nothing wrong with you that reincarnation won't cure." Another time, he told singer Perry Como, "You have a very fine voice—too bad it's in Bing Crosby's throat."

But in a more serious moment, he said, "An insult is only funny if it's ridiculous, and it's ridiculous if it's aimed at some really big shot."

His weight and his numerous crash diets—he once dropped from 350 pounds to 200—and his baldness also were the subject of his routines.

"You look like a nice bunch of people and I'm a nice bunch of people, and maybe we'll have a good time," he once told his audience.

Born Leonard Lebitsky in Chicago on April 24, 1911, Leonard said he grew up in a tough neighborhood and included among his associates gangster Baby Face Nelson. He was a lifeguard, thought about becoming a physical education instructor and then turned to dancing.

He was discovered by another comedian, Jack Waldron, and went on to a comic career. He made one movie in 1953 called "Three Sailors and a Girl," which he said was so bad it was made "strictly for driveout theaters."

He is survived by his second wife, Gladys. His first wife, Kay, an acrobat whom he met while touring USO clubs during World War II, died in 1967.

Timber Bill Wins Test In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to aid the California timber industry at the expense of Japan and other foreign log importers has won the unanimous approval of the Senate.

The bill (SB362) by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, would prohibit the export of timber from state-owned forests unless it first was sawn on four sides by a domestic mill. The bill was sent to the Assembly yesterday on a 27-0 vote.

Collier said the measure was intended to help protect the jobs of 200 lumber workers on the North Coast. He said it would affect only about 2 per cent of the timber in California and would not apply to private or federal lands.

Betty Grable Is Hospitalized

"Her condition is serious but improving," a spokesman for St. John's Hospital .

Guidelines Are Drawn To Ease Gas Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an attempt to minimize gasoline shortages this summer, the administration has unveiled voluntary guidelines for the petroleum industry to insure that oil and gasoline customers are not cut off from their supplies.

Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who outlined the new program before the Senate Banking Committee Thursday, said the guidelines call for suppliers to deliver to customers the same proportion of gasoline they received before shortages arose.

The guidelines said that "each refiner, marketer, jobber and distributor will agree to make available in each state to each of its customers ... the same percentage of its total supply of crude oil and products that it provided during each quarter of the base period." The base period is the last quarter of 1971 and the first three quarters of 1972.

Industry reaction to the guidelines was favorable.

A spokesman for the Standard Oil Co. of California said the firm had already drawn up plans to allocate gasoline to all its 21,000 nationwide retail outlets according to the way it has in the past. In other words, the spokesman said, "we're trying to be fair to everybody. We're treating all outlets the same way as we have before. It's essentially what the President proposed."

Richard I. Galland, president of American Petrofina, said in Dallas, Tex. that the new guidelines are "a good thing."

In related developments:

—The Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) said in a letter to the 50 state governors that there was no need to enforce gas rationing this summer, but repeated earlier predictions that some "spot shortages" would occur.

—The National Petroleum Council said production capacity of domestic petroleum refineries would have to be nearly. doubled by 1985 to meet the nation's projected demands by that year.

—The Senate Interior Committee approved a bill to strength the President's authority to impose rationing in case of "extraordinary shortages or dislocations in the distribution" of fuel.

Only Small Cuts Seen At Hospitals

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — There will be "no real upset" in programs of state hospitals for the mentally retarded during the next year, says Acting State Mental Hygiene Director Andrew G. Robertson.

Robertson told the Senate Finance Committee yesterday he expects the number of patients in the hospitals to be decreased by only 100 during the next fiscal year to total 9,700.

Robertson noted relatives of patients in the hospitals had become disturbed by the Reagan administration's earlier proposal to phase out the hospitals by 1982.

He predicted it would take a "very long period of time" before local areas would be able to meet the needs of mentally retarded patients .

Robertson said there were no plans to close state hospitals for the mentally retarded during the next year. But he said it was hoped Los Angeles County would take over administration of Metropolitan Hospital in Norwalk and San Joaquin County would do likewise with Stockton State Hospital.

Power Companies See No Summer Shortages

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Come summer, householders will flip a switch and presto!—lights will go on, radios will squawk, toasters will pop and other appliances will perform their designated miracles.

That's the good news today from power companies who pooh-pooh reports of electrical shortages for the upcoming season.

New York City, Chicago and Los Angeles may face a drop in electric supplies due mainly to the increased use of air conditioners in the "dog days" of late July and August.

For the past three summers New Yorkers have been hit by brownouts due to generator failures. But Consolidated Edison Corp., hurt by environmentalists holding up installation of nuclear power plants, says the city will have adequate supplies of electricity—if all its units stay in operation.

Los Angeles may have similar difficulties, a power official said, due to air pollution control regulations prohibiting use of high-sulphuur fuel, and a decrease of electric supplies from the Pacific Northwest.

The question of nuclear energy as a source of supply for electricity kept popping up in various sections of the country — a probable indication of the direction suppliers want to move to meet the demands of consumers.

In Illinois, for instance, Commonwealth Edison Co., which serves 8 million of the state's 11 million residents, said it will have adequate power to meet demands this summer if it can get permission from the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to operate one of two new nuclear units at Zion, Ill., at "significant power.." If not, "the possibility exists that brownouts will occur," an official said.

Hearings have been scheduled later this month on whether to grant Commonwealth Edison a license to operate the nuclear units against the wishes of environmental groups arguing the plant does not possess adequate safety devices.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Truce Violation

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops firing antiaircraft guns today forced down two truce team helicopters carrying government and Communist officers and then held the occupants at gunpoint for nearly three hours before permitting them to fly on to Saigon, the South Vietnamese Command said.

One of the helicopters was hit and received slight damage but there was no report of casualties. It and the other chopper were able to continue the flight from the incident 55 miles north of Saigon to Bien Hoa Air Base just north of the city.

Skylab Launch

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — With simultaneous countdowns running as smoothly as ever, dual Skylab launch crews stepped up the pace today for firing America's first space station into orbit Monday.

"Both countdowns have gone quite smoothly," launch director Walter J. Kapryan said yesterday. "It's as smooth a countodwn operation as we've ever had."

Astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz, were in Houston today for their last major medical examinations.

Bomber Raids

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplanes including swingwing F111 bombers flew heavy raids across southern Cambodia today within hours after the U.S. Congress refused to approve official funding for the air campaign here.

Some of the strikes were so close to Cambodian forces fighting off rebel attacks that U.S. air controllers refused to authorize them until they were assured that "the ground commander assumes responsibility for short rounds," meaning those which could possibly land on government units.

Impoundment Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four times this year federal courts have ruled President Nixon violated the Constitution when he decided last December not to spend more than $12 billion appropriated by Congress, some of it over his veto.

Yesterday, the Senate voted 66-24 to try to make it illegal for any president to impound funds in that manner unless Congress ratifies the impoundment within 60 days.

At the same time, it voted 86-4 to spend even less than Nixon proposed in his budget for fiscal 1974, which starts July 1.

The budget called for spending $268.7 billion. The Senate voted to hold spending to a ceiling $700 million below that figure. If it appropriates over the ceiling, all programs would be cut back proportionately.

Crisis Ends

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The longest political crisis in postwar Europe has ended after 163 days with the formation of a five-party coalition government led by a strong pro-Western Socialist, Prime Minister Joop den Uyl.

Den Uyl and 14 other cabinet ministers took the oath of office today from Queen Juliana and then formally took office.

The deadlock, by far the longest in the Netherlands since World War II and the longest anywhere else in Europe, began last Nov. 29 when the country's general elections proved inconclusive.

Natural Death

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI) — "The air has been cleared," said the daughter of former Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., after autopsy results announced yesterday indicated the senator died of heart failure, and was not poisoned.

Dr. Stanley Hall, a Hannibal pathologist, announced the results at a tense news conference at Levering Hospital here.

Hall said the autopsy showed no finding of chocolate in Long's stomach, no evidence of poison in his body and no evidence of a brain tumor.

Lindsay Brother's Wife Seeks Divorce

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wife of Mayor John Lindsay's twin brother Wednesday filed for a divorce in Manhattan Supreme Court after 27 years of marriage.

David Lindsay, who is a lawyer with the form of Polk and Wardwell, was married to Eleanor Marion in 1943 almost immediately after his graduation from Yale. The Lindsays have four children ranging in age from 17 to 24.

WILLIAM (MARTY) WONG
Wins new honors

Scholarship Is Awarded To Newsboy

Wong's essays on business achievement and thrift placed him among 24 young men throughout the state to receive the scholarship award, according to Allan G. Howells, Independent-Journal circulation manager.

The carrier for route 2308 in Marinwood since July 1967, Wong, 15, is the only I-J newsboy to receive 59 monthly achievement awards. He was named Carrier of the Month in June 1969, as well as having received the top producer award many times.

Wong, of 2140 Elderberry Lane in San Rafael, is a sophomore at Terra Linda High School.

In his essay on business achievement, Wong writes, "I have pride in the fact that not only am I a vital link in getting the news to people, but I'm serving the community, giving my customers good service as I bring them the latest news as soon as possible. I am making a worthwhile contribution to the community through the distribution of news."

Wong plays clarinet, bugle and trumpet and is active in sports, enjoying bowling, baseball and football. He is president of the chess club and a member of the scholarship club at Terra Linda High.

No Malignancy Tissues Are Found

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Cornelia Wallace, wife of Gov. George Wallace, was hospitalized Wednesday when doctors discovered a test for uterine cancer showed "an atypical pap smear."

However, doctors said Mrs. Wallace underwent a cervical conization—a process where the walls of the cervix are scraped—and said there were no traces of malignancy.

Teacher Looks Back Upon Fond Memories

Catherine Burch, principal of Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera since it was built 20 years ago, will retire next month, ending a teaching career that's spanned four decades.

She will recall her 20 years with the Larkspur Corte Madera School District with nothing but pleasure, said Mrs. Burch. "It's been such a happy experience, I've enjoyed every minute."

Born in Willows, Glen County, she went to high school in Marysville, then to the University of California at Berkeley and San Francisco State College.

She began elementary school teaching in Marysville, then moved to the mountains. She looks back on her days in one-room schools with pleasure too . . . "I was young and we used to ski and go fishing at recess when I was at Seneca in Plumas County . . ."

But she certainly doesn't consider the oldtime schools superior to Neil Cummins.

Teaching methods have improved over the years. Education is better. Children are more sophisticated, more knowledgeable. They've had infinitely more experiences by the time they get to kindergarten."

The new open classroom concept bears some resemblance to the old one-room schools, she agreed, "but it's a spiral not a full circle. It comes around but when it comes back it comes out higher. Everything is better."

Mrs. Burch first came to the Larkspur School District in 1945, when her late husband got a job with the Ford Motor Company in San Francisco. She was appointed teaching principal of the new Neil Cummins School when it was built in 1953.

"This was all marsh then," she said, pointing at the Corte Madera Town Park which joins the school grounds. "The school was built with state aid. Neil Cummins was superintendent. He and I used to go around counting houses and foundations to see how many children could be expected."

The school originally was for the first three grades, then kindergarten through sixth grade were added, then seventh and eighth. Students from San Clemente School on the other side of the freeway transfer there after sixth grade. There are 560 students.

Neil Cummins School is in an ideal setting for an elementary school, with the grassy expanses of the town park next door, and a reed-fringed slough winding past the playground. Mrs. Burch, who describes herself as "a nature lover of sorts" is a member of the Sierra Club and the Audubon Society. She can look from her office window and watch egrets, wild ducks, meadowlarks, blackbirds, mocking birds and killdeer.

"The school has a nice community feeling and good relationships with the town — they are more than welcome here on school grounds, and we are more than welcome to use the park."

After her retirement Mrs. Burch, who has a home in Fairfax, intends to travel, visit friends and relatives, and perhaps do some volunteer work in Marin.

Over the years Mrs. Burch has left her mark on the school. It has traditions that students remember long after they've left for Redwood High School — like the Crazy Hat Day when the whole school dresses in costume, the talent show, and an active student council. Mrs. Burch often recognizes mothers and fathers of new kindergarteners, for she once taught them.

"We have good control of the youngsters," she said, when asked if she was a strict disciplinarian. "We have high standards and the children live up to them. They are proud of their school and proud of themselves."

Fuel Crisis Probe Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Transportation Committee announced yesterday it will hold its first hearing into the increasing cost of gasoline and the fuel shortage "crisis" May 25 at Los Angeles.

The hearing will be part of a legislative investigation ordered by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti to determine whether there actually is a "crisis" or whether the situation is what he described as a "carefully orchestrated" oil company "excuse" to raise prices.

Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, committee chairman, said the first hearing at the Old State Building in Los Angeles would take testimony from transit districts, governmental units, businesses, consumers and service station operators "who are having difficulty getting fuel."

The second hearing on June 1 in San Francisco will receive testimony from major brand and independent oil producers along with refiners. The third hearing in Sacramento June 21 will deal with "the role the state should assume in alleviating the current fuel shortage," Meade said.

Section Of Budget

The Independent-Journal passed on incorrect information in yesterday's issue concerning the Novato Fire Protection District's preliminary budget. The maintenance budget was given as $103,336 up $26,553 from the current budget. The maintenance budget should have been $141,336, up $64,161 from the current budget of $77,175.

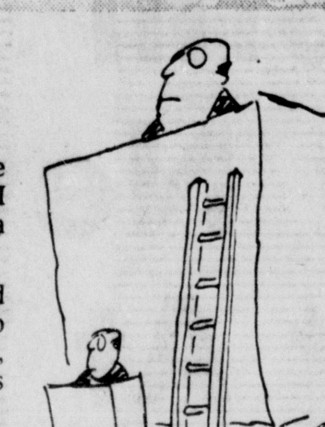
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Appeal From Small Claims



"I wuz robbed! The judge musta been out of his skull! I want my case reheard in a higher court!"

Law suit losers can indeed appeal. As a matter of fact, so can winners, if, for example, they get an award that is less than they ask for.

The one exception is Small Claims Court. If you sue — and lose — no appeal. Suppose that you're not the one who sues, but the one sued — the defendant? If you lose, that's different. The Small Claims defendant can appeal, since he didn't choose that court in the first place.

Well, Charley Corpus sued Sam Saddly in a fender-bender and won a judgment for $180. 'Unfair!'' Sam said. "I appeal!"

"Fine," said the court clerk. "Only first you have to put up $180 cash or post a bond."

"But I'm broke," Sam said sadly. "Cold, stony broke. Should I be robbed by a bad court decision just because I haven't any money?"

He found a lawyer who was willing to get his case reviewed in the California Supreme Court. Charley Corpus fought the case.

"The Small Claims Court," he said, "is for the cases $500 or under. The filing fee is only $2. Attorneys aren't allowed to present cases for clients. The idea is to settle small cases fast and without a lot of fuss. Now, if the losers can appeal any time they want, they'll slow things up for months. And this will encourage delays and frivolous appeals and just clog the higher courts up more."

"All that Corpus says is true," Sam's attorney admitted. "But it's just as hard on a poor man to lose a small case as for a rich man to lose a big one. So the poor man should have a careful review too, and not be barred by having to post bond or cash."

The Supreme Court ruled in effect, "Corpus is wrong; Saddly is right. It is unconstitutional to make a loser put up an appeals bond to have a small claims decision re-heard 'upstairs'. This is the taking of property without due process of law. Remember that a lawyer can't represent people in Small Claims Court. A person can only have a lawyer for the first time after he appeals. Keeping him from a lawyer by forcing him to post bond amounts to a taking of property without a fair hearing." (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

CIA Furnished Equipment For Ellsberg Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Robert E. Cushman acknowledged today he authorized the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to furnish a wig, fake eyeglasses and other equipment used in the 1971 burglary of the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Cushman, now commandant of the Marine Corps and former deputy CIA director, said his action was "perfectly proper" and conformed with orders from higher authority.

Cushman cut short a European trip to return to Washington and testify before three separate congressional inquiries into possibly illegal CIA involvement in domestic security matters.

Killing Of Taxi Driver Admitted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Clifford T. Lawrence, 21, arrested as a result of painstaking work by a police fingerprint expert, pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of killing a taxi driver.

Superior Court Judge John Ertola set June 1 for sentencing.

Lawrence was arrested after police technician Ken Moses linked him to the crime—more than a year after it happened—by determining his fingerprints on the murder weapon.

Gunmen Hit Gas Station

Attendant William Frank Kinney Jr., 20, said a car with two men in their 20s pulled up to the gasoline pumps at 3:20 a.m. He said one of the men pointed a pistol at him and forced him into the men's room.

Police said cigarettes, oil and transmission fluid were also stolen.

Judge Orders Trio To Appear On Burglary

Three men, who allegedly tried to sleep their way out of being arrested, have been ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Wednesday to answer changes of attempted burglary.

Following a lengthy preliminary hearing yesterday and Wednesday, Municipal court judge Gary W. Thomas held the three to answer. They are Kevin Sanford Walter, 24, of Marin City; Kelly O. Green, 19, of Mill Valley, and Nelson Clark Ritter, 18, of Tamalpais Valley.

The three have been in Marin County Jail since April 30, when sheriff's deputies responded to a burglar alarm at the Sausalito Bait and Tackle Shop at Waldo Point. Officers said they found the trio feigning sleep in the grass near the store, which had been broken into.

present law, he added.

Barrows also urged that state legislation be enacted to make it easier for police and fire services to merge on a countywide basis.

Currently, residents of incorporated communities in Marin pay for not only their local police and fire departments but also a portion of the county's police and fire protection to unincorporated areas.

INDICT

Patrick Gray, and might well have wound up—as did other FBI data on the Watergate case —in the hands of White House aides.

The four defendants will be arraigned in Federal Court Monday.

Mitchell and Stans were the first former cabinet members indicted since the Teapot Dome scandal in Wyoming 50 years ago.

If convicted of the charges Mitchell and Stans would face possible prison terms of up to 50 years and fines of as much as $75,000 on six counts of perjury and three of obstructing justice.

Both men are also under investigation in connection with the break-in last June at Democratic National Headquarters at the Watergate office complex in Washington.

Mitchell is now a partner in the New York law firm of Mudge Rose Guthrie Alexander and Mitchell. His office said he was expected to be at work this afternoon.

Mitchell is legally entitled to practice law while his indictment is pending. However, a lawyer is automatically disbarred in New York once he is found to have committed a crime that would be a felony under state law.

Both men yesterday claimed they are innocent of the charges.

Brezhnev Trip

WARSAW (UPI) — Soviet Communist Party boss Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today for a 24-hour unofficial visit in preparation for his trip next week to West Germany.

BUGGING

Senate's special Watergate investigating committee said Dean might not go before staff investigators today even though he had been subpoenaed to appear this week in advance of public sessions starting next Thursday.

Dean said yesterday that efforts were under way to keep him from testifying "fully and freely" about the Watergate scandal.

Reuss made his comments in an interview with the Columbia Broadcasting System. Obey issued a statement.

"Before leaving for Europe I was asked if I thought Watergate would affect the President's ability in dealing in foreign affairs, and I said No. I know now that I was dead wrong," said Obey.

Obey, 35, first came to Congress in 1969 when he won election to the Wisconsin seat vacated by Melvin R. Laird when he was named defense secretary by Nixon. Obey was reelected in 1970 and 1972.

At the federal court house a few blocks from Capitol Hill, the Watergate grand jury met again to hear testimony from former Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray.

Dean issued a new statement suggesting a concerted effort to "get me" following published reports about what he knows about involvement of high-level officials in efforts to cover up the Watergate scandal.

The 34-year-old lawyer, terming unspecified news stories inaccurate and incomplete, said he would tell the truth and not shoulder the blame for anyone.

Gray resigned the FBI post April 27 after acknowledging last summer he destroyed some documents Dean gave him. Gray was reported to have said he was told the papers should not "see the light of day." They were taken from the office of G. Howard Hunt, who pleaded guilty in January to participating in the Watergate bugging.

Questioning of Dean and Gray followed indictment of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government and obstruct justice. The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in New York in connection with a secret $200,000 contribution to Nixon's reelection campaign.

The Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President argued in U.S. District Court in Washington today that the contribution —by New York financier Robert L. Vesco, who was indicted with Mitchell and Stans — was legal.

Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. said in a 383-page sworn statement released yesterday that he was told that Mitchell ordered the June 17 break-in at the Democrat's Watergate headquarters because he was pleased with the results of a earlier burglary there.

McCord said he also was told that Mitchell received reports on conversations monitored on tapped telephone lines of high-level Democrats; approved a $250,000-plus budget for political espionage, and asked his political agents to get the blackmail material from a Las Vegas, Nev., newspaper office.

He said the material concerned a Democratic presidential candidate, whom he did not name. But he indicated it "might possibly" have been Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. He said the plot was not carried out.

McCord, who was serving as security chief for Nixon's campaign when he was arrested in the June 17 break-in, said all his information about Mitchell came from co-conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, former campaign finance council.

OBITUARIES

Laura E. Eggers Dies At 78

Laura E. Eggers of San Rafael, a resident of Marin County since 1922, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 78.

A native of Elgin, Ill., she worked for a time at the Elgin Watch Company there before moving to Marin.

Mrs. Eggers, of 107 Shaver Street, was the wife of the late John F. Eggers, an employee of the Marin County Housing Authority active in youth activities. He died in 1957.

Surviving are two sons, Warren Eggers of San Rafael and Milton Eggers of Richmond, and one grandchild.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Friends may call at the mortuary after noon tomorrow.

MRS. RAY

Funeral for Florence L. Ray, 72, long-time Novato resident, will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Mrs. Ray died Wednesday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness. She had moved to Petaluma two years ago to make her home with a granddaughter, Judy Ramponi, 1425 Elizabeth Drive.

She was a native of Kansas and moved to San Francisco as a youngster. Mrs. Ray and her late husband, John, had lived in Novato for many years.

She is also survived by two other grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be Sunday at 8 p.m. at the funeral home. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

OTTO FINGER

Otto Finger, 86, of Novato, a retired engineer for the Milwaukee Railroad, died yesterday at Novato General Hospital after a long illness.

Finger, a resident of the Hill Road Convalescent Hospital, formerly was a resident of San Rafael. He was a native of Germany.

Surviving are a daughter, Edith Parsons of Honolulu, and two grandchildren. Private family services were to be held today at Wilson and Kratzer Mortuaries, Richmond, and burial at Rolling Hills Memorial Park, Richmond.

GEORGE H. GUNDERSON

Funeral for George H. Gunderson of San Anselmo, owner of a San Francisco office furniture sales firm, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Gunderson, of 25 Calumet Avenue, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 70..

Gunderson was president of Beier and Gunderson Inc., a firm he founded in San Francisco in 1936.

A native of San Francisco, he was a resident of Marin County for 36 years.

He was a life member of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Cypress Lawn Cemetery in Colma.

HAROLD CARDWELL

Funeral for Harold R. (Slue) Cardwell, former Sausalito fireman, has been held in Arlington, Tex.

Cardwell died last Thursday after a long illness at a relative's home in Texas while on a visit. He was 52.

Cardwell, a native of Texas, had lived in Marin for 28 years. He retired from the Sausalito Fire Department in 1970 after 24 years of service, and was currently employed by a Sausalito taxi firm.

He resided at 524 Spring Street in Sausalito.

He is survived by three brothers, James and William Cardwell of Fort Worth, Tex., and Jack Cardwell of Bedford, Tex., and two sisters, Mrs. Odell Clark and Mrs. Cody Sandiffer of Arlington, Tex.

Burial was held in Morre Cemetery, Arlington, Tex.

Brains, Beauty Go Hand In Hand

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—The University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music has long been famous for its fine musicians. Now the school has gained an added reputation.

In the past decade, six women students at Eastman have been victors in the Miss Rochester or Miss New York State talent and beauty competitions. Eastman's most recent winner is Judith Ann Keithly, a blue-eyed sophomore pianist, who won the Miss Rochester and Miss New York State titles this year.

Ends Role With Rank Of Captain

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI) — When Maurice Brooks opened an amateur production of "Once Upon A MAttress" at the playhouse on this Army post, he was a first lieutenant. Shortly after the last curtain fell, he became a captain.

His commander, Lt. Col. Wayne C. Hogan, used the occasion to surprise Brooks, a helicopter pilot from Chicago, and pinned the double silver bars on the clown costume Brooks wore. "I guess I had the last laugh," said Brooks.

'Consumer Hotline' Drawing Customers

About 35 to 50 people per day in Marin have been using a new "consumer hotline" telephone to voice complaints, it was reported to the Marin County Human Rights Commission last night.

Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department which runs the hotline and serves as staff to the commission, said that complaints have come from people ranging from "a busty lady" calling about a dress with a built-in bra which fell apart at a party to motorists objecting to auto repair bills.

About one-fourth of the calls have been complaints against landlords, he said. The department has always handled grievance calls of this type.

Files have been started on only 62 cases, Hood said, since the department resolved most of the rest in one day without heavy paperwork.

Hood is still trying to win support for the program from the commission which is divided on the issue and voted last February against trying it out. In spite of the commission, the county supervisors decided last month to give it a 90-day trial.

The department's existence hangs partially on the experiment's success, since the county administrator has recommended that the department be junked during June budget hearings.

Commissioners said little for or against the hotline last night.

Commissioner Lily Whittle said that she felt the Better Business Bureau could probably handle most of the complaints.

Commissioner Leland S. Bright continued to defend the program as he has previously. "The proof that you're accomplishing something is that you're solving about 30 cases a day without putting them down on paper," he said.

But commissioners did seem to be moving around to accepting the idea when they discussed how much staff time should go to various projects next year, provided that the department is not dissolved.

They agreed that about 60 per cent of staff time would be spent on human rights grievance and consumer complaint phone calls, about 15 per cent would go to working on promoting fair employment practices for women and minorities and about 30 per cent towards solving human rights crises and promoting moderate income housing.

The commission also decided to try to meet more often each month as a whole instead of in committees and set June 7 as the date of its next meeting.

Dixie Trustees Cut 15 Teachers For Next Year

The Dixie School District board has ordered 15 teachers cut from the payroll next fiscal year because of sagging enrollment.

The board on Wednesday issued final layoff notices to the teachers, including one speech therapist, according to Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff. The board had previously issued "tentative" notices to the group of low seniority instructors.

The action came after lengthy discussion with representatives of the Dixie Teachers Association, which repeated arguments that two teachers be allowed to share one teaching position, Goff said.

Although the board has agreed to rehire the dismissed teachers as substitutes as positions open, it took no action on a proposal that four substitute positions be created next school year, he said.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

CURRICULUM — Said it will meet in special session at 8 p.m. June 6 to discuss curriculum matters and textbook selection.

BUDGET — Called for community views on an estimated budget of $4,700,000 for 1973-74.

CITIZENS COMMITTEE — Called for applicants to a citizens' financial committee charged with studying the impact of SB 90 on school finances.

IMPROVEMENT — Approved the following expenses: $600 for watering of trees near Terra Linda High School; $3,000 for walkway construction at Lucas Valley School, and $5,000 for a lighting system at Bernard Hoffman School.

VICE PRINCIPALS — Appointed Michael Glose, Persis Newman, Matha Smith, William Mallet, Daisy Hatten, Jack Klippensteen, Dolores Scholl and Edith Elliott as vice principals for 1973-74. The posts pay $1,000, in addition to regular teaching salaries.

READING — Appointed teachers Olga Hemingway, Jean Schafer, Suzanne Coffill, Marge Chance, Bernadine Reilly, June MacKenzie and Elizabeth Hamstra as reading specialists for 1973-74. The posts pay $250, in addition to regular teaching salaries.

RETIREMENT — Announced the retirmeent of Marjorie Beyer, a teacher at Bernard Hoffman School for the past 17 years.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Appointed Curtis Kalstad and Otto Geiger as summer school principals at a salary of $1,400 each. The board also appointed eight "teachers in charge" and 20 instructors for the summer school program, teachers in charge receiving $800 and instructors, $600.

MUSIC — Appointed Joseph Curatilo as director of the summer school music conservatory program at a salary of $1,400. Two teachers, to receive $1,000 each, and seven teaching aides to receive $200 each, were also appointed for the music program.

ADJOURNMENT — Said the board will meet at 8 p.m. May 24 in the district office, one day later than usual since several board members had previous commitments on the regular meeting date.

Steen's Tax Rap Set At $434,154

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A federal judge ruled Wednesday that one-time uranium millionaire Charles Steen owed more than $434,154 in back taxes but not $1.3 million as demanded by the government.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Thompson said the exact amount would be worked out by Steen, his lawyers and the Internal Revenue Service. The decision was announced after a two-day hearing.

DOCTOR'S DILEMMA

What do you do when your wife gives you a Christmas present? You use it, of course. That's how come Dr. Ken Bunnell of Coos Bay, Ore., drives a car with a personalized license plate that says "KWACK." His wife, Rosie, wanted to give him something different for Christmas so she ordered the personalized plates for his car. The doctor says he has taken his share of ribbing from patients.

Ross Residents Want 'More House Closed

A group of Ross residents asked the town council last night for help in shutting down what they described as a combined commune and school-for-sex operating in their neighborhood.

The residents, none of whom identified themselves, said the residence, at 16 Glenwood Avenue, is operating as a branch of the More House, a communal organization with other Bay Area branches.

They told of traffic, noise, naked children romping in the yard, and one woman said the operation had all the characteristics of a "whore house." A $45 course in "human sensuality" recently was offered at the home, and it drew a large weekend crowd, the group said.

"There might be some redeeming factor in this," said a neighbor, "but I don't think it belongs in Ross."

Mayor Frederick S. Allen said he had tried in vain to notify the home's owner, a man named Boynton, of violations of town codes. A certified letter was returned unclaimed, he said.

Elliott said he had received word from a San Francisco attorney representing the group that the situation would be corrected, but promised to investigate further.

The Ross Town Council Also:

GENERAL PLAN — Declared there was no environmental impact on land use in updating the town general plan and deferred final action on the open space and conservation elements of the plan until June 14.

CLAIMS — Rejected $300,000 false arrest claims by five young persons held on suspicion of attempted burglary of Katharine Branson School, but subsequently released by authorities.

SEWER — In return for $800 payment, granted a sewer easement to the Ross Valley Sanitary District near the Post Office parking lot.

EASEMENTS — Swapped easements with the County of Marin in generally the same region, one to serve as a bikepath and the other for drainage purposes.

TRACY — Asked investigation of the cost of oil-coating the dusty approach to Natalie Coffin Greene Park, a problem which has plagued the nearby residence of Richard L. Tracy on Lagunitas Road.

VARIANCES — Granted variances for assorted home construction projects to Ned H. Hong of Fernhill Avenue, John I. Malarin of Willow Avenue and Gerald R. Knecht, Shanley Lane and Fernhill.

MAINTENANCE — Held for further revision a proposed Ross Common maintenance contract with the Ross School District.

Mitchell Tried Influence Use, Says Sevareid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television commentator Eric Sevareid Thursday said that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell tried in 1969 to influence a ruling from two Supreme Court justices in a set of wiretapping cases.

The effort was unsuccessful, Sevareid said on his nightly commentary on the CBS evening news.

"It is now known, though never heretofore published, that in the spring of '69 Attorney General Mitchell sent a Justice Department emissary privately to the Supreme Court," Severeid said.

"There he tried to influence two justices on a pending series of cases involving wiretapping. The justices ignored this extraordinary violation of the separation of powers principle and they ruled against the department."

Fugitive From Georgia Nabbed

Stephen Allan Sharp, 23, of Norwood Avenue, Ross, was arrested by Belvedere police at 1 a.m. yesterday after a computer check revealed he was wanted on a fugitive warrant for burglary in Georgia.

Sharp was booked into Marin county jail in lieu of $5,044 bail to await Georgia authorities.

Belvedere police said Sharp was called in for questioning about some property damage in the area. A computer check through the National Crime Information Center revealed an outstanding traffic warrant in San Mateo county and the Georgia warrant.

Ross Officials Eye Film Shooting Fee

Ross town officials served notice last night they would like to cash in on the community's popularity with film and television commercial makers.

The question arose during discussion of dust conditions on the approach to Natalie Coffin Greene Park, particularly noticeable during the recent filming there of a Hallmark Hall of Fame movie for television, for which heavy equipment had to be moved.

Ross scenes also have been captured for films such as "The Candidate," "The Godfather," and Woody Allen's "Take the Money and Run." Avon commercials have been shot in Ross as well.

The council asked Town Atty. Robert W. Elliott to look into charging the companies a fee of several hundred dollars or perhaps the filmmakers bonding themselves against possible damage to town property.

Larkspur and the County of Marin already have fee schedules.

Councilman John P. Maginis wondered good-naturedly if the town also might screen the subject matter.

"I wouldn't like to see 'The Last Tango' (In Paris) filmed in the Ross Common," he said.

Winner Is Named In Antismog Rally

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — A propane-powered car built by a student team from the Oregon University of Technology was declared the winner Wednesday of a 400-mile collegiate, antismog rally.

The winning driver in the 10-car field was Glenn Klinger, whose vehicle took 396 points out of a possible 500 based on the car's drivability, fuel economy and emission of pollutants.

Singer Pleads Innocent In Child Support Case

Singer Glenn Yarbrough, former Sausalito resident, will appear in Marin Municipal Court June 14 for setting a date for his trial on a misdemeanor charge of nonsupport of his two children.

He slipped unnoticed in and out of Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas's court Wednesday to enter an innocent plea in the case, which was not on the regular calendar.

The 42-year-old singer's former wife, Margaret Jones, and two children, Glenn Sean, 14, and Stephany, 12, live in Inverness.

For more than a week, in mid-April, law officers throughout California dogged Yarbrough's footsteps at concert dates, trying to serve him with a warrant obtained by Marin County Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams in the support case. .

He was finally served April 27 in the Los Angeles County community of Culver City, at the home of his present mother-in-law. He is free on $12,000 bail, the amount he is said to owe in child support.

He had not been scheduled to make his first appearance in the Marin Municipal Court until Monday.

Bathing Suit Contest Out

CAPE MAY, N.J. (UPI) — Contestants in the New Jersey Blueberry Queen contest won't have to appear in bathing suits this year.

The executive director of the contest, Phil Sheridan, said he agreed with the girls who objected that "they will never be seen in a bathing suit as part of their duties as the N.J. Blueberry Queen."

The winner helps promote blueberries.

Air Force Recruiters After Dogs

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — A new version of the old recruiting slogan "Uncle Sam wants you!" now comes, in effect, from the U.S. Air Force. It is "Uncle Sam wants your dog!"

Or alternatively: "The Air Force needs a few good dogs."

That is, if your dog is a German shepherd, 1 to 3 years old, weighs about 60 pounds, and stands at least 23 inches at the shoulder.

The Air Force will pay you up to $150 for a good dog, unless, of course, you would like to give him to the government. If you have a dog to offer you can write to Department of Defense, Dog Division, Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., 78236.

All this was explained to Pentagon newsmen by Air Force Maj. Robert M. Sullivan, director of security police.

T/Sgt. William T. Vernon of Langley Air Force Base, Va., and Wolf, a 3-year-old, 66-pound male Shepherd dog with a gold capped tooth then demonstrated some of the things your dog would learn in the Air Force.

Major Sullivan said the dogs need not be thoroughbreds but must have predominant German shepherd characteristics. The Air Force insists on this because, he said, the shepherds have two coats, an outer coat and an under coat. In cold weather, the undercoat naturally thickens. In hot weather it thins out but remains sufficient for insulation against excessive heat. Apart from this feature, he observed, "It is just easier to handle a single breed."

Right now, the Air Force is looking for 100 good dogs. But during fiscal 1974, beginning June 30, it will need 1,300.

Evry dog gets 14 weeks of basic training in patrol duties with military police. That includes learning to attack by command. That is how Wolf broke his tooth. It got caught in the padding worn by a man who was the object of a training attack.

Wolf demonstrated by searching the briefing room for a small packet of marijuana which was concealed beneath a trash basket. It took him one minute of sniffing. Then he knocked over the basket and grabbed the marijuana and brought it to his trainer. A second time he found the marijuana behind a curtain with 15 seconds.

A dog that is to find bombs is taught special sensitivity to the TNT content of bombs. When he smells a bomb, the dog does not grab it, however. He freezes, pointing in the direction where it is concealed.

Farm Bureau Will Have Fair Booth

Marin County Farm Bureau directors have agreed to have a booth at the West Marin Junior Livestock Show at Point Reyes station June 16 and 17, according to scretary Ulla McLean.

Directors also reported at their Wednesday meeting that the bureau, which has 344 members, has started a 1974 membership drive.

Directors didn't take any action on the proposed, 10-acre lot development in Hicks Valley because they didn't have enough information, Mrs. McLean said. They agreed to support whatever stand is taken by the agricultural advisory committee, which is reviewing the matter, she said.

In response to a query from Grover Roberts, commodity specialist with the California Farm Bureau Federation, directors expressed interest in participating in a multicounty livestock meeting this fall.

Time and place haven't been set but the meeting would cover pollution, zoning, taxation and milk prices, Mrs. McLean said.

Later, at the Grand Opening Sale

You're cordially invited to a Grand Opening Sale starting today at your nearest Pacific Stereo store and featuring loads of great stereo gear at prices that are cause for jubilation. The event honors two new Pacific Stereo stores opening soon, one in Modesto next week and one in Salinas the following week. We're bound to have crowds of people, so do try to stop by as soon as you can. After all, everybody's doing it . . . . .

SAVE $87.70

You'd be hard pressed to find any other complete system at this price, let alone one that has so much to offer. BSR is to be complimented for coming up with a $130 AM/FM stereo receiver that sounds as good as their new R30. An unusual feature is the FM center-channel tuning meter, which shows you when you have the cleanest signal for good FM reception. The R30 also has bass and treble tone controls, a headphone jack and an attractive oiled walnut case.

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable, smooth-operating record changer with a cueing lever to put the Empire 999XE/X elliptical diamond cartridge gently on your records. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's price is $65.85.

The Quadraflex Model 11's are extremely compact small shelf systems, and their six-inch extended range speakers do a remarkable job of smooth sound reproduction. At $49.90 a pair, they're the third excellent value that helps make the low system price possible.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty
To purchase these separately you would pay:
BSR R30 . . . . $129.95
Garrard 40B with base and Empire 999XE/X 65.85
Quadraflex 11's (pair) 49.90
TOTAL $245.70

Yes, it does have 12" speakers

$398
SAVE $101.30

Naturally, we couldn't offer twelve-inch 3-way speakers in a system at this price unless a substantial saving was involved, $101.30 in this case. The AM/FM stereo receiver is Nikko's 7070; it delivers 68 watts (RMS) of power across the whole audible spectrum, and the tuner section will pull in distant stations with a minimum of background noise. The 7070 also has a full complement of controls and the $269.95 price includes the walnut case.

The record player in this system is the popular BSR 510, which provides you with everything you need in the way of record and needle saving devices, as well as a reliable, constant-speed synchronous motor. It comes with a base and a Shure M75ECS cartridge for a most reasonable $69.45.

The above-mentioned 3-way speaker systems are the TransAudio 1012's; their 12" bass speakers should pick up the lowest notes on your records, and you'll be amazed at how much good sound comes out of these $159.90 a pair acoustic suspension systems.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty
To purchase these separately you would pay:
Nikko 7070 . . . . $269.95

And have you seen the new PHILIPS GA-212?

$175.95

A sophisticated electronic control system ensures that the Philips GA-212 will have absolute speed accuracy, even in the face of severe voltage fluctuations; it also keeps wow and flutter at barely measurable levels. Test reports confirm that this is one of the best manual record players around. The base and dust cover are included in the $175.95 price, and for our Grand Opening we're also including Shure's excellent high trackability M91ED elliptical cartridge, normally $34.95.

A 50 H with an Empire cartridge and a $40 saving

Miracord's 50H record player comes from a long line of reliable, sturdily-crafted turntables. With its perfectly balanced tonearm, effective anti-skate and a stylus overhang adjustment, it's well equipped to give you the best possible sound from your records. Our usual price is $139.95. Such a machine begs for a good cartridge, so we've included the Empire 999ZE/X with an elliptical stylus, which we sell for $39.95. For our Grand Opening Sale, the combination is just $137, a saving of over $40.

Low noise/high output blank cassettes for a mere 69¢

Pacific Stereo C60 blank cassettes contain good low noise tape in mechanically superior housings. They'll make excellent recordings and last for ages. Our regular price is $1.29, but not during our Grand Opening.

Yes, an elliptical really is better . . .

Shure's M44E elliptical cartridge is an ideal replacement for that conical cartridge in your record player now; your records will last longer and sound better too. And our Grand Opening price is only $8.95, a substantial reduction on the nationally advertised $24.95.

Say, you're always wearing those 'phones . . .

The Pioneer SE-L40 stereophones are so light weight and comfortable you may well forget you're wearing them, and the open air design lends a natural quality to their sound. They're a good buy at the regular $39.95 price and a better one now at $29.95.

That's pretty good sound for $59 . . .

ADC 303ax's have a ten-inch bass speaker and a three-inch treble speaker in each oiled walnut cabinet. Their most important characteristic is that they sound great; our own tests show well-defined reproduction of the entire musical range. They normally sell for $84.95 each, but we have an extremely limited supply at just $59

An integrated amp for only $50

If you're looking for a good small integrated amplifier for the rear speakers in a four-channel system, or if you want an inexpensive start in stereo, the Superscope A225 could be just the thing. It puts out 10 watts (RMS) of power and has all the connections and controls you'll need. Its regular price is $79.95; we have a small supply at a low $49.95

Aides Ignored Watergate Tip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intent on protecting President Nixon, two key White House aides last June dismissed a warning they should "look into" the Watergate affair before it grew into a national scandal, according to sworn testimony released Thursday.

Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh L. Sloan Jr. testified he visited presidential advisers John Ehrlichman and Dwight Chapin six days after the break-in and bugging at the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee.

He said he told them he was worried that close to $1 million in campaign funds that he had shelled out under mysterious circumstances might be linked to the political espionage. And he said he warned them "somebody ought to look into it."

"Chapin's reaction," Sloan said, "... essentially was (1) you are overwrought and (2) the important thing is to protect the President and (3) you ought to take a vacation."

Sloan said Ehrlichman cut him short. "He told me to go no further, that he didn't want any of the details, (that) if I had any personal problems I had a special relationship with the White House and they would be glad to arrange an attorney," he said.

Ehrlichman also indicated that Sloan should not talk about these matters, according to the testimony. Sloan said he was told by Ehrlichman that he would "have to take executive privilege until after the election in any case."

Chapin, Nixon's appointments secretary, left the White House earlier this year and Ehrlichman, domestic adviser, was eased out two weeks ago.

Sloan also said that two other campaign officials, Jeb Stuart Magruder and Frederick LaRue, pressured him to lie under oath about how much cash he had given G. Gordon Liddy—who was convicted in the Watergate break-in.

The testimony was taken in the Democrats' $6.4 million Watergate civil suit.

Security Guard Seeks Fame From Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank Wills, whose discovery that something was amiss at the Watergate apartment-office complex last June 17 led to the current bugging scandal, is trying to cash in on his newfound fame.

Wills, 25, was the $80-a-week security guard who noticed that tape had been placed over the locks of doors to the building and called Washington police. The police subsequently arrested five men inside headquarters of the Democratic National Committee.

Wills, now an $85-a-week guard at another building, has hired a lawyer and is demanding fees up to $300 for interviews with the news media.

His lawyer, Dorsey Evans, said four news organizations, including the British Broadcasting Co. and the London Times, have paid for interviews and that several other media have refused.

He said Wills also got $300 for allowing his picture to be used on a record album to be released soon dedicated to him.

"The Washington Post, the TV stations, lots of people are making money off Frank Wills," Evans said. "They shouldn't mind sharing a little of it."

New ACTION Chief At Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Michael P. Balzano Jr., a onetime garbageman who worked his way up to a Ph.D., has officially taken over as director of ACTION, the government agency which includes the Peace Corps and VISTA.

Presiding at Balzano's swearing-in yesterday, President Nixon called him "a self-made and self-educated man in the very best sense of the word."

Balzano, 37, dropped out of high school at the age of 16 and was a garbage collector in his hometown of New Haven, Conn., until a back injury prompted him to look for less physical work.

Cuban Says He Helped In Break-in

MIAMI (UPI) — A refugee from Cuba said Thursday that he and two convicted Watergate burglars used masking tape and glass cutters to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and photograph his files.

The refugee, Felipe DeDiego, said the three believed they were working for the CIA when they entered the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding in 1971.

In testimony before state attorney Richard Gerstein, DeDiego said he and Bernard Barker and Eugenio Martinez used masking tape and glass cutters to break a window, pushed down a door, then photographed Fielding's files.

"Martinez was the photographer," Gerstein said.

DeDiego said he and the other two men flew from Miami to Los Angeles and checked into a hotel in Beverly Hills. He said Barker left the room for a few minutes and returned with a briefcase containing photographic equipment, 35 millimeter film and spotlights.

The testimony revealed that three visits were made to the psychiatrist's office. After a daylight "reconnaissance" visit, they returned at 9 p.m. and convinced a cleaning woman to let them into the office where they left a briefcase, DeDiego testified.

They returned the third time at 1 a.m., entering by a first-floor window, according to the testimony.

Prosecutor Expected Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General-designate Elliot L. Richardson probably will name his special Watergate prosecutor sometime next week, and it is likely Richardson himself will not gain Senate confirmation until then.

Richardson told the Senate Judiciary Committee late yesterday that he had no objection to providing members with the names of the six to eight finalists in his search for a special prosecutor.

Richardson said he would submit a large list of names in alphabetical order today to retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, the presidents of the American Bar Association and the American College of Trial Lawyers and other persons for their evaluation.

He said their recommendations of six to eight names will be turned over to the committee and then to the FBI on Monday for spot checks, adding that he hoped to name the prosecutor "by the end of the week."

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., a committee member, said after the hearings that it was important for the committee, before confirming Richardson, both to know who the prosecutor will be and to have "specific guidelines" spelled out on what authority the attorney general will give him over Watergate matters.

In close questioning, Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., have sought to get Richardson to give the prosecutor final authority over all Watergate matters. They said they want to avoid any appearance that Richardson as a member of President Nixon's official family would be dictating the investigation.

Richardson has consistently argued that he will give the prosecutor "complete authority" to do the job, but that he, Richardson, will retain "ultimate authority" over him.

Bayh asked Richardson whether the prosecutor would have full authority, for instance, over grand jury proceedings and grants of immunity to witnesses.

"Yes," Richardson said, "always assuming it is a judgment in which reasonable people can differe."

"You do a maginificent job of making one secure," Bayh answered, "and then you add on another sentence to pull the trapdoor. You insist on adding that caveat."

"Yes, I do," Richardson replied. "That is a caveat that has to be there if I am to be attorney general at all. It is a caveat that is not going to create a problem, however."

Questioned by Kennedy, Richardson said the prosecutor should check out "the involvement of White House personnel, major administration appointees and people who were part of the Committee to Re-elect the President."

Krogh Will Testify Before Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh has agreed to testify before a county grand jury here looking into the Ellsberg burglary, which he has admitted ordering, according to Deputy District Attorney Richard Hecht.

Hecht flew to Washington this week to talk to Justice Department officials about the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the Watergate team.

District Attorney Joseph Busch has said that local charges will be brought against those responsible.

Krogh, in an affidavit to the judge in the Pentagon Papers trial, said that as an assistant to John Ehrlichman in the White House, he ordered the break-in at the psychiatrist's office, in the belief that it was needed to obtain information important to the national security.

Pope Praying

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI said today he was praying for an end to the fighting in Lebanon and "a fair solution" to the dispute between the Beirut government and Palestinian guerrillas.

FLOWER FOR MOTHER

Mother of the year Ruth Y. Nelson of Minneapolis was all smiles yesterday as her husband, Clarence, pinned a flower on her after she was named mother of the year by the American Mothers Committee, Inc., of New York. Mrs. Nelson, 69, is a water-skiing grandmother of 16 grandchildren. She and her husband, a Lutheran minister, raised four children of their own and three foster children.

Butz Urges New Outlets For Farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today America's farmers can outsell the world if Congress gives President Nixon power to make concessions in order to open new markets for U.S. foodstuffs.

In testimony prepared for the House Ways and Means Committee, Butz appealed for passage of Nixon's trade bill.

The bill gives Nixon unprecedented powers to open U.S. doors to foreign manufactured products in exchange for a relaxation of Europe's barriers to the products of America's farmland.

Exports now account for the produce of more than 80 million American acres and more than $1 out of every $5 earned by farmers, Butz said.

Projected annual increases of 5 per cent a year will prove too modest if "we negotiate the reduction of barriers which distort the flow of agricultural trade among nations," he said.

Allowing farmers to put idle land into production benefits everyone, he said. Last year's increased exports of grains and soybeans—to Russia and elsewhere—created over 100,000 non-farm jobs, he said.

The time is right to increase exports, he said, because the world's appetite for American meat and wheat is growing.

The world's appetite for better diets has already forced Europe to relax restrictions on meat exports; Japan, to welcome more beef and to drop a tax on pork; and Canada, to reduce tariffs on meat, fruits and vegetables.

"Demand is booming for agricultural products, both at home and abroad, and American agriculture—because of its increasing productive capacity—is uniquely suited to meet this demand," Butz said.

"No other industry today faces quite the same combination of growing worldwide demand and competitive superiority."

Further Challenges Are Likely Against EPA Emission Standards

DETROIT (UPI) — The decision by the U.S. automakers not to challenge the interim 1975 standards for automotive emissions in court won't prevent further legal battles against the Environmental Protective Agency.

The four auto companies had until today to begin judicial proceedings on last month's decision by the EPA establishing a double set of emission standards—one for California and another for the other 49 states.

But the EPA has yet to set new test procedures for 1975. There may be new legal battles when these test procedures are spelled out.

But, based on the current test procedures, EPA Deputy Administrator Erick Stork earlier this week said there is "a high degree of confidence that the automakers can meet the 1975 standards, in some cases without a catalytic converter, based on the 1973 test."

"It is not correct to say any 1973 model cars have met the 1975 standards because between now and 1975 there will be a change in the test procedure," Stork said.

General Motors said the time is too short now "to wait for the outcome of further time consuming legal proceedings" even though the interim standards still are stricter than the company believes are necessary to clean up the nation's air.

GM President Edward N. Cole, in a letter to Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the EPA, said work on emission control systems for 1975 models must begin immediately to "have as much assurance as possible that they can meet the EPA certification requirements."

The interim standards for 1975 call for an 83 per cent reduction of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide emissions from pre-1968 uncontrolled vehicles. The original standards had called for 95 per cent reduction of hydrocarbons and a 96 per cent reduction of carbon monoxide emissions. In California in 1975, both emissions must be reduced by 90 per cent from pre-1968 vehicles —something that can be accomplished only with costly catalytic converters, the automakers contend.

At the Ford Motor Co. annual meeting yesterday, chairman Henry Ford II said the interim standards probably can be met in California with the muffler-like devices using platinum and palladium catalysts. But, he said the converters probably will be necessary on some engines in the other 49 states and some engines may disappear completely because they can't meet the standards.

Both Ford and Cole called for congressional reconsideration of the Clean Air Act of 1970 and elmination of the 1976 standard which sets limits for emission of oxides of nitrogen which they claim are impossible to meet.

How Span Toll Hike Would Work

By DAVID DIETZ

A raise in Golden Gate Bridge tolls from 50 to 75 cents, endorsed yesterday by a district committee and sent to the full board, would be coupled with revenue-boosting changes to the convenience book system.

The increase for bus and ferry support long has been discussed but originally wasn't scheduled for at least another year.

The bridge's finance-auditing committee approved the changes by a 3-to-1 vote, although dissenter Carl Daubenbeck seemed more concerned with procedure and gaining public reaction than with the substance of Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Leuhring's new rate proposal.

Amid assurances that citizens will have a chance to speak on the issue, it was scheduled for discussion by the full board on May 25.

Luehring proposed that the revisions go into effect July 1 to create an extra $3.8 million in revenue in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Other than the switch to one-way payment, it would be the first change in the toll structure since 1955, when the roundtrip rate dropped in two increments from 80 cents. Before that, the round-trip toll had been $1 since the opening of the bridge in 1937.

"The community is not going to jump with joy at this," said bridge director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, sitting in at the meeting. "But with reflection, I think the majority of people will understand and appreciate it because of our fine transit system."

Under the convenience book changes, the 25-cent special discount for bus and ferry use would be discontinued but two tickets would be added to the 20-stub book. The books, costing 75 cents, $1, $1.25 and $1.50 per ticket, would sell for $15, $20, $25 and $30, depending on the user's departure point.

Overall it would mean an average 15-cent increase in the per-ticket cost.

The general manager told the committee he expected that the new revenue "would be adequate during the coming five-year period to permit continued expansion of the presently envisioned bus and ferry systems and the scheduling of bridge improvements, while maintaining the necessary reserves and enabling operating subsidies and capital costs to be met from annual incocome."

Using reserve outlays matched by federal grants, the district has been developing a public transit system in recent years to combat auto congestion. But reserves are dwindling, and Luehring estimated yesterday that with just present commitments and without any increase in revenue, the "emergency" reserve level of $7.5 million would be reached in a year.

While an operating profit of $900,000 is expected this year, he said, the district probably would reach only the break-even point next year without new revenue.

The general manager said in his report that it first was thought a toll hike wouldn't be needed until next year, but the spiraling cost of fuel and intentions to increase the size of the bus fleet had changed the picture markedly.

The full board was expected to vote today on a committee recommendation to add 32 more buses to the fleet, beginning next spring, at a capital cost to the agency of $520,000.

Other capital costs in the offing within the next three years include projected bridge additions and improvements, addition of a fourth ferry in 1977-78, expansion of bus maintenance facilities and acquisition of railroad right-of-way in Marin for future rapid transit.

$8.9 Million Bus Budget Wins Support

The fiscal arm of the Golden Gate Bridge District board approved yesterday an $8.9 million bus transit budget for 1973-74 that foresees an operating deficit of $3.3 million.

District officials told the finance-auditing committee, which sent the spending program to the full board, that the deficit is expected to exceed the current year's figure by about $69,000.

While nearly 7.5 million passengers are expected to ride the bridge's 188 buses next fiscal year, most are commuters. Many coaches therefore are sparsely ridden at other times.

The largest outlay in the pending program is $4.3 million for driver salaries, or about $19,000 per driver. That total is up $500,000 from the current fiscal year.

Revenue is placed at $4.7 million, up $1 million. The district also expects $300,000 more in state aid, while the Marin Transit District subsidy for intra county operations is placed at $325,000, down $65,000.

Other proposed outlays, with corresponding figures from the current years in parentheses, are mechanics' salaries, $494,900 ($267,300); administrative salaries (operations), $296,800 ($307,000); coach depreciation, $289,000 ($250,000); insurance, $250,000 ($240,000) and top administrators' wages, $244,600 ($190,000).

The budget does not include capital outlay such as the proposed order of 32 new coaches at a cost of $522,000. Those items are to be considered later.

Last month the committee approved a $14.2 million budget for operating the growing ferry system in 1973-74. The sum is triple the current spending level.

Green Light Urged On Larkspur Ferry Terminal

Despite the appeals of conservationists, a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors said yesterday planning should proceed on the Larkspur ferry terminal at a site near the mouth of Corte Madera Creek.

Representatives of the Sierra Club and Marin Conservation League, who want the terminal moved east to San Quentin lands, asked a halt at least on direct terminal design until both sites can be studied to determine which would suffer the least environmental damage.

District Engineer Robert E. Shields told the transportation committee that the district could lose $545,000 if planning is halted and the Corte Madera Creek site is ultimately found to be best anyway.

At least three directors criticized the conservationists, who include Lester Cohen of the Sierra Club, as "Johnny-come-latelys" and for advocating an impractical alternative in view of prison reluctance.

"This site (San Quentin) wasn't mentioned until a month ago," said director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley.

Daniel F. Del Carlo, another board member, objected to the "Sierra Club telling us what to do."

Cohen questioned whether the terminal would be ready by June 1974, as district officals hope, because of the need for review by governmental agencies such as the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, Regional Water Quality Control Board and the Army Corps of Engineers.

He saw no urgency. It seems, he added, that the bridge officials are saying, "The ferries are coming; the ferries are coming, and we have to get the terminal ready."

But Meyer viewed the opposition as "tantamount to killing the Golden Gate goose that laid the Golden Gate egg."

The committee position, a unanimous one, was to be considered by the full board today.

A Modern-Day Lady Godiva Takes A Ride

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — It was a beautiful spring day Thursday, and one young sun worshiper took advantage of it by riding a bicycle nude for about four miles in the busy suburban Clayton shopping district.

The attractive, blonde tressed young lady wore only a sign saying, "Don't arrest me, I'm en route to analysis."

Security Guard Walter Stogsdill gallantly offered the modern-day Lady Godiva his coat when she paused at a stop sign, but she refused it, saying, "I want to get a sunburn. It looks like you could use some sun yourself."

She told police who finally picked her up and took her to St. Louis County Hospital for observation, "I guess nobody

81-Year-Old Juggler To Be Circus Feature

An 81-year-old juggler and his wife will highlight the Happytime Circus, to perform three times Saturday at the KQED Fun Fair to publicize the educational television station's annual fund-raising auction.

Harry and Peggy Baker will perform during the half-hour circus shows scheduled for noon, 2 and 4 p.m. in the parking lot of the Strawberry Town and Country Village Shopping Center. Baker is billed as the world's oldest juggler still performing regularly.

Besides the Bakers, the circus will feature balancing and acrobatic acts, clowns, ponies, goats, a llama and Fluffy the wire-walking and diving dog.

The fun fair will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Loan Is Granted Firm Linked To Nixon's Brother

ATHENS (UPI) — The newspaper To Vima said Wednesday that a government-owned bank recently granted a $10 million loan to a Greek shipping company connected with President Nixon's younger brother Donald.

The newspaper said the loan was granted for remodeling the Aegean cruise ship Stella Solaris, jointly owned by Sun Lines, a shipping company based in Greece, and Marriott Co., a catering concern whose vice president is Donald Nixon.

Marriott controls 45 percent of the Stella Solaris, the newspapers said, and Sun Lines controls the other 55 percent.

Berlin Observes 85th Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Irving Berlin, who wrote the melodies and lyrics for almost 1,000 songs, celebrated his 85th birthday today in the quiet of his Catskill Mountain home.

Berlin once said "I think too much fuss is made over my birthdays. Of course, I appreciate the well wishes, but why should I get credit for reaching a certain age. Age is no mark of credit unless you do something constructive with it."

Berlin, who never learned to read or write music, penned, among others "God Bless America," the score of "Annie Get Your Gun," "White Christmas," and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Fireman's Test Ruled Irrelevant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's examination for firemen flunked a federal court test Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert ruled the exam was not proven to be reasonably related to the job and violated the Civil Rights Act because it discriminated against minorities.

Sweigert ordered the city Civil Service Commission to fill its firemen positions by using results only from oral and physical exams.

This was the third time in three years a federal judge issued such a ruling.

Fire Chief Keith Calden said his department has 122 openings.

Wet Roundup Staged In Utah

The wranglers tossed ropes from the banks of Deer Creek Reservoir to fishermen in boats who helped tie them to 50 cows that stampeded down a steep 100-foot embankment into the lake.

The cows, which went over the embankment after traffic noise panicked 200 animals, were all herded to safety.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDDUP

Year-Round License System Is Proposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, has proposed legislation establishing a system of year-round registration of California's 16 million motor vehicles.

Biddle said his bill would substitute 120 "due dates" throughout the year, beginning in 1975, for the present single statewide registration deadline. He said the system would result in a nearly-equal number of vehicle registrations expiring every three days throughout the year.

Biddle said his proposal would eliminate the massive "11th hour rush" on Department of Motor Vehicles offices on the first Friday in February—the final deadline for renewing registrations. He said it also would eliminate the current once-a-year "log jamming" workloads on the department.

VET HIRING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $5 million bill giving California employers a financial incentive to hire Vietnam veterans was approved by the Assembly Thursday on a 57-6 vote and sent to the Senate.

The legislation (AB276) by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, requires the state to reimburse employers for half the wages paid to Vietnam veterans during the first 18 months of employment.

UNDERGROUNDING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, has proposed legislation requiring most above-ground utility power lines in urban areas go underground by 1985.

He said power companies were now proceeding at a "snail's pace" in putting lines underground.

PRISONER PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Saying inmates were paid only three to 16 cents an hour, Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, proposed legislation Thursday requiring they receive the state minimum wage of $1.65 an hour.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

Psychiatrists Are Hit By Santa Cruz Attorney

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — The district attorney of Santa Cruz County, where several mass murders recently havee occcured, Thursday attacked " 'tell-me-about-it' specialists and bleeding heart advocates" in the psychiatry profession.

The prosecutor, Peter Chang, urged the profession to make a careful reassessment of its role in the judicial process because, he said, it has largely failed to carry out the responsibilities given it by the courts.

His criticism followed a series of mass murders for which former mental patients were charged in this beach and mountain county 80 miles south of San Francisco. Chang has called the county "the murder capital of the world."

"Too many psychiatrists think they can determine a defendant's sanity, potential for violence, or degree or recovery by a simple one-hour 'tell-me-about-it' interview," Chang said.

"Many psychiatrists never bother to read the police files describing the offense. Instead they take the defendant's rationalized version at face value. On occasion, they even have been known to alter the defendant's version so that it does not conflict with their own diagnosis of the defendant."

Chang recently reported that Edmund Kemper III, 24, who killed his grandparents as a teen-ager and confessed eight killings in the past year, was declared no threat to society by two psychiatrists who examined him two days after he killed and dismembered a 15-year-old girl.

The D.A. said he did not want psychiatrists abolished from court, since they have often helped judges reach proper decisions, but he wanted the profession to consider "confining 'tell-a-about-it' specialists and bleeding heart advocates to their private patients in their office interviews."

Cases Of Tick Fever Reported

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State health officials reported yesterday the occurrence of two non-fatal cases of Colorado tick fever and possibly a third case in which the disease was fatal in northeastern California.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine, state health director, warned campers and other visiters to the Modoc, Lassen, Siskiyou, Shasta and Plumas county areas to be alert for ticks.

The fatality in which the disease is suspected was a 10-year-old Susanville girl who died April 22. Another Susanville resident, a 10-year-old boy, was stricken the same day with fever muscle pains, nausea and a rash on the back, while a 51-year-old woman from Fort Bidwell in Modoc County became ill April 17 with fever, aching and loss of appetite.

Flournoy Slates Novato Address

State Controller Houston Flournoy will speak about California politics at a meeting of the Novato Republican Women at noon Tuesday at the Marin Country Club, Novato.

Flournoy, a specialist in constitutional law and political science, serves on 27 boards and commissions dealing with California fiscal affairs.

$950,000 Mansion Wins Senate Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $950,000 proposal to build a two-story governor's mansion with a swimming pool and tennis court has been endorsed by a Senate subcommittee.

The proposal, contained in Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year, was approved by a subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee yesterday on a 7-to-1 vote with little debate.

HARMLESS BUGS

Midges Make Many Mosquito Conscious

Last month the Marin Mosquito Abatement District got more service calls from bug-bothered residents than it did in the entire year of 1971.

Everyone was worried about the dreaded mosquitoes hovering around their homes.

But they were mostly wrong.

And the chironomid midge isn't a villain at all. It's a short-lived harmless bug that doesn't spread disease and doesn't bite.

So said the Marin Mosquito Abatement District board of directors at its meeting this week, according to district secretary Doreen Nasowitz. The district got 1,252 service calls from anxious residents in April, she said, more than the 1,230 for the whole of 1971. (This morning the district office at 201 Third Street, San Rafael, got 40 calls in two and a half hours.)

Mrs. Nasowitz said the board was told that the vast majority of calls, when inspectors checked the premises, turned out to be attributed to the chironomid midge. Very few mosquitoes were discovered.

The midges' emergence was caused by the wet winter and early hot weather, said Mrs. Nasowitz. Their life span is only two to three weeks from hatching to death, and the district doesn't spray to control them. Misting to kill mosquitoes is done on individual's requests.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, the board agreed to lease its property at McDowell Road, Petaluma, to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for $300 a month, provided the county counsel approves the lease.

Mrs. Nasowitz said the dirt lot in Petaluma is used for occasional storage of district trucks and equipment and will still be so used. PG&E wants to use it to store trucks and will probably install a mobile office there too.

A salary committee to review pay of the district's nine regular employees and summer extra hire was appointed. Members are William Mosden of Ross, Evan Pugh of Belvedere, Paul DiPietro of San Rafael, Robert Koenitzer of Petaluma, Phillip Economon to represent Marin county at large.

San Francisco Crime Increases

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco crime rate, which has been almost steadily declining since 1969, rose 5 per cent in April over the same period of last year, it was announced today.

The last month for which the rate increased from the previous year was July, 1971.

Police officials were uncertain as to why the April statistics went up, or whether the jump is significant. For the first four months of the year, the crime rate was down 3 per cent from the same period last year.

The crime rate is computed from a compilation of seven major crimes —homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, thefts over $50 and auto theft.

To Grand Jury

Nuri Sutter of Mill Valley has been named to a new federal grand jury in San Francisco. He is one of 23 members of the jury selected to serve through the month of August.

Project Affects Highway Traffic

A project in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic Monday was announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Northbound traffic will be routed into two lanes north and south of the Richardson Bay Bridge between 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. during paving.

Boyle's Brother Is Now Retired

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) — The United Mine Workers Union district office is closed, and district president and secretary-treasurer R.J. "Dick" Boyle has retired.

A spokesman for the union's regional office in Denver said Thursday the disagreement which led to a court battle earlier this year has been resolved.

Boyle, the brother of ousted UMW president Tony Boyle, said, "I am retired, but I haven't seen a penny of retirement."

Boyle filed suit in February to retain his position and prevent the dismantling of the Billings office. The union spokesman in Denver said Boyle is eligible for retirement benefits.

Editor Dies

Survivor Of Plane Crash Said Serious

I-J Special Report

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE — A Mill Valley woman, daughter of the president of the giant Dillingham Corp. of Hawaii, remained in serious condition today following a plane crash that killed her husband and stepson.

The Federal Aviation Administration, investigating the cause of the accident, planned to talk to Heather Dillingham Bradley, 25, when her health permits.

A spokesman at Washoe County Hospital in Reno, where Mrs. Bradley is a patient, said her condition appears to be improving. Mrs. Bradley suffered internal injuries and burns over 20 per cent of her body.

She is the daughter of Lowell Smith Dillingham.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Wilson Family Mortuary here for James Joseph Bradley III, 41, and his son, Kevin, 19.

A single-engine Aero Commander carrying the three crashed and burned shortly after takeoff from South Lake Tahoe Airport yesterday. Mrs. Bradley managed to flee the burning wreckage about a quarter-mile south of the airport runway.

The family, of 81 Del Casa Drive, had moved to Mill Valley from Colorado six months ago.

Actor's Surgery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — British actor Laurence Harvey, 44, is expected to leave the UCLA Medical Center next week following abdominal surgery.

Sanity Hearing Set For Monday

Albert LeRoy Smith, also known as Albert Harris and Alpha C. Zero yesterday was ordered by Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman to undergo a sanity hearing Monday in Marin Superior Court.

He was arrested May 2 in San Francisco by Novato police on a felony warrant charging him with stealing an auto from Novato Datsun, Inc. in February and abandoning it in San Francisco two weeks later — leaving his briefcase inside.

Panelist Is Not Ready To Leave

Marin County Planning Commissioner Rebecca Watkin said yesterday she is interested in serving at least another year while the countywide plan is in its early stages of implementation.

The Independent-Journal erred Monday in reporting she is not seeking reappointment in June because of the frequency and duration of commission meetings.

Two Doctors Indicted For Death Of Patient

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Two doctors were charged today with involuntary manslaughter in the death of a woman at Santa Rosa General Hospital last Nov. 21.

They were charged in connection with the death of Linda Stephenson, 29, a Santa Rosa divorcee and mother of one. She died during a sterilization operation.

According to District Attorney John W. Hawk, the doctors used carbondioxide under pressure from a tank which did not have a meter to show how much gas was being inserted in the woman's vaginal cavity.

Death was caused by ruptured internal organs and shock from the excessive gas, according to a pathological report.

Man Convicted As Plane Bomber

BANGKOK (AP) — A military court today charged a former police lieutenant with blowing up a Cathay Pacific Airways plane over South Vietnam last June killing 81 people.

Police said Somchai Chaiyasut, 31, had insured his 7-year-old daughter and girfriend, both of whom died in the crash, for $270,000. They said he placed a bomb which exploded 22 minutes after the plane left Bangkok airport bound for Hong Kong. There were no survivors.

The chief judge charged Somchai with premeditated murder, possession of war articles, destruction of property and forgery of documents.

Tentative Agreement On Remapping The Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democratic and Republican leaders yesterday said they have reached "tentative agreement" on a new Assembly reapportionment plan, apparently breaking a bitter two-year impasse.

"We are very, very close to final agreement," Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., GOP caucus chairman, said. "We still have some loose ends that have to be worked out, but we've reached a tentative agreement."

It was the first time this year the Assembly Republican leadership has publicly backed a Democratic reapportionment proposal.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Assemblyman Ken Meade, the Democrats' reapportionment negotiator, also predicted quick approval of the redistricting plan and said it would win 60 votes or more. They said a vote could be taken as early as next Thursday.

There also was a new flurry of reapportionment activity in the Senate Thursday with a showdown vote scheduled for May 22.

The new negotiations were spurred by the state Supreme Court's appointment of three special masters to draft a statewide reapportionment plan. If the legislature doesn't act soon, the court has promised to impose its own redistricting plan.

The breakthrough in the Assembly came when Democrats offered Republicans one more "safe" GOP seat in the Los Angeles area. The new proposal is designed to preserve all incumbents and give Democrats about a 46-34 margin after the next election.

Murphy said the GOP leadership early next week will ask fellow Assembly Republicans formally to accept the reapportionment deal. Until that approval is won, leaders of both parties are declining to release specific details of the new plan.

Meade said he believed the Watergate bugging case had made Republicans more cooperative on the reapportionment issue. Previously, several GOP lawmakers said they preferred the court to reapportion the political districts, which could result in many incumbents losing their seats.

"There is a new political insecurity on part of the GOP caucus because of Watergate," Meade said. "Republicans know they will have to rebuild their party and know they should have all of their current incumbents to achieve it."

"It was a facing up to reality on the part of the GOP leadership," he said.

However, Murphy said the new reapportionment plan would result in "substantial benefit for the Republican party. It will give us four new seats and every seat now held by a Republican."

The measure (SB195) by Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno, and John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, was granted reconsideration on a 6-0 vote. The bill is now scheduled to be brought up for committee approval May 17.

Then the bill and a rival remapping proposal (SB62) by Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, would face a floor vote May 22.

Board Can't Agree On Sex Education

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Board of Education failed to agree yesterday on how much California's junior high school students should be taught in the classroom about sex.

The board last January endorsed a textbook titled "Human Sexuality" and was scheduled at this month's regular meeting to give final approval to a revised edition, which eliminated what some members felt was misleading, objectionable or overly explicit material.

However, after a number of state legislators registered strong opposition, board members withheld final approval of the text pending further revisions.

In a statement read to the board by an aide, Sen. John L. Harmer, called the book "a flagrant example of brainwashing."

Harmer, a Glendale Republican and member of the Senate Education Committee, said even the revised edition of the one-time college-level book was "inappropriate" for 12 and 13 year olds, and asserted the text "contains numerous inaccuracies, falacies and misleading innuendos."

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, vice chairman of the Education Committee, submitted a prepared statement, saying, "The thrust of the book is to play down the family as a source of information of sex and to play up the role of the teacher . . ."

Dr. David A. Hubbard of Pasadena, also a board member, agreed that a sex education book was needed at the junior high level but urged that "some of the propaganda items" be removed from "Human Sexuality." He said an example was a portion of the book that urged young people to oppose any type of censorship on obscenity.

On a voice vote, the board accepted Hubbard's suggestion that a committee of board members, outside consultants and staff workers be formed to work on further revisions.

Candlelight Concert Is Set

Seven Marin women musicians will perform in a candlelight concert at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians at 8 p.m. May 20.

The performers will be Cecile Cox, Ruth Elliot, Naomi Kirschner and Chris Jennings, who form a string quartet, flutist Jan Wilson and pianists Kathy Von Seggrew and Anne de Cook.

Music will include selections by Chopin, Caplet and Dvorak.

A wine tasting party at 6 p.m. will precede the concert. Both events are benefits for the Unitarian fellowship.

IN TWISTER'S WAKE — The debris of some 15 mobile homes was strewn over a wide area after one of several tornadoes touched down yesterday in Kenton, Ohio. Thirty twisters were reported in Ohio and tornado watches were posted in ten Midwest states.

Reaction To Price Boost By U.S. Steel Is Cautious

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Industry and government officials reacted cautiously to Thursday's price increase announcement by U.S. Steel Corp., setting off speculation that the 4.8 per cent hike on strip and sheet steel products would eventually be passed on to the consumer.

U.S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 producer, said prices would go up June 15 from $8 to $12 a ton on nearly a third of its shipments used chiefly in the production of automobiles and home appliances.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. today joined U.S. Steel Corp. and increased prices 4.8 per cent on its sheet mill products.

J&L said the increases become effective June 15, the same date that U.S. Steel selected Thursday to hike prices from $8 to $12 per ton on various sheet steels used widely by car and appliance manufacturers.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., indicated that auto producers probably would pass the increase on to consumers.

Ford said his firm would "still maintain the 1973 prices until the end of the model year, but it (the steel increase) will add to our request for a rather substantial increase on 1974 models."

In Washington, the Cost of Living Council gave no indication it would force a rollback but asked U.S. Steel to show justification for the increase. John T. Dunlop, council director, said this was necessary "in view of the very important role of the steel industry in the American economy and the fact that this price increase would affect almost one quarter of the company's steel business."

Westinghouse Electric Corp., one of the major producers of home appliances, said it was "very concerned about the rapid rise in prices of all raw materials, including steel."

U.S. Steel said the increases—the first in more than 17 months—affects six product categories and averages out to about 1.3 per cent on its total product line. The boost would be allowed under the 1.5 per cent limit established by the economic stabilization program, the firm said.

Board Chairman Edgar B. Speer cited rising production costs, declining profit margins and soaring costs of meeting strict antipollution standards as reasons for the price hike.

U.S. Steel said prices on hot rolled strip, hot rolled sheet and bands, cold rolled sheet, vitrenamel sheet, long terne sheet and galvanized flat and formed sheet steel would go up an average 4.7 per cent with shipments June 15.

Prices on electrical resistance weld trunk-line pipe and submerged arc weld pipe, both widely used by the oil industry, will be increased Aug. 1, the firm said.

Fighter Group Seeks Pictures

The 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base is seeking pictures of the squadron's activities since it was formed at Baer Field, Ind., until the present.

The squadron, compiling a pictorial history of the last 30 years, has requested anyone with such pictures to forward them to the commander of the squadron at the base.

Pictures will be returned with a complimentary copy of the history, according to First Lt. John M. Thomas, executive officer.

Twisters Kill Several In Midwest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tornadoes and high winds battered Ohio Thursday and hit parts of Kansas and Missouri early today, leaving behind death, destruction and untold damage.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said at least two persons were killed in Joplin, Mo., and more than 100 others were injured in many communities in southeast Kansas and southwest Missouri. At least four were killed and 150 injured in Ohio.

In Joplin, one woman was killed when a wall of a clothing store collapsed. Another resident was killed in a mobile home park.

Injuries also were reported in Kansas at Weir, McCune, Chanute, St. Paul and Galena but the number was not immediately determined.

Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, reached by telephone at the Republican Governors Conference in New York, mobilized the National Guard and ordered 500 guradsmen to Joplin.

Col. Sam. S. Smith, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, set up a 25-man disaster headquarters near Carthage, just north of Joplin.

Communication lines were knocked down across the path of the winds—an area 25 miles long and 25 miles wide. Gas meters were ripped up. Mobile homes were scattered. The roof of a Joplin high school was ripped off.

Within an hour after the twister hit Joplin, Mo., about 7 a.m., a spokesman at Freeman Hospital said "10 to 12 persons" were rushed in, "and they're still coming in."

One man was dead on arrival, the hospital said.

A police dispatcher said it appeared the tornado raked "the whole city."

The situation was complicated at Joplin by fallen power lines. Much of the city was without telephone communication and streets iced by hail hampered emergency vehicles..

Unofficial reports said five house trailers were blown over at Weir and that one "has a tree through it."

The number of casualties at Weir were not immediately determined.

More than 30 tornadoes were reported in Ohio Thursday afternoon and evening.

Willard, a north-central Ohio community of 6,000, was hardest hit with three dead, at least one hundred persons injured, and up to 10 persons reported missing. Damage estimates were well into a million dollars.

Another death resulted from a twister that touched down in Republic. Injuries, missing persons and extensive damage was reported in Kenton, Bellville and Savannah, where the National Guard was called in to prevent looting. Tornadoes also hop-scotched around the Columbus area.

"All it is is debris. That's all," said Huron County Sheriff John Borgia in the aftermath of the tornado that struck Willard. "Things are just scattered everywhere you can believe. Phones out. Hundreds of cars are torn into shreds."

Slosser said the funnel passed about 300 yards from his home.

"I could see roofs, sides of barns and sheds all churning inside the twister. It was unbelievable."

Mrs. Margaret A. Bogart, of Republic, was killed on Ohio Route 19 in Seneca County when a twister lifted her car and carried it several hundred yards.

Neighbors told officials Mrs. Bogart had been afraid of the stormy weather and was driving to nearby Bloomfield to spend the night with a relative. However, she drove into the path of the tornado.

No other injuries were reported in the area, although the twister heavily damaged 12 buildings.

In Kenton, at least 12 persons were injured and another reported missing after a twister touched down in a trailer park in that northwestern city of 8,300. The twister hit about 6:20 p.m.

Frank Telak, who lives near Savannah, said a tornado touched down six times over a stretch of about seven miles around 6:50 p.m.

"It wasn't rolling like clouds that you normally see in tornadoes," Telak said. "It seemed like five fingers of clouds that would come down and then go back up in a swirling motion. It was one big black mess."

Six residents in the Savannah area received minor injuries, and 15 houses and trailers were either damaged or detroyed.

Another 20 persons were injured in Richland County in central Ohio when a tornado swept through the rural community of Bellville around 7:30 p.m. Damage was reported to several homes and farm buildings.

Pledge Made To Fire Boss

DETROIT (UPI) — State Sen. Coleman Young launched his campaign to become mayor of Detroit yesterday with a pledge to fire Police Commissioner John Nichols and to abolish the city's controversial STRESS police squad.

Nichols, a tough-talking career policeman, is expected to announce as a mayoral candidate shortly. Although there are several other candidates, the race could shape up as a battle between Young and Nichols.

"The police should be the servant of the people," Young said. "In Detroit, the police now run the city."

The STRESS unit has been criticized for what many blacks see as excessive use of force and over-free use of firearms.

Six Die In Suspicious Blaze At Boston Hotel

BROCKTON, Mass. (UPI) — At least six persons were killed today when a fire of suspicious origin roared through the old Ardmore Hotel, a four-story wooden structure in the downtown section.

One of the victims, Nicholas Bryant, 50, leaped to his death. Officials at Brockton Hospital said Bryant, a resident at the hotel, died of severe spinal injuries and a skull fracture shortly after he was brought in.

The other dead were not identified immediately. There were 15 known survivors.

Authorities said the entire center of the structure collapsed at the height of the blaze and it was feared that additional victims might be trapped in the rubble. Firefighters began searching through the debris shortly after daybreak.

Police said there was no accurate count on how many persons were staying at the 54-room hotel. At least 30 were believed registered.

Area hospitals reported treating six persons, including one fireman.

Fire chief Edward H. Burrell said the blaze, which began in the front entrance to the building, was "definitely of suspicious origin." Police said they were working with fire officials to investigate the blaze.

The blaze was first reported at 2:55 a.m., firemen said, and by the time they arrived "the building was fully involved and people were hanging out windows."

A spokesman for the fire department said at least a dozen persons were rescued by ladder and a few others escaped by using knotted ropes.

One fireman said the blaze apparently "mushroomed through the hotel's 54 rooms within minutes." He said it spread to the upper floors through an elevator shaft.

Five of the 15 known survivors were taken to hospitals for treatment and two were admitted.

Accident Victim Off Critical List

Kathy Scalon, 15, of Sonoma, who suffered head injuries in a traffic accident April 22 on Highway 37 at the Marin side of the Petaluma River Bridge, has been taken off the critical list at Marin General Hospital.

She was reported in serious condition today at the hospital, the first sign of improvement since the accident.

RETURNS TO WOUNDED KNEE

Silas Grant, one of the first residents to return to Wounded Knee, S.D., after fleeing when members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) took over the town on Feb. 27, examines the bullet holes in the windshield of his car. Grant returned yesterday, two days after AIM members left the town on Tuesday. Meanwhile today it was announced a meeting between Indian representatives and White House officials will be held Thursday, but that leaders of AIM will not attend.

China Trade Increase Said Coming

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — David J. Mahoney, board chairman and president of Norton Simon Inc., told the Commonwealth Club Friday that China is a country on the move with which the U.S. will increasingly trade.

"We are going to do business with China, if for no other reason than that we cannot afford to concede to our competitors a market which represents almost a quarter of the world's population," he said.

Mahoney, who recently visited China, said, "Chinese trade is now growing 10 per cent a year with an annual target of 15 per cent.

"Right now, exports are only 4 per cent of China's gross national product, compared to 10 per cent here in the U.S., so they have room to grow."

"I think it's a country on the move. It has already come a long way and I think it is going to surprise us all in the next 15 or 20 years."

Mahoney said his firm has arranged to import "some of their high quality ginger" for ginger ale and some edible oils. He said good candidates for export to China are petrochemicals, fertilizer plants and oil drilling equipment.

Water Board Selects Panel To Decide On Connections Policy

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District last night approved a committee to decide a variance procedure for the district's new connection ban — a matter which had deadlocked the board the night before.

Directors Jack R. Felson and Dr. L. Martin Griffin were named to the panel, along with J. Dietrich Stroeh, manager of engineering, and Robert Goodwin, a special attorney hired by the district.

Stroeh said the committee will formulate a variance procedure and also a permanent ordinance to replace the temporary moratorium enacted April 30. The moratorium bans all new water hookups in the district due to a threatened water shortage.

The board was able to agree on the committee last night even though it had deadlocked, 2-to-2, on the same motion Wednesday. Director Ronald T. Stafford, who was absent Wednesday attended last night's adjourned meeting and supported Felson's committee idea. The final vote was 4-to-1, with director John M. MacPhail Jr. dissenting, Stroeh said.

The variance procedure — which will set up guidelines for granting exceptions to the connection ban — should be ready for the board May 23 meeting, Stroeh said. A growing number of variance applications is piling up in the district office, joined by seven variance requests postponed at Wednesday's meeting.

Goodwin, a special counsel from Santa Barbara County, will participate in the committee because the board Wednesday fired attorney Robert W. Elliott, who had been the district's counsel since 1964.

In other action, the board agreed to ask for a delay in court proceedings in a suit pitting a developer against the district until after developer presents his case to the board in a hearing May 23.

The McCarthy Co. of San Rafael has sued the district to force it to supply water to the 292-unit Foothills Oaks project planned for the Civic Center area.

The district had been told to appear in court Wednesday to show cause why it shouldn't supply the project, but directors asked last night to postpone the court date until after a hearing. Stroeh said the McCarthy Co. will study the request.

Directors also continued discussion of new sources of water to alleviate the threatened shortage, then set a field trip to the Walker Creek area in Northwest Marin for 7 a.m. May 22. The party will meet at district headquarters before heading out to the watershed, most frequently mentioned as a reservoir site for future water supply.

Stroeh said a consultant's report on water sources will be finished and presented to the board May 23.

Soviets Get Space Training

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — Three Soviet space engineers are being trained at Grumman Aerospace Corp. in preparation for joint Apollo-Soyuz space flights in July 1975.

The Russian men, who were not identified, are undergoing a two-week training course in the use of Grumman-made radio communication equipment which will be installed in the Soyuz spacecraft, a company spokesman announced Wednesday.

The spokesman said they are also receiving training in the operation of testing devices used to check the communications equipment prior to launch.

Hurt In Crash

Donna Zich, 27, of 49 Crescent Avenue, Sausalito, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured right knee and cut forehead said to have been suffered in an auto accident Wednesday. No details of the accident were available.

Reformatory Hostages Are Freed

ROCKWELL CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Officials at the women's reformatory today broke down the door of a cottage where two hostages were held by inmates and quelled a disturbance triggered by a dispute over an inmate's request to attend her father's funeral without a prison escort.

Reformatory superintendent Ted Wallman said the hostages, guard matron Florence Conrad and counselor Marge McKowan, were freed without injury to anyone. Both women said they had been treated well.

Twenty female inmates were involved in the disturbance which began early today after Maria Spates, 21, of Waterloo was denied an unescorted furlough to attend her father's funeral in Waterloo.

Wallman said Miss Spates' request was denied because of her prison record and she refused to accept an offer of an escort to attend the funeral.

Wallman said the decision to break down the door came after the inmates refused a request to let the hostages walk from the cottage. He said the inmates were keeping the cottage door locked with a "barricade of kitchen knives."

Seventeen of the inmates involved in the cottage takeover then left the area voluntarily, Wallman said. Three others remained locked in their rooms and refused to come out.

Miss Spates became "unruly and very upset" according to Wallman and Miss Conrad was sent to the cottage to talk to her. She was later joined by Mrs. McKowan.

Buhl said Miss Spates was held on both federal and state convictions of forgery and that prison policy prohibits women held on federal charges from receiving unescorted furloughs.

Longshore Union Strike Averted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — West Coast shippers and longshoremen announced preliminary contract items designed to avert a strike this year but union leader Harry Bridges warned the Cost of Living Council not to "butt in."

Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and Edmund Flynn, chief negotiator for the Pacific Maritime Association, held a joint news conference Thursday to announce the terms and said negotiations on a new pact would start next week.

The current contract covering dock workers and clerks at West Coast ports expires July 1. It was signed after a 134-day strike that ended in February of 1972.

Kissinger, Tho Plan To Discuss Vietnam Cease-Fire Violations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger, just back from a Moscow trip, will meet in Paris Thursday with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho to discuss ways to shore up the shaky Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the White House announced today.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the Kissinger-Tho meeting probably would last three to four days. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, and Tho, Hanoi Politburo member, negotiated the agreement in January.

Kissinger will be switching his focus to the Indochina situation after reporting to Nixon on what he described as "major progress" in discussions with Leonid I. Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders on issues preceding Brezhnev's forthcoming Washington summit visit.

Kissinger arrived back in Washington late Thursday night and met this morning with the President.

The groundwork for his meeting next week with Tho has been laid during Paris conferences by U.S. and North Vietnam representatives.

The United States and Saigon have accused the North Vietnamese of committing or supporting hundreds of violations of the cease-fire. Hanoi has made similar charges against the United States and South Vietnam.

Asked if the Kissinger-Tho sessions would consider charges of cease-fire violations on both sides, Ziegler said the purpose of the meetings — at least as far as the United States was concerned — is to discuss "strict implementation" of the accords.

Ziegler said the possibility of resumption of talks about U.S. economic aid to Hanoi and mine-sweeping operations in Haiphong harbor — suspended by the United States in protest of cease-fire infractions — would be among topics of discussion.

A text of a joint U.S.-North Vietnamese announcement on the Paris meeting on the Vietnam cease-fire stated:

"The governments of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States have agreed to hold discussions in order to review the implementation of the Paris agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam and to find measures to bring about the strict implementation of that agreement.

Accompanying Kissinger to Paris will be William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state, who has been working out advance arrangements for the meetings; Graham Martin, named by Nixon to be new ambassador to Saigon to succeed Ellsworth Bunker who departed for home today; and two members of Kissinger's national security staff, William Stearman and Peter Rodman.

Children Score Low Once Again

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California school children have scored below the national average on aptitude and achievement tests for the fourth consecutive year, and the trend continued generally downward.

Those were the results of examinations taken this year by California 6th and 12th graders, and submitted to the state Board of Education Thursday by state schools superintendent Wilson C. Riles.

Sixth graders performed somewhat better although their overall scores "continued to decline." Achievement results in reading, language and math, however, improved" slightly," reversing a three-year trend.

Since 1969, the state Education Department has been required by law to conduct the tests in the two grades as a measurement of basic skills and scholastic aptitude. From the beginning, California students have scored below what test publisher say is the overall norm.

With a per cent score of 50 considered average, California 6th graders dropped in scholastic aptitude from 46 per cent last year to 43 per cent in the latest test.

In the measurement of skills, there were slight increases in reading, language and math, and a slight decrease in spelling, but not enough to change last year's percentage ranking. They were 44 in reading, 39 in language, 42 in spelling and 38 in math.

For 12th graders, scholastic aptitude "continued to drift downward" but not enough to change the per cent rank of 39.

Reading scores of 12th graders dropped from 49 to 47 and language or expresssion results declined from 38 to 36. There were small increases in math and spelling scores, but not enough to change last year's percentage rank of 47 and 48.

The report was based on the 6th grade Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills and the 122th grade Iowa Tests of Education Development.

The continued poor showing by California students in math was the subject of another study submitted to the board by Riles, showing that 4th through 8th graders are particularly deficient in the everyday skills of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

The report called for a comprehensive study of the problem and the distribution of test results to teachers throughout the state "to emphasize the conputational weaknesses found in this study."

Taxable Sales Up In Marin

Taxable sales in Marin County for 1972 were up 14.9 per cent for a total of $455,379,000, of which $401,233,000 were in cities and $54,146,000 in unincorporated areas.

Taxable sales in the various cities were: Belvedere $1,241,000; Corte Madera $39,723,000; Fairfax $7,414,000; Larkspur $14,071,000; Mill Valley $23,841,000; Novato $46,412,000; Ross $826,000; San Anselmo $17,706,000; San Rafael $190,633,000; Sausalito $31,981,000; Tiburon $10,833.000.

In Southern Sonoma, Petaluma had $63,802,000; Cotati $6,339,000; and Rohnert Park $9,346,000.

Strep Infection Leading Disease

Streptococcus infections with 119 cases reported last week, was the most prevalent communicable disease in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer.

There were 21 cases of gonorrhea, seven of infectious hepatitis and one each of syphillis, tuberculosis and salmonella reported.

Oil Company Sets Gasoline Limits

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — American Oil Co. began limiting passenger cars to 10 gallons of gasoline today at the firm's four stations on the Kansas Turnpike. Trucks were limited to 25 gallons beginning at one minute after midnight.

A spokesman said gasoline was recently rationed for two days "as a test" in Lawrence, Kan., and customers were "irate." But the spokesman said the nation's fuel shortage left the company with no other alternative.

An Explosion Rocks Beirut Refugee Area

BEIRUT (UPI) — A thunderous explosion rocked Beirut today on the second day of a cease-fire between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas and an army communique said many persons were killed or seriously wounded. New fighting also was reported on the border with Syria.

(A seven-point cease-fire plan announced yesterday in Damascus was thought to have ended the fighting, now in its ninth day, but Israel was taking no chances and its experienced Golani Brigade continued "military exercises" in the Golan Heights in an implied warning to Syria to keep hands off. A military spokesman said tanks and planes were involved in the war games.)

The army communique said the explosion near the refugee camps in Beirut's southern outskirts at 9:30 a.m. was caused by a Mercedes car running over a mine, apparently laid during the recent clashes in the area between the army and guerrillas.

Newsmen, however, said they believed the explosion was caused by a timed explosive device placed in the car which was parked in a side street.

The explosion was the only incident reported in Beirut in the 12 hours between midnight and noon.

The army also reported a guerrilla attack on a customs post at Al Arida, 72 miles north of Beirut on the Syrian border.

"The post was attacked with rockets and mortars despite the cease-fire," the communique said. "Our forces returned the fire and the armed men were forced to retreat behind the (Syrian) border. We suffered no casualties."

In Beirut and five other cities a curfew imposed Monday night was lifted by the army between 8 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.

Traffic jams developed in the streets and the banks opened for the first time since the clashes started May 2.

Earlier today, Lebanese authorities strengthened security at military air bases in north and east Lebanon following the Thursday attack on the Mirage airbase at Koleat.

The army also warned citizens to watch out for snipers who it said were "trying to create an atmosphere of fear and panic by firing shots from concealed areas."

Beirut newspapers credited the relative calm to the intervention of Arab peace mediators, including Arab League Secretary General Mahmoud Riad and guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

But there was sporadic fighting yesterday in Lebanon's southern, northern and eastern regions.

Lebanese Air Force jets for the third straight day hit guerrilla positions, bombarding the Kleat military air base near Lebanon's northern border with Syria.

Decision On Housing Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The North Central Coast Commission has put off until next Thursday a decision on whether to allow construction of a 200-unit housing development next to Lake Merced.

A group called Save Lake Merced submitted a lengthy report yesterday to the commission asserting that the $9 million project was environmentally detrimental.

It was one of that group, Allen Riley, 18, a student at UC Santa Barbara, who last week obtained a court order blocking work on the development.

Trade Keys Are Oil And Soybeans

By HARRY B. ELLIS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Soybeans and petroleum, for very different reasons, preoccupy the thinking of officials charged with managing United States trade relations with the outside world.

Soybeans have become far and away the most valuable U.S. export, outranking jet aircraft, computers, wheat, or anything else sold abroad.

Last year the United States sold $2 billion worth of soybeans to foreign customers, including one million metric tons to the Soviet Union alone.

Ninety per cent of all soybeans in international trade are U.S. grown, and the United States now produces 75 per cent of all soybeans in the world.

"World needs for protein feed," says C. Kyle Randall of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, "continue to grow. The sharp decline in production of fish meal in Peru makes the demand for oilseed meal even stronger."

Already U.S. farmers sow 53 million acres of land to soybeans — roughly one of every seven acres of farmland in the country. Release of set-aside lands by the Nixon administration will boost the soybean acreage.

"Soybean meal," states world food expert Lester R. Brown, "which sold for $2.60 per bushel in the mid-1960's, now goes as high as $7 a bushel."

The United States, then, is in the happy position of selling — without serious competition — a product which the rest of the world avidly wants.

"Agricultural trade," remarks Peter M. Flanigan, "has been our brightest spot," and — within the realm of U.S. farm exports — soybeans are the leading moneymaker.

Flanigan, executive director of President Nixon's Council on International Economic Policy, makes the following points:

Since 1960 the United States has had a persistent agricultural trade surplus, which reached a record $2.9 billion in 1972."

For minerals and fuels, principally oil, by contrast, the U.S. had a whopping $5.4 billion in deficit last year.

A sharp turnaround also has occurred in the area of U.S. manufactured exports. "Through 1965," says Flanigan, "the United States had an annual surplus in this category well in excess of $5 billion."

By 1971 the U.S. trade balance in manufactured products was equal, and last year the United States slumped to a $3.5-billion deficit in this category.

In short, the U.S. buys more manufactured goods than it sells, and far more minerals and fuels — oil, natural gas, bauxite, and others. Only American farm exports, as a major category, continue in the black.

Without that $2.9-billion farm export surplus last year, the United States trade deficit would have been far higher than the actual $6.4 billion recorded.

The obvious lesson is to increase export sales of U.S. farm products, and soybeans are a natural candidate. The Soviets, for example, will not need to buy more American wheat, if they enjoy good harvests.

But Moscow will, so far as can be seen, remain strongly in the market for soybeans and other American feed grains, as Soviet leaders strive to increase the protein content of their citizens' diet. The same, in varying degree, will be true of other East European states, Communist China, and a number of developed nations in the West.

All in all, the United States last year suffered a balance-of-payments deficit in excess of $10 billion, of which the $6.4 billion trade gap was the largest, but not the only, element.

Clearly the payments deficit can only be narrowed, if the trade shortfall is corrected. The role of U.S. farm exports is crucial, and will become even more important as the United States pays more and more for energy.

"The landed costs of U.S. oil imports in 1980," declares Flanigan, "could be two to three times the 1972 level of $5 billion.

"After crediting the United States with estimated profit repatriation from oil companies and U.S.-controlled shipping companies, the direct effect of oil transactions on our current account balance — goods, services, and investment income — could amount to an outflow of from $5 to $10 billion (each year)."

This estimate is conservative.

Nongovernmental experts assert the United States may be forced by 1985 to spend more than $30 billion yearly to import foreign oil and gas, mostly from Arab lands.

Whichever estimate is correct, and the figure may fall in between, there is no visible way U.S. exports can be expanded enough to keep the overall trade gap from widening.

Beyond 1985, nuclear and solar energy may reduce the nation's need for oil and gas. In the interim, however, Americans — comprising 6 per cent of the world's population — will pay an enormously high bill for the privilege of consuming one-third of the world's energy.

Against this dark background soybeans are a bright spot indeed. There are, however, limitations on the degree to which soybean production can grow.

Experts have been unable, comments Lester Brown, to increase the soybean yield per acre beyond 1 per cent each year. This compares with 4 per cent for corn.

New acreage is limited, and — pending a breakthrough in methods of boybean cultivation — the crop's annual increase also has limits.

Meanwhile, President Nixon is determined to erase what he considers to be discrimination against U.S. farm goods in the world market, particularly in the European Economic Community (EEC).

This nine-nation body gives preference to crops grown by its own farmers and tacks levies on foreign farm products, including those from the United States, to make them more expensive than homegrown food.

The Common Market also subsidizes the export of its farm surpluses to markets outside the EEC. This, in the U.S. view, cuts unfairly into American farm sales abroad.

Through his trade-reform bill of 1973, Nixon is asking Congress for authority to use carrot and stick selectively in trade talks opening in Tokyo this September.

The President wants fairer trading terms for farm goods, which more than pull their weight in the U.S. struggle to balance its commerce with the outside world.

The Pedibike Is Geared For All-Weather Travel

By PETER TONGE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WINDSOR, Conn. — My wife had long since dismissed the bicycle as "too tiring" a mode of transport. Yet, here she was, pedaling Bob Bundschuh's Pedicar at a rapid clip.

"It's so much easier than I thought," she said after several minutes of propelling the leg-powered four-wheeler. She was enjoying the ease of a drive mechanism that makes a bicycle or ordinary pedal car seem sadly inefficient.

As developed by aeronautical engineer Bundschuh, the system, using pulleys, transfers 97 per cent of the muscle energy to the rear wheels, calculated to be a 50 per cent improvement on the rotational crank system of the bicycle.

Maximum thrust on the rotational crank system apparently can be exerted each 360 degree turn only when the pedal is horizontal on the downward thrust. Thereafter it trails off drastically. In contrast, the Pedicar's drive pedals employ a straight back and forth motion allowing for a constant driving force whatever the position of the pedals.

Much of its efficiency comes from the fact that when an operator's back is braced against something rigid (in this case the seat), the legs can exert a force roughly equal to twice the body weight.

The system can be likened to the coiled rope starter on many motor-driven machines. The pedal cables are wrapped around a pulley. As you push, the unwinding pulley transmits the force to the rear wheels and the vehicle moves along. The pulley then recoils and the pedal is in position for another push forward.

The pedals operate independently. They can be pushed one at a time or both together. Also, only one pedal need be used.

"It's so easy," says inventor Bundschuh, "that, at walking-level expenditures of energy, you can pump the pedicar at 10-12 miles an hour."

That may be so —once you have become conditioned to the physical exercise involved.

Fred Beitch, whose job it is to sell the little car for Bundschuh's Environmental Trans-Sport Co., admits to having a few stiff muscles the first week he began riding one. Now he can push the car along at 12 miles per hour without tiring. He frequently averages 15 miles per hour. And he has pushed it up to 25 mph over a short distance.

I found the Pedicar a perky, maneuverable thing. In top gear (the car has five forward gears and one reverse gear), it moves along at around 12 m.p.h. with just steady pumping of the pedals. In bottom gear, the car readily took a 30 degree gradient at walking speed. When I took my feet off the pedals, the car did not run back down the incline. Similarly, it would not run forward in reverse gear.

Bundschuh feels the explosive growth of adult bicycle sales in the U.S. points up a need for vehicles such as his. The bicycle is a fair-weather vehicle, he points out. The Pedicar is not. It even rides along merrily in four inches of snow. Baggage-carrying capacity, more generous than saddlebags or basket, is another advantage. However, at $550, it costs a good deal more than a bike.

Right now there are just three of these yellow-cabbed, single-seater prototypes riding around the streets of this Connecticut River town. However, the company hopes to produce 15,000 of the Pedicars this year, increasing to 50,000 a year thereafter.

Meanwhile other man-powered vehicles are in the planning stage: A two-seater car, a snowmobile and a propeller-driven boat. Looking further ahead, various forms of man-powered agricultural vehicles are planned.

Says Beitch: "We have the drive system. There's no end to the number of applications."

A flying machine, perhaps!?

Bank Robber Is Blown Apart

KENORA, Ont. (UPI) — A robber who said he carried a detonator in his mouth and a duffle bag full of dynamite was blown apart by an explosion yesterday when he walked out of a bank.

Witnesses said police were shooting at the man at the time of the blast at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. It was not clear if the robber set off the explosion himself or it was caused by police bullets.

The force of the blast tore the unidentified man apart, blew out windows in the bank and nearby stores and scattered holdup loot across the street.

Behr Proposes Limit On Use Of DMV's Records

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill limiting access to Department of Motor Vehicle records was introduced this week by state Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure primarily is intended to prevent the practice of selling DMV records in bulk to private firms for a profit, Behr said.

The bill, SB 1325, bans all commercial use of the information but permits noncommercial statistical use, such as by investigating officers and statistical researchers, Behr said.

Firms such as financial institutions and insurance companies still would be able to get the information they require for individual applicants, the senator said.

Prize-Fixing Case Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge has approved settlement of an antitrust suit involving alleged price-fixing in the sale of lithograph paper labels.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert Thursday granted a settlement for $4 million in damages plus an additional $670,000 in attorney fees for Guido Saveri, San Francisco. Saveri filed the class-action suit on behalf of all label buyers against International Paper Co. and Diamond International Corp., New York City, and H.S. Crocker Co., Inc., and StecherTraung-Schmidt Corp., San Francisco.

Saveri said 430,000 buyers of labels would share in the settlement.

Black Militants Arrested On Murder Charges

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Reputed Black Liberation Army leader Joanne Chesimard and a male companion were indicted Friday on murder charges stemming from a shootout with police May 2 in which a trooper and one gunman were slain.

First Assistant County Prosecutor C. Hudson Hamlin said the indictments charged Miss Chesimard, 25, convalescing from gunshot wounds at Middlesex General Hospital, and Clark Edward Squire, 36, with murder in connection with the deaths of Trooper Werner Foerster, 35, and their other companion, James F. Coston Jr.

Both Miss Chesimard and Squire are being held without bail.

An Important Gas Discovery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Standard Oil Co. of California reports that a gas discovery has been made on acreage near South Marsh Island off the shore of Louisiana.

Standard Oil yesterday described the discovery as "important" and said it was made by the Chevron Oil Co., its subsidiary.

Officials said the discovery well was 15 miles south of Tiger Shoal and the Mound Point gas fields. They said gasbearing sands were encountered above 10,000 feet.

$276,233 Tab For Upkeep

BERKELEY (UPI) — Maintenance and upkeep of University House, the residence of University of California Berkeley campus chancellor Albert Bowker, will cost $63,881 this year, a university spokesman said Wednesday.

Maintenance of the residence of the university president, vice president and nine chancellors will total $276,233.

Bowker's home is the most expensive to maintain, the spokesman said, because of its age. "There is no money right now for the major refurbishing it needs," he said.

Golda In Hospital

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir entered Hadassah Hospital yesterday for what her spokesman described as two days of routine medical tests.

FIRE ON A FREEWAY

Rush hour traffic in Los Angeles was badly snarled yesterday as firemen battled flames which reduced a custom-bodied Avenger GT sports car to a molten mass on the Santa Ana freeway. There were no injuries when the car collided with a small pickup truck. (UPI Telephoto)

Mine Hazards Are Monitored

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — To dtect perilous conditions and prevent mine disaster, West Virginia University has installed what is believed to be the world's first electronic monitor system for a coal mine.

The experimental system is designed to summon miners from their work places before dangerous conditions produce noticeable signs of crisis.

Technicians have installed sensors at strategic locations in a mine operated by Eastern Associated Coal Corp. near Morgantown. The sensors are connected through data relay stations to the university's engineering sciences building, where a computer analyzes the sensors' findings and signals any danger.

Septic Tank Permits To Be Delayed

The county health services department has notified the Marin Municipal and North Marin water districts it won't issue septic tank construction permits until further notice because of recently enacted moratoriums by both districts on water connection bans.

William L. Desmond, director of the division of environmental control in the health services department, said his office would consider hardship cases for septic tank work if the water districts grant moratorium variances.

Septic tanks still predominate in West Marin areas.

Interest-Oriented Students Deliver

BRUNSWICK, Me. (UPI)— Add to proof of the excellence of contemporary youth: the most recent Dean's list at Bowdoin College in Maine contains the names of 512 students, more than half of those eligible.

Prof. Paul L. Nyhue, dean of students, said one of the factors in the record-size list of students making honors is the increasing opportunity being given Bowdoin students to design courses of study which develop their distinctive interests and talents. It adds up to strong motivation.

Ellsberg Defense Seeks Dismissal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The defense in the Pentagon Papers trial argued today that all charges should be dismissed because of an FBI wiretap of telephone conversations of defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ordered both sides to argue this morning on throwing the case out of court because of a disclosure yesterday that the FBI had put a tap on the telephone defense assistant Morton Halperin and had withheld the information that Ellsberg was overheard on it throughout nearly two years of litigation in the case.

Byrne said he had received no further turnover of information from the government concerning the Ellsberg interception, but the FBI reported it had twice overheard Halperin in telephone calls to another home under surveillance.

The judge said the logs of the Halperin calls indicated they had no bearing on the Pentagon Papers trial.

Defense attorney Leonard Boudin, in beginning arguments for a dismissal, said "We see the situation as involving two problems—the statutes and decisions of the court involving wiretapping, and the rights of the defendants here and the administration of criminal justice.

"The government simply did not comply with your honor's orders to turn over any evidence of electronic surveillance on members of the defense team."

Developments yesterday caused optimism among Ellsberg's supporters and one of his attorneys grasped his hand and told him, "It won't be long now."

"I think this is going to be the camel (sic) that broke the camel's back," exulted Ellsberg.

Byrne made it clear he expected to make a quick decision in the case.

The judge has had the Justice Department under orders for a year to reveal any wiretapping against Ellsberg or the defense team. Halperin is a consultant to the defense team, and was an important defense witness.

The prosecution has maintained throughout the trial that there were no such wiretaps. A wiretap issue caused a mistrial earlier in the case.

The wiretap revelation came at the beginning of yesterday's session, when Byrne was scheduled to hear arguments on a motion for a judgment of acquittal.

Although the defense previously has asked for a dismissal, attorney Leonard Boudin said now the defense would prefer an order of acquittal to "remove any stain" from Ellsberg and Russo.

"To have the case disappear because of the extreme wrongdoing of the government would be an insufficient remedy for the defendants, as individuals accused of a crime," Boudin said.

However, Byrne said the wiretap matter had taken precedence and he would "follow the appropriate procedure."

Byrne announced that he had received from the government a memorandum from acting FBI director William Ruckelshaus indicating that Ruckelshaus learned of the wiretap on May 8.

The FBI memo said it had maintained records of the taps, but that they were now missing.

"If there are no logs and records I want to know why not," the judge told the prosecutors. "If they are gone, I want to know where."

Funds Voted For Study Of Barrier

Golden Gate Bridge district directors today decided to proceed with plans for design and wind tunnel testing of a suicide barrier for the Golden Gate Bridge, despite a claim by one director that the project may eventually cost $1 million and alter the structure's appearance.

Directors voted 12-6 to appropriate $67,500 for the study.

The action came after director Lowell Edington unsuccessfully argued that the barrier would change the appearance of the bridge and alter the maintenance program by requiring erection of up to four miles of fencing along the bridge.

Edington argued that the bridge accounted for only 4 per cent of 11,457 suicides in the nine bay area counties last year.

One of the reasons that the bridge is attractive to leapers, he said, is because of its pedestrian walkways. He proposed for "discussion" that the bridge be closed to pedestrians, a move rejected by colleagues.

Director Michael Wornum called the study "a justifiable project," saying it was "a matter of conscience to save some lives" from this "attractive nuisance."

"All we're doing today is passing an expenditure of $67,500," declared director Ben K. Lerer.

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini, a director who opposed the funding appropriation, said district staff and consultants would complete the tunnel testing and design study within about two months.

In other action today district directors set a public hearing on increasing bridge tolls from 50 to 75 cents. The hearing will be at 8 p.m., May 24, in the bridge district office.

Wornum said he would raise the toll hike issue at Tuesday's meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Wornum predicted a public hearing would be set in Marin on the matter because "people paying the tolls should have a chance to express themselves."

Nixon's Poor Kin Don't Like Politics

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — The financial plight of President Nixon's Grass Valley cousins has worsened. But Anna Milhous, mother of the small clan of relatives here, believes poverty is better than politics.

"I receive state disability aid," Mrs. Milhous, 49, said in an interview today. "We're poor money wise of course. But I'd rather be on welfare than in a bunch of gangsterism and I've about come to the conclusion that's all politics is."

Mrs. Milhous and her husband, Phillip, Nixon's first cousin, attracted national attention two years ago when it was disclosed they were ill and she depended in part on state welfare.

This week their son, Ronald, appeared in federal court filing for bankruptcy, saying he had lost his money in an unsuccessful hog raising venture.

Mrs. Milhous said it was unfortunate her son's court action came to the attention of the press. "If his name had been Smith, it would never have happened," she said.

"I draw $46 a month. I'm not ashamed of it," she added. "I don't know what has been written about this."

Asked to elaborate on her "gangsterism" comment, she said: "We've got a bunch of guys going to jail don't we? It seems to be a thing of do as I say not as I do.

"We teach our morals at home. We teach our children to respect our country. Our elected officials should be somebody who our children can respect but you read in the paper every day about something dirty," said the woman.

"I think I might be getting in hot water," she added. "I'm not really interested in all that scandal stuff."

Closed Session

The Sausalito School District board has called a closed session at 9 a.m. tomorrow in the district office at 630 Nevada Street to instruct its negotiators in salary talks with employees and to discuss whether to reassign a school principal.

Community Center Use Is Restricted

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District directors decided last night to restrict use of the community center to Bel Marin Keys residents and organizations starting July 1.

The district has been renting the center for weddings and private parties, but there have been "too many conflicts" with dates when district residents wanted to use the center, according to Secretary Betty L. Zoeller. The center is financed by district taxpayers, she said.

Director Benjamin F. Kump, whose term expires Dec. 30, resigned from the board because he will be moving to Newport News, Va. The board, seeking a successor, will consider applications for the post, Mrs. Zoeller said.

The district also is seeking a pool attendant to work full-time from June 15 to Sept. 15 at $2 an hour. Applicants must have a Red Cross Life Saving certificate.

Mrs. Zoeller said she will accept applications evenings at her home, 917 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard.

Red Tape Hit By President; Says: 'Think'

NEW YORK (AP) — C. Peter McColough, chairman of Xerox, each year gives an interview to the company's employee newspaper.

He is bothered, he said, by the way red tape creeps into large organizations at an alarming rate.

"I am finding that the most effective way to combat red tape is to ridicule silly regulations whenever I spot them.

"Often the guy who is insecure in a big company tries to learn all the rules as carefully as possible because he feels that if he doesn't make any mistakes he'll get ahead.

"While we necessarily have to have some rules, we want our people to think, not just follow rules."

EXCHANGE STUDENT

The Year Has Been Very Busy

EACH WOODEN shoe is carved out of one piece of wood, Paulien Lens, exchange student from the Netherlands, explained. She is living in the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. William Eichhorn in Mill Valley, and she is in Marin under the International Christian Youth Exchange program.

By BETTY FROST

"Caught between two worlds" is the way Paulien Lens, 17, feels as her year in Mill Valley comes to an end.

The Dutch girl feels a strong attachment to the family of Rev. and Mrs. L. William Eichhorn where she is living, and nostalgia for her own parents in Holland.

Paulien's home is in the town of Heerde in the province of Gelderland, about 80 miles east of Amsterdam. Her father is a physician, who works with the handicapped.

Her year in this country is under the auspices of the International Christian Youth Exchange. Reverend Eichhorn is the minister of the Mill Valley Community Church. Organizations such as the Community Church Club, assist with financial support for the program.

Because she already was graduated from high school under the "havo" system in Holland, Miss Lens has been able to have a varied educational and service experience here. She has been participating in the urban-on-location program at Tamalpais High School, a community involvement program offering studies in minority problems, and American political and foreign policy matters. She has also attended classes at the College of Marin, taking courses in psychology and about American Indians. Paulien volunteers one day a week at the Marin Community Workshop Annex in San Rafael, where she assists with the recreation program for mentally retarded adults.

THE VOLUNTEER work has influenced the young woman to consider a career in social work when she returns to the Netherlands. Since her goals in seeking the opportunity to be an exchange student were "to travel and have a chance to think about a career," she finds those aims well fulfilled.

She finds that "Holland and Marin have a lot of comparisons," because both are near the water. At first she was impressed with the wealth of Americans, noting dishwashing machines, two or more cars to a family, "huge" cars, and many luxury items in the home. She likes the natural beauty of Marin and the fog rolling into the valleys.

"In Holland it is a status thing to have your house and garden neat," she said, but observed "Americans are hard working, too."

She has enjoyed being part of the Eichhorn's young family, where the children are twin girls, Beth and Becky, 12, Marty, 8, and Matthew, 3. "In this household everyone helps. Each week a list of chores is posted by Mrs. Eichhorn and we children choose what we want to do."

In her home in Heerde, Paulien explained, "My mother has a maid, and I also helped. Now I will have to educate my younger brother to take a share of the duties."

WHEN SHE first came to Mill Valley, Paulien was disdainful of the constant use of automobiles. "Now I have a better understanding of why people need cars here, because the distances are so great. I still like to walk, but it takes so much time," she said.

"In Holland," she explained "there is no need for a car, because you can take the bus, train or bicycle. Everybody has a bike in Holland. The distances are short, the country is flat, and there are many beautiful bike paths."

Opportunities for travel have made Miss Lens "appreciate that Marin is unqiue," she said. During the Easter vacation she went by car to Utah with Mrs. Carolyn Meyers and her children. She also went to Stockton for the "Exchange-Exchange" Week this spring, when foreign students studying in Northern California go to other communities.

In late June Paulien will be with the Eichhorn family when they drive to Ohio. From there she will fly to Philadelphia where she will meet the other exchange students and all will leave for Europe on Aug. 2, just a year after their arrival in the United States.

Her happy experience here has caused Paulien to consider living in Marin in the future, "but now I must go home to see my people," she said.

View Of Critically Ill Children Toward Death Is Subject Of Talk

By PAT BALMES

Dr. Eugenia Waechter, a professor at University of California at San Francisco School of Nursing, spoke on death awareness in children with fatal illness to a small group of physicians, nurses, social workers and lay people at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere on Wednesday.

A doctor of philosophy in child development, Eugenia Waechter explained the results of her study which measured death anxiety in fatally ill children.

She found less anxiety in children who had had the opportunity to talk about death with their parents than in children who were discouraged from asking about death and so had no chance to question the real issues they feared — mutilation, pain, loneliness and loss, according to Dr. Waechter.

A CHILD sometimes will give a hint that he knows about his impending death, such as, "You be a good girl or I will not invite you to my funeral," mentioned Dr. Waechter.

Nurses question Dr. Waechter, "If the child asks me about death, what shall I say to him; his parents have written across the chart "Do not tell my child.' "

It is an easy out; a conspiracy of silence against the child. Or the nurse will say 'I cannot say anything, it's up to the physician,' she said.

The main question is not "should you tell them?" but "can you deal with what they want to ask about?" Dr. Waechter said. Children usually feel that the disease is too terrible itself and ask peripheral questions such as, "Am I going to be able to stand it? Am I going to be left alone?"

Doctors, nurses and parents should give out clues that it is all right to ask these questions.

If the child can ask the question about his death, then follow his lead, advised Dr. Waechter.

For the child it is necessary to have his parents' support. For parents it is necessary to feel that they are helping in the dying. They feel terrible in terms of the disease, but we do not have to make them feel helpless as mothers. We should encourage parents to do everything possible for the dying for their own sake, so when death comes they do not feel guilty, the nursing educator said.

Dr. Waechter became interested in doing this study when, as a registered nurse, she worked with dying children in pediatric units.

"NURSES AND physicians were leaving the child alone as he became more critical," she said. They felt professional failures, helpless to keep the child alive; so they withdrew. They did not have enough training in how to deal with death.

What does this mean to that lonesome child? She wanted to find out how fatally ill children look upon death.

She searched literature and found little written in 1970. She read that children under 5 think only of separation, from 5 to 10 they wonder about mutilation procedures and only after 10 do they think about death itself.

"I questioned this and concentrated my study between ages 6 and 10, testing children with fatal diseases, mainly cystic fibrosis, leukemia and cancer," she said. She also tested three control groups, children with chronic illness, brief illness and normal children.

Showing them pictures of children in various situations, she asked the children to tell the story. She also gave standard anxiety scale testing

"The 16 children with fatal illnesses had anxiety twice as high as the 32 other hospitalized children and three times as high as the 16 normal children," Dr. Waechter said.

Only two had been told their specific diagnoses, she said.

Their tales of hopelessness, concern about body integrity and loneliness ended in death or magical reversal; the death theme predominated, she said.

THEIR STORIES often expressed anger toward parents, nurses and God. They believed their parents had abandoned them to all the terrible things being done and would not try to prevent them, she said.

"Children take personal responsibility for their illness; they feel guilty that they have done something wrong." They think they are being punished by being put in the hospital. They even think death is a punishment, she said.

After her study was completed, Dr. Waechter wanted to tell the parents that their children already knew that they were going to die.

"Some would not listen; they were adamant that their children would never hear the word leukemia or cancer. If they wouldn't listen, I suggested they meet with the social worker, doctors and nurses," said Dr. Waechter.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wife Takes Revenge, But Now The Little Game Should Be Called Off

DEAR HELEN:

I had an affair and my wife found out. She was very mad because it was with one of her girl friends. But she "forgave" me, on the condition I'd baby-sit twice a week.

I thought she meant she'd go out with the girls, but instead she goes to dances, and comes home with the boys.

I know she wouldn't be unfaithful, but she flaunts these guys at me when she brings them in for coffee at 1 a.m. If I say anything, she reminds me of our bargain. The trouble is, this isn't "getting even" anymore — she enjoys these "singles" dances, and knowing she still attracts men, etc.

Is this any way to preserve a marriage? — ONE YEAR OF PENANCE

DEAR OYOP:

It's a good way to pickle a relationship! Tell your wife all's square: you're straight, she's even. . .then hire a babysitter and join a good married couples' dance club. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a somewhat elderly friend who is starting to grow a few long, scraggly hairs on her chin — the kind you get with age. She's a proud person. Dare I mention that she should keep them cut close? — ONLY WANTING TO HELP

DEAR ONLY:

Your friend might appreciate the suggestion —for chances are she hasn't noticed those stragglers. Mother Nature's not very nice: just about the time a woman starts growing wild hairs on her chin, her dimming eyesight keeps her unaware of them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

People who become frustrated at supermarkets should take a tip from one who has learned to wait. When one of those pushy people crowds in front of me, I don't fight, I just "borrow" a magazine from the rack at the checkout stand and read the time away.

I do get slightly upset, however, at shoppers who leave their grocery carts in parking spaces — or directly behind my car when I want to back out. And those who just give the empty cart a shove, which results in a nearby scratched car, should be tied in a cart and shoved out on the freeway! — CALM SHOPPER — WITHIN LIMITS

DEAR HELEN:

Would you please mention this in your column so that young parents (especially my neighbors) will get the idea?

Please, please don't burn soiled paper diapers in your fireplace! — CAUGHT IN THE DOWNDRAFT

DEAR CAUGHT:

Duly mentioned. But I'll never understand why neighbors use a national column to settle problems which could easily be resolved with a few words over the back fence. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This answers your correspondent who took issue with a man saying "Thank you" when someone tells him he has a goodlooking wife.

Why shouldn't he show good manners by acknowledging a compliment? It doesn't mean he "owns" his wife or is responsible for her looks, though I suppose he could better say, "Thanks, I think so too."

On the other hand, if a woman is supremely happy in her marriage, her husband is certainly partially responsible for it, and when it shows on her face and makes her beautiful, a little of the credit belongs to him. — CATHERINE

MRS. CARROL G. VARNER
Sorority president

Tri Gamma Sorority Picks Slate

Tri Gamma sorority members have elected Mrs. Carrol G. Varner of Novato president of the organization. She has also served as secretary and vice president during her five years as a member.

The ultimate purpose of the organization is community service and social and cultural programs. The members plan a summer picnic, participation in a rummage sale at Sinaloa Junior High School, fall rushing events and participation in the Holiday Show in Novato.

Mary Ann Varner is also active in Our Lady of Loretto Parent-Teacher Guild and is a teacher aide and office volunteer in the Novato Unified School District. She was born in Evanston, Ill., and was graduated from St. Raphael's School and San Rafael High School. She attended College of Marin and has lived in Marin County 23 years.

Mrs. Varner and her husband, owner of Varner Supply, are the parents of Martha, 13, John, and Timothy, 8 years old. Mary Ann belongs to a women's softball league, and her other interests include gardening, caring for horses, rabbits and other animals, swimming in the family pool and taking trips to the family cabin in Lake County.

Bel Marin Keys Club Picks Slate

Mrs. John H. Klein of Novato is the new president of the Bel Marin Keys Women's Club. She has also served as first vice president and social chairman during her three years as a member of the club and a resident of the keys.

The club works on a fund raising project each year to raise money to furnish and improve the community center kitchen at Bel Marin keys.

Rose Rita Klein was born in Minnesota and has a teaching credential for kindergarten, primary and elementary grades. She was graduated from Minnesota State College in Winona and taught several years in Minnesota.

She and her husband, part owner of Western Pet Products of San Rafael, moved to Marin County in 1962. They have four children, Tom Klein of San Rafael, twin daughters, Mrs. Frank Vucci of Corte Madera and Mrs. James Gruenberg of Madison, Wis., and Malia, 16 years old.

Prior to moving to Marin County, Mrs. Klein and her family lived in Honolulu, where she taught and then became director of a private primary school and later operated her own nursery school for two years. After moving to Marin County she taught first grade at the 3-R School in San Rafael for six years and the past few years has done mostly remedial reading work and private tutoring.

MRS. JOHN H. KLEIN
Bel Marin Keys Club

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Klein are Mmes. Martin Zoller, first vice president; Charles Osborne, second vice president; John Green, recording secretary; Mike Lanzit, corresponding secretary, and Hal Parsons, treasurer.

Multiethnic Center Kept Open By Volunteer Efforts

When the Multiethnic Resource Center for the Mill Valley School District was established last fall, Mrs. P. D. Nairn and Mrs. Naomi Mills were hired as coordinators.

Since April 4, when the funds allocated to multiethnic committee ran out, they have continued to work at the center as volunteers, and will continue to do so until the end of the school semester.

The resource center was established in the former nurse's office at the Alto School, which is now being used as the district office building. It serves the eight schools in the district.

With a budget of $2,000 the two coordinators collected records, films strips, artifacts, art reproductions, sculpture reproductions and posters on ethnic subjects. Alfred Gordon, principal of the Strawberry Point School is chairman of the district's Multi-ethnic committee. Mrs. Nairn and Mrs. Mills visited similar centers in the county and asked for suggestions from teachers.

When the April 4 cut-off day came, all of the things that had been ordered had not arrived, so the two women agreed to continue their work of organizing the material. Other volunteers assist them in keeping the center open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., each day, and additional hours of 2 to 4 p.m. Monday and Wednesday. More volunteers take materials to classroom teachers when they need it.

Guessing Game: The Hemlines

Hemline watching becomes a guessing game on the fashion scene once more. European designers, notably in Paris, have been showing lowered hemlines — going down to somewhere near the calf of the leg.

There's no need to panic — the hemline in this day of liberated fashion remains a matter of to each his own.

Correct Colors

In choosing interior paints, the home owners should keep in mind that a light color makes a small room larger and dark colors tend to shrink a room.

Mrs. Branson Epler Heads Upsilon Gamma

MRS. BRANSON EPLER
Newly elected

Sewing, painting, needlework, reading, bowling and camping are among the hobbies and pastimes of Mrs. Branson Epler, newly-elected president of Upsilon Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority in Novato.

Sally Epler and her husband, lieutenant commander with the marine inspection office of the Coast Guard, are the parents of Diana Lee, 16, and Scott Kim Epler, 3 years old. Mrs. Epler was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. She has lived in Marin County three years and is active in the Forget-Me-Not Bowling League and the Coast Guard Officers Wives Club.

Mrs. Epler has served as recording secretary for two years in the Upsilon Gamma chapter. Purpose of the organization is to unite women for social, cultural and service events. The club members will participate in Western Weekend activities, Novato Boy's Club, Cystic Fibrosis, Stanford Kidney Research Center and the Holiday Bazaar, and they will provide birthday cakes for boys at St. Vincent's School for Boys and holiday food baskets.

Six Agencies Using Human Needs Center

The Novato Human Needs Center board has reported that six agencies are now using the center at 1523 South Novato Boulevard.

Agencies operating the center are the Marin County Department of Social Services, Community Mental Health, Catholic Social Services, Family Service Agency, Marin County Probation Department and KINSHIP (Kids in Need Seek Help in People), according to director Dianne Ryken.

Directors reported Monday night that there is a need for furniture, rugs, kitchen tables and chairs, beds, dressers and bedding for needy families, Mrs. Ryken said.

Volunteer workers and those interested in becoming volunteers have luncheons at noon on Mondays and a volunteer class is to be scheduled, giving information on working as a volunteer, she said.

The center will have an election of new directors at 7:30 p.m. June 11 at the center, Mrs. Ryken said.

A TEEN'S LIFE

The Crucial Years Can Be Made Easy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The teen years are among life's most difficult. But if parents take the time, the years can be less fraught with frustration for all.

The teen-ager, given careful guidance and understanding, can grow into the well-adjusted adult without such problems as drugs, dropouts, runaways and, if dress is a concern, look less like Halloween every day.

Remember. The adolescent is in a period of transition, shedding his childhood and beginning to assume his role as an adult, says one guidance counselor.

Even if the teen does not display outward signs of rebellion, he probably is going through a stage of sorting and sifting values.

Let the young person know that it's all right to think differently from his parents and other adults.

Help him to realize that an idea is not necessarily good because it is modern, or poor simply because it is oldfashioned. An idea is good if it is appropriate and effective, regardless of the era in which it was popular.

Help the teen-ager to examine the reasons for his beliefs. It is not enough for a boy or girl to believe or disbelieve something only because his or her parents do. A belief should make sense to the person who holds it.

These points are made in "Parents and Teenagers", a new publication of the Public Affairs Committee, a New York-based nonprofit educational organization. Author is Margaret Hill, counselor and author of several articles on education, child development and mental health.

MRS. HILL cites a recent study in which high school students were asked the simple question, "Who are you?". More than one third of the responses, she said, "reflected confusion, insecurity, alienation, a sense of unfulfillment, a feeling of being trapped ... overwhelmed by the confusion in the roles he is expected to play, the adolescent does not tell who he is; he tells how he is"!

A teen-ager may complain, "My parents expect me to be perfect. They're always telling me to act like a grownup, but they won't give me a chance to be grown up."

Mrs. Hill stresses that parent-child communication is of the essence. "Good communication involves not only listening for the true meaning behind the spoken word but also "listening" to what a person does," she says. "Behavior is a reflection of the way a person feels about himself and the people in his life."

Behavior might involve little more than staying out too late —"I'm not a child anymore to be ordered around and told what to do."

Or it might embrace the whole family "lifestyle." Mrs Hill says that "problem" youth often comes from "problem" family where running away is a way of life.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES W. JACKSON
Married in Marinwood church

Vows Are Repeated In Virginia

Catherine M. Szostak of Ft. Eustis, Va., and Joseph Matrisotto of Peoria, Ill., were married in the Catholic chapel at Fort Eustis on May 3.

Catherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Szostak of Novato, and Joseph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adalbert Matrisotto of Chicago, Ill.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Newport News, Va. The couple went on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, N.Y., and they will live in Peoria.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and the dental assistant school at College of Marin. She is serving in the Women's Army Corps as a dental assistant. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. J. Sanislawski of Detroit, Mich.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lane Technical High School in Chicago and the University of Illinois in Champaign, Ill. He is employed at Commonwealth Edison Co. in Peoria.

James W. Jackson Claims Sheri Fenton

Lynn Satmary of San Rafael was maid of honor and Janice Siciliano of Chico was the bridesmaid.

Al Anderson of San Rafael served as best man. The ushers were Bob Hamilton and Dennis O'Brien of San Rafael.

The reception was held at Maple Lawn in San Rafael. Hawaii was the destination of their wedding trip.

Sheri and James will live in Novato.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Fenton of San Rafael. She is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin and is employed with the United Telephone Answering Service in San Rafael.

Sheri is the sister of Gary Fenton of San Francisco, Chris Fenton of Chico and Mark Fenton of San Rafael. Chris Bertelsen of Seattle, Wash., is her grandfather.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jean Crabtree of San Rafael and William C. Jackson of Camp Meeker. He also was graduated from Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin. He is employed by Union Oil Co. in San Rafael.

School Booklet Is Distributed

Edited by Carol Capron of Mill Valley, the booklet is an aid to parents of pre-school age children in selecting a nursery school and describes the school's philosophy of education.

Profits from the sale of the booklet will be used for the branch's fellowship fund.

ON BEING BLACK

The Hills Are Alive With For Sale Signs

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

OAKLAND — The hills are alive with the tap-taps of for-sale signs being nailed on houses in several residential areas.

"There are limits to anything," sighed exasperated Susie Seller. "I'm not prejudiced, and the open enrollment wasn't too bad, but if that Black Panther guy becomes mayor. My God. We've just got to get out."

"I know what you mean," consoled Rita Benedicta Realtor. "I saw the writing on the wall two years ago and sold my house for a good price."

"We hate to leave," confided Susie. "It's close to my husband's job and has a great recreational area for the kids. We've spent years fixing up the house."

"OH, YOUR place is lovely," agreed Rita, "but I have the house for you. It's in a little scenic community called Whitesville. You'll love it.

"Do you really think we can get enough for this place?" Susie Seller is righteously skeptical.

"No problem. I have buyers who simply want to live in this area. But there are a few sellers' tips I want to pass on to you.

"Your place should be squeaky clean when we show it. Careful what you cook the night before — no fish, curry or other highly odorous food that might offend."

"I could bake an apple pie."

"You'd be surprised how little details sell a house. Turn your record player on softly, something by Tchaikovsky.

"Now if you and your husband will just sign right here, I'll have you out of this house — at a profit — and into another house in no time," stated Rita Realtor with understated jubilance.

ENTER BETSY Buyer.

"Oh, it's lovely!" she exclaimed.

"It is," agreed Rita Realtor. "Made for you and your family. It's so close to schools." That will soon be integrated by bussing, thinks Susie Seller, smiling sweetly all the while.

"What smells so good — apple pie?" asked Betsy as she looked through the kitchen.

"How quiet and pleasant it is. No loud traffic sounds. No competition for your stereo."

These magnificent trees screen out television reception, too. And these magnificent trees happen to be quite dead from the early winter freeze, and now they're a fire hazard. Estimated cost of removal: $700. Susie Seller is still smiling.

"By the way, why are you moving?" Now Betsy Buyer is smiling sweetly.

"HER HUSBAND has a new job, and they'll be leaving the state," Rita Realtor intervened quickly.

"Have you had any problems with break-ins?" asked Betsy.

Those iron bars on all the ground-level windows aren't there for show, Cookie, thinks straight-faced Susie.

"Some of these hill houses have sliding problems. How about this one?" asked Betsy as she observes the living room floor slants a bit.

Solid as a rock, except the rock is rolling down the hill.

"Let's go back to my office where we can talk privately," smiled Rita Realtor. "I think we've found your new home."

"This is a far cry from being the house for my family," said Betsy frankly. "By the way, tell Susie to try potato pie and the musical score from 'Superfly' next time. This place needs all the help it can get."

THE BEAUTIFUL CHRYSANTHEMUM IN MINIATURE

Bonsai is an artistic offshoot of gardening that claims scores of Marin enthusiasts. But few of them think in terms of the chrysanthemum as their cultivar. One who does is Dave Wahler of Mill Valley, president of the Chrysantheumum Society of Marin. In this week's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, he tells and shows you how to plant, grow and train a bonsai 'mum plant. And he informs you, as well, where you can acquire the proper cultivars to begin your own participation in a fascinating hobby. The story could well serve as your introduction to hours of pleasure and satisfaction.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes A Little Help From The Enemy Needed For A Victory

There are some situations in which you cannot succeed without a little help from the enemy. The important thing is to know how to get that help even from reluctant opponents. The secret seems to elude government officials and bxinessmen, but it isn't much of a problem to bridge players.

DIAMOND ACTION

West opened the jack of hearts and East took the ace. East returned a heart and South won with the king. It was now up to South to limit the diamond loss to two tricks.

If South goes after the diamonds fairly early, East will win the first diamond trick as cheaply as possible and will get out safely with a spade or a club. South will then lose two more diamond tricks.

The fact is that South can make the game contract only if he can persuade East to lead diamonds. What sort of persuasion is necessary?

ROUNDABOUT WAY

After winning the second trick with the king of hearts, South draws two rounds of trumps and then all three clubs, ending in his own hand. Only then can South afford to touch the diamonds.

South leads a low diamond from his hand and finesses with dummy's ten. This loses to East's jack, as expected, but now East must co-operate. If East returns a diamond, dummy will win a trick with the king. If East returns anything else, dummy can ruff while South discards a diamond. In either case, the game contract is safe.

PLEASE NOTE

You persuade East to co-operate by making it impossible for him to do anything else, State Department, please note.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

At your next turn you can try for game in notrump. If you try for no-trump first, the spades may never be shown.

New Way Found To Purify Water

SYDNEY (UPI) — An Australian scientist yesterday announced development of a new way of purifying water.

George Cullen, manager of the metallurgy department at Melbourne university, said research workers discovered the process—which uses a brown coal "sponge" to remove bacteria from water polluted by sewage.

Tests on a Melbourne river, he said, showed that pollution rated 200 times above the safe swimming limit was reduced by 99.9 per cent in two hours.

Cullen said in a statement the coal also could be used to treat industrial chemical solutions and waste.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Famous figures! How old are they today?

1. MORT SAHL, American humorist, is 46, 56, or 61 today. Politicians run when they see this wit coming because he's made a fortune turning their speeches into nightclub and television acts. He studied city management and engineering at the University of Southern California and served as an Air Corps private in World War II.

2. PHIL SILVERS, stage and screen comedian, is 46, 56, or 61 today. Learned about Army life doing USO shows for GI's overseas during World War II, then made himself famous on television as the clever operator, "Sergeant Bilko," during the 1950's. His Broadway credits include performances in "Top Banana," "High Button Shoes," and "Do-Re-Mi."

3. SALVADOR DALI, modern artist, is 61, 69, or 85 today. Born in Spain, he showed talent early, completing two famous paintings before he was 10 years old. He left for America to study jazz under Paul Whiteman, but became famous for his surrealist art work. He entitled his autobiography, "Diary of a Genius."

4. IRVING BERLIN, popular composer, is 61, 69, or 85 today. Born in Russia, he was brought to the United States at the age of five. His songs were hits in World War I ("Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning") to World War II ("God Bless America"). Altogether he has written about 800 songs, starting with "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

ANSWERS: 1 - Mort Sahl, 46; 2 - Phil Silvers, 61; 3 - Salvador Dali, 69; 4 - Irving Berlin, 85.

ART REVIEW

Three Artists Are Featured As May Fiesta II Is Opened

By ADA GARFINKEL

Music and festivities celebrated the opening of May Fiesta II and the exhibits of three featured artists in the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley.

The elemental forces of nature which nurture and shape — or destroy — our terrestrial environment are the essential theme of Naomi Hardy's paintings.

Using very thin mixtures of oil paint and turpentine, Mrs. Hardy stains her canvases, adding compounds for texture and imagery definition to recreate roiling, turbulent energy and mountainous formations, as, for example in "Primordial Forces."

One gets the impression that Mrs. Hardy sometimes takes a small segment of nature and expands it macroscopically upon her canvas, as, for instance, in "Afternoon of the Grove," inspired by Mendocino's Pygmy Grove. This painting in soft pinks and russet-gold tones reveals a more poetical side of nature.

Two further diametrically opposed manifestations occur in "Green on the Hill," and "Relentless Time."

In the former, in an almost aerial perspective, slanting sheets of rain in moist, atmospheric blues breathe life into the yellow-green meadow and hills below.

But the barren topography, the eerie light and advancing spaceship of "Relentless Time" is visually realized in the metaphoric terms of Ray Bradbury and "2001" combined.

Low-keyed in color, and built up with layer upon layer of palette-knife textural strokes which allow transverse exposure of color, Mrs. Kraemer's paintings express a deep affinity with nature and intuitive forces.

Executed primarily as portrait busts of people, they are either mounted on planks or bases, or, as with the one of five young Chinese children, on a tondo-shaped wall plaque.

Mrs. Featherstone's favorite idiom is ethnic, either from her own ancestral background — "The Shtettle" — a group of four Polish villagers in 1905, or the commemorative "Munich 11" dedicated to the fallen Olympic athletes and presenting three-dimensional portrait busts of each upon a single wall plaque.

Works by other artists which are noteworthy, are: Petra Luchetti's "Rectangles," Anne Weinholt's bronze and aluminum wall sculpture, Christine Atwood's "Sunlight through the Forest," Esthermae Riley's sculpture entitled "Wooden Sextant," Pat Terheun's "Blue Nude in Garden," and Dianne Weiss's woodcut: "Church at Vrarona."

This exhibit will continue through May 31 and may be viewed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The gallery is located at 2 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

DANCING LEGS IN REVUE

Ex-Governor Can Run Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes is eligible to run for a third term as governor in 1974, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

Rhodes, who served in the post from 1963 to 1971, challenged a section of the Ohio constitution providing that "no person shall hold the office of governor for a period longer than two successive terms of four years."

Rhodes filed petitions to run in 1974, but was turned down by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown so the matter could be resolved in court.

FAMILY

"Dr. DoLittle" — A rare treat for all. A "people doctor" decides to devote his knowledge to animals, fish and fowl patients. A visual delight of color, costume and music.

"Modern Times" — Reissue of great classic which is a satire on mechanization and an affirmation of the importance of love as presented by Charlie Chaplin.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Camelot" — Film based on stage musical of 13th Century King Arthur and the love affair between his wife and his best friend, Lancelot. Costumes and music spectacular.

"Fist of Fury" — Although the deadly art of self-defense (Kung-Fu) provide much violence in this story it also shows the oriental philosophy of self control. English titles.

"HOT ROCK" — Not the best lesson to absorb since crime pays in this mild comedy. It relates the experiences of accident prone thieves who steal a diamond from a museum only to lose it.

"Jeremiah Johnson" — Violence is intrinsic in the life style portrayed. A drama about a mountain man whose quest for peace becomes a battle for survival against savage Indian tribes.

"Night of the Lepus" — Bumbling ecologists let loose a strain of giant rabbits who invade Arizona and shred everyone in their path.

"Red Sun" — Violence and cursing in generous portions in this western about betrayal and vengeance among outlaws. Good cast.

"Sleuth" — The cast's dynamic performances create excitement and suspense in this film about rivals who play at a murderous game of wits.

"Tales From the Crypt" — Five chilling tales are told by some tourists lost in a catacomb in this British shocker. Good cast.

"War Between Men and Women" — Comedy based on Thurber's writings. Cartoonist who is anti-women, children and dogs marries a divorcee who has both.

"Wicked, Wicked" — Is a murder mystery about a psychopathic killer filmed in a new process called Duo-Vision, which presents action from two different points of view. (Boxoffice Magazine)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — A raw, raucous satire on subjects formerly held sacred. Plot is an excuse for all kinds of hilarious situations.

"Bullit" — A Chicago mobster is a prime witness in a Senate crime hearing. Protecting him becomes a bloody suspenseful chase around San Francisco. Very violent.

"Butterflies Are Free" — A blind young man tries living alone. His encounter with a zany girl and their sexual involvement has his domineering mother making as many adjustments as he does.

"Class of '44" — There is sex, cursing and violence in this sequel to "Summer of '42" which sees the teen-agers off to college.

"Campaneros" — An Italian-Spanish-German made western combining very violent action and some comedy. Set in Mexico 1900's a revolution, double-crosses, etc. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Cries and Whispers" — Beautiful photography in this psychological drama set in the last century. Two sisters return to their ancestral home to comfort a sister dying of cancer.

"Nelson Affair" — This historical melodrama provides boudoir history of Admiral Lord Nelson and his mistress, Lady Emma Hamilton. (Catholic Film Newsletter)

"SCORPIO" — Unflattering portrait of CIA presented in this murderous, suspense-packed espionage thriller about assassinations by fellow agents on command without compunction.

"Slither" — Many vulgarities and violence in this comedy suspenser. Ex-convicts in pursuit of stolen money in Sonora, Pismo Beach and Mendocino. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Travels With My Aunt" — A prim British accountant becomes embroiled in drug smuggling, illegal currency and theft. Film seems excessive, turning a light comedy into heavy fantasy.

"Up the Sandbox" — A seriocomic story of the weird fantasies of a housewife with a hyperactive imagination. Nudity.

"Vault of Horror" — Five more "tales from the crypt" each with a comic twist but reveals novel ways to maim and kill. Very violent.

"You'll Like My Mother" — Violence and a graphic birth scene add terror to this story of a pregnant war widow who receives a hostile reception from her late husband's family. She uncovers some shocking secrets.

ADULTS ONLY

"Bonnie and Clyde" — A chapter in the gangster history of the 30's brought to vivid life. Sadistically violent. Well acted.

"Grisson Gang" — This 30s gangster movie has much violence, gore, sex and nudity. The plot centers around the kidnapping of a Kansas City Heiress and a million dollar ransom.

"The Mack" — To blacks Mack means a pimp. The rise of a small time crook to a large scale operator is told in realistic terms. Nudity, sex and rugged violence. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Play Misty For Me" — Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes in this suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him.

Concert Set May 22 At Seminary

The Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary oratorio choir will be augmented by singers from various Bay Area communities for the spring concert at 8 p.m. May 22 in John A. Broadus Hall Chapel on the Strawberry Point campus.

Cantata 78 by Bach and "Gloria" by Vivaldi will be performed under the direction of John P. Johnson, assistant professor of church music at the seminary.

Orine Suffern, seminary music instructor, will be the organist, and additional accompaniment will be provided by a chamber orchestra.

Soloists will include Robin Miller, soprano, Florence Bierman, alto, both graduate students at Dominican College.

Daniel Parkerson, soloist at Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, will be the tenor soloist, and Joshua Law, director of music at Chinese Cumberland Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, will sing the bass solos.

'Intimacy' Series To Conclude

A musical program illustrating society's changing attitudes toward intimacy and its reflection in popular music will be given Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

"Hearing the Changes" will feature Ed Denson of the Blue Bear School of Music in San Francisco, a contemporary rock and roll college, playing a wide variety of recordings. Before founding the school, Denson managed Country Joe and the Fish and the Joy of Cooking.

The program concludes the college's "Intimacy: Then and Now," series.

Crafts Display And Sale Slated

A public arts, crafts and handiwork display and sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., June 9, at the R and B Furniture parking lot at 3773 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, sponsored by San Rafael Meadows Improvement Association.

The association will collect 7 per cent of the gross sales for cleanup purposes, said chairman John A. Allen.

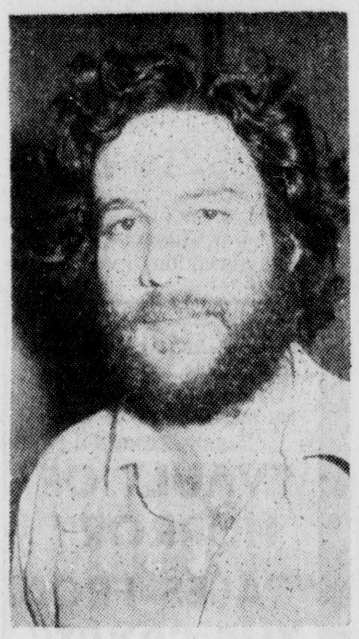
DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Four-Six-Four In Larkspur Offers New Menu Every Night

TERRY IRVIN
Commands the tables



MICHAEL GOLDSTEIN
Provides changing menu

Quite probably you have been invited more than once to a home in which the hostess excels in cooking dinners.

And it is just as probable that you do not know in advance what she plans to serve. But in spite of this you always welcome another invitation and are seldom if ever disappointed in the outcome.

Two young men from Michigan, Michael Goldstein and Terry Irvin, have applied this premise to a dinner house — the recently opened Four-Sixty-Four Restaurant at that number on Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

To allow some margin for difference in tastes, each night they offer a choice of two entrees, and now on Fridays and Saturdays four. But the menu is constantly being changed. You can go there unannounced and be surprised — or you can phone ahead and be informed. Since reservations (particularly on weekends) are advised, the latter procedure might be the better choice.

If you like the place (and it's quite possible you will) and become a regular customer, the chances are that you can have your name put on a weekly mailing list of forthcoming servings.

To give you some idea of entree choices available, tonight and tomorrow night the Four-Sixty-Four menu will feature Chinese roast pork, basted with honey and served with sweet and sour sauce; filet of petrali sole a la Bretonne, served with French cream sauce and julienne of vegetables; homemade manicotti stuffed with four cheeses and topped with a mushroom cheese sauce, and stuffed eggplant, made the Indian way with spicy vegetables.

The menu has an international flavor. Other entrees may be a chicken Kiev, chicken dauphinoise, moussaka a la Greque, Japanese tempura or a thinly sliced Chinese pepper steak (I sampled the last two and they were quite delicious). There are many more.

Mind you, Michael (who does the cooking) and Terry, who is in the dining room, are not simple entrepreneurs. They have had professional restaurant experience and are applying it to their own particular ideas. Their place is nicely appointed, with immaculate napery, large tables and chairs. It's a quiet little dining room with a capacity that could be half again as large — but the crowding would not be nearly so comfortable.

There is an excellent wine list and a good house wine. No lunches are served (except to groups by advance reservation) and the restaurant is closed Monday nights.

ALSO IN LARKSPUR, near the theater on Magnolia, the I-Zii Sicilian Restaurant is building up quite a following — and now its menu.

Look for such recent additions as meatless meat balls (egg croquettes), mushroom frittatas and also Swiss chard frittatas, linguini with clam sauce, fettuccini Alfredo, Sicilian pizzas (they are quite thick, with homemade dough), eggplant sandwiches and several others.

The Carminatis are specialists in Sicilian fare and if you have never tried it you should.

I just learned, too, that they are the uncle and aunt of Roland and Victor Gotti, who are now preparing the Lark Creek Inn for a reopening. Good cooking runs in the family.

Lark Creek, by the way, is still in the midst of remodeling and definitely won't be ready to reopen by Tuesday. New target date is May 28th, but even that could be deferred a few days more.

You'll be surprised at the many changes being made — new woodwork in the dining room, new wallpaper. The former glass-topped wrought iron tables are being replaced and are up for sale. There will be lots of greenery in the dining room.

SUNDAY IS MOTHER'S DAY — the busiest restaurant day of the year. Restaurants that played to a good house on Easter will do so again, but even better, with many serving both brunch and dinner.

The available choices are many — too numerous to mention in their entirety, for they would constitute a full restaurant guide. But here are a few that announced their plans.

LE CAMEMBERT, which celebrates completion of its second successful year at 200 Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley, at the end of this month, will serve its regular dinner menu from 5:30 p.m. Mother's Day. Reservations are virtually a necessity here.

And if there is a new face at the bar that seems familiar, it probably is. You're looking at Ray Brunal, who used to own the Oak Tree Inn at San Geronimo and is a mixologist par excellence.

KIRBY ATTERBURY, whose shoreline Caprice dinery in Tiburon has just received a four-star rating in the new Mobil-guide, plans on serving both lunches and dinners on Mother's Day — lunches from noon to 3 p.m. and dinners following that period. Regular menu will be served. With any clear weather over the water this should be a beautiful place to dine.

CAFE AMBROSIA in San Anselmo will be open this Sunday from 3 p.m. and serve its regular dinner menu with no change in prices. Make reservations.

RECENTLY CLOSED ON SUNDAYS, the Medallion in San Rafael's West End will definitely be open Mother's Day with a special dinner menu featuring prime rib, leg of lamb, veal scallopini and roast turkey. Service starts at 3 p.m.

Black Point brunches will be served from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Dinners, with a special holiday menu offering five entree choices will be from 2 to 9 p.m. A child's plate is also offered.

WORD FROM the House of Kebab in the east Northgate area is that two new dinner entrees (which have been going well on lunches) will be offered beginning on Mother's Day. These are "toss kebab," ground lamb and beef baked in the oven with mushrooms and other adds, and liver kebab — beef liver, charcoal broiled on a skewer.

IT HAS BEEN touch and go for the Valans getting their new Grotto seafood restaurant at 3751 Redwood Highway (across from the Civic Center) ready, and at this writing it still wasn't definitely known if they would make it this week.

Odds favored an opening by tonight if not last night, but if you are going there and have a few miles to drive, better phone ahead to be sure. It's a beautiful place, inside and out.

AT 909 LINCOLN AVENUE, San Rafael (the Grotto's former location), it is definite that there will not be a reopening of the Old Vienna Restaurant by Tuesday. Much work still has to be done. My own guess would be about the end of the month. But that too could be optimistic.

THE JEAN HOFFMAN TRIO returned this week to Gatsby's in Sausalito for a month's engagement and will be playing Wednesdays through Sundays, with a special early performance on Sundays beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Other jazz groups will appear on Monday and Tuesday nights, with all performances through the week starting at 9:30 p.m. (except for the early time on Sundays).

Charlie Peet, who put in 27 months and 35,093.9 miles aboard his yacht Santana voyaging around the world, is now showing portions of the movies he took on the trip every Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. —a different segment each week.

Chamber Picks Vice President

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday elected long-time board member Wally Raymond as chamber vice president.

Some Benefits To Elderly May Be Axed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new study by a government-supported legal service for senior citizens said that some aged, blind and disabled persons in 36 states, including California, may lose welfare benefits when the federal government takes over the administration of aid to 6.3 million persons next Jan. 1.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI), enacted in the waning days of the 92nd Congress and signed into law by President Nixon last Oct. 30, will replace the state-administered welfare programs of Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Needy Blind and Aid to the Disabled and will guarantee an individual a minimum cash income of $130 a month and a couple, $195.

But if states do not choose to supplement the amounts paid by the federal government, as the law allows them to do, some recipients actually will lose public aid under the new system, said the National Senior Citizens Law Center.

"There are 36 states in which SSI's replacement of current benefits, without state supplementation, will mean a reduction in some recipients' income," said a report issued by the center's Washington office. The center is supported by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

Among reasons given for loss of benefits is the elimination of food stamp bonuses for persons covered in the new federal program, the loss of medical care benefits under Medicaid for some recipients and anticipated rent increases for recipients living in public housing because of the federal income guarantee.

Another important factor is that among 54 states and jurisdictions, 24 now provide more aid for a single aged person than the $130 standard that takes effect in January. The administration has argued that those states will choose to at least maintain or even supplement the new federal levels of aid because the financial responsibility for aiding the aged, blind and disabled will be lifted from their shoulders.

SSI will be financed from general federal revenues at an estimated $3.5 billion a year.

A series of reports by the legal aid service was released at a meeting held here Monday by the three million-member National Council of Senior Citizens to launch a campaign to convince state legislatures during sessions this year to supplement the federal aid that will take effect next Jan. to the aged, blind & disabled.

Lecture Is Set

College of Marin philosophy instructor Donald Palmer will give a free public lecture on "Kirkegaard and Therapy" on May 18 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 165 of the college's Harlan Center, the last in the Humanities Colloquia series.

AWARD WINNER — Soprano Nora R. Gohl of 65 Corte Cordova, Greenbrae, has been awarded a $250 scholarship by the East Bay Opera League. Miss Gohl was among four winners in a field of 27 entrants for scholarships given by the non-profit group.

Fairfax Council To Fill Vacancies

The Fairfax Town Council will announce appointments to two vacancies on the town parks and recreation when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Womens Club.

The council will also hear a progress report from the general plan committee and consider plans for safety facilities approved by voters last month.

Training Center Is Opened

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An advanced training center for California's law enforcement officers has been opened in suburban Broderick by the State Department of Justice.

Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger announced yesterday that with a budget of about $450,000 a year, the center is expected to give about 1,200 officers advanced training in narcotics, intelligence and other police topics in the next fiscal year.

The first class in the rented quarters convened April 29.

The state has been offering advanced training since 1944, but on a limited basis, Younger said. The new center will house the first "extensive" advanced training program.

Sonoma State Sets Piano Festival

Eighteen Sonoma State College pianists will join to present the second annual 36 hands piano ensemble festival May 17 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Ives Hall.

Music will include works by Bach, Mozart, Debussy, Brahms, Stravinsky and Ravel.

Drive For Restoration Of Death Penalty Opens

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Correctional Officers Association, representing 3,248 prison guards across the state, has launched a letter writing campaign to gain Assembly support for restoration of the death penalty.

"Nearly 5.5 million Californians voted to reinstate capital punishment last year" on Proposition 17, said Ken Brown, spokesman for the group. "We're asking that these citizens help us again by writing now to their assemblymen asking for their support."

The legislation by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, presently is in the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

"The important question here is whether one man will be allowed to defy 5.5 million voters," Brown said yesterday.

He charged that Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, "stacked the deck against us in this matter, apparently in the hopes the resulting publicity will provide a springboard into the governorship next year, and we are urging capital punishment supporters to act now to prevent his success."

Moretti, a contender for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year, said Wednesday he believed there was "some possibility" of a capital punishment bill clearing the committee this session.

Told of Moretti's comments, Brown said, "We're very happy that he's apparently given in."

Brown also said, "We're not asking members of the committee who oppose capital punishment to vote for SB450, but instead to move it onto the Assembly floor with no recommendation to at least allow a representative vote on this major issue."

Proposed Budget Wins Support

The Marin Mental Health Foundation board has approved a proposed 1973-74 budget of $84,192, said president Michael F. Silberstein.

The total is about 5 per cent higher than this year's budget, said Silberstein, and doesn't include any grants which the foundation may receive, or fund raising activities.

Directors discussed making an application for available federal funds for an alcoholic rehabilitation program at the foundation's meeting Wednesday.

A friend of ours recently spent the evening up on Broadway, instead of driving all the way to San Rafael where we are. It cost him $3.00 for parking, $51.87 for dinner, $48.50 for drinks, tips, and cover charge at a topless night club, and $75,000 plus his lawyer's fee of $3,500 for his subsequent divorce. Dominic's isn't cheap, but considering the atmosphere, superb food, and the possible savings, we're certainly worth a fifteen minute drive.

Sheriff Is Opposed To Corrections Plan

Marin Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos charged yesterday that a special committee appointed by county supervisors is attempting to "hoodwink the public" with its proposed department of corrections.

"I don't want anything to do with it," Mountanos told the Independent-Journal. "It's an attempt to hoodwink the public into thinking crime will be reduced and money saved."

The department of corrections proposal, to be considered Tuesday by county supervisors, was developed by the San Quentin Prison Task Force, which had been asked to study the closing of San Quentin.

In effect, the proposal would place many of the functions of the probation and sheriff's departments under a new corrections department, charged with custody and rehabilitation of prisoners.

The proposal would strip Mountanos of his responsibility for running the county jail and soon-to-open honor farm, which would be supervised by "custodial officers" instead of sheriff's deputies.

The new department also would swallow probation department functions, which only last Tuesday supervisors agreed should be placed under a new department of health and human services.

The board's action Tuesday, according to County Administrator John F. Barrows, does not preclude supervisors from forming the corrections department and placing it under the new health and human services superagency.

Mountanos complained yesterday, and in a letter to the board, that neither he nor his staff were contacted by the prison task force about the proposed department of corrections.

"To develop a department of corrections in Marin County as outlined by the prison task force and budget it as outlined by the county administrator does not reduce crime or cost less as they have stated," Mountanos said.

He said nowhere in the voluminous report prepared by the task force does it give specifics on how money will be saved or crime reduced. Nothing but theoretical assumptions, sheriff said.

He said the administrator's proposed work force for the department shows 27 "custodial officers" who, according to the task force report, will be well trained in prisoner rehabilitation.

However, he continued, the administrator is proposing a starting salary of $700 per month for the custodial officers and "who are they going to get for that?"

He said the $700 per month figure was cranked in by the administrator to reduce the budget to a figure that would appeal to county supervisors.

"I would like each member of the board of supervisors to be completely aware of the fact that I will always support changes for the betterment of the county," Mountanos wrote in his letter, "But I will have no part in any presentation that I am thoroughly convinced is misleading to the board and the people of Marin."

Study Of School Programs Slated

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization has decided to study the educational programs offered at middle schools in Marin County, reported Robert E. Spain, asst. county schools superintendent.

The committee met Wednesday night when it considered sample data from the Larkspur and Kentfield school districts, said Spain, and requested more information.

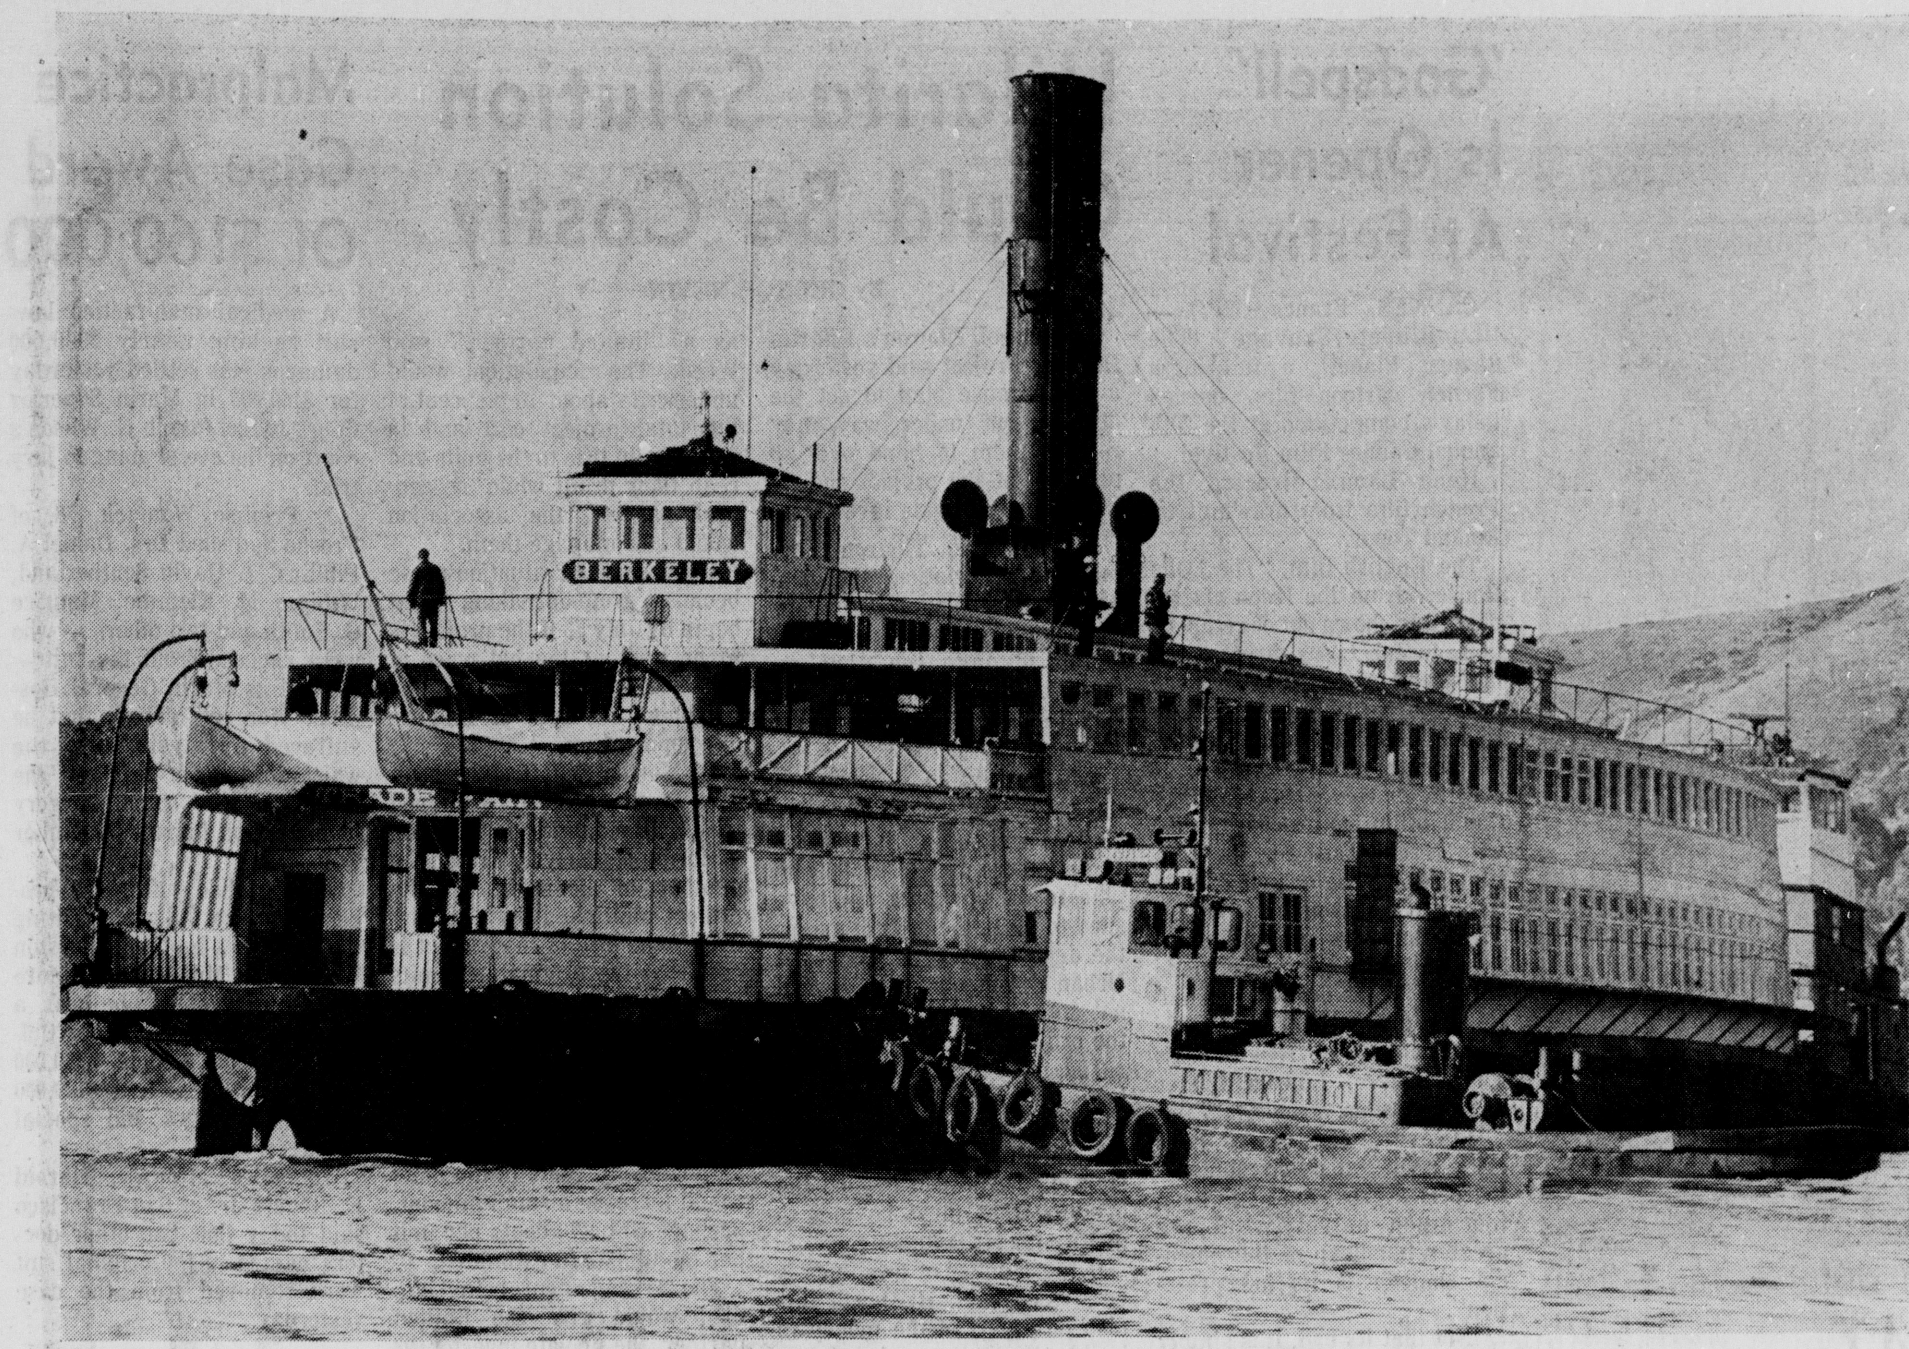
The committee decided to meet on the third Wednesday in each month, but not to meet in June, July and August.

Play Tour To Ashland Is Set

Sonoma State College will offer a travel-study course to Ashland, Ore., for the Shakespeare Festival in August.

Dr. Alan Sandy, an associate professor of English, will teach the course and lead the trip. Four plays will be presented Aug. 10-13 including "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Othello," "As You Like It" and "Henry V."

Reservations and a deposit must be made by June 12, he has announced.



THE LONG VOYAGE BEGINS

The old ferryboat Berkeley, her days of travelling under her own power long, long gone, is nudged from Sausalito into San Francisco Bay by a tug for towing to the Bethlehem shipyard in San Francisco. There she will be fitted out for towing to San Diego where she is to be a star attraction in a maritime museum. This move yesterday ended 13 years servitude as a floating gift shop on the Sausalito waterfront. Prior to that time the 300-foot, 75-year-old vessel spent nearly 60 years carrying passengers and cars between the East Bay and San Francisco until retirement in 1957. After a few years enforced idleness she became the Trade Fair gift shop when bought by Luther W. Conover and brought to Sausalito.

Isabel Cook School To Be Closed

The San Anselmo School District board last night declared the district will phase out Isabel Cook School because of declining enrollment.

The action was greeted by applause from an overflow crowd of about 200 residents who packed Red Hill School for the two-and-one-half-hour public hearing, according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott. Although about 25 per cent of the crowd expressed opposition to the action at the beginning of the meeting, most seemed to favor the phase-out as the meeting ended, he said.

The board directed Elliott to reassign all kindergarten through third graders at the school by September. The facility now accommodates 385 pupils through the sixth grade.

Elliott said he expects a total phase-out of the school to be completed within three years, a move that could eventually save the district more than $30,000.

Pupils reassigned next year will be sent to Wade Thomas, Brookside and Yolansdale schools, he said.

Parents who at first opposed the closing argued it would require busing of students and have an emotional impact on them, he said.

Parents supporting the move argued the facility was old anyway and cited noise generated by nearby Sir Francis Drake Boulevard as harming the educational process.

The possibility of closing small neighborhood schools because of declining enrollment is also being considered by other school districts in the county.

The board last night also announced only two teachers — April Prentis and Marilyn Shaffer — will be dismissed next year due to sagging enrollment. Although the board originally notified 12 teachers they might not be rehired, additional positions have opened up because of attrition and resignations, Elliott said.

In other business, the board approved a health plan and a complaint and grievance procedure for employees.

The board continued the remainder of a lengthy agenda to 8 p.m. May 24.

Zaro Is Named Acting Principal At Cummins

The Larkspur School District Board last night appointed Leo Zaro acting principal of Neil Cummins School for the 1973-74 school year. Zaro, 48, of 8 Espalda Court, San Rafael, has been vice principal of the school for the last two years, and was previously vice principal of San Clemente School.

District Supt. Milton S. Cohen said Zaro was named acting principal rather than principal because the board indicated it wanted to review his performance after one year.

The district got 10 applications for the principalship vacated by Catherine W. Burch, who retires next month after 20 years at Neil Cummins.

In other action the board revised its policy and announced that extended leaves will no longer be granted to employees. Cohen said sabbaticals and maternity leaves and one year's leave without pay can still be granted, but no extensions will be possible.

In past years most school districts have given teachers extensions on such leaves. Cohen said decreasing enrollment and the possibility of overstaffing dictated the change in policy.

The Larkspur School District Also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of four teachers: Marilyn McQueen, presently on maternity leave from Neil Cummins; Jane Purkey, temporary teacher at Larkspur-Corte Madera; Pamela Purcell, on maternity leave at Larkspur-Corte Madera; and Dorothy Walters, of the Henry C. Hall school, moving from the area.

STAFFING — Announced that despite the four resignations it won't be hiring any more teachers for 1973-74 because of decreasing enrollment.

SALARIES — Received a request from the Larkspur Teachers Association presented by president Roy Gustafson, for a 5.5 per cent salary raise; the association will meet with district representatives in a "meet and confer" session May 17.

FEDERAL — Approved budgets for federal fund applications to be forwarded to the state dept. of education: $13,369 for a reading program, and $1,655 for library books.

BUDGET — Discussed but took no action on a proposed 1973-74 budget of $2,148,201 until the issue of teachers' salaries is resolved.

CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year, with school starting Sept. 11 and ending June 14, 1974; there will be 177 teaching days.

REDEVELOPMENT — Received a letter from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino offering to keep a "watchful eye" on redevelopment proposals by Corte Madera and its effects on district finances.

RECREATION — Agreed to let the Larkspur Park and Recreation department use Henry C. Hall school for summer classes — indicated all its school facilities will be fully used during the summer vacation with a combination of the district's summer program and classes offered by the cities of Larkspur and Corte Madera.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting, June 14 at 8 p.m. in the district office.

'Impeach Nixon' Banner Costly

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The students at Cal Tech's Debney House who hung an "Impeach Nixon" banner on the school library said that, in light of the Watergate scandal, they "just wanted to see what response it would generate."

"That picture is going to cost $1 million," said oilman Ross McCollum Thursday, after seeing a picture of the banner in a newspaper.

In an open letter to the students at Debney House, McCollum said, "I would be just a damn fool to contribute my money to the kind of institution that can't control its students. There are other places I can put my money."

Competing Tonight

Lori Gieleghem, 17-year-old Novato High School state Junior Miss, will be competing for the national title tonight in Mobile, Ala. in a show to be telecast at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

Tam Board Will Meet On Budget

The Tamalpais High School District board will hold a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Redwood High School's faculty lounge to discuss proposed 1973-74 budgets for the district's three high schools.

A forecast budget for fiscal 1973-74 for the Tam District has been estimated at $11,468,864. This total, however, would require an increase in the tax rate from this year's figure of $2.135 per $100 assessed valuation to about $12.18.

District business manager Frank Cassou said the district is aiming at keeping the budget below $11 million to avoid an increase in the tax rate.

Individual budgets to be presented by the high schools are: Tamalpais High School, with anticipated 1,810 enrollment, $1,996,983; Drake High School, 1,643 enrollment, $1,806,676; Redwood High School, 2,620 enrollment, $2,658,365.

SAN FRANCISCO — National BankAmericard Inc. (NBI) has developed and is operating a nationwide data transmission network linking all BankAmericard centers in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii.

The network, known as BASE (BankAmericard Authorization System), reduces the time it takes for BankAmericard merchants to get authorization necessary on sales exceeding certain dollar amounts. Assume that a merchant in Portland, Ore. wants to check a cardholder's home bank in Baltimore, Md.

The entire authorization procedure takes only about one minute as compared with about four and one-half minutes under the previous teletype system.

ONE UNWANTED HOUSEBOAT

This home is one of many uprooted by the flooding Mississippi River in the St. Louis area. It came to rest against a levee on the Illinois shore just north of the Interstate 270 Bridge. St. Louis is bracing for more flooding this weekend.

'Godspell' Is Opener At Festival

Rene Laoux directed the French film from drawings by Roland Topor.

The English film, "The Dolls House," from the Ibsen classic play, was shown out of competition. Joseph Losey directed the latest version of the Ibsen piece with performances by Jane Fonda, Delphine Seyrig, David Warner and Trevor Howard.

Film critics attending the Cannes film festival had praise with reservations for the U.S. film "Godspell" which opened the festival last night.

The Paris newspaper France Soir said the film was made with "a great deal of ingenuity" and praised the "admirable photography" of New York's Time Square, Lincoln Center and other sites.

However, the newspapers critic said, "at other moments there is a great deal and even too much naivety. But the greater handicap of this musical comedy is its interpretation".

"Not that its bad, it is simply uniform and a good average. That gives the work a tone of amateurism. One can not help imagining what 'Godspell' would have been like with the dancers and singers of West Side Story. It would have come off marvelously but that is not the case here.

"But because of the photogenic City of New York, because of the musical. full of tunes already popular, Godspell inaugurated the festival in acceptable fashion."

Hilarita Solution Could Be Costly

By GEORGE NEVIN

Backers of Tiburon's Hilarita Housing Project said yesterday a compromise plan to get the development under way may require them to hand over 98 per cent of the project and all its profits to private investors.

Although the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, the nonprofit group planning the low and moderate cost housing, would manage the development, title would pass to a private foundation under such a plan.

Edwin G. Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, said cutting the number of units from 112 to 102 to placate six neighbors who have sued to block the project means the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will not subsidize as big a loan for the project.

The reduction in size has been proposed in hopes it will persuade the opponents to drop the suit that threatens to carry start of the project beyond the deadline that must be met to qualify for HUD funding.

If the number of dwellings is cut, Weed said, HUD will furnish only part of the money to build the units and private funding would have to make up the difference.

The ecumenical association, a group of Tiburon churches, will discuss the alternatives, including seeking private capital, at a meeting at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Reed School in Tiburon.

One possible private source is a housing foundation, which would enter the Hilarita project as a "limited partner," said Weed. The foundation would underwrite about 10 per cent of the total project cost and in return gain title to the units and reap their profit while the general partner, the association would still manage them.

Weed said the situation arose because groundbreaking must begin by July 13 if the project is to be built at the bid price of $2,415,600, but a suit by six neighbors has been holding the development up.

E. Morton Schaffran, consultant to the project, explained that HUD's subsidy is based on a formula derived from the number of bedrooms in the project multiplied by a set figure. If the size of the project is cut from the original 112 units to 102, the amount of the HUD subsidy would decrease correspondingly, he said, to make up the difference, private capital would have to be found.

Under the limited partnership arrangement, rents in the units would increase a small amount, perhaps 60 or 70 cents per unit per month, Weed estimated.

The arrangement being studied would give the limited partner, the private investor, 98 per cent of the ownership of the project, leaving the general partners, the ecumenical association and another group yet to be found, to split the remaining two per cent, Schaffran said.

The Hilarita project, intended to replace existing World War II barracks with low and moderate income housing, has been bitterly fought by neighbors for years, some of whom complained about an "instant ghetto."

The suit filed by six opponents was rejected in Marin Superior Court but has been appealed to a state court, with a hearing set for June 5.

Malpractice Case Award Of $160,000

A medical malpractice lawsuit seeking nearly $900,000 damages was settled yesterday for $160,000 in Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson's court on the eve of going to jury trial.

J. Printise Womack, 58, of Fresno had sued Drs. Daniel A. Phillips, J. Gavin Southerland, William M. Klemme, Maurice C. Smith and two others — who were excused from the suit — as well as Marin General Hospital. Womack alleged that he suffered paralysis from the waist down as a result of the use of a new spinal surgery technique on him in December 1970.

Womack had suffered a broken spine in a fall while visiting the home of a brother, Thurston Womack in Mill Valley. Before becoming disabled, he was a librarian at Fresno State College. His suit sought $750,000 general damages and $129,000 medical damages and special damages.

Womack's attorney, Harold E. Rogers Jr. of San Francisco said today that two other doctors named in the original suit were removed from the case yesterday.

$37 Million BART Budget

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District Board of Directors Thursday proposed a $37 million annual budget which will be presented to a public hearing June 10.

About half of the system's expenses would come from fares and the rest from taxes and reserves.

The budget was cut back $1.7 million from General Manager B. R. Stokes' original recommendation.

Cotati Sign Compromise Is Offered

The Cotati Planning Commission last night attempted a compromise with businessmen on the proposed sign ordinance.

Businessmen had complained the ordinance is too restrictive and said proposed changes may make it workable.

City Councilman Annette Lombardi suggested the commission delete the section requiring permits for real estate salesmen on each "for sale" sign posted. The only regulation remaining would be to remove the sign within two months after the close of escrow.

Commission secretary Donna Olson said commissioners also agreed to permit illuminated signs if in subdued colors, small and not disturbing to residential neighborhoods. Moving and flashing signs would still be banned.

Commissioners agreed to study the changes and set a joint meeting with the city council and businessmen on the ordinance for May 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

ZONING — Denied without prejudice the request of Silvestre Cervantes for high density zoning at 8690 Water Road. Members said apartments could damage the rural atmosphere.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to review the proposed hillside development ordinance and open space and conservation element of the general plan.

Little Bighorn Truth Is Sought

HARDIN, Mont. (UPI) — A group of 16 persons, including seven Indians, is trying to figure out what really happened in 1876 at the Battle of Little Bighorn.

The National Park Service is initiating a program it hopes will result in a new format for the telling of the story.

"Our aim is to tell more of both sides of the story—the Indian side and the cavalry side—rather than concentrating on the Custer Massacre."

Nuclear Natural Gas Blast Draws Critics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Colorado congresswoman contended today the Atomic Energy Commission has failed to find out if Americans are willing to use natural gas that is radioactive.

A government official countered that the radioactivity expected in a nuclear blast to shake loose natural gas would be a tiny fraction of the dose the average American gets by looking at color television.

The comments were at a hearing by the Public Lands subcommittee of the Senate Interior Committee, considering the scheduled May 17 nuclear explosion called Project Rio Blanco in Colorado.

Subcommittee chairman Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., said, "I do not believe the decision to proceed with Rio Blanco was the best one —especially in light of the many unresolved problems —but I could be convinced otherwise."

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., accused the AEC officials of proceeding mostly out of fear they will outlive their usefulness if they don't think up new uses for nuclear bombs.

"I think they think we got started down the path of atomic energy and, by golly, one way or the other, we are going to use it," she said. "The suspicion arises that the AEC has a technology in search of a use."

She contended the AEC has failed to ask "whether the consumer even is interested in using radioactive gas?"

But Gerald W. Johnson, director of the division of applied technology at the AEC, said a previous project, Rulison, produced a tiny amount of radioactivity in the final product.

"The maximum potential annual radiation exposure to users of Rulison gas ... would be about one-hundredth of what we receive annually from viewing color television," Johnson said.

Haskell said he is worried that the AEC is committed to "full field development" by nuclear bombs, which he said would take "22,000-plus atomic bombs" to get all the available natural gas from the Western fields.

Johnson said the AEC has not spent or committed money to any phase of Rio Blanco beyond the first explosion, and "we have not addressed the question" of full field development with the blasts.

Haskell said the technique of hydrofracturing, a water-injection method of breaking up rock to free gas, is about at the same stage as nuclear stimulation.

"Why is it you have not pursued these conventional methods, which may or may not work, before you proceeded with nuclear explosions, which may or may not work?" Haskell asked.

"It is a question of judgment, senator," Johnson said.

Considering the energy problems of the nation, "We cannot afford to not investigate this source of energy," Grier contended, "since it represents perhaps the least expensive of the alternate sources of natural gas."

CER Geonuclear is the corporate operator of the blast, scheduled and federally authorized for May 17 west of Denver near Fawn Creek in Rio Blanco County, Colo.

Children Like Parent Stories

LONDON (AP) — Many youngsters rate stories told by mom and pop above professionals' work, according to a survey by Nicholas Tucker, a lecturer at Sussex University.

He found that a number of children put under the "favorite author" heading, "My parents."

Warning Of Storm Delays Raft

I-J Special Report

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands — The departure of the raft Acalia, which will float across the Atlantic in a man-woman living experiment, was delayed today by storm warnings.

Meanwhile, one of the female crew members, Ilana Kochen, an Israeli doctor, dropped out. She said she was returning to Tel Aviv because her practice was suffering.

Remaining aboard, however, is Mary Gidley of San Rafael, who will be navigator on the voyage.

Newsmen reported tension among the crew members as the Acalia prepared to cast off. The three-month trip has been called an experiment in social behavior.

Rohnert Park To Get 2 Buildings

Architectural plans for two apartment complexes were approved last night by the Rohnert Park Planning Commission.

Taylor and Gross Associates received approval for a 64-unit complex on Santa Alicia Drive at Avram Avenue and for a 42-unit apartment complex on Avram Avenue.

In other business, the commission approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance which increases the number of required off-street parking spaces to two per apartment unit. In the past, only 1.5 spaces have been required per unit.

Waldie Seeks Emergency Aid For Civilians

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-14th District, introduced legislation yesterday to enable emergency relief and assistance to civilian employees losing jobs as a result of military base cutbacks.

In Marin County, Hamilton Air Force Base felt the effect of the Defense Department trims and is to go on reserve status in September. About 128 civilians are expected to lose their jobs at the base.

Waldie said the bill would guarantee a percentage of the worker's weekly wage, continue for a time health insurance benefits and provide counseling and retraining.

Young Bikers Aid The Police

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five teen-age boys jumped on their bikes yesterday and followed a bus carrying a robber for 12 blocks before flagging down a policeman who made the arrest.

Police said the boys, aged 14 and 15, saw the man run from the Sunnydale Milk Farm in Brooklyn after a robbery and get on a bus. They leaped on their bicycles and followed the bus for 12 blocks before they spotted a police patrol car.

Fourth Sentence For Life Given

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bill Holliman received his fourth life sentence for a rape he committed after escaping from San Quentin Prison last June.

Holliman, 24, had been serving three consecutive life sentences for separate rape attacks when he escaped from a minimum security dormitory.

The defendant was convicted of raping a 27-year-old secretary in her Hyde Street apartment last Dec. 27. He was captured shortly after the attack.

Holliman also faces the possibility of a fifth life sentence for his prison escape.

CREAMPUFF '67 BUICK $1095

This just has to be the cleanest, nicest, best mechanical car we've had in months. We sold this 4-dr. LeSabre brand new in '67 to local couple who just traded on another new Buick. We've serviced since new in our shop and we don't know of one thing to do to this car before we sell it to the new owner.

This light green sedan has the custom full vinyl interior and you'd swear nobody has ever sat in the back seat, it's so clean and new looking. Fully equipped including automatic, radio, heater, power steering, tinted glass, etc. A low mileage car with years and years olf life for some lucky buyer.

Here's the rarest car on our used car lot — a clean, luxurious, low-mileage custom Riviera coupe. This chocolate colored Riviera was purchased new by local lady who has been the only driver since then.

There isn't a scratch or mark of wear inside or out on this beautifully-maintained Riviera that has all the extras like GM factory air conditioning, full power equipment including the windows, vinyl top and custom interior. If you're looking for luxury and dependability — see this really like-new '68 Riviera. XZE 829.

THE ULTIMATE IN GRAND TOURING

Covering a super strong 350 V-8 engine and 5-speed transmission is a flawless white body designed by Ghia in the sleek Italian fashion. The beautifully finished interior is instrumented with Veglia Borlette gauges. Additional pleasure and comfort is supplied by factory air conditioning, power windows and a Becker AM-FM stereo. All this sits on 185-70X15 Semperit radial tires and Campagnalo alloy wheels. This fantastic mechine hardly qualifies as used with only 7800 miles. 040 GLF.

Only 34,000 miles on this one-owner 9-passenger Oldsmobile Vista Cruiser that we just took in trade on a new Buick wagon from former owner who purchased new from local Olds agency in '69.

Light blue with the custom all-vinyl interior and the custom wood grain exterior paneling — this strikingly handsome wagon has had excellent care by the former owner. Fully equipped including GM factory air conditioning, luggage rack, power steering, automatic and the 3-seats. The perfect family wagon for some Marin resident.

If you've been looking for a low-mileage, clean wagon you will know they are really hard to find. Check this wagon out if this is the type car you're looking for. 14166F.

The Once Hawkish House Beats Call For Cambodian Bomb Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time has run out in Congress on President Nixon's policies in Indochina.

For the first time since the war began, both houses now appear to have solid majorities demanding an end to U.S. involvement in the conflict. The House reversed its eight-year stand of unwavering support for the war and voted 219 to 188 yesterday to block funding for the bombing of Cambodia.

Cheers went up as the electronic scoreboard clock clicked off the final seconds of the vote handing President Nixon a major foreign policy setback.

"Five, four, three, two, one," the critics of the war chanted in unison as if watching the closing seconds of a basketball game. The new, computer-controlled voting machine then was locked and the verdict sealed.

"Give them a little more time," pleaded Chairman George Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee, his lanky Texas frame leaning over a lectern in the well as he faced nearly 100 of his colleagues and urged that Nixon be given a few more weeks to obtain compliance with the Jan. 28 cease-fire accords.

"The Communists are testing us," Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., warned. "They want to see how far they can push us. This amendment would play into their hands."

"We are at the verge of possibly getting a peace agreement now," implored Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif. "Right today, Henry Kissinger has been in Russia to talk about the possibility of getting them to twist some arms. Don't pull the rug out from under him."

But the old arguments did not go down. The House rose up in a roar and passed an amendment by Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., to block a $430 million funds transfer to relieve budget shortages at the Pentagon created by the war's continuing drain of resources.

That action was followed minutes later by approval of another amendment to the $2.8 billion catchall supplemental appropriations bill by Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., barring use of any of funds in the bill to "support directly or indirectly combat activities in, over or from the shores of Cambodia by United States forces."

A subdued House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, shaken by the day's events, said afterwards it was "a sad day in the House of Representatives." He spoke of "cringing and crumbling" in the body that had formerly backed Nixon to the hilt.

The votes themselves, even if they become law, in no way mandate an end to the war. Defense Secretary Elliot Richardson made it clear beforehand that the bombing of Cambodia would continue regardless of the action on the Addabbo amendment. The Long amendment applies only to the money in the supplemental bill and does not specifically forbid the use of other appropriated funds to run the war.

If Congress does try to pass more sweeping legislation to cut off all appropriations for the war, it probably will elicit a Presidential veto. Neither the Senate nor the House now has the two-thirds majorities necessary to override.

The Senate, which has opposed Nixon's Indochina policies on many occasions, may try to attach a provision soon to the State Department authorization bill that would bar outright using any funds for bombing Cambodia.

But members proudly said afterwards the House votes do demonstrate that Congress now is prepared to take the President to the mat when it feels its powers to make and declare war have been usurped.

This was the theme of Thursday's two hour debate that preceded the approval of the Addabbo amendment: that the President was continuing the war without a shred of constitutional authority, since neither House had authorized it.

The withdrawal of the last platoon of U.S. troops from Indochina and the release of the last group of prisoners of war, the supporters of the amendment claimed, left the President without further claim to be protecting his men under the role the Constitution assigns him as commander-in-chief.

"Have we become so impotent, so stupid and so uncaring that we no longer exercise our prerogatives under the constitution?" Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., thundered.

In the end, it was the unity and discipline in the ranks of controlling Democrats that led to the passage of the antiwar amendments.

Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., contending that Congress should in no way be led into a backdoor endorsement of Nixon's policies, acted quickly when the Pentagon request for transfer authority was first proposed and steered a resolution through the Democratic caucus and coalesced the once-scattered war critics behind a single goal. It was the first time Albert has ever exercised such leadership on the war.

Albert even arranged for 11 of 13 junketing members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to return from Europe for the vote.

On the Long amendment, 171 Democrats joined 53 Republicans to produce the majority. Only 49 Democrats opposed it, along with 123 Republicans.

On the Addabbo amendment, the scoreboard registered 184 Democrats and 35 Republicans for, 45 Democrats and 143 Republicans opposed.

On previous antiwar votes in the House, doves have been able to muster only 193 supporters.

Bolinas PUD Eyes Plans For Water

Various long-range plans to create an ample water supply for Bolinas were presented Wednesday night to Bolinas Community Public Utility District directors by engineer-consultants William Oswald and Lorne Swanson.

The dozen plans will be narrowed to about three by the directors and they will be presented to the community at a special meeting.

Commissioner Orville Schell acting chairman in the absence of William Niman, urged that the best utility system, not the cheapest, be sponsored by the board as the community will rely upon it for many decades.

Housing and urban development funds are now frozen, Oswald reported, but later be available to help pay for the system.

Director Gregg Hewlett stated that a water bond election would have little chance of success at this time unless "fat bait" were attached to the bonds, such as preservation of open space which otherwise would go into development.

The Bolinas Public Utility District board also:

ARROYO HONDA REPAIR — Adopted a resolution prepared by Commissioner Mark Ireland, authorizing the Army Corps of Engineers to prepare specifications and obtain bids to repair the Arroyo Honda roads and dams.

SEPTIC TANKS — Set May 16 at 7:30 p.m. for a meeting to deal exclusively with the review of the Peter Warshall septic tank survey.

LITTER — In answer from a complaint by Frank T. Green, agreed to place more public use garbage cans on Wharf Road.

NEW RESTAURANT — Agreed with the Regional Water Control Board that the cease and desist order imposed on Bolinas, should be amended to prohibit new discharges into the existing sewer system as well as new connections. This amendment would close the technical loophole that is permitting a large new restaurant to connect to the sewer.

RENTAL — Approved the Building Use Committee's recommendation that a room in the PUD building be rented out for business use.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 2 p.m. tomorrow when the board will meet with John Wilson of Farm and Home Administration to discuss final details in FHA sewer bonding.

Daughter Of UC Chancellor Gets Fellowship Grant

PALO ALTO (UPI) — Caroline Bowker, daughter of University of California chancellor Albert H. Bowker, has received a graduate fellowship from the California scholarship and loan commission.

The fellowship is based on academic achievement, potential, financial need and the estimated manpower needs of the state. Maximum award is full tuition and fees.

Miss Bowker, 22, lives and works in Palo Alto. Her father earns $48,000 a year.

Miss Bowker Thursday told the Daily Californian, campus newspaper at the University of California, she will use the fellowship to study medicine at Stanford University. She refused comment on the amount of the fellowship.

"I don't want to talk about it," she told a reporter for the Daily Californian. She said she is living independent of her parents.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

1:21 p.m., San Rafael — Accidental alarm from auxiliary alarm system at Trombetta Liquor warehouse, Francisco Boulevard and Hoag Avenue.

4:40 p.m., Tamalpais Valley — Tree rubbed insulation from power lines at 132 Stadium Avenue; no fire or damage.

5:18 p.m., Larkspur — Smoke check at 50 Belardo turned out to be from barbecue.

TODAY:

1 a.m., San Rafael — Car fire at 901 Lincoln Avenue caused $200 damage to auto owned by Joe Barni of San Rafael; probably caused by cigarette igniting clothing on rear seat.

1:27 a.m., San Rafael — Roof fire on pool heater shed at Louis Zanze residence, 1726 Grand Avenue; out on arrival; damage $150; cause undetermined.

Congressman Goes To Jail For Three Days

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, went to jail for three days today, taking with him only a shaving kit and a book of verse which he said "got me through World War II and it'll get me through this."

Ashley, 50, who has served in Congress since 1954, was sentenced to three days in the House of Correction, after pleading no contest to charges of having physical control of his car while intoxicated and resisting arrest. He was also fined $350.

"We have one system of justice in this country —treat everyone equally," Ashley said. "This is really what this is all about.

Pleas Changed In Hash Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Mill Valley man and two companions from Oakland, reversing a previous stand, have pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to charges stemming from the confiscation of $100,000 worth of hashish oil.

The trio entered guilty pleas Tuesday after reversing previous pleas of innocent to charges of possession of hashish oil with intent to distribute it, according to a court clerk.

The Mill Valleyan, Thomas Paul Mabie of 690 Camino del Canon, and two Oakland men were arrested Feb. 26 in Sausalito while reportedly in the process of selling the powerful drug to undercover agents.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli set trial of the three for June 8.

Rock Concerts Set At Kezar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Recreation and Park Commission has granted rock promoter Bill Graham permission to stage two rock concerts in the 58,000-seat Kezar Stadium.

They will be held May 26 or 27 and June 2.

Graham predicts crowds in the 50,000-range, which would be the largest paid attendance for a music event in the city's history.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Phone Increase Recommended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The staff of the California Public Utilities Commission recommended Thursday a rate increase of 7.9 per cent for the Pacific Telephone Company, which wants a hike to 9.5 per cent.

The rate of return is currently 7.8 per cent.

The staff said the recommended increase would maintain Pacific Telephone's stock earnings at about the present level.

The discrepancies between the staff figures and those of the company are based mainly on different accounting procedures.

Hearings on the requested increase have been going on since February and will continue.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Those With Gallstones Could End Colic Problem By Surgery

An attack of biliary colic is not easily forgotten. The pain stems from sudden tenseness of the wall of the gallbladder or the bile duct, usually as a result of spasm or of blockage by a stone.

Pain is steady and so intense that the victim tosses and turns, hoping to find a position that offers the slightest comfort. The worst of the bout is over in 10 to 40 minutes; however, residual soreness may remain for a day or more.

Each attack of colic means that a stone, in trying to escape from the gallbladder, has wedged in the biliary passageway. The stone is too large to ease through the tube that leads to the intestine. In some instances, the stone is forced out of the gallbladder when the organ is stimulated to empty by a meal containing fats.

COLIC OFTEN starts in the middle of the night without any obvious dietary reason. The pain generally is centered under the ribs, on the right side of the abdomen. Taking a deep breath hurts, and the area is tender to the touch. Many sufferers are nauseated and vomit when the distress is at its peak.

Any person with gallstones who has had one or more attacks of colic should have the gallbladder removed. There is no better way to bring about a cure. Furthermore, unless surgery is done, the individual may anticipate recurrences of the colic, not to mention complications. Gallstones cannot be dissolved by any known substance, surgery is needed.

DURING THE acute stage, relief can be obtained with painkillers, such as Demerol or morphine. Atropine is added to the mixture to ease spasms. Relaxation is induced also by applying a hot water bottle or a heating pad and remaining quietly in bed. Between attacks, the person who harbors stones is comfortable. He should not, however, be lulled into a false sense of security, because his troubles are not over.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

LOW CALCIUM DIET

K. L. writes: If a person is on a low calcium diet for kidney stones, won't lack of this mineral weaken the bones?

REPLY

No, because it is only the excess calcium that is eliminated in the urine. In addition, it is difficult to eliminate all the calcium from the diet. The major calcium foods are milk and cheese; hard water also contains calcium. But even when these major contributors are omitted, considerable calcium is found in the urine, possibly because when the need arises, more calcium from other foods is absorbed by the intestine.

EFFECT OF STROKE

B. E. writes: What makes a person who is recovering from a stroke want to cry all the time, when there is so much to be thankful for?

REPLY

Stroke involving the base of the brain induces these kinds of symptoms. The individual is moody and cries one moment and laughs the next. This condition is involuntary and cannot be controled by the individual.

DIET AND KIDNEYS

G. F. writes: Will any special diet benefit the kidneys?

REPLY

No special foods aid or strengthen the normal kidneys. However, drinking an adequate amount of water makes them function better.

EARLOBE CYSTS

M. F. writes: I have pea-sized lumps in each earlobe. They swell periodically and discharge pus.

REPLY

These lesions may be infected cysts or related to piercing of the earlobes or the use of earrings.

PRESSURE

B. L. writes: Could a spastic bowel push against the chest, causing chest pain?

REPLY

Gaseous distension of the intestine may press upon the diaphragm. Occasionally, pain from the bowel is referred into the chest or feels as if it is in the lower chest, even though nothing is pushing or pulling.

VITAMINS

Mrs. D. writes: The doctor who took care of my first two babies started them on vitamins at two weeks of age. Our new doctor said my third child does not need vitamins. Please advise.

REPLY

Vitamins are not needed if the child is getting an adequate diet. The exception is vitamin D which is needed when the infant is not getting sunshine.

APPETITE STIMULANT

A. B. writes: Is there a hormone pill to increase appetite?

REPLY

Yes, several. Nilevar is an example of a hormone product that is stripped of the sex-stimulating factor.

APRICOT JUICE

A reader writes: Mother has the whole family upset because she puts apricot juice in a glass of milk. When it curdles she drinks it and says it makes her stomach feel good. Could this concoction harm her?

REPLY

No. Milk curdles the moment it enters the stomach and getting a head start with apricot juice does no harm. Many persons drink buttermilk because they feel it settles the stomach.

SPINAL SURGERY

Mr. E. E. writes: I had surgery for a ruptured disk in my lower spine a year ago. Is it safe to exercise — swim, lift, etc. — and resume my previous activities or must I always be "careful" of my back?

REPLY

Ask the surgeon who did the operation. Exercise is safe and advisable. However, don't strain the back unless you want another disk to rupture.

Preliminary Is Scheduled On Burglary

John Moissant, 26, and Alice Beatrice Darby, 22, both of San Francisco, will have a preliminary hearing on burglary and other charges May 22 in Marin Municipal Court.

Moissant pleaded innocent yesterday to burglary and possession of an unlicensed firearm in an appearance before Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas. Miss Darby pleaded innocent to burglary and narcotics possession charges.

Sausalito police arrested the pair early Wednesday near a boutique on Bridgeway, after finding the shop window broken and merchandise strewn in a nearby alley. Officers said they found what appeared to be narcotics in the woman's purse and a handgun and knives in the car the pair used.

Thomas released the two on their own recognizance. Both had been held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail each.

Salk's Views On The Battle Against Cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Researchbiologist Jonas Salk said yesterday that seeking the cause of cancer was "like looking for 10,000 needles in 10,000 haystacks."

Salk, who 17 years ago developed a successful vaccine to combat polio, told a news conference that the cancer cell "has, in a sense, committed the perfect crime."

He also said that in birth defects research "we are finding increasing evidence that diseases are involved we never thought would be."

One example, he said, turned out to be that "certain forms of cancer have a hereditary component."

Salk, here to address a March of Dimes luncheon, said he was working on a new science called "metabiology." This, he explained, would expand biology into the fields of ethics and even in philosophy.

Marin Is Ninth In The Tax Rate List

Tax rates are higher in eight other California counties than they are in Marin, according to the state Board of Equalization.

The board has issued a statistical report listing average rates which shows Marin in ninth place for the current fiscal year, the same position it occupied for the previous year.

Neighboring Sonoma County, which had the fifth highest average rate in fiscal 1971-72, dropped to sixth this year — although its rate went up.

The report shows that taxpayers in Sacramento County pay the highest average rate this year, $13.54 per $100 assessed valuation. Sacramento took over the top spot from Contra Costa County, which had the highest average rate last year at $13.37. Contra Costa's average rate dropped to $13.15 for the current year, in second place.

Following Sacramento and Contra Costa are Alameda at $13.15, San Francisco at $12.60, San Joaquin at $12.18, Sonoma at $12.14, Santa Barbara at $12.13, Los Angeles at $11.97, and then Marin at $11.87. Statewide, the average rate is $11.44.

Real winners on the tax rate are residents of little Alpine County, where the rate per $100 assessed valuation averages $4.31 — down 86 cents from the previous year, when it also was lowest in the state.

Crossfiling Turned Back By Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation restoring crossfiling—the practice of a candidate seeking the nomination of both major parties—-was rejected yesterday by the Senate Elections Committee.

The bill (SB351) by Sen. Goerge Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, was turned down on a 2-to-2 vote. Five votes were needed for approval. The measure was kept alive, however, by Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno, asking to have it reconsidered.

Deukmejian said restoration of cross-filing, abolished in 1959,, would help cut campaign expenditures and could reduce unnecessary partisanship in legislature.

Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, opposed the bill, declaring that under cross-filing officeholders sometimes ignored their own parties.

He said he knew of Democrats who were "more responsive" to their Republican constituents during cross-filing than to Democrats. He cited cases in which Democratic county central committee members endorsed Republican candidates over Democrats.

Deukmejian challenged the contention that cross-filing would provide a "big advantage" to incumbents. He said incumbents now have as much of an advantage —-"if not more" —than under crossfiling.

Under cross-filing, which was practiced for 40 years in California, a candidate who secured the nomination of both the Republican and Democratic parties faced virtually no contest in the general election.

Time To Boost Alimony Payments

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Elizabeth K. Anderson wants her alimony boosted from $166 to $750 a month, arguing her former husband has assets of $1.8 million.

Mrs. Anderson, 98, was divorced from her husband, 89, in 1929 after 14 years of marriage. Both live in Seattle nursing homes.

Sam Semi-Sudden In Giants' Victory

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Sam McDowell hasn't made it all the way back but he seems headed in the right direction.

Thursday, the San Francisco left-hander, who has had all sorts of problems getting started this year, went six strong innings. With help from Randy Moffitt over the last three innings, he wound up with his first victory, 6-3, over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moffitt, of Mill Valley, was said to be in good health today despite statements yesterday which claimed he was to visit St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco for tests to determine if he had appendicitis.

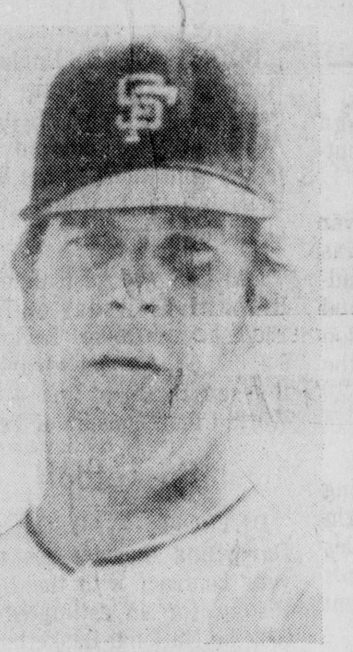
"I just talked to him, and he says he feels fine," said Jerry Donovan, assistant to the president of the Giants, this morning. "If he has appendicitis, we don't know anything about it. He's going to come to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Palace Hotel today."

Moffitt was scheduled to speak last night at the KTIM Sportsman's Banquet in Mill Valley, but did not appear. Joe Orengo, head of the Giants' speakers bureau and the other featured speaker on the program, explained Moffitt's absence by saying, "He was supposed to go to St. Luke's for a blood test, and it (his condition) appeared to look toward appendicitis."

Moffitt was unavailable for comment.

"It wasn't all that good a performance," said McDowell, "but at least I threw hard when I had to, and for me that's the important thing."

McDowell, who suffered from shoulder problems last season and again this spring, gave up six hits and all three St. Louis runs. He walked four batters,



SAM McDOWELL
A good day

still a bugaboo with him, and struck out only one.

"I made a lot of good pitches," he said, "and, all in all, it was encouraging. I missed a few times with my curve but that will come around with more work. Also, my elbew got a little tired and that's why I stopped after six innings."

McDowell won 122 games over eight seasons with Cleveland but was a disappointing 10-8 for the Giants last year, mostly because of a sore shoulder. He even "quit" for a day this spring, then changed his mind, and now seems determined to make the Giants feel they didn't get stung in getting him from Cleveland for Gaylord Perry.

Giants manager Charlie Fox was pleased with McDowell's work but said he still hasn't won a regular job.

"We'll keep spotting him and see what happens," said Fox. "It's too early to tell about Sam. I liked what I saw in this performance, though, because he threw hard. He has to do that more often to be effective."

Home runs by Willie McCovey, his eighth, and Dave Kingman, his fifth, plus a two-run triple by Jim Howarth and a bases-loaded single by Chris Speier gave McDowell strong offensive support.

McCovey also was ejected in the fifth inning for complaining too hotly to plate umpire Jerry Tata about a called third strike.

Moffitt now has appeared in half of the club's 34 games, working a total of 34 innings and allowing only 25 hits and seven earned runs for a classy 1.85 ERA. He has six saves.

"Randy's successful because he throws tough pitches to hit," said manager Charlie Fox. "He has a good sinking fastball, a hard slider, changeup and curve."

"How can I gripe about working too much when so many other guys are dying for a chance to pitch?" Moffitt reasoned. "I thrive on work — and I certainly can't complain about pitching enough."

Tennis Battle Of Sexes Sunday

RAMONA, Calif. (UPI) — The much publicized tennis battle of the sexes with 55-year-old Bobby Riggs going against women's champ Margaret Court will be settled Sunday in this remote mountain community in East San Diego County.

"The most important tennis match of the past 150 years," is what Riggs terms the match. There is no record of what important match occurred 150 years ago, probably because the first patent for a tennis court was not requested until 1874 in England.

In making his original challenge to Billie Jean King or any of the world's other great female tennis players several months ago, Riggs said there is no way a woman can beat a top male player.

Now he says it could go either way.

"I'm a physical wreck, just a shell of my former self, but I'm a ham," the former Wimbledon champ said. "I like a challenge. This is a fun thing for me."

Riggs' original challenge was for $5,000, winner-take-all, best two-of-three sets. Tony Trabert, pro at San Diego Country Estates, provided the location and the money was put in the bank.

CBS television entered the picture, however, and now the match is worth $20,000 to the winner and $10,000 to the loser.

Riggs denies he is a hustler and calls himself a businessman who has been successful in investing money on his prowess through the years. He often accepts challenges such as so many chairs on his side of the court or even playing with an umbrella in one hand and gripping a leash chained to two poodles.

he called the latter troublesome because "poodles don't have good court sense."

Except for the money, it is hard to determine why Mrs. Court would take the challenge. While Riggs is a ranking senior, the only advantage of a win is that Mrs. Court could say top women are better than top seniors, and there aren't that many people who care.

A loss could be a major blow to distaff players, who have been attempting to secure higher purses.

Even the match itself would not seem to prove the superiority of the sexes.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Court is six feet tall and plays a power game more associated with the men. Riggs, at about 5-feet-7, relies more on finesse and placements.

Mrs. Court, mother of a 13-month-old son, may have the sentimental advantage because it will be Mother's Day.

"If I lose," Riggs said, "It seems only fair that she'll give me a rematch on Father's Day."

Marin Tars Defeated By De Anza '9'

CUPERTINO — Bill Sherbert hit two home runs, but it wasn't enough for the College of Marin baseball team, as the Tars dropped a 7-5 Camino Norte Conference decision to host De Anza College yesterday.

The other home run of the game, by De Anza's Ken Lenter, brought in three runs in the sixth inning, breaking a 3-3 tie. Sherbert, who has four homers this season, hit his to lead off in the second. His other blast scored two in the eighth.

The Tars dropped further below the .500 mark with their 11th loss in 20 conference starts.

Mayer Beats MacKay In Tennis Match

PORTOLA VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Upset winners Dick Borhnstedt of Redlands and Richard Russell of Jamaica joined six seeded players in today's quarter-finals of the California State Tennis championships.

Bohrnstedt scored a three-set, tiebreaker win over thirdranked Harron Rahim of Pakistan and UCLA 6-3, 5-7, 7-6 Thursday. Russell pinned a 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 loss on seventh-rated Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles.

Dick Crealy, the tourney favorite from Australia, and Sandy Mayer, the defending champion from Stanford, won their matches. Crealy defeated Dick Bell of Bethesda, Md., 6-4, 6-4 and Mayer downed former champion Barry MacKay of Ross 7-5, 7-5.

Borowiak defeated John Zwieg of Greenbrae, 6-4, 6-3. In doubles play, Zwieg teamed with Greg Shephard to beat Andy Moffat of Mill Valley and Dennis Gibson, 7-5, 6-2.

Barbara Downs of Alamo, the pre-tournament favorite in woman's singles, won her third-round match from Barbara Wojcik of Burlingame 6-0, 6-0 Thursday.

ALL THE WAY BACK — New York Knicks' Willis Reed (19) drove past Los Angeles Laker Wilt Chamberlain (13) for two of his 18 points yesterday as the Knicks won the fifth game of the National Basketball Association championship series in Los Angeles, 102-93, and with it the NBA title which had eluded them last year when they lost to the Lakers, four games to one, with the injured Reed on the bench. Willis was named the series' most valuable player this year. (UPI Telephoto)

U.S. CAGERS SET FOR TRIP TO CHINA

WASHINGTON (AP) — An all-star men's team will be joined by a college women's squad when the United States invades mainland China for an amateur basketball tour in June.

Two Providence University stars, 6-foot-8 center Marvin Barnes and 6-4 guard Kevin Stacom, reportedly are assured of spots on the team.

Ernie DiGregorio, the Friar's all-American guard and star of the recently concluded U.S.-Soviet series, is expected to be invited, but may not make the trip because of impending negotiations with professional teams.

The championship women's team of John F. Kennedy College in Wahoo, Neb., also will make the trip.

The Chinese initially asked that national champion UCLA represent the United States, but the Bruins declined when too many players had prior commitments. Several other college teams subsequently turned down the trip before a decision was made to pick an all-star squad.

Nicholas Rodis, athletic director at Brandeis University and president of the U.S. Collegiate Sports Council, said a coach will be chosen within days and most of the team will be selected within the next few weeks.

KTIM Banquet Is 'The Best One Yet'

Even the absence of scheduled speaker Randy Moffitt did not prevent last night's 15th annual KTIM Sportsman's Club Banquet from being "the best one yet," in the words of station manager and master of ceremonies Bob Dinsmore.

The banquet at Sabella's of Marin restaurant in Mill Valley honored two outstanding athletes from each of the Marin County Athletic League's eight schools.

Moffitt, San Francisco Giants relief pitcher and Mill Valley resident, missed the affair because he was to go to St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco for blood tests to determine whether or not he had appendicitis, according to Joe Orengo, head of the Giants' Speakers Bureau and the banquet's other featured speaker.

As usual, the format called for each athlete to introduce his counterpart from the same school, and the introductions ranged from sentimental through straightforward to humorous —so witty, in fact, that M. C. Dinsmore kept issuing mock warnings to the students to stop upstaging him.

"The kids always make the show," said Dinsmore, "and this was the best one yet." It also had the highest attendance in history, about 150.

Orengo's short speech praised the athletes for "having enough sense to listen. . .to your parents, who made all this possible. . .through their sacrifice."

The athletes also disclosed where they would attend college. Their choices:

HAMILTON FIGHTERS WIN TWO

BOSTON (UPI) — Hamilton Air Force Base boxers Claudio (Chicky) Rivera and Jerome Bennett scored decision victories over their rivals yesterday in the National Amateur Athletic Union boxing championships here.

Rivera defeated Claubell Atkins of the Ozark region in a 106-pound bout, while Bennett whipped Tyrone Phelps of Metropolitan New York in a 156-pound fight.

Knicks, Canadiens Celebrate Crowns

New York Defense Decisive

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Defense is the name of the game as far as the New York Knicks are concerned and they've parlayed it into their second National Basketball Association title in the last four years.

The Knicks, who give up points like they're $100 bills, and 6-foot-10 Willis Reed, all but written off a year ago, displayed poise and a glove-tight defense Thursday night to climax a hard-fought climb to the title.

With Reed performing like the man who led New York to its first championship ever in 1970, the surprising Knicks beat Los Angeles 102-93 for the fourth straight time to end the Lakers' one-year NBA reign.

For the second time in four years, the hustling Reed was voted the final series Most Valuable Player.

"It's great to come back and do it all again," smiled the nine-year pro from Grambling, who played in only 11 games last season because of tendinitis in his left knee. In 31 minutes Thursday night, Reed scored 18 points and led the Knicks with 12 rebounds.

"I got down at times this season," he added, "but I'm the world's greatest believer in myself. We're a group of old pros who work hard and play well."

Although Reed provided the spark and Earl Monroe led the way with 23 points in the Knicks' well-balanced attack, Red Holzman's defense was the difference again. New York held the Lakers, a team which averaged 111.7 points during the regular season, under 100 points for the fourth straight time.

Against the Knicks, the League leaders with a 98.2 regular season defensive average, the Lakers were only able to average 96.8 points for five games.

Surprisingly, Reed said this

ABA Title Game Set Tomorrow

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Kentucky's defense Thursday night carried the fate of the American Basketball Association championship back to the Colonels' home floor at Louisville for the seventh and deciding game Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky evened the series 3-3 with the defending league champ Indiana Pacers with a resounding 109-93 triumph here. The game marked the fourth contest in the six that the visitors have come away victorious.

Towering 7-foot-2 center Artis Gilmore dumped in 28 points and grabbed 21 rebounds to spearhead the win but both Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney and Indiana boss Bob Leonard praised the efforts of Louis Dampier.

The Kentucky coach said the Colonels won because they established their game early. "If we had gotten behind, it would have been tough for us," he explained.

Leonard hinted that Ken-

Montreal Takes Cup, Champagne

CHICAGO (UPI) — The only record that stood out for the Montreal Canadiens Friday was possession of the Stanley Cup.

The Canadiens tripped the Chicago Black Hawks 6-4 in their best-of-seven championship series to win hockey's most valued prize for a record 18th time in a finale marked by records.

The fact that it was the 18th trophy for Montreal was obvious in the Canadiens' post-game discussions. There was restrained exuberance, wide grins and general satisfaction at completion of a deed they were expected to perform.

Although National Hockey League resident Clarence Campbell had barred photographers from the winning dressing room for fear their pictures would reveal an abundant use of champagne for bathing as well as drinking, there wasn't enough champagne in the Montreal dressing room for a duck to swim.

Ken Dryden, who played in the nets for the Canadiens in every game of the final series as Montreal won the trophy for the fourth time in the last six years, and the sixth time in the last eighth, expressed the opinion of the team:

"It's unfair to try to compare this with the last time we won the Cup," he said. "In 1971, we were very much the underdog and winning it was totally unexpected. This is different. We were expected to win and we did.

"It doesn't make it any less important, but we never had doubts about winning it. We were never far enough behind to have doubts," he said.

Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman expressed the same view.

"It was a tough series, as I thought it would be," he said. "And we won it, as I thought we would."

One of the Montreal veterans, Yvan Cournoyer, got the winning goal on a freak rebound,

A's Blue Pitches Tonight

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Oakland A's shone bright, at night, deep in the heart of Texas.

Jumping on four Texas pitchers Thursday night, the A's mounted a 23-hit attack to bury the Rangers 17-2. The victory moved the A's above the .500 mark for the first time this season with a 15-14 record.

Catcher Ray Fosse featured Oakland's highest run-producing game of the season by rapping a two-run homer and run-scoring single. Designated hitter Deron Johnson chipped in with his third homer of the season while Joe Rudi drove in two runs with three hits.

Lefty Ken Holtzman coasted to his sixth victory against two losses, giving up only one run and three hits in seven innings. Horacio Pina cleaned up.

Bert Campaneris and Rudi led off with singles, Gene Tenace walked to load the bases and Reggie Jackson delivered two runs with a double. Johnson then walked and Sal Bando struck out before Fosse singled in Tenace. Dick Green drove in two more runs with a single before Bill Gogolewski came in to retire the side.

Major Hunting Court Decision

I recently received a release from Fish and Game Director Ray Arnett. It has significant interest.

Sport hunting and the 25 million Americans who follow this form of recreation faced the moment of truth the other day, and neither the sport nor the hunters was found wanting.

In hunting's (and the hunters') first major court test, U.S. District Court Judge Charles R. Richey, dismissed a lawsuit that sought to stop public hunting on three federal wildlife areas.

The suit, filed by the Humane Society of the United States, challenged the decision of Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton to allow limited public hunting on three refuges in New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia.

According to Morton, the purpose of the hunt was to reduce deer herds that had multiplied to the point at which they were upsetting the ecological balance of the three refuges.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY attempted to prove that Morton did not adequately substantiate the need for the hunt and did not consider alternate methods of herd reduction such as livetrapping and relocation or cropping by professional hunters.

According to their brief, the Humane Society maintained that either of the suggested methods would be more in keeping with the principles of sound wildlife management.

However, when the Humane Society had rested its case, Judge Richey ruled the society had failed to prove that Secretary Morton had abused his discretionary power in authorizing such hunts under state game commission control.

"PUBLIC HUNTING is a form of public recreation for which the refuges in mention were established," said the judge.

More significantly, he added that public hunting was not inconsistent with the principles of sound wildlife management.

The court contest grew out of a decision by the Interior Department to let 150 hunters, picked at random hunt deer on the Great Swamp Wildlife Refuge in New Jersey more than two years ago.

That hunt was blocked by an injunction obtained by the New Jersey chapter of the Humane Society. The case was enlarged to include deer control hunts that took place in 1970 and 1971 at the Chincoteague Wildlife Refuge in Maryland and Eastern Neck Refuge in Virginia.

In its effort to prevent future hunts, the Humane Society argued that public hunting on these refuges violated the principles of sound wildlife management and the purposes for which such preserves were established.

THEY FURTHER charged that the Interior Department had yielded to political pressure from sportsmen's groups and state fish and game departments in opening up the wildlife sanctuaries to hunting as a means of population control.

The trial was followed with intense interest by many conservation organizations, all of which were aware of the precedents it would set for future legal action.

It was not known whether the decision would be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals, but it was noted that Judge Richey's decisions have been reversed only twice in his judicial career.

ABOUT 60 anglers are now registered in the Loch Lomond Bait Shop derby. No bass have been registered as of Wednesday evening. More sturgeon have been showing than stripers.

One angler, Oliver Anderson of San Rafael, gave it a go Wednesday, using three hooks — all with different baits. He caught a 59 pound sturgeon on the top hook; a small hook baited with a bait for perch. You can't beat luck!

Petaluma Golf Team Defeated; Rancho Beaten

Petaluma High School was clobbered by host Hogan, 302-333, in a North Bay League golf match at the Blue Rock Golf Course in Vallejo yesterday. The Trojans are now 6-5-1 in a league play.

In other Southern Sonoma Golf action yesterday, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park had its Sonoma County League record dropped to 1-8 with a 401-427 loss to visiting El Molino of Forestville.

Alan Keller and Brenton Sharratt shot 80's to lead Petaluma. Brent Jorgenson took medalist honors with a 73, as all four Spartans beat 80.

Dennis Bramlett shot a 77 for El Molino to take medalist honors, and Scott Wlodarczyk led Rancho Cotate with an 80.

49ers Stop Ticket Sales Orders

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco 49ers are assured today of huge crowds at their National Football League games this year.

Team officials announced Thursday their pre-season ticket sale has reached 57,000 and that they have stopped taking orders.

The 49ers said they are cutting off the sale of additional tickets so that they will have 2,000 general admission reserved seats available on an individual game basis for people who cannot or do not wish to buy season tickets.

"Candlestick Park's 61,000-plus football capacity makes it possible for us to sell about 59,000 season tickets after visiting team and other commitments are met," said 49ers president Lou Spadia. "But we are cutting that off at about 57,000 season tickets in order to make available the 2,000 for sale on an individual game basis."

LOS ANGELES — Maury Wills' legendary talents for stealing bases — 104 in one season — will be put to use in the Los Angeles Dodgers farm club system.

Wills, who holds the major league record for stealing 104 bases in 1962, was signed Thursday as a tutor in base running and infield play.

He will tutor the minor league players, starting Monday with a four-day visit to Albuquerque, N.M., between his assignments as a color broadcaster for a national network.

DETROIT — All-Star guard Dave Bing signed a new three-year contract with the Detroit Pistons for an estimated $75,000, the National Basketball Association club announced today. Terms were not disclosed.

OLEAN, N.Y. — Larry Weise has resigned as head basketball coach at St. Bonaventure University to devote full-time duties to his position as athletic director, it was announced today.

The Very Rev. Damian McElrath, university president, said Jim Satalin, Bonaventure freshman coach for the past three years, will become the new head coach.

Weise, who had been both coach and athletic director the past couple of years, compiled a 202-90 won-lost record during his 12 years.

Hockey

VANCOUVER — Vic Stasiuk was fired Thursday as coach of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League.

Stasiuk, 42, was hired a year ago on a one-year contract to coach the Canucks, who finished seventh in the eight-team East Division of the NHL.

Canucks' vice president Norman (Bud) Poile made the announcement after a meeting of the team's board of directors. He said Stasiuk has been asked to remain in the Canucks organization in another capacity.

Stasiuk was not available for comment on the announcement. No successor has been named.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Boston's Lee Goes Distance, Triumphs

Combined AP & UPI

Bill Lee's continuous campaign for a starting rotation spot with the Boston Red Sox appears to be over today.

The Terra Linda left-hander, who earned a starting nod only two weeks ago, went the distance for the first time in his five-year major league career yesterday to beat Cleveland and boost his record to 3-0. He gave up only six hits in winning 4-3 at Fenway Park. Lee struck out four and walked only two in subduing Cleveland.

He pitched hitless ball through the first three innings but was tagged for a leadoff single by Walt Williams in the fourth. He picked Williams off first but gave up a double to Rusty Torres, who went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Charlie Spikes' sacrifice fly as Cleveland grabbed a short-lived, 1-0 lead.

In the only other American League action, Chicago edged California 4-3 in 12 innings, Kansas City whipped Detroit 8-2 and Oakland routed Texas 17-2.

San Francisco beat St. Louis 6-3 in the only scheduled National League game.

The Red Sox, trailing 3-1 entering the eighth inning, rallied for three runs to defeat the Indians, with Luis Aparicio scoring the clincher on a throwing error by third baseman Buddy Bell.

A double by Doug Griffin, a walk, a sacrifice and singles by Aparicio and Carl Yastrzemski produced the first two runs of the inning. Orlando Cepeda then bounced one to Bell, and his hurried throw to first skipped past Chris Chambliss as Aparicio scored from second.

Fred Patek's run-scoring triple snapped a 2-2 tie and started Kansas City off to a five-run fifth inning as the Royals rallied to defeat Joe Coleman. The Royals sent 11 batters to bat in the fifth with Ed Kirkpatrick and Cookie Rojas contributing run-scoring doubles to the rally. Dick Drago went all the way for the victory while Coleman was charged with his second loss after six victories.

Girl Makes Li'l League Bow In Loss

YPSILANTI, Mich (UPI) — Jersey No.9 on the Orioles Little League team just may be retired after 12-year-old Carolyn King leaves the formerly all-boys group.

Carolyn marked her first start in the all-male Little League circuit Thursday night. She was reportedly the first girl in the nation to make the baseball lineup.

"I don't feel like I've done anything historic," Carolyn said after the game. "Maybe I did, but I don't feel like it."

The Williamsport, Pa., national headquarters had threatened to take the baseball charter away from the city of Ypsilanti if the "no girls allowed" rule was violated.

Carolyn may have struck a blow for women's lib but she struck out at the same time. She was also thrown out trying to steal second base and walked twice.

Some 650 persons, including the entire city council and local women's rights enthusiasts, cheered the pigtailed Carolyn on. But several boys booed as Carolyn took the field.

But while the girl wearing No. 9 was the highlight of the night, Tim Roberts, the Yankees hurler who just happened to pitch a no-hitter, stood around.

No one seemed to care about that or the fact that Carolyn's opposition, the Yankees, won the contest 15-0.

DAVIS CUP NET

'Didn't Come To Lose'—Ralston

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "We didn't come here to lose," said Dennis Ralston, captain of the United States Davis Cup tennis team as the Americans began their quest today for another victory over the Mexicans in the American Zone final.

The Americans, 5-0 winners over Mexico in last year's zone championship, were favored again, but their task this time was expected to be tougher because of the loss of Stan Smith and the improvement of the Mexicans.

Smoth, who has turned pro since last year's Davis Cup competition, is competing in the $50,000 World Championship Tennis tournament at Dallas.

"Although we're without Stan Smith, the team has a lot of Davis Cup experience," Ralston said.

Gorman, taking over the role as the Americans' No. 1 player after the loss of Smith, was paired in the opening singles match against Raul Ramirez, Mexico's No. 2 player.

GOLF NOTES

Marin Courses Getting Busy

Marin County golf action continued to warm up like the weather last week — particularly at Marin Country Club in Novato.

At the busy Novato course, assistant pro Paul Fakundiny and teaching pro Bill Henderson are preparing for a stab at the U.S. Open qualifying. Additionally, the course will be hosting two important tournaments in the next 10 days.

Fakundiny and Henderson will compete in the U.S. Open qualifying May 21-22 at Silverado Golf and Country Club in Napa. They will be playing 36 holes, 18 per day.

MARIN COUNTRY CLUB will host the eight-team Bay Area Golf League play Friday, May 18. A noon, shotgun start is slated for the team consisting of 12 players, 11 amateurs, one pro, playing in two-man teams with handicaps.

THE NOVATO CHAMBER of Commerce is sponsoring an invitational golf tournament Monday, May 21 at Marin Country Club. Tee off time for the 18-hole affair is from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. A $9 green fee will be levied to cover a golf ball, trophy and prize costs.

ART SCHALLOCK of San Rafael, the former New York Yankee pitcher, earned low gross honors with an 82 in the spring Marin County Board of Realtors golf tourney last Friday at Marin Country Club.

Low net honors went to Vern Nathe with a 69. Mike Smith won the hole-in-one competition at 6-feet-5.

MEADOW CLUB (near Fairfax) member Kai Thomsen teams with Eric Garrett of Ancil Hoffman Golf Club in Carmichael in the Northern California Golf Association Four-Ball Stroke Play Championship today through Sunday at Spyglass Hill in Pebble Beach. The Thomsen-Garrett team was to tee off today at 8:45 a.m.

THE TROUBLED Bay Area Golf Association may be attempting to blast out of a proverbial sand trap with a fly swatter, but the one-man organization's brain trust, John Farr, is confident it can succeed.

The San Francisco golf mogul, plagued by a plethora of tour problems, will again attempt to launch his program for club pros — this time on Wednesday, June 13. Tee off time is scheduled at 8 a.m. at Franklin Canyon, near Martinez.

In his first, abortive starting attempt in April, Farr had only 18 paid club pros lined up; he needed 40 to make it work. Farr, who had envisioned a plan calling for a 40-man field playing 36 holes at different Bay Area courses, was saddled with a $3,200 loss — and the determination to try again.

picking up a bouncing puck 20 feet from the Hawk cage with less than 12 minutes to play after it had bounced off the plexiglas behind the net on a shot over the cage.

His shot went into the net to clinch the triumph while Hawk goalie Tony Esposito was "off balance and didn't know where the puck was going" Cournoyer said.

The Hawks made a fight of it in the finale, although for the second time for the six games of the series, they failed to hold a two-goal lead. Pit Martin, who scored his second playoff hat trick this year, tallied twice in 54 seconds of the first period to put the Hawks in front 2-0, but Montreal came back with goals by Henri Richard, Pete Mahovlich, and Rejean Houle for a 3-2 lead.

Chicago tied the score twice on goals by Dave Kryskow and Martin, but Montreal three times broke out of a tie to go ahead.

The two teams scored 56 goals to break a playoff record of 54 set by Montreal in Boston in a 1971 quarterfinal series and Montreal with 33 goals broke a record of 28 by Boston in a 1958 series and by the Canadiens in 1971.

Martin, and linemates Dennis Hull and Jim Pappin tallied 55 points to break the previous mark of 53 last year by Boston's John Bucyk, John McKenzie and Fred Stanfield. The other record went to Cournoyer and it was the big one. His 15th goal, which was the game-winner for the Cup broke the record of 14 set by Frank Mahovlich with Montreal in 1971.

KENTUCKY

tucky's defense was the deciding factor but the Colonels overall play was superb.

"They took our inside game away from us—I thought they played a fine ball game," Leonard said. "The only time we got going was when we went to the hoop and made the play."

After trailing 55-43 at the half, the Pacers rebounded in the third period by outscoring the visitors, 33-25 and at one point pulled to within two at 78-76 before Kentucky slipped in a basket to hold an 80-76 spread heading into the final 12 minutes of play.

Mullaney said that down the stretch "everything went right for us—especially when we got eight points to start the fourth period."

That opening upped the Colonels lead to 12 at 88-76 and the spread widened until Dampier hit a pair of free throws to push the lead to 94-77 and the seventh game was all assured.

San Rafael Tops Redwood Golfers

San Rafael High School knocked Redwood out of second place and possibly out of contention for the Marin County Athletic League golf title yesterday with a 196-199 victory over the Giants at Peacock Gap.

In yesterday's other Marin golf matches, Terra Linda stayed on top by pounding winless Marin Catholic, 195-258, and Tamalpais decisioned San Marin, 219-229.

Seven of 10 golfers scored 40 or under in San Rafael's crucial win. Bulldog John Fahrner shot an even-par 36 to take medalist honors, while teammate Steve Taylor had a 37. Mark Ohrenschall was low man for Redwood with a 37.

San Rafael remains one match behind Terra Linda (9-1) in the MCAL race with an 8-2 record, tied with Novato. Redwood is 7-3.

Tam Netters Rally To Beat San Marin

Tamalpais High School fell behind 3-0, but came back to sweep the final four matches and beat host San Marin, 4-3, yesterday in Marin County Athletic League tennis match.

Terra Linda dropped Marin Catholic, 6-1, Redwood shutout San Rafael, 7-0, and Drake dumped Novato, 7-0, in other MCAL tennis action yesterday.

Tamalpais (5-5) evened its record for the fourth time this season. Eric Rayner's victory over Steve Baldocchi in the fourth singles match put the Indians on the winning track.

Terra Linda's Doug Carlisle dropped the first singles match to talented Wildcat John Doherty, 7-6, 7-5, but the Trojans won the remaining singles matches to clinch its victory. Terra Linda remains in second place in league standings with a 9-1 record, behind undefeated Redwood (10-0).

The Giants registered their ninth shutout in 10 starts with its victory over San Rafael. The Bulldogs are in third place at 7-3.

Crampton In Sand, Lead In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Between the heat and all the sand he was in Thursday, streaking Bruce Crampton easily qualified for membership in the Lawrence of Arabia fan club.

The group he is trying to join, however, is the exclusive "millionaire club," and Crampton passed another initiation test Thursday.

Crampton survived the springtime heat and six bunker visits to shoot a four-under-par 66 over the testy Colonial Country Club course for a two-stroke lead after one round of the $150,000 Colonial National Invitation.

Ken Still was alone in second place at 68, while six golfers were tied at 69—Gibby Gilbert, Julius Boros, Phil Rodgers, Tom Weiskopf, Bobby Nichols and Jerry Heard. Napa's Ron Cerrudo carded a 77.

Crampton, already the winner of three tournaments this year, victor in the Houston Open last week and this year's leading money winner, had voiced little optimism before Thursday's round that he could continue the pace he set for himself in Houston.

Knicks' Defense Key To NBA Win

championship meant more to him than one four years ago.

"The first one," he declared, "is always a great thrill. I think it means more the second time around."

Bill Bradley pumped in 20 points and Walt Frazier added 18 as New York, an 8-5 underdog when the series began, became the second NBA team in 14 years to win it all without the home court advantage. The Knicks' 4-1 series victory avenged a five-game loss to the Lakers a year ago.

The Knicks outscored the Lakers by just 19 points—503-to-484—in the five games but Laker giant Wilt Chamberlain said "the better team" won.

"They were able to take advantage of the breaks," said Chamberlain, who had 23 points in addition to a game-high 21 rebounds. "But four losses in a row seems almost impossible. We could have won a couple of those games but ... "

Holzman, the architect of the Knick defense, applauded the selection of Reed as the MVP in the series.

"I think Willis has come back a long way and he came to his peak at the right time," the New York coach said. "He's a very determined guy. He was great for us and I think the team was great for him."

While Holzman refused to compare his two title clubs, Bill Sharman did.

The Knicks won the series-clincher by outscoring the Lakers 32-18 in the third quarter, enabling them to forge into a 71-59 lead after trailing 41-39 at halftime.

But the Lakers came back strong in the final quarter—after Dave DeBusschere left the game with a sprained right ankle after scoring his only basket of the game to put the Knicks in front 79-65 with 7:55 to go.

Led by Gail Goodrich, who scored 10 of his game-leading 28 points in the fourth period, the Lakers crept to within four at 86-82 with three minutes remaining. A Reed jump shot and a three point play by Monroe lifted New York into a 91-82 advantage.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Study Of Corporate Debts And Liquidity

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. From time to time you mention long-term debt and current ratios. How does one determine what amount of debt is safe for a particular company? — S.P.

A. There are no hard and fast rules since ratios vary widely from industry to industry as well as from company to company within the same industry. There are some guidelines which may be applied but only in relation to the overall operating and financial structure of the corporation. The need for borrowed capital, especially long-term funds, is particularly heavy for utilities, natural gas and communication companies, thus a debt-to-equity ratio in these groups of 55 per cent/45 per cent is not uncommon.

Conversely, retail companies have less need for long-term money, since plant and equipment represent a smaller portion of their assets and short-term borrowing is used to finance inventory. In either case, it is liquidity — the ability to meet current obligations — which is the important consideration.

The Securities and Exchange Commission recently proposed new disclosure rules for financial statements to be effective late this summer. The purpose of the suggested changes is to reveal more information to investors regarding corporate liquidity.

These proposals would require the disclosure of: cash which must be left on deposit in banks, available but unused lines of credit, annual interest costs on short-term borrowing and the amount of commercial paper outstanding. These proposals recognize the increasing use of short-term borrowing by corporations.

The use of debt is justifiable — companies generally earn more on borrowed money than the cost of interest and interest charges receive favorable tax treatment which effectively reduces the cost. In assessing an industrial company's financial position, a current ratio in excess of 2-to-1, with cash, securities and receivables representing over half the current assets is considered healthy.

Stocks Fall, Discount Rate Up

Brokers said the rise in the discount rate late Thursday has given rise to fears of an impending credit crunch. They noted the discount rate, now 6 per cent, is at its highest level since the "credit crunch" of 1969-1970.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were broadly lower by noon in slow trading. Plant Industries was the most active stock, off ¼ at 4 ⅜ on 47,000 shares.

Ernie's Wine & Liquor Corp. Planning More Stores In Marin

Ernie's Wine & Liquor Corp. of South San Francisco, the rapidly expanding chain with almost 70 outlets in Northern California, plans three new stores in Marin by the end of next year — two in Novato and one in Mill Valley.

Ernie's first and only store in Marin thus far was opened last November in Larkspur Square near Alpha Beta Market at Magnolia Avenue and Doherty Drive.

Donald H. Althoff, president of the firm, was in town this week with plans for these three new stores in Marin County:

Another outlet at Nave Shopping Center at Center Road and South Novato Boulevard, where Alpha Beta Market plans to take over the old Purity Market. Ernie's Liquor at Nave Center is scheduled for 1974.

Also scheduled for next year is Ernie's Liquor in Mill Valley, between East Blithedale Avenue and Lomita Drive, west of Red Cart Market. It will be part of a shopping complex that will include another Alpha Beta Market.

Ernie's Liquors is putting increasing emphasis on wines, with more than half the floor space devoted to wine display. Althoff said his company is the first in the country to develop the concept of private labeling of quality products produced by major wineries and distilleries. The firm employs its own wine taster who goes by the single name of "Picante."

Ernie Van Asperen, former Tiburon resident and now of St. Helena, started the Ernie chain in 1938 with his first store in San Francisco. Asperen, now chairman of the board, owns The Dock and Windjammer restaurants in Tiburon.

Althoff Peck

INDEPENDENT INSURANCE Agents Association of Marin gave a $5,000 grant to the Colleges of Marin Foundation to provide short-tem emergency loans for needy students. Leonard S. Peck of Mill Valley, president of the insurance group, presented the $5,000 check to the college foundation.

Medical, business and science students at either College of Marin in Kentfield or Indian Valley College in Novato are eligible for up to $150 in emergency funds. Only Marin County high school graduates and first year students at the colleges are eligible, and the loans must be repaid in one year.

A FREE CIRCUS will highlight the Fun Fair to be held at Strawberry Town & County Village at Strawberry tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A "big tent" circus will give free performances at 12 noon, 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. tomorrow. John Rudolph, public relations director, said the Fun Fair is sponsored by KQED and Strawberry Town and uCountry Village.

Attractions include game booths, clowns, an 81-year-old juggler, trained animals, a nuclear-environmental exhibit by PG&E, and TV and radio personalities like Ron Magers, Barry Tompkins, and Carter B. Smith.

Composer Vince Guaraldi will present special awards including a first prize to Gail Ablow, a fifth grader at Old Mill School in Mill Valley, for winning the children's art contest. The art contest, to publicize the KQED auction (June 1 to 10), drew about a thousand entries.

DESCO REALTY Corp., headed by President Lawrence I Serkes of San Anselmo, has opened a new real estate office at 935 Lootens Place in San Rafael. The firm deals in all phases of real estate.

Serkes was with Frank Howard Allen as vice president in investment real estate for the past year. Before that, he operated his Desco Realty office in Berkeley at 2160 Shattuck Avenue for about two years.

ANDREW PARODI of Terra Linda has joined Frank Boland Company Inc. at Stonestown in San Francisco as a fire, casualty and life insurance agent.

Parodi was with Liberty Mutual for 13 years before moving to the Boland firm.

WATERBED WORLD, which opened at 1403 Grant Avenue in Novato last month, is owned by Orville and Stephanie Hubbard, who established their first Waterbed World in Santa Rosa six months ago.

The Novato store, across the street from the Novato Medical Clinic, carries waterbeds and waterbed furniture of all sizes and prices.

Boise Cascade's Chairman Sees Brighter Future

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The chairman of Boise Cascade Corp. has told shareholders the company has turned the corner in its battle to overcome financial difficulties.

Stephen B. Moser told a shareholders meeting the corporation's outlook now is favorable and the company has experienced three profitable quarters in a row.

"The last months have been trying ones for the company," he said. "But we have had maximum cooperation in our effort to restore the company's profitability. The drain of unprofitable operations has been stopped, and our financial position now is very sound."

Shareholders reelected 14 incumbent directors. Since last year's meeting two directors of the company have retired, but a spokesman said they would not be immediately replaced.

Very Efficient

BOSTON (UPI) — One of America's most efficient industries is the soft drink business. Aout 3,000 bottling plants turn out more than 3.5 billion cases of beverage annually (there are 24 containers in a standard case). In 1940, about 550 million cases were produced, but by 6,118 plants.

Naziism Is Nothing But A Memory In West Germany

New Nation Progressive, Modern And Democratic

By DAVID R. FRANCIS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

BONN, Germany — "I don't feel burdened any more by the sins of our fathers," remarked Klaus Higgin, a young civil servant in West Germany's Ministry of the Interior.

"I don't feel any guilt."

Higgin, smiling, wearing a red shirt and smart, tan corduroy suit, with blondish hair almost to his shoulders, was born two years after the start of World War II. He obviously has no sound reason for feeling any responsibility for the Nazi era.

Like an increasing number of his fellow citizens, he is proud to be German. "This is a respected nation," he says.

That is true. Within the community of nations, West Germany again has practically full respectability.

Golda Meir feels able now to invite Willy Brandt to visit Israel in June.

Because of Germany's Third Reich heritage, these forthcoming events would have been unlikely only a few years back. But West Germany gradually has proved to the world that it today is modern, reformed, progressive, democratic. It is not the same as old Germany.

West Germany has a government clean of Nazi tinges. The Social Democrats in the governing coalition were the main opposition of the National Socialists in the 1930's. Chancellor Brandt, having resisted Hitler, was forced into exile in Norway and Sweden during the Third Reich. Israelis cannot rightly lay at his door blame for the murder of Jews. So it's politically safe for Prime Minister Meir to arrange the first visit ever of a German chancellor to the Jewish homeland.

Modern Germany also has decided to make amends to its former enemies in the East.

Symbolic of German penitence was the occasion in 1970 when Chancellor Brandt knelt before the memorial to the Jews who died in the Warsaw ghetto uprising. Brandt was there to sign a treaty of friendship with Poland. He had earlier that year done the same with the Soviet Union. West Germany signed a basic treaty establishing normal relations with East Germany last fall.

In effect, West Germany thereby accepted the consequences of losing World War II. It no longer feels so much pain from the loss of former Eastern territories. Though not happy about the division of Germany into two states, West Germans have become more resigned to it.

Furthermore, last year's four-power agreement on Berlin removed that city as a hot spot in East-West relations. It does not now threaten the world with nuclear devastation.

It is this ostpolitik that paved the way for the first official visit of a Soviet party head to Bonn.

In propaganda, Communist media may occasionally talk of revanchism in West Germany. In their own minds though, East bloc leaders cannot take such charges seriously.

In fact modern Germany posesses a strong democracy. Bonn does not suffer from the confusion and feebleness that destroyed the Weimar Republic.

Without any compulsion, 91.2 per cent of eligible West Germans voted. The campaign discussion was vigorous and sharp — but not viscious.

Under a picture of Chancellor Brandt, thousands of SPD election posters proclaimed: "Germans, we can be proud of our country." In defeated Germany, no major postwar politician had ever adapted such a bold slogan.

The election results indicate that certainly the younger generation of Germans, now moving into positions of responsibility, agree with Brandt. Youth voted overwhelmingly for the SPD.

Their pride is not the old, irrational, super-race variety of nationalism. It is a quieter self-confidence. What's more, this new nationalism is modified by a sense of being European as well as German. Germans are on average more in favor of European integration than any other West European nation.

NEW WEST GERMANY — Smokestacks in background of this pastoral scene outside Blexen attest to the strength that gives West Germany a key role in modern-day Europe.
(Christian Science Monitor Photo)

It is not that the bearded 26-year-old dislikes his country. He admitted, after a sigh and pause, that he is proud of Germany. "But not in a nationalistic sense," he added.

Germans are no longer flag-waving, assertive patriots. They have no thirst for territorial expansion. The glorification of military might belongs to the past. If anything, the German defense forces suffer today from excessive disrespect and derision.

Germans see their culture as a great one. There may even be a tendency to look down at other cultures. Yet this remains somehow mixed with an admiration of things foreign.

German politicians do not hesitate to mix a few English phrases into their pronouncements. German television picks up with little fuss British, American, or French productions, sometimes in their original language.

When asked for the basis of their pride, West Germans quickly note their nation's "economic miracle," its rapid postwar development into a major industrial power.

Some of them now talk about Germany's constructive diplomatic accomplishments. The Federal Rpublic has played a leadership role in the development and expansion of the European Community. Its ostpolitik, which won Brandt a politically valuable Nobel Peace Prize, has brought about much reconciliation with the East Europeans.

"We have become a respected nation because we are so well represented by our government," asserted Higgin in probably a somewhat partisan statement.

Nonetheless, it is quite certain that Chancellor Brandt is the most respected, popular, and powerful politician in Western Europe today.

He is the only European statesman who has a substantial appeal outside his own country, said an editorial in the London Times. "Were European integration another generation further on, it is almost inconceivable that he would not be elected as President of Europe against any competitor."

There are other signs that other nations have upgraded West Germany's image.

For instance, when Federal President Gustav W. Heinemann traveled to Britain last fall, he received public acclaim and rave notices in the press. Considerable sour notes had marred the official visit of his predecessor, Heinrich Luebke, some years before.

German-French friendship has become an accepted fact — something new in terms of their historical enmity.

At the European Security Conference consultations in Helsinki, German was accepted as an official language. That means something to West German diplomats.

The entrance of West Germany into the "high society" of nations will be capped off next fall when both Germanys are expected to be admitted into the United Nations.

Chancellor Brandt has still some way to go in sweeping away the clutter of World War II in his relations with Germany's Communist neighbors to the east.

Stalled talks over a treaty normalizing relations with Czechoslovakia were to resume this month. There are indications that the two nations have reached a compromise on the key issue holding up the treaty — the status of 1938 Munich pact that led to Hitler's takeover of Czechoslovakia.

If that can be cleared up, treaties with Bulgaria and Hungary are expected to follow shortly. At least no major hindrances are foreseen.

Establishing normal relations with the "other Germany" is proving more difficult.

Nearly every evening, the television news shows East Germans meeting with West Germans to examine various issues. But progress has been slow and limited.

"The East Germans are worried about the effect of new contacts on their domestic political stability," commented one diplomatic expert here.

Chancellor Brandt's greatest challenges now are primarily domestic. Perhaps the most dangerous threat to his government is inflation. It is running at 6.8 per cent. Economists expect it to rise above 7 per cent in the coming months.

Another issue for West Germany is its 2.3 million foreign workers who comprise 10 per cent of the work force.

The nation has not yet fully accepted the likelihood that a sizable proportion of these foreigners want to stay. It does not look on itself as an immigrant country.

On the whole, however, West Germany should consider itself today relatively fortunate among nations. It does not have the labor unease that troubles Britain. It does not face the administrative stagnation and social sluggishness of Italy.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

'Going Conglomerate' Adds To Tax Bills

Marin County taxpayers probably can look forward to higher tax bills as result of the board of supervisors' decision Tuesday to merge health, welfare and probation departments into a "super-agency" or "conglomerate department" or whatever you want to call it.

We say this on the basis of experience.

MERGING COUNTY departments into "super-departments" has been repeatedly advocated by County Administrator John F. Barrows and by his predecessor and preceptor, Alan Bruce.

Most of the proposals have been turned down by the supervisors. But they have heeded the plea for "improved efficiency" and "better delivery of services" a couple of times. Let's take a look at what happened.

In 1966, Dr. Donovan O. Cooke was elected county coroner-public administrator. The budget that year for the coroner's office was $45,349 (up substantially from $37,383 the previous year); that for the public administrator, $9,772, or a total of $55,121.

In May, 1969, the supervisors combined the county medical department with the coroner-public administrator's office. The budget that year for the medical department was $361,950.

Interestingly, the medical department budget for fiscal 1968-9 was exactly $110,000 LOWER than the budget for the same department three years earlier (the year Cooke was elected coroner). However, the budget for coroner had risen to $75,723; that for public administrator, to $23,390, to total $99,113.

In February, 1970, the supervisors added mental health to Dr. Cooke's portfolio. On June 22, 1971, it placed the public health department also under Dr. Cooke, thus creating a coroner-public administrator-medical-health-mental health department.

IN FISCAL 1969-70, before this series of amalgamations began, the budgets of the various services performed by health, medical and mental health departments added up to $3,849,245. This fiscal year, they total $4,232,343. (Don't try to find this total with a quick look at the county budget; the various functions have been reassigned in the budget so that it takes careful searching to sort them out and put them back together.)

In the meantime, the budget for coroner plus public administrator (which, remember, totaled $55,121 when Cooke took over) has grown to $181,102. The medical department budget, which was $361,950 before it was merged with coroner-public administrator in the first of these "efficiency streamlining" processes, has grown to $1,110,684.

Dr. Cooke, who has made this remarkable record of cost-saving and efficiency, is not to head the new multi-multi department, however. It is to be headed by Betty L. Presley, director of public social services (welfare).

IT IS PERHAPS unfair to mention that the cost of the various welfare operations in Miss Presley's department has risen from $9,371,094 in fiscal 1969-70 (the last year before the county started to "go conglomerate") to $12,435,996 this year. Miss Presley had little or no control over most of this increase.

As we said in the beginning, look for bigger tax bills as result of the latest amalgamation of departments. That's what has happened when this same kind of "streamlining" for "greater efficiency" was tried in the past.

Czar Riles Puts Schools On The Metric System

By RUS WALTON

This stuff called "new math" may have its good points but it sure bugs me.

First, how come so many of the new math kids can't seem to add or subtract, or multiply or divide.

Second, this new math is contributing to the generation gap. The way things are, discussing fractions with my 12-year-old daughter is like trying to talk to an Eskimo.

Take the division of fractions. A simple chore. Just turn the second fraction upside down, multiply across the top and multiply across the bottom and then divide the under into the over. Nothing to it.

But, the new math book takes at least one page of complicated steps and arrows and symbols to show kids some new-fangled approach that somehow comes up with the same answer.

And if you have ever chewed through the kitchen table while trying to explain all that to a sixth-grader, you know what I mean.

BUT EVEN THAT torture is not enough.

Now the state's education czar, Wilson Riles, has decided kids will make an abrupt shift to the metric system, come the autumn of 1976.

Riles has decided: the spirit of '76 will be in metrics.

He wants the International System of Measurement Units taught exclusively, starting in three years. Out with the traditional U.S. system of weights and measures. In with metrics.

I can see it now: parents grumbling in pounds and gallons with while kids do their homework in grams and liters.

"Hey, Adam. Run down to the store and pick up a half-gallon of milk and an extra yardstick. Okay?"

"Poor old pop. What he means is 1.90 liters of lo-fat and a meter-reader."

THE CONVERSION to metrics may or may not be a good deal. I suppose if you're dabbling in foreign trade or look forward to a one-world constant, it makes sense. Congress hasn't decided yet — and neither has the State Board of Education.

But, Czar Riles has and that's the real problem at hand.

The law says the State Board of Education shall decide such policy matters for our schools, not Mr. Riles. The law says the superintendent of public instruction shall take his policy directives from that board, not vice versa.

Junking that law and jumping those traces is nothing strange for Riles.

BACK IN 1971, Riles decided the state's educational hierarchy should be restructured to give his office more power — and the board less. The board wasn't too happy about that, even though the governor's office supported the bill.

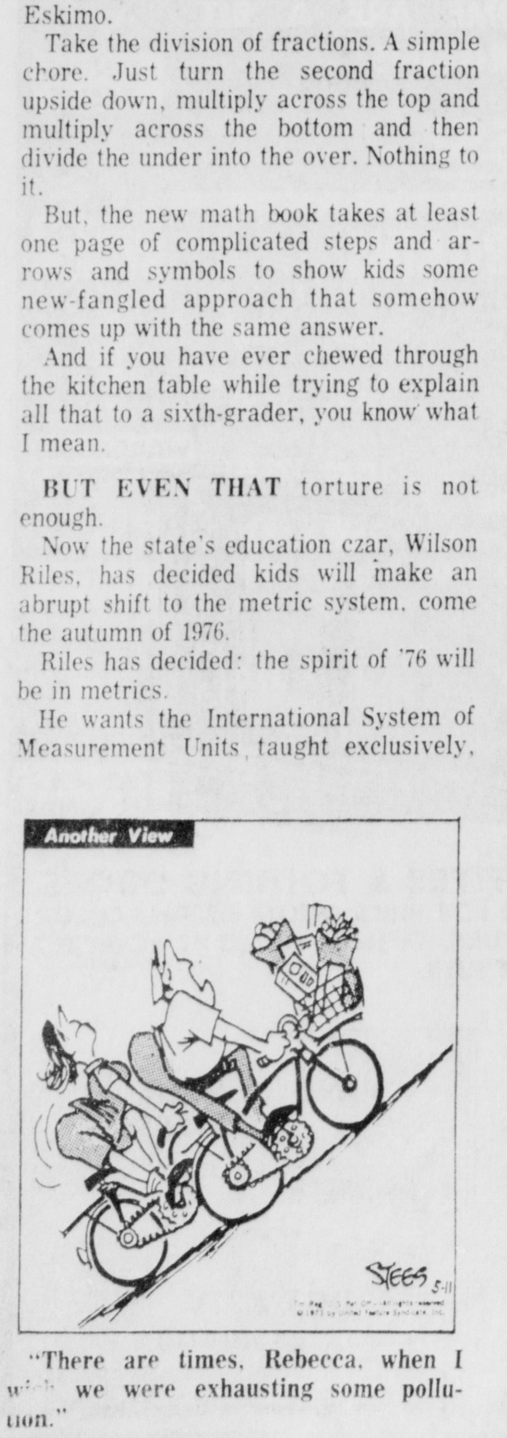
Then there was the Bagley busing bill. The one, now invalid, that decreed local school districts should achieve something called racial balance. Mr. Riles decided the states education establishment was in favor of that one. He told the governor the board agreed.

But, a review of the records showed the board had never even discussed the bill, let alone endorsed it.

Now the czar has decided to convert our math books and our kids to metrics.

How did the State Board of Education members find out about all this? Through reading the news accounts of Riles' press conference where he announced his intentions. He said he would present the matter to the board at this week's meeting. Strictly routine.

After all, the czar has decided.



"There are times, Rebecca, when I wish we were exhausting some pollution."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Who Is Responsible For Palestinian Refugees?

Ever since nearly two million Palestinians fled from Palestine and the Israelis occupied it, we have heard various explanations as to why the Palestinians left their homeland. Now we hear that the Israelis actually begged the Palestinians to stay, and the Egyptians somehow got over there and induced them to leave.

The Palestinians were not herded into refugee camps by their Arab hosts. Caring for two million refugees is an enormous task, and the United Nations established camps to care for the Palestinians, who had suddenly been made both stateless and homeless . . .

Spend Money On Those Who Want To Live

I just had to do a follow-up on that letter concerning the Gate span suicides. Not only would a barrier cause the wind to howl, but it would cause a lot of people to howl. I, for one, feel, if these jumpers want to go, let them go. We should all have the choice to live or die. I would rather spend my money on people who want to live, and are fighting to live in this society. It takes a strong person to exist in this world, and they're the wons who should be helped, not the ones who give up and let others carry their load.

If these people want to kill themselves, an expensive barrier isn't going to stop them.

Predator Control Program Questioned

Predator control in Sonoma County will soon be up for renewal before the board of supervisors. Under this program some $19,000 of local tax funds (plus additional state and federal money) are used every year on the trapping and killing of coyotes and other wildlife.

Chief backers of the program are some large sheep ranchers who insist that rampaging coyotes threaten their very livelihood.

However, a close look at the county trappers' official records reveals that in the last nine months fewer than 200 sheep (out of a county sheep population of 78,000) were reported as predator kills by the ranchers requesting the program, and a sizable number of those kills were unconfirmed.

Because of this overblown coyote scare, hundreds of wild creatures — bobcats, raccoons, foxes and other species as well as coyotes — suffer an agonizing and lingering death in non-selective steel traps.

People who want to help preserve our remaining wildlife, and who object to having their tax dollars used in this cruel trapping program, should express their views immediately to their Sonoma County supervisors.

'Sphere Of Influence' Decision Protested

The recent LAFCO decision, placing the Strawberry area within the "sphere of influence" of Tiburon, further emphasizes the total disregard of "government" at all levels of the will of the people.

As recently as 1971, an election was held to determine whether the Strawberry area would be annexed to Tiburon. This was voted down 727 to 437. Apparently, the outcome of this election is of insignificant value to the LAFCO board.

The decision of LAFCO is arbitrary. There are no figures as to increase in taxes, although at best they could only be approximations. Services evidently are not taken into consideration since Tiburon has little to offer.

Technically, Strawberry can remain unincorporated, unless an election is held in which a majority of voters determine that they want to join Tiburon. Certainly, any requests made to the county will be responded to with regard to policies practiced by Tiburon and not our own needs.

What little voice our community has had with the county has been diminished by their decision. This serves to siphon the power that only belongs to the people.

JOANNE GIACOMINO

(Placing Strawberry in Tiburon's "sphere of influence" does not mean it should annex to Tiburon; it does mean that Tiburon should be consulted on developments in Strawberry that may affect it. — Editor)

Corte Maderan Applauds Fireworks For Sally

What a great way to show a free spirit our appreciation, for bringing the unexpected, unusual and always colorful into otherwise routine civic affairs.

How many free spirits do we have?
Hang the expense, it's worth it!
What can be done for her next birthday? The 100th should be a beaut!

'Happenstance' Park A Pleasure For All

May a final word be said about the courthouse square before remanding it to its century of progress?

A park which occurred so haphazardly has resulted in a lovable little oasis which children, teen-agers and oldsters have shared alike with equal enjoyment. The square has a head of trees which is surely as fine as any in America. The World War I Doughboy who watched over them for so many years might, in fancy, echo the immortal words of Joyce Kilmer:

"Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."

Reader Thinks Nixon Should Be Impeached

The recent and overwhelming evidence that has come to light pertaining to Watergate, coupled with the direct criminal violation of the present administration in the Ellsberg case, and the fact that our "President by mandate" deliberately led us to believe all war in Indochina would be ended promptly (when in actuality it only moved slightly in position) surely must be just cause for impeachment of such a President.

Electronic bugging as in Watergate, is against the law, yet there is no law to stop the President from continuing the economic and human slaughterous course he chooses to pursue. He refuses to bow to the "mandate of the people" in that respect, who have chosen to abandon such a useless and destructive course. I am wondering if his aides of such impeachable character have misguided and duped him on the true situation of our war, as they supposedly did on the Watergate matter. Or have his decisions been made with full knowledge of the facts of each situation? Somehow I feel safer thinking he has been misguided and duped, rather than coldly premeditating each move.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

"Don't telephone to me from the office today unless it's important," my wife said, "because I'll be spring housecleaning and I'm not going to answer the phone."

This is the same gal who missed an important long distance call by ignoring the machine's insistent ringing. When asked why she hadn't answered the phone she said, "It sounded like a wrong number."

Another time she asked me to dial a number for her. "I think Alice is mad at me," she explained, "and if I dial she may not answer her phone."

On or off the telephone, feminine logic is fallacious, shallow, inconsistent, irrelevant, capricious — and irrefutable.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

An Open Letter To Congress Calling For Political Reform

WASHINGTON — To members of Congress:

Is it inevitable that the presidency must be diminished and enfeebled in the long aftermath of Watergate?

Some say that a crime which had such an inglorious inception can have nothing but an inglorious end — damaging the whole nation.

Some say that public trust in the political process has worn so thin that it is doubtful whether any President of either party can govern effectively for a long time to come.

Must it be this way? Is yes the only answer to that question? Do the American people have to suffer for offenses committed over which they had no control and would never condone?

I venture to say no. It is up to the Congress to prevent it — not to salvage a particular President but to safeguard the presidency itself.

How?

DISCOVERY, CONVICTION, punishment — that's the least to be done.

What is needed to turn the miasma of Watergate into a boon is evidence that the toughest, most searching and surgical measures of political reform will be taken.

The instrument of reform is crucial.

In its formative work it should embrace both political parties, both legislative and executive branches, both national committee chairmen, and outstanding public representatives.

To that end I urge the Congress to create without delay a national commission on campaign reform mandated to search out every weak provision of the law, show how it can be repaired, and report to Congress quickly what needs to be done, what must be done.

This would make light visible at the end of the Watergate tunnel.

There can be no doubt that the American people would give landslide approval.

It would equip Congress with a full-scale blueprint of reform equal to the need.

It would be reassuring proof that the unworthiness of Watergate will be made to yield a worthy dividend.

It would begin to reverse the onrushing public distrust of government and politics.

EVERY THOUGHTFUL member of Congress of both parties agrees that a weakening of the functioning of the presidency means a weakening of the nation itself.

Evidence that Watergate will not be allowed to grind to an inglorious end but will be capped with basic reform will do more than anything else to rescue the presidency from being immobilized.

Now is the time to act. The initiative should be with Congress. If Congress assumes the lead to turn outrage and dismay into the channels of reform, it will take a giant stride toward recovering its own eroded powers.

The makeup of a national commission on campaign reform should reflect the experience of both parties, since both parties will suffer if reform is not forthcoming. But it should also reflect full citizen particpation.

Such a commission should demand of Congress stronger laws than some may think Congress will enact. The commission should then mobilize public opinion which will encourage Congress to act. Congress may need no such compulsion.

Let's put campaign reform in the hands of those who believe in reform. Let's consult the American people. Let's make the crime of Watergate pay a real dividend of reform which will benefit the presidency, the Congress and the country.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Has Time Come For Restless Americans To Put Down Roots?

WASHINGTON — For millions of us, it was as natural as sap rising. Through the 1800s, this was the time of year for saddling up, loading the Conestoga and heading out — usually west. Now it has become more complicated, and to re-equip oneself with wheels requires a major investment. Finding a new place to settle demands advanced scouting, and often commitment to a lifetime of debt.

No matter. The tradition continues.

SPRING SYMBOLIZES America, or used to: new starts, limitless promise. Moving to reach them became our deepest habit. We have been proud of it because it says all things are possible if we are willing to lift roots and go.

Only now, in 1973, are more than a few isolated thinkers bringing that tradition into serious question. Together they make a strong, almost convincing argument that we would serve ourselves and our country well by reversing it. Imagine that — America, the land of deep roots and stay-at-homes.

Unlikely as it is, it is the obvious conclusion from a variety of evidence at hand. Census analysis, welfare rolls, energy crisis, abuse of the land, the frustration of so many young people who have no feeling for who they are — all say in different words: Sit still!

As the computers dissect and redissect the data fed in by the 1970 Census, they report that about 36 million Americans move their homes every year. Many of those moves are still to the west, or to Florida, but most do not even cross a county line. Seventy per cent of the nation still lives in the same state where it was born. Yet the picture is of insistent motion, fed more by economics than any other motive.

THERE ARE NEW and contradictory patterns of movement. From the earlier westward flow there have been diversions, until now the strongest current is outward from the center, toward the coasts. The big gainers in the 1960s were California, Florida, New Jersey and Maryland; the big losers Pennsylvania, Mississippi, West Virginia, Alabama, New Mexico and the Dakotas.

The historic flight of blacks from the South continued but slowed, and that region showed a net gain because the black exodus was more than matched by a white influx accompanying southern industrialization.

Within states and regions, the mass movement away from the farms has not slackened. Yet within urban areas, most center cities have lost while their suburbs gained. Newcomers to the cities were heavily black, and those crossing city lines for the suburbs were mostly white.

None of this is startlingly new, but the way in which its effects interlock with each other and the great domestic problems of this decade is just being recognized.

IF BLACKS and poor whites had stayed in the South or on the farm, many of them would be better off than in the city. The welfare burden on major cities would be far less.

If the compulsion to ricochet about like restless molecules could be controlled, federal officials would not be warning of gasoline shortages this summer. The rate at which the countryside is being paved over would not be so menacing, the rush to condominiumize our entire coastline would slacken.

If middle-class whites began upgrading instead of abandoning the cities, the ever-widening ring of suburban claptrap might slow down at least enough to be rationalized.

FOR MORE than three centuries, we have equated movement with freedom. Now so many of us have left our roots that few remember them. Among high-rise pizza parlors, our young have reached the point at which it is the older, rooted America that seems peculiar. We have grown plastic tastes and plastic morals to replace traditional ones. What kind of freedom is that?

Rather than freedom, all pointless motion produces for us today is change and newness, and those become ends in themselves. Any clear identity, anything that fits understandably in one stationary group or place, has been redefined as conformity.

The remedy, or a start toward one, would be to call a national freeze while we all think through who we are and where we are going, and whether we really have to go anywhere at all. But we are not about to sit still, even if we see that keeping moving is taking us like lemmings into the sea.

Even those of us inspired to write about it are likely to be in the midst of mortgage negotiations, booking moving vans, changing snow tires and reserving train seats. This is May, after all, and America is out there waiting.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

New Consolidation Admission That Previous One Failed

Big as life —four-column, front-page headline, in Wednesday's I-J: "County Board Merges Trio Of Departments." There are many facets to this action of three supervisors, any one of which is important enough to devote an entire column in properly discussing it.

The board appointed me chairman of the health and welfare departments when I first became a supervisor. During the 22 years I served, I worked closely with both departments, spending many, many hours with each, learning their problems. Also the members of the commission of the probation department came to me with their problems. So as a result I know about all three.

When le Baptiste said that this has been under study for five years and that it was time to act, he was speaking without personal knowledge as he has only been a supervisor for two years and four months.

People know that he and Arrigoni were the ones who pushed through the appointment of John Barrows as administrator, without any competition. Wornum, the records will show, wasn't too sure but he went along for the ride to get rid of the annoyance.

BETTY PRESLEY has done a magnificent job during the years she has been director of the Welfare Department. She has been under constant pressure, with the ever-increasing load brought on by changing federal and state requirements. It was enough to break one's health, I tell you. It's a lousy trick, whether she is willing or not, to load her up with this sort of thing. If it goes sour, in spite of her efforts, who will get the blame? Just our girl Betty, that's who.

This is a smooth attempt to cover up the fact that the administrator, the supervisors and Dr. Donovan Cooke have failed miserably in the grand consolidation of the health services instituted two years ago.

This whole deal is like a loser at the gambling tables plunging to try and cover the losses. What a lame admission of failure in Dr. Cooke's alibi, "There are benefits to be gained but it takes awhile for them to show up."

When le Baptiste says that "territorial barriers" would prevent any cooperative effort by the departments to avoid duplication, one might ask, "Just when does he think any such barriers will disappear after a consolidation?"

THERE IS THE OLD saying that "there is safety in numbers." How true in such a case as this! If for any reason whatever, the person around whom a big operation is built, is no longer available, then comes the moment of truth. All the eggs in one basket rarely works. It isn't working by the consolidation of the health services.

By their action, whether they know it or not, the three men who voted to do this thing are broadcasting that they don't know and don't intend to learn what to do, so they turn it over to someone else. I am sorry to see Bob Roumiguiere be a party to this, as he has been showing the qualities that the taxpayers are entitled to.

Riles Plans Whirlwind Tour Of Marin County

A split-second schedule for every minute of State Superintendent of Instruction Wilson Riles' visit to Marin County on June 6 has been issued by the county schools office.

Starting with a 9:30 a.m. visit to Olive School in the Novato Unified School District, Riles will travel all over the county visiting schools, teachers, administrators and residents.

Schools Riles will visit include Short School, San Rafael, Tamalpais High School, Martin Luther King School and Sausalito.

He will attend a noon picnic lunch at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, and a public reception at Mill Valley Middle School from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

After a one hour "rest" period between 5 and 6 p.m., and a similar one hour "relaxation social" period from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., the state education chief will go to a dinner at Dominican College and give a speech, "Mid-Term Report," at 9 p.m. His 12-hour visit ends at 9:30 p.m.

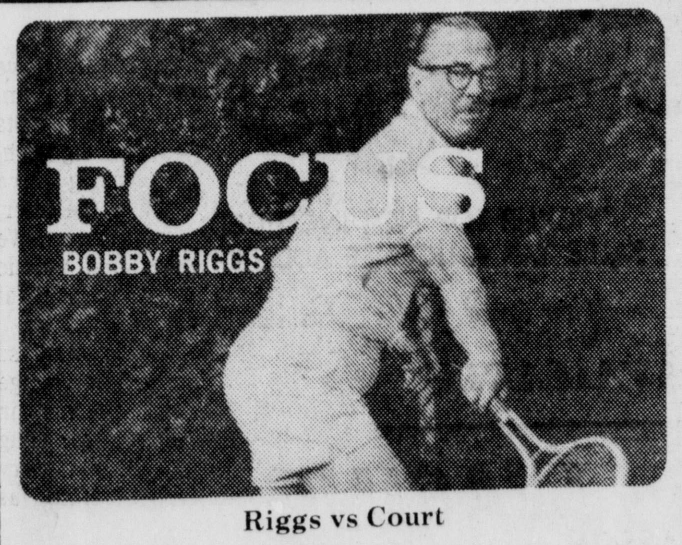
The Governor's Wishes Followed

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first black member of the Georgia Board of Regents was unanimously elected Tuesday with a white supremacist moving for the nomination.

"We normally elect a person nominated by the governor," said board member Roy Harris of Augusta. "In view of this, I move we elect Jesse Hill."

Hill, an Atlanta businessman, had his name submitted to the board by Gov. Jimmy Carter.

Harris is a longtime supporter of Alabama Gov. George Wallace.



Riggs vs Court

Are women athletes able to compete equally against men? In tennis, anyway, most experts believe not. With the advantages of strength and size, even boy champions have defeated the best women players in the world without too much difficulty. But what if the men are handicapped . . . by about 25 years? At the peak of her career, world champion Paulene Betz won matches from famous Bill Tilden. But then he was 55 years old. At the same age today, Hall of Famer Bobby Riggs is matched against Margaret Court in a $10,000 contest this weekend.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the 1972 USLTA women's singles champion?

Paving Proposed For Cedar Lane

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission has recommended that Cedar Lane, now a dirt path held in place by wood risers, be paved and steps installed to cut down on maintenance.

Chairman George L. McCoy said the commission Tuesday recommended that the city council approve the project, estimated to cost $7,000. About $6,500 has been budgeted for lane work this year, he said.

Cedar Lane runs from Beach Road past Bayview Avenue to Bella Vista Avenue.

Dominican Will Award 133 Degrees Next Week

A total of 133 students is to receive degrees from Dominican College of San Rafael in commencement ceremonies at 10:30 a.m. May 19 in Forest Meadows Theater on the campus.

Commencement speakers chosen by the graduates will include John Savant, assistant professor of English, and Christine Mary Waters, a senior from Camarillo, Ventura County.

Savant will discuss "The Inevitable Past." He is chairman of the college council and the first faculty member to be selected as a commencement speaker.

Miss Waters will speak about the "Freedom to Be." She is the third of three daughters in her family to graduate from Dominican and has served as house chairman for Fanjeaux residence hall.

Awards for distinguished service to the college will be presented by the board of trustees to Sister M. Martin Barry, professor of English, and chairman of the graduate division of the college from 1950 to 1972 and Sister M. Anita Healy, registrar since 1943.

The outstanding student award will be presented for the first time. The recipient will be announced at the ceremonies.

Degree candidates will be presented by Paul M. Hupf, attorney and chairman of the board of trustees. The degrees will be conferred by Sister M. Samuel Conlan, college president.

Ninety-three students will be awarded bachelor degrees and forty will receive master degrees. An additional 55 men and women, who will not participate in the commencement, will have completed work for elementary, secondary or special education teaching credentials.

Six graduates will receive the bachelor of arts degree, magna cum laude: Elissa Benn, Santa Rosa; Aurora Mercedes Gurdian, Leon, Nicaragua; Mary Ellen Ritter, Tiburon; Kathleen Jane Rond, Vallejo; Madeline Diane Rule, Sacramento, and Alicia Marie Snyder, San Anselmo. The bachelor of science degree, magna cum laude, will be awarded to Janny Ching Yee Chan of Happy Valley, Hong Kong.

Five students will receive the Bachelor of Arts degree, cum laude: Sister Antoinette Keogh, Auburn; Annie An-Li Lai, Taipei, Taiwan; Margaret Rose Machado, Sacramento; Roma W. Robbins, San Rafael, and Barbara Jane Thomas, San Francisco.

Other students and their home town include:

Budget Will Be Topic Of Forum

The San Rafael Town Meeting Association has announced plans for a community forum on the San Rafael city budget at 8 p.m. June 6 in city hall.

The forum will be aimed at exploring the philosophy behind the budget, according to association member Dorothy L. Breiner. City officials are expected to be in attendance, she said.

The educational and information session will be held before public hearings on the city budget, she said.

Sewer Line Contracts Announced

Contracts to repair two sewer lines damaged by January's heavy rains have been awarded by the Tamalpais Community Services District.

Publicity director Glenn Lambacher said a $7,049 contract was awarded Tuesday to Brabo Construction Co. of Mill Valley to repair a line in Northern Canyon. The federal government will pay $2,708 of the cost.

The other contract, for $2,600 was awarded to Tam Sewers Inc. to repair a washed-out line at Erica Road and Brookline Avenue with the federal grant paying $1,650.

In a related action Tuesday night, the board rejected four claims for $50,000 each from residents who say they suffered damage to their property when the Erica-Bookline sewer washed out. They are John F. Shirley, 513 Brookline Avenue, Robert W. Greenman Jr. of 515 Brookline, Martin L. Rhodes of 516 Brookline and T. Noren of 504 Andre Lane.

Awarding of a third contract for garbage service in the district was delayed to allow the board to hold an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. May 22 to study four bids, Lambacher said. A decision on the garbage franchise will be made at the board's June 12 meeting.

Lambacher said the board sold three surplus Jeeps for a total of $1,316.

Hemingway's Son Loses Libel Suit

HAILEY, Idaho (UPI) — A $600,000 libel suit brought by a son of the late author Ernest Hemingway against a weekly newspaper in Sun Valley was dismissed Wednesday by a judge.

Jack Hemingway sued George T. Fritz, editor of the Wood River Journal, for an article and editorial published last October. The paper criticized Hemingway, a member of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, for his purchase of the Half-Way Ranch in Lincoln County.

The editorial said the land purchase "finds one of the commissioners, Hemingway, doubling the bid that was offered by the Fish and Game Department."

Hemingway's attorney plans to appeal the case to the Idaho Supreme Court.

Michael Molseed stares with horror at his horribly mutilated arm this morning as College of Marin drama student Lenny Herz paints a few drops more artificial blood on the fake wound. He was among a group of students who were made up as victims of a simulated earthquake, slated to hit West Marin at 2 p.m. this afternoon and trigger off a full-scale Marin County disaster drill. All the "victims" were to be promptly dispatched by ambulances, buses and helicopters to hospitals and treatment centers by emergency medical squads.

Plan For Regional Type Government

Barrows Envisions Multipurpose Units

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County Administrator John F. Barrows has recommended that county supervisors support efforts to reform local government by creating larger, multipurpose agencies.

The board will discuss the proposal Tuesday and submit its conclusions May 18 to a subcommittee of the Governor's Council on Intergovernmental Relations, which is conducting a series of statewide hearings on local governmental reform.

The council eventually will forward recommendations to Gov. Ronald Reagan for use in drafting new legislation on local government structure.

Barrows, long a supporter of regional government as well as city-county consolidation, said yesterday his letter to the board is only "a starting point for discussion."

"The board of supervisors never has supported these ideas as enthusiastically as myself," he said, adding he expects revision of his proposals.

In his letter, Barrows said the myriad of local and regional agencies often causes agencies to waste their time and energies "attempting to coordinate authorities and revenue sources with other agencies.

"Program development and innovation, scrutiny and improvement of existing programs often become secondary considerations and the real needs of the citizens take a back seat to the wheeling and dealing with and among governmental agencies," he wrote.

"Restructuring is needed and needed now in order to make government responsive and responsible," he said, listing a number of "suggested solutions" to what he sees as overlapping administration and services.

His suggestions include:

1. Creation of a strong, multipurpose regional government with many of the powers now residing with cities or counties.
2. Creation of a multipurpose regional government carrying out the functions now provided by several existing regional entities (such as the air pollution control district and bay conservation and development commission).
3. Legislation to enhance revisions in county boundaries to provide more realistic service areas.
4. Legislation to enhance more realistic city boundaries reflecting logical service areas.
5. Legislation to enhance the possibility of city-county consolidations.
6. Legislation to enhance the possibility of city consolidations.
7. Legislation removing the limiting counties to financing services only in the unincorporated area.

The most extreme revision of his first suggestion, Barrows said, would call for "the total elimination of cities and counties as we now know them and delegation of most responsibilities to the regional government with the retention of some purely local services in small cities or boroughs."

A somewhat less radical approach, he said, would be to transfer only those services which transcend city and county boundaries such as transportation, parks and law enforcement.

His second suggestion to consolidate existing regional agencies would end the proliferation of single-purpose agencies, Barrows continued. "In this way, service demands, budgetary priorities and public interests can be evaluated one against the other and the frustrated public can look to one regional entity for services rather than a dozen or so (in the Bay Area)."

By revising county boundaries, he said, services could be improved, especially in the heavily developed metropolitan areas where service jurisdictions are ended abruptly due to county boundaries.

County boundaries are virtually unchangeable under

Petaluma Housing Probe Set

The state Contractor's Licensing Board announced today it will launch a two-week investigation of complaints by Petalumans against Condiotti Enterprises.

Residents of East Petaluma told the city council Monday that Condiotti Enterprises has failed to correct major defects in their homes. Many said plumbing, heating and foundation defects have been brought to the attention of the contractor and that no effort has been made to correct them.

Mayor Helen Putnam said today that Norman Perrault, supervising deputy of the contractor's licensing board, will spend two weeks in Petaluma listening and investigating complaints from homeowners.

Mrs. Putnam said persons wishing an appointment with Perrault should contact the city manager's office. No group meetings will be held with disgruntled homeowners, but Perrault will meet individually and investigate complaints. A follow-up meeting will be held when necessary.

The licensing board has the power to remove a contractor's license if it finds enough grounds.

Condiotti Enterprises released a statement today saying the firm has attempted to rectify legitimate complaints.

"Where investigation has shown that remedial work was necessary and the developer was responsible or felt he should solve the problem, this work has either been completed or is in the process of being completed," the statement said.

Representatives of the firm said they welcome the investigation by the contractor's licensing board. They said representatives will also continue to meet with disgruntled homeowners to demonstrate the company's good faith.

County Hopes Of Getting Hamilton Housing Dimmed

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — County hopes of acquiring Hamilton Air Force Base housing for low and moderate income families appeared to dim today with word that most of the housing probably will be retained by the military.

Representative William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, said yesterday the Coast Guard has applied for 320 of the housing units, the Army 300 and the Navy 200. The Air Force, scheduled to deactivate the base, has asked to retain 150 units, Mailliard said.

Hamilton has about 1,200 dwelling units, 500 of them in Rafael Village outside the base.

A spokesman for the congressman said today in San Francisco the requests by the military have not been acted upon by the Defense Department.

Marin supervisors last month voted 4 to 1, Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste against, to investigate acquiring Rafael Village for senior citizens and low and moderate-income family housing.

San Quentin Replacement Plan Dropped—New Prison Is Eyed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Plans to build two 400-man prisons to replace San Quentin have been scrapped and a new institution is being considered for the San Quentin site, the Reagan Administration said yesterday.

Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections, said the present San Quentin facility still is scheduled to close in late 1975, but a more modern facility could rise in its place.

San Quentin is "an impossible place to run," because of its size and age, but "you won't find any better location" for a prison, Procunier said.

New prisons also are under consideration for other locations, Procunier told the Senate Finance Committee, in view of the increasing inmate population statewide.

"What it's going to take I don't know — but we should have some idea in a very short time," he said.

Procunier's disclosure of the decision to abandon the plan to create two, 400-inmate prisons was revealed when he asked the committee to delete from next fiscal year's state budget a $1.1 million appropriation which would have financed working drawings for the facilities.

An alternative to the two prisons, he said, might be a central facility with "satellite" prisons of a few hundred inmates each nearby.

The plan, under which kitchens and power facilities could be centralized at a cost savings, might be compared to a college cluster concept.

Procunier said the cost of 400-inmate institutions appeared to be prohibitive because of per-capita cost projected at up to $25,000 annually.

The corrections department has said the prison population has increased by about 1,700 since mid-1972. It is expected to go up an additional 2,000 during the next 15 months to a total of about 23,000.

While the department has said it is sticking to its timetable for closing San Quentin, it has cautioned that the shutdown may have to be delayed because of the rise in the number of inmates.

The finance committee voted to provide the department with $160,000 to draw alternative plans to the 400-inmate facilities.

Reuss Says Nixon, Agnew Should Consider Quitting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said today President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew should consider resigning because he said the Watergate scandal had crippled the administration's credibility in foreign affairs.

Reuss, believed to be the first member of Congress publicly to suggest Nixon's resignation because of the Watergate affair, is just back from meetings in Europe and said he found "Europeans cannot understand how America can limp along with a fractured presidency for the next 44 months."

"Since he has accepted full responsibility for his administration, Mr. Nixon should consider resigning for the good of the country," Reuss said. "As a member of that administration, so should Agnew although there is no suggestion of his implication in the Watergate."

Reuss, 61, is serving his 19th consecutive year in Congress from Wisconsin. The Harvard law graduate made the trip to Europe as a member of a congressional delegation that attended a European Parliament meeting in Strasbourg, France, this week.

Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., another member of the delegation, said, "European legislative and political leaders were absolutely stunned by the continuing revelations of the Watergate affair."

Reuss's statement came as John W. Dean, fired last week as White House legal counsel and who has vowed not to be a scapegoat in the Watergate scandal, was summoned before Senate investigators for questioning under oath.

A few hours before his scheduled 3 p.m. EDT appearance, however, sources close to the

U.S. Attorney's Probe Was Kept Close Secret

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. attorney's investigation that led to the indictments of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans was kept secret from the FBI and other federal agencies, a source close to the investigation said today.

Mitchell and Stans were indicted yesterday on charges of perjury and obstructing an investigation into a financier's dealings in exchange for a $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign. They will be arraigned May 21.

The four-month investigation by U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour's office was conducted under tight security, with less than a dozen persons aware of it until it was near completion, the source said.

No one close to the investigation would spell out specifically why the assistance of other agencies was not requested.

There was speculation, however, that if FBI investigators had been used, progress reports would have been forwarded to then acting FBI director, L.

Jack E. Leonard Dies In New York

JACK E. LEONARD
Comedian is dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack E. Leonard, the rotund comedian who built a career on rapid-fire insults, died Wednesday of diabetic complications. He was 62.

Leonard had been hospitalized at Mt. Sinai Hospital for six weeks since he collapsed from a heart condition. At that time he was performing at the Rainbow Grill in Rockefeller Center.

Leonard, who started in vaudeville and became well known during the last two decades for his work in nightclubs and on television, used barbs and insults, especially directed toward other celebrities, as the basis of his act.

He once told deadpan television host Ed Sullivan, "There's nothing wrong with you that reincarnation won't cure." Another time, he told singer Perry Como, "You have a very fine voice—too bad it's in Bing Crosby's throat."

But in a more serious moment, he said, "An insult is only funny if it's ridiculous, and it's ridiculous if it's aimed at some really big shot."

His weight and his numerous crash diets—he once dropped from 350 pounds to 200—and his baldness also were the subject of his routines.

"You look like a nice bunch of people and I'm a nice bunch of people, and maybe we'll have a good time," he once told his audience.

Born Leonard Lebitsky in Chicago on April 24, 1911, Leonard said he grew up in a tough neighborhood and included among his associates gangster Baby Face Nelson. He was a lifeguard, thought about becoming a physical education instructor and then turned to dancing.

He was discovered by another comedian, Jack Waldron, and went on to a comic career. He made one movie in 1953 called "Three Sailors and a Girl," which he said was so bad it was made "strictly for driveout theaters."

He is survived by his second wife, Gladys. His first wife, Kay, an acrobat whom he met while touring USO clubs during World War II, died in 1967.

Timber Bill Wins Test In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to aid the California timber industry at the expense of Japan and other foreign log importers has won the unanimous approval of the Senate.

The bill (SB362) by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, would prohibit the export of timber from state-owned forests unless it first was sawn on four sides by a domestic mill. The bill was sent to the Assembly yesterday on a 27-0 vote.

Collier said the measure was intended to help protect the jobs of 200 lumber workers on the North Coast. He said it would affect only about 2 per cent of the timber in California and would not apply to private or federal lands.

Betty Grable Is Hospitalized

"Her condition is serious but improving," a spokesman for St. John's Hospital .

Guidelines Are Drawn To Ease Gas Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an attempt to minimize gasoline shortages this summer, the administration has unveiled voluntary guidelines for the petroleum industry to insure that oil and gasoline customers are not cut off from their supplies.

Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who outlined the new program before the Senate Banking Committee Thursday, said the guidelines call for suppliers to deliver to customers the same proportion of gasoline they received before shortages arose.

The guidelines said that "each refiner, marketer, jobber and distributor will agree to make available in each state to each of its customers ... the same percentage of its total supply of crude oil and products that it provided during each quarter of the base period." The base period is the last quarter of 1971 and the first three quarters of 1972.

Industry reaction to the guidelines was favorable.

A spokesman for the Standard Oil Co. of California said the firm had already drawn up plans to allocate gasoline to all its 21,000 nationwide retail outlets according to the way it has in the past. In other words, the spokesman said, "we're trying to be fair to everybody. We're treating all outlets the same way as we have before. It's essentially what the President proposed."

Richard I. Galland, president of American Petrofina, said in Dallas, Tex. that the new guidelines are "a good thing."

In related developments:

—The Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) said in a letter to the 50 state governors that there was no need to enforce gas rationing this summer, but repeated earlier predictions that some "spot shortages" would occur.

—The National Petroleum Council said production capacity of domestic petroleum refineries would have to be nearly doubled by 1985 to meet the nation's projected demands by that year.

—The Senate Interior Committee approved a bill to strength the President's authority to impose rationing in case of "extraordinary shortages or dislocations in the distribution" of fuel.

Only Small Cuts Seen At Hospitals

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — There will be "no real upset" in programs of state hospitals for the mentally retarded during the next year, says Acting State Mental Hygiene Director Andrew G. Robertson.

Robertson told the Senate Finance Committee yesterday he expects the number of patients in the hospitals to be decreased by only 100 during the next fiscal year to total 9,700.

Robertson noted relatives of patients in the hospitals had become disturbed by the Reagan administration's earlier proposal to phase out the hospitals by 1982.

He predicted it would take a "very long period of time" before local areas would be able to meet the needs of mentally retarded patients.

Robertson said there were no plans to close state hospitals for the mentally retarded during the next year. But he said it was hoped Los Angeles County would take over administration of Metropolitan Hospital in Norwalk and San Joaquin County would do likewise with Stockton State Hospital.

Power Companies See No Summer Shortages

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Come summer, householders will flip a switch and presto!—lights will go on, radios will squawk, toasters will pop and other appliances will perform their designated miracles.

That's the good news today from power companies who pooh-pooh reports of electrical shortages for the upcoming season.

New York City, Chicago and Los Angeles may face a drop in electric supplies due mainly to the increased use of air conditioners in the "dog days" of late July and August.

For the past three summers New Yorkers have been hit by brownouts due to generator failures. But Consolidated Edison Corp., hurt by environmentalists holding up installation of nuclear power plants, says the city will have adequate supplies of electricity—if all its units stay in operation.

Los Angeles may have similar difficulties, a power official said, due to air pollution control regulations prohibiting use of high-sulphuur fuel, and a decrease of electric supplies from the Pacific Northwest.

The question of nuclear energy as a source of supply for electricity kept popping up in various sections of the country — a probable indication of the direction suppliers want to move to meet the demands of consumers.

In Illinois, for instance, Commonwealth Edison Co., which serves 8 million of the state's 11 million residents, said it will have adequate power to meet demands this summer if it can get permission from the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to operate one of two new nuclear units at Zion, Ill., at "significant power.." If not, "the possibility exists that brownouts will occur," an official said.

Hearings have been scheduled later this month on whether to grant Commonwealth Edison a license to operate the nuclear units against the wishes of environmental groups arguing the plant does not possess adequate safety devices.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Truce Violation

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops firing antiaircraft guns today forced down two truce team helicopters carrying government and Communist officers and then held the occupants at gunpoint for nearly three hours before permitting them to fly on to Saigon, the South Vietnamese Command said.

One of the helicopters was hit and received slight damage but there was no report of casualties. It and the other chopper were able to continue the flight from the incident 55 miles north of Saigon to Bien Hoa Air Base just north of the city.

Skylab Launch

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — With simultaneous countdowns running as smoothly as ever, dual Skylab launch crews stepped up the pace today for firing America's first space station into orbit Monday.

"Both countdowns have gone quite smoothly," launch director Walter J. Kapryan said yesterday. "It's as smooth a countodwn operation as we've ever had."

Astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz, were in Houston today for their last major medical examinations.

Bomber Raids

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplanes including swingwing F111 bombers flew heavy raids across southern Cambodia today within hours after the U.S. Congress refused to approve official funding for the air campaign here.

Some of the strikes were so close to Cambodian forces fighting off rebel attacks that U.S. air controllers refused to authorize them until they were assured that "the ground commander assumes responsibility for short rounds," meaning those which could possibly land on government units.

Impoundment Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four times this year federal courts have ruled President Nixon violated the Constitution when he decided last December not to spend more than $12 billion appropriated by Congress, some of it over his veto.

Yesterday, the Senate voted 66-24 to try to make it illegal for any president to impound funds in that manner unless Congress ratifies the impoundment within 60 days.

At the same time, it voted 86-4 to spend even less than Nixon proposed in his budget for fiscal 1974, which starts July 1.

The budget called for spending $268.7 billion. The Senate voted to hold spending to a ceiling $700 million below that figure. If it appropriates over the ceiling, all programs would be cut back proportionately.

Crisis Ends

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The longest political crisis in postwar Europe has ended after 163 days with the formation of a five-party coalition government led by a strong pro-Western Socialist, Prime Minister Joop den Uyl.

Den Uyl and 14 other cabinet ministers took the oath of office today from Queen Juliana and then formally took office.

The deadlock, by far the longest in the Netherlands since World War II and the longest anywhere else in Europe, began last Nov. 29 when the country's general elections proved inconclusive.

Natural Death

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI) — "The air has been cleared," said the daughter of former Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., after autopsy results announced yesterday indicated the senator died of heart failure, and was not poisoned.

Dr. Stanley Hall, a Hannibal pathologist, announced the results at a tense news conference at Levering Hospital here.

Hall said the autopsy showed no finding of chocolate in Long's stomach, no evidence of poison in his body and no evidence of a brain tumor.

Lindsay Brother's Wife Seeks Divorce

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wife of Mayor John Lindsay's twin brother Wednesday filed for a divorce in Manhattan Supreme Court after 27 years of marriage.

David Lindsay, who is a lawyer with the form of Polk and Wardwell, was married to Eleanor Marion in 1943 almost immediately after his graduation from Yale. The Lindsays have four children ranging in age from 17 to 24.

WILLIAM (MARTY) WONG
Wins new honors

Scholarship Is Awarded To Newsboy

Wong's essays on business achievement and thrift placed him among 24 young men throughout the state to receive the scholarship award, according to Allan G. Howells, Independent-Journal circulation manager.

The carrier for route 2308 in Marinwood since July 1967, Wong, 15, is the only I-J newsboy to receive 59 monthly achievement awards. He was named Carrier of the Month in June 1969, as well as having received the top producer award many times.

Wong, of 2140 Elderberry Lane in San Rafael, is a sophomore at Terra Linda High School.

In his essay on business achievement, Wong writes, "I have pride in the fact that not only am I a vital link in getting the news to people, but I'm serving the community, giving my customers good service as I bring them the latest news as soon as possible. I am making a worthwhile contribution to the community through the distribution of news."

Wong plays clarinet, bugle and trumpet and is active in sports, enjoying bowling, baseball and football. He is president of the chess club and a member of the scholarship club at Terra Linda High.

No Malignancy Tissues Are Found

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Cornelia Wallace, wife of Gov. George Wallace, was hospitalized Wednesday when doctors discovered a test for uterine cancer showed "an atypical pap smear."

However, doctors said Mrs. Wallace underwent a cervical conization—a process where the walls of the cervix are scraped —and said there were no traces of malignancy.

Teacher Looks Back Upon Fond Memories

Catherine Burch, principal of Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera since it was built 20 years ago, will retire next month, ending a teaching career that's spanned four decades.

She will recall her 20 years with the Larkspur Corte Madera School District with nothing but pleasure, said Mrs. Burch. "It's been such a happy experience, I've enjoyed every minute."

Born in Willows, Glen County, she went to high school in Marysville, then to the University of California at Berkeley and San Francisco State College.

She began elementary school teaching in Marysville, then moved to the mountains. She looks back on her days in one-room schools with pleasure too . . . "I was young and we used to ski and go fishing at recess when I was at Seneca in Plumas County . . ."

But she certainly doesn't consider the oldtime schools superior to Neil Cummins.

Teaching methods have improved over the years. Education is better. Children are more sophisticated, more knowledgeable. They've had infinitely more experiences by the time they get to kindergarten."

The new open classroom concept bears some resemblance to the old one-room schools, she agreed, "but it's a spiral not a full circle. It comes around but when it comes back it comes out higher. Everything is better."

Mrs. Burch first came to the Larkspur School District in 1945, when her late husband got a job with the Ford Motor Company in San Francisco. She was appointed teaching principal of the new Neil Cummins School when it was built in 1953.

"This was all marsh then," she said, pointing at the Corte Madera Town Park which joins the school grounds. "The school was built with state aid. Neil Cummins was superintendent. He and I used to go around counting houses and foundations to see how many children could be expected."

The school originally was for the first three grades, then kindergarten through sixth grade were added, then seventh and eighth. Students from San Clemente School on the other side of the freeway transfer there after sixth grade. There are 560 students.

Neil Cummins School is in an ideal setting for an elementary school, with the grassy expanses of the town park next door, and a reed-fringed slough winding past the playground. Mrs. Burch, who describes herself as "a nature lover of sorts" is a member of the Sierra Club and the Audubon Society. She can look from her office window and watch egrets, wild ducks, meadowlarks, blackbirds, mocking birds and killdeer.

"The school has a nice community feeling and good relationships with the town — they are more than welcome here on school grounds, and we are more than welcome to use the park."

After her retirement Mrs. Burch, who has a home in Fairfax, intends to travel, visit friends and relatives, and perhaps do some volunteer work in Marin.

Over the years Mrs. Burch has left her mark on the school. It has traditions that students remember long after they've left for Redwood High School — like the Crazy Hat Day when the whole school dresses in costume, the talent show, and an active student council. Mrs. Burch often recognizes mothers and fathers of new kindergarteners, for she once taught them.

"We have good control of the youngsters," she said, when asked if she was a strict disciplinarian. "We have high standards and the children live up to them. They are proud of their school and proud of themselves."

Fuel Crisis Probe Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Transportation Committee announced yesterday it will hold its first hearing into the increasing cost of gasoline and the fuel shortage "crisis" May 25 at Los Angeles.

The hearing will be part of a legislative investigation ordered by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti to determine whether there actually is a "crisis" or whether the situation is what he described as a "carefully orchestrated" oil company "excuse" to raise prices.

Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, committee chairman, said the first hearing at the Old State Building in Los Angeles would take testimony from transit districts, governmental units, businesses, consumers and service station operators "who are having difficulty getting fuel."

The second hearing on June 1 in San Francisco will receive testimony from major brand and independent oil producers along with refiners. The third hearing in Sacramento June 21 will deal with "the role the state should assume in alleviating the current fuel shortage," Meade said.

Section Of Budget

The Independent-Journal passed on incorrect information in yesterday's issue concerning the Novato Fire Protection District's preliminary budget. The maintenance budget was given as $103,336 up $26,553 from the current budget. The maintenance budget should have been $141,336, up $64,161 from the current budget of $77,175.

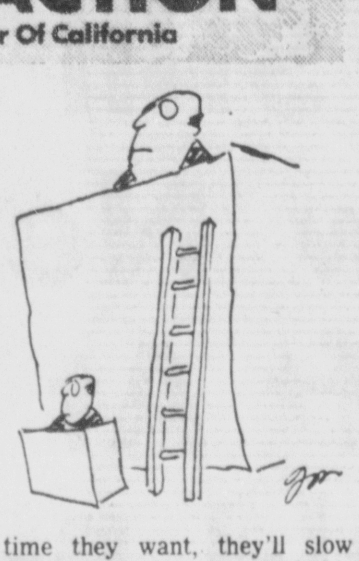
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Appeal From Small Claims



"I wuz robbed! The judge musta been out of his skull! I want my case reheard in a higher court!"

Law suit losers can indeed appeal. As a matter of fact, so can winners, if, for example, they get an award that is less than they ask for.

The one exception is Small Claims Court. If you sue — and lose — no appeal. Suppose that you're not the one who sues, but the one sued — the defendant? If you lose, that's different. The Small Claims defendant can appeal, since he didn't choose that court in the first place.

Well, Charley Corpus sued Sam Saddly in a fender-bender and won a judgment for $180. 'Unfair!'' Sam said. "I appeal!"

"Fine," said the court clerk. "Only first you have to put up $180 cash or post a bond."

"But I'm broke," Sam said sadly. "Cold, stony broke. Should I be robbed by a bad court decision just because I haven't any money?"

He found a lawyer who was willing to get his case reviewed in the California Supreme Court. Charley Corpus fought the case.

"The Small Claims Court," he said, "is for the cases $500 or under. The filing fee is only $2. Attorneys aren't allowed to present cases for clients. The idea is to settle small cases fast and without a lot of fuss. Now, if the losers can appeal any time they want, they'll slow things up for months. And this will encourage delays and frivolous appeals and just clog the higher courts up more."

"All that Corpus says is true," Sam's attorney admitted. "But it's just as hard on a poor man to lose a small case as for a rich man to lose a big one. So the poor man should have a careful review too, and not be barred by having to post bond or cash."

The Supreme Court ruled in effect, "Corpus is wrong; Saddly is right. It is unconstitutional to make a loser put up an appeals bond to have a small claims decision re-heard 'upstairs'. This is the taking of property without due process of law. Remember that a lawyer can't represent people in Small Claims Court. A person can only have a lawyer for the first time after he appeals. Keeping him from a lawyer by forcing him to post bond amounts to a taking of property without a fair hearing." (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

CIA Furnished Equipment For Ellsberg Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Robert E. Cushman acknowledged today he authorized the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to furnish a wig, fake eyeglasses and other equipment used in the 1971 burglary of the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Cushman, now commandant of the Marine Corps and former deputy CIA director, said his action was "perfectly proper" and conformed with orders from higher authority.

Cushman cut short a European trip to return to Washington and testify before three separate congressional inquiries into possibly illegal CIA involvement in domestic security matters.

Killing Of Taxi Driver Admitted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Clifford T. Lawrence, 21, arrested as a result of painstaking work by a police fingerprint expert, pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of killing a taxi driver.

Superior Court Judge John Ertola set June 1 for sentencing.

Fred Hoofer, 54, was slain on Nov. 24, 1971, in the Hunters Point section.

Lawrence was arrested after police technician Ken Moses linked him to the crime—more than a year after it happened—by determining his fingerprints on the murder weapon.

Gunmen Hit Gas Station

Attendant William Frank Kinney Jr., 20, said a car with two men in their 20s pulled up to the gasoline pumps at 3:20 a.m. He said one of the men pointed a pistol at him and forced him into the men's room.

Police said cigarettes, oil and transmission fluid were also stolen.

Judge Orders Trio To Appear On Burglary

Three men, who allegedly tried to sleep their way out of being arrested, have been ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Wednesday to answer changes of attempted burglary.

Following a lengthy preliminary hearing yesterday and Wednesday, Municipal court judge Gary W. Thomas held the three to answer. They are Kevin Sanford Walter, 24, of Marin City; Kelly O. Green, 19, of Mill Valley, and Nelson Clark Ritter, 18, of Tamalpais Valley.

The three have been in Marin County Jail since April 30, when sheriff's deputies responded to a burglar alarm at the Sausalito Bait and Tackle Shop at Waldo Point. Officers said they found the trio feigning sleep in the grass near the store, which had been broken into.

present law, he added.

Many of the same problems apply to city boundaries, Barrows continued, though noting city boundaries can be legally changed by a vote of residents.

Barrows also urged that state legislation be enacted to make it easier for police and fire services to merge on a county-wide basis.

Currently, residents of incorporated communities in Marin pay for not only their local police and fire departments but also a portion of the county's police and fire protection to unincorporated areas.

Patrick Gray, and might well have wound up—as did other FBI data on the Watergate case —in the hands of White House aides.

The federal grand jury also indicted financier Robert L. Vesco, former board chairman of Internation Controls Corp. (ICC), and Harry L Sears, former Republican leader of the New Jersey senate.

The four defendants will be arraigned in Federal Court Monday.

Mitchell and Stans were the first former cabinet members indicted since the Teapot Dome scandal in Wyoming 50 years ago.

If convicted of the charges Mitchell and Stans would face possible prison terms of up to 50 years and fines of as much as $75,000 on six counts of perjury and three of obstructing justice.

Both men are also under investigation in connection with the break-in last June at Democratic National Headquarters at the Watergate office complex in Washington.

Mitchell is now a partner in the New York law firm of Mudge Rose Guthrie Alexander and Mitchell. His office said he was expected to be at work this afternoon.

Mitchell is legally entitled to practice law while his indictment is pending. However, a lawyer is automatically disbarred in New York once he is found to have committed a crime that would be a felony under state law.

Both men yesterday claimed they are innocent of the charges.

Brezhnev Trip

WARSAW (UPI) — Soviet Communist Party boss Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today for a 24-hour unofficial visit in preparation for his trip next week to West Germany.

Senate's special Watergate investigating committee said Dean might not go before staff investigators today even though he had been subpoenaed to appear this week in advance of public sessions starting next Thursday.

Dean said yesterday that efforts were under way to keep him from testifying "fully and freely" about the Watergate scandal.

Reuss made his comments in an interview with the Columbia Broadcasting System. Obey issued a statement.

"Before leaving for Europe I was asked if I thought Watergate would affect the President's ability in dealing in foreign affairs, and I said No. I know now that I was dead wrong," said Obey.

Obey, 35, first came to Congress in 1969 when he won election to the Wisconsin seat vacated by Melvin R. Laird when he was named defense secretary by Nixon. Obey was reelected in 1970 and 1972.

At the federal court house a few blocks from Capitol Hill, the Watergate grand jury met again to hear testimony from former Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray.

Dean issued a new statement suggesting a concerted effort to "get me" following published reports about what he knows about involvement of high-level officials in efforts to cover up the Watergate scandal.

The 34-year-old lawyer, terming unspecified news stories inaccurate and incomplete, said he would tell the truth and not shoulder the blame for anyone.

Gray resigned the FBI post April 27 after acknowledging last summer he destroyed some documents Dean gave him. Gray was reported to have said he was told the papers should not "see the light of day." They were taken from the office of G. Howard Hunt, who pleaded guilty in January to participating in the Watergate bugging.

Questioning of Dean and Gray followed indictment of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government and obstruct justice. The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in New York in connection with a secret $200,000 contribution to Nixon's reelection campaign.

The Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President argued in U.S. District Court in Washington today that the contribution —by New York financier Robert L. Vesco, who was indicted with Mitchell and Stans — was legal.

Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. said in a 383-page sworn statement released yesterday that he was told that Mitchell ordered the June 17 break-in at the Democrat's Watergate headquarters because he was pleased with the results of a earlier burglary there.

McCord said he also was told that Mitchell received reports on conversations monitored on tapped telephone lines of high-level Democrats; approved a $250,000-plus budget for political espionage, and asked his political agents to get the blackmail material from a Las Vegas, Nev., newspaper office.

He said the material concerned a Democratic presidential candidate, whom he did not name. But he indicated it "might possibly" have been Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. He said the plot was not carried out.

McCord, who was serving as security chief for Nixon's campaign when he was arrested in the June 17 break-in, said all his information about Mitchell came from co-conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, former campaign finance council.

OBITUARIES

Laura E. Eggers Dies At 78

Laura E. Eggers of San Rafael, a resident of Marin County since 1922, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 78.

A native of Elgin, Ill., she worked for a time at the Elgin Watch Company there before moving to Marin.

Mrs. Eggers, of 107 Shaver Street, was the wife of the late John F. Eggers, an employee of the Marin County Housing Authority active in youth activities. He died in 1957.

Surviving are two sons, Warren Eggers of San Rafael and Milton Eggers of Richmond, and one grandchild.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Friends may call at the mortuary after noon tomorrow.

MRS. RAY

Funeral for Florence L. Ray, 72, long-time Novato resident, will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Mrs. Ray died Wednesday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness. She had moved to Petaluma two years ago to make her home with a granddaughter, Judy Ramponi, 1425 Elizabeth Drive.

She was a native of Kansas and moved to San Francisco as a youngster. Mrs. Ray and her late husband, John, had lived in Novato for many years.

She is also survived by two other grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be Sunday at 8 p.m. at the funeral home. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

OTTO FINGER

Otto Finger, 86, of Novato, a retired engineer for the Milwaukee Railroad, died yesterday at Novato General Hospital after a long illness.

Finger, a resident of the Hill Road Convalescent Hospital, formerly was a resident of San Rafael. He was a native of Germany.

Surviving are a daughter, Edith Parsons of Honolulu, and two grandchildren. Private family services were to be held today at Wilson and Kratzer Mortuaries, Richmond, and burial at Rolling Hills Memorial Park, Richmond.

GEORGE H. GUNDERSON

Funeral for George H. Gunderson of San Anselmo, owner of a San Francisco office furniture sales firm, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Gunderson, of 25 Calumet Avenue, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 70..

Gunderson was president of Beier and Gunderson Inc., a firm he founded in San Francisco in 1936.

A native of San Francisco, he was a resident of Marin County for 36 years.

He was a life member of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Cypress Lawn Cemetery in Colma.

HAROLD CARDWELL

Funeral for Harold R. (Slue) Cardwell, former Sausalito fireman, has been held in Arlington, Tex.

Cardwell died last Thursday after a long illness at a relative's home in Texas while on a visit. He was 52.

Cardwell, a native of Texas, had lived in Marin for 28 years. He retired from the Sausalito Fire Department in 1970 after 24 years of service, and was currently employed by a Sausalito taxi firm.

He resided at 524 Spring Street in Sausalito.

He is survived by three brothers, James and William Cardwell of Fort Worth, Tex., and Jack Cardwell of Bedford, Tex., and two sisters, Mrs. Odell Clark and Mrs. Cody Sandiffer of Arlington, Tex.

Burial was held in Morre Cemetery, Arlington, Tex.

Brains, Beauty Go Hand In Hand

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)— The University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music has long been famous for its fine musicians. Now the school has gained an added reputation.

In the past decade, six women students at Eastman have been victors in the Miss Rochester or Miss New York State talent and beauty competitions. Eastman's most recent winner is Judith Ann Keithly, a blue-eyed sophomore pianist, who won the Miss Rochester and Miss New York State titles this year.

Ends Role With Rank Of Captain

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI) — When Maurice Brooks opened an amateur production of "Once Upon A MAttress" at the playhouse on this Army post, he was a first lieutenant. Shortly after the last curtain fell, he became a captain.

His commander, Lt. Col. Wayne C. Hogan, used the occasion to surprise Brooks, a helicopter pilot from Chicago, and pinned the double silver bars on the clown costume Brooks wore. "I guess I had the last laugh," said Brooks.

'Consumer Hotline' Drawing Customers

About 35 to 50 people per day in Marin have been using a new "consumer hotline" telephone to voice complaints, it was reported to the Marin County Human Rights Commission last night.

Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department which runs the hotline and serves as staff to the commission, said that complaints have come from people ranging from "a busty lady" calling about a dress with a built-in bra which fell apart at a party to motorists objecting to auto repair bills.

About one-fourth of the calls have been complaints against landlords, he said. The department has always handled grievance calls of this type.

Files have been started on only 62 cases, Hood said, since the department resolved most of the rest in one day without heavy paperwork.

Hood is still trying to win support for the program from the commission which is divided on the issue and voted last February against trying it out. In spite of the commission, the county supervisors decided last month to give it a 90-day trial.

The department's existence hangs partially on the experiment's success, since the county administrator has recommended that the department be junked during June budget hearings.

Commissioners said little for or against the hotline last night.

Commissioner Lily Whittle said that she felt the Better Business Bureau could probably handle most of the complaints.

Commissioner Leland S. Bright continued to defend the program as he has previously. "The proof that you're accomplishing something is that you're solving about 30 cases a day without putting them down on paper," he said.

But commissioners did seem to be moving around to accepting the idea when they discussed how much staff time should go to various projects next year, provided that the department is not dissolved.

They agreed that about 60 per cent of staff time would be spent on human rights grievance and consumer complaint phone calls, about 15 per cent would go to working on promoting fair employment practices for women and minorities and about 30 per cent towards solving human rights crises and promoting moderate income housing.

The commission also decided to try to meet more often each month as a whole instead of in committees and set June 7 as the date of its next meeting.

Dixie Trustees Cut 15 Teachers For Next Year

The Dixie School District board has ordered 15 teachers cut from the payroll next fiscal year because of sagging enrollment.

The board on Wednesday issued final layoff notices to the teachers, including one speech therapist, according to Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff. The board had previously issued "tentative" notices to the group of low seniority instructors.

The action came after lengthy discussion with representatives of the Dixie Teachers Association, which repeated arguments that two teachers be allowed to share one teaching position, Goff said.

Although the board has agreed to rehire the dismissed teachers as substitutes as positions open, it took no action on a proposal that four substitute positions be created next school year, he said.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

CURRICULUM — Said it will meet in special session at 8 p.m. June 6 to discuss curriculum matters and textbook selection.

BUDGET — Called for community views on an estimated budget of $4,700,000 for 1973-74.

CITIZENS COMMITTEE — Called for applicants to a citizens' financial committee charged with studying the impact of SB 90 on school finances.

IMPROVEMENT — Approved the following expenses: $600 for watering of trees near Terra Linda High School; $3,000 for walkway construction at Lucas Valley School, and $5,000 for a lighting system at Bernard Hoffman School.

VICE PRINCIPALS — Appointed Michael Glose, Persis Newman, Matha Smith, William Malet, Daisy Hatten, Jack Klippensteen, Dolores Scholl and Edith Elliott as vice principals for 1973-74. The posts pay $1,000, in addition to regular teaching salaries.

READING — Appointed teachers Olga Hemingway, Jean Schafer, Suzanne Coffill, Marge Chance, Bernadine Reilly, June MacKenzie and Elizabeth Hamstra as reading specialists for 1973-74. The posts pay $250, in addition to regular teaching salaries.

RETIREMENT — Announced the retirmeent of Marjorie Beyer, a teacher at Bernard Hoffman School for the past 17 years.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Appointed Curtis Kalstad and Otto Geiger as summer school principals at a salary of $1,400 each. The board also appointed eight "teachers in charge" and 20 instructors for the summer school program, teachers in charge receiving $800 and instructors, $600.

MUSIC — Appointed Joseph Curatilo as director of the summer school music conservatory program at a salary of $1,400. Two teachers, to receive $1,000 each, and seven teaching aides to receive $200 each, were also appointed for the music program.

ADJOURNMENT — Said the board will meet at 8 p.m. May 24 in the district office, one day later than usual since several board members had previous commitments on the regular meeting date.

Steen's Tax Rap Set At $434,154

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A federal judge ruled Wednesday that one-time uranium millionaire Charles Steen owed more than $434,154 in back taxes but not $1.3 million as demanded by the government.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Thompson said the exact amount would be worked out by Steen, his lawyers and the Internal Revenue Service. The decision was announced after a two-day hearing.

DOCTOR'S DILEMMA

What do you do when your wife gives you a Christmas present? You use it, of course. That's how come Dr. Ken Bunnell of Coos Bay, Ore., drives a car with a personalized license plate that says "KWACK." His wife, Rosie, wanted to give him something different for Christmas so she ordered the personalized plates for his car. The doctor says he has taken his share of ribbing from patients.

Ross Residents Want 'More House Closed

A group of Ross residents asked the town council last night for help in shutting down what they described as a combined commune and school-for-sex operating in their neighborhood.

The residents, none of whom identified themselves, said the residence, at 16 Glenwood Avenue, is operating as a branch of the More House, a communal organization with other Bay Area branches.

They told of traffic, noise, naked children romping in the yard, and one woman said the operation had all the characteristics of a "whore house." A $45 course in "human sensuality" recently was offered at the home, and it drew a large weekend crowd, the group said.

"There might be some redeeming factor in this," said a neighbor, "but I don't think it belongs in Ross."

Mayor Frederick S. Allen said he had tried in vain to notify the home's owner, a man named Boynton, of violations of town codes. A certified letter was returned unclaimed, he said.

Elliott said he had received word from a San Francisco attorney representing the group that the situation would be corrected, but promised to investigate further.

The Ross Town Council Also:

GENERAL PLAN — Declared there was no environmental impact on land use in updating the town general plan and deferred final action on the open space and conservation elements of the plan until June 14.

CLAIMS — Rejected $300,000 false arrest claims by five young persons held on suspicion of attempted burglary of Katharine Branson School, but subsequently released by authorities.

SEWER — In return for $800 payment, granted a sewer easement to the Ross Valley Sanitary District near the Post Office parking lot.

EASEMENTS — Swapped easements with the County of Marin in generally the same region, one to serve as a bikepath and the other for drainage purposes.

TRACY — Asked investigation of the cost of oil-coating the dusty approach to Natalie Coffin Greene Park, a problem which has plagued the nearby residence of Richard L. Tracy on Lagunitas Road.

VARIANCES — Granted variances for assorted home construction projects to Ned H. Hong of Fernhill Avenue, John I. Malarin of Willow Avenue and Gerald R. Knecht, Shanley Lane and Fernhill.

MAINTENANCE — Held for further revision a proposed Ross Common maintenance contract with the Ross School District.

Mitchell Tried Influence Use, Says Sevareid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television commentator Eric Sevareid Thursday said that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell tried in 1969 to influence a ruling from two Supreme Court justices in a set of wiretapping cases.

The effort was unsuccessful, Sevareid said on his nightly commentary on the CBS evening news.

"It is now known, though never heretofore published, that in the spring of '69 Attorney General Mitchell sent a Justice Department emissary privately to the Supreme Court," Sevareid said.

"There he tried to influence two justices on a pending series of cases involving wiretapping. The justices ignored this extraordinary violation of the separation of powers principle and they ruled against the department."

Fugitive From Georgia Nabbed

Stephen Allan Sharp, 23, of Norwood Avenue, Ross, was arrested by Belvedere police at 1 a.m. yesterday after a computer check revealed he was wanted on a fugitive warrant for burglary in Georgia.

Sharp was booked into Marin county jail in lieu of $5,044 bail to await Georgia authorities.

Belvedere police said Sharp was called in for questioning about some property damage in the area. A computer check through the National Crime Information Center revealed an outstanding traffic warrant in San Mateo county and the Georgia warrant.

Ross Officials Eye Film Shooting Fee

Ross town officials served notice last night they would like to cash in on the community's popularity with film and television commercial makers.

The question arose during discussion of dust conditions on the approach to Natalie Coffin Greene Park, particularly noticeable during the recent filming there of a Hallmark Hall of Fame movie for television, for which heavy equipment had to be moved.

Ross scenes also have been captured for films such as "The Candidate," "The Godfather," and Woody Allen's "Take the Money and Run." Avon commercials have been shot in Ross as well.

The council asked Town Atty. Robert W. Elliott to look into charging the companies a fee of several hundred dollars or perhaps the filmmakers bonding themselves against possible damage to town property.

Larkspur and the County of Marin already have fee schedules.

Councilman John P. Maginis wondered good-naturedly if the town also might screen the subject matter.

"I wouldn't like to see 'The Last Tango' (In Paris) filmed in the Ross Common," he said.

Winner Is Named In Antismog Rally

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — A propane-powered car built by a student team from the Oregon University of Technology was declared the winner Wednesday of a 400-mile collegiate, antismog rally.

The winning driver in the 10-car field was Glenn Klinger, whose vehicle took 396 points out of a possible 500 based on the car's drivability, fuel economy and emission of pollutants.

Singer Pleads Innocent In Child Support Case

Singer Glenn Yarbrough, former Sausalito resident, will appear in Marin Municipal Court June 14 for setting a date for his trial on a misdemeanor charge of nonsupport of his two children.

He slipped unnoticed in and out of Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas's court Wednesday to enter an innocent plea in the case, which was not on the regular calendar.

The 42-year-old singer's former wife, Margaret Jones, and two children, Glenn Sean, 14, and Stephany, 12, live in Inverness.

For more than a week, in mid-April, law officers throughout California dogged Yarbrough's footsteps at concert dates, trying to serve him with a warrant obtained by Marin County Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams in the support case..

He was finally served April 27 in the Los Angeles County community of Culver City, at the home of his present mother-in-law. He is free on $12,000 bail, the amount he is said to owe in child support.

He had not been scheduled to make his first appearance in the Marin Municipal Court until Monday.

Bathing Suit Contest Out

CAPE MAY, N.J. (UPI) — Contestants in the New Jersey Blueberry Queen contest won't have to appear in bathing suits this year.

The executive director of the contest, Phil Sheridan, said he agreed with the girls who objected that "they will never be seen in a bathing suit as part of their duties as the N.J. Blueberry Queen."

The winner helps promote blueberries.

Air Force Recruiters After Dogs

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — A new version of the old recruiting slogan "Uncle Sam wants you!" now comes, in effect, from the U.S. Air Force. It is "Uncle Sam wants your dog!"

Or alternatively: "The Air Force needs a few good dogs."

That is, if your dog is a German shepherd, 1 to 3 years old, weighs about 60 pounds, and stands at least 23 inches at the shoulder.

The Air Force will pay you up to $150 for a good dog, unless, of course, you would like to give him to the government. If you have a dog to offer you can write to Department of Defense, Dog Division, Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., 78236.

All this was explained to Pentagon newsmen by Air Force Maj. Robert M. Sullivan, director of security police.

T/Sgt. William T. Vernon of Langley Air Force Base, Va., and Wolf, a 3-year-old, 66-pound male Shepherd dog with a gold capped tooth then demonstrated some of the things your dog would learn in the Air Force.

Major Sullivan said the dogs need not be thoroughbreds but must have predominant German shepherd characteristics. The Air Force insists on this because, he said, the shepherds have two coats, an outer coat and an under coat. In cold weather, the undercoat naturally thickens. In hot weather it thins out but remains sufficient for insulation against excessive heat. Apart from this feature, he observed, "It is just easier to handle a single breed."

Right now, the Air Force is looking for 100 good dogs. But during fiscal 1974, beginning June 30, it will need 1,300.

Evry dog gets 14 weeks of basic training in patrol duties with military police. That includes learning to attack by command. That is how Wolf broke his tooth. It got caught in the padding worn by a man who was the object of a training attack.

Wolf demonstrated by searching the briefing room for a small packet of marijuana which was concealed beneath a trash basket. It took him one minute of sniffing. Then he knocked over the basket and grabbed the marijuana and brought it to his trainer. A second time he found the marijuana behind a curtain with 15 seconds.

A dog that is to find bombs is taught special sensitivity to the TNT content of bombs. When he smells a bomb, the dog does not grab it, however. He freezes, pointing in the direction where it is concealed.

Farm Bureau Will Have Fair Booth

Marin County Farm Bureau directors have agreed to have a booth at the West Marin Junior Livestock Show at Point Reyes station June 16 and 17, according to scretary Ulla McLean.

Directors also reported at their Wednesday meeting that the bureau, which has 344 members, has started a 1974 membership drive.

Directors didn't take any action on the proposed, 10-acre lot development in Hicks Valley because they didn't have enough information, Mrs. McLean said. They agreed to support whatever stand is taken by the agricultural advisory committee, which is reviewing the matter, she said.

In response to a query from Grover Roberts, commodity specialist with the California Farm Bureau Federation, directors expressed interest in participating in a multicounty livestock meeting this fall.

Time and place haven't been set but the meeting would cover pollution, zoning, taxation and milk prices, Mrs. McLean said.

Later, at the Grand Opening Sale

You're cordially invited to a Grand Opening Sale starting today at your nearest Pacific Stereo store and featuring loads of great stereo gear at prices that are cause for jubilation. The event honors two new Pacific Stereo stores opening soon, one in Modesto next week and one in Salinas the following week. We're bound to have crowds of people, so do try to stop by as soon as you can. After all, everybody's doing it . . . . .

. . . all that for only $158?

SAVE $87.70

You'd be hard pressed to find any other complete system at this price, let alone one that has so much to offer. BSR is to be complimented for coming up with a $130 AM/FM stereo receiver that sounds as good as their new R30. An unusual feature is the FM center-channel tuning meter, which shows you when you have the cleanest signal for good FM reception. The R30 also has bass and treble tone controls, a headphone jack and an attractive oiled walnut case.

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable, smooth-operating record changer with a cueing lever to put the Empire 999XE/X elliptical diamond cartridge gently on your records. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's price is $65.85.

The Quadraflex Model 11's are extremely compact small shelf systems, and their six-inch extended range speakers do a remarkable job of smooth sound reproduction. At $49.90 a pair, they're the third excellent value that helps make the low system price possible.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty

To purchase these separately you would pay:

BSR R30	$129.95
Garrard 40B with base and Empire 999XE/X	65.85
Quadraflex 11's (pair)	49.90
TOTAL	$245.70

BSR McDONALD Garrard empire Quadraflex

Yes, it does have 12" speakers

$398
SAVE $101.30

Naturally, we couldn't offer twelve-inch 3-way speakers in a system at this price unless a substantial saving was involved, $101.30 in this case. The AM/FM stereo receiver is Nikko's 7070; it delivers 68 watts (RMS) of power across the whole audible spectrum, and the tuner section will pull in distant stations with a minimum of background noise. The 7070 also has a full complement of controls and the $269.95 price includes the walnut case.

The record player in this system is the popular BSR 510, which provides you with everything you need in the way of record and needle saving devices, as well as a reliable, constant-speed synchronous motor. It comes with a base and a Shure M75ECS cartridge for a most reasonable $69.45.

The above-mentioned 3-way speaker systems are the TransAudio 1012's; their 12" bass speakers should pick up the lowest notes on your records, and you'll be amazed at how much good sound comes out of these $159.90 a pair acoustic suspension systems.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty

To purchase these separately you would pay:

Nikko 7070	$269.95
BSR 510 with base and cartridge	69.45
TransAudio 1012's (pair)	159.90
TOTAL	$499.30

NIKKO BSR McDONALD SHURE TransAudio

And have you seen the new PHILIPS GA-212?

$175.95

A sophisticated electronic control system ensures that the Philips GA-212 will have absolute speed accuracy, even in the face of severe voltage fluctuations; it also keeps wow and flutter at barely measurable levels. Test reports confirm that this is one of the best manual record players around. The base and dust cover are included in the $175.95 price, and for our Grand Opening we're also including Shure's excellent high trackability M91ED elliptical cartridge, normally $34.95.

A 50 H with an Empire cartridge and a $40 saving

Miracord's 50H record player comes from a long line of reliable, sturdily-crafted turntables. With its perfectly balanced tonearm, effective anti-skate and a stylus overhang adjustment, it's well equipped to give you the best possible sound from your records. Our usual price is $139.95. Such a machine begs for a good cartridge, so we've included the Empire 999ZE/X with an elliptical stylus, which we sell for $39.95. For our Grand Opening Sale, the combination is just $137, a saving of over $40.

Low noise/high output blank cassettes for a mere 69¢

Pacific Stereo C60 blank cassettes contain good low noise tape in mechanically superior housings. They'll make excellent recordings and last for ages. Our regular price is $1.29, but not during our Grand Opening.

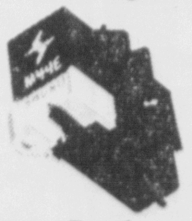
Yes, an elliptical really is better...



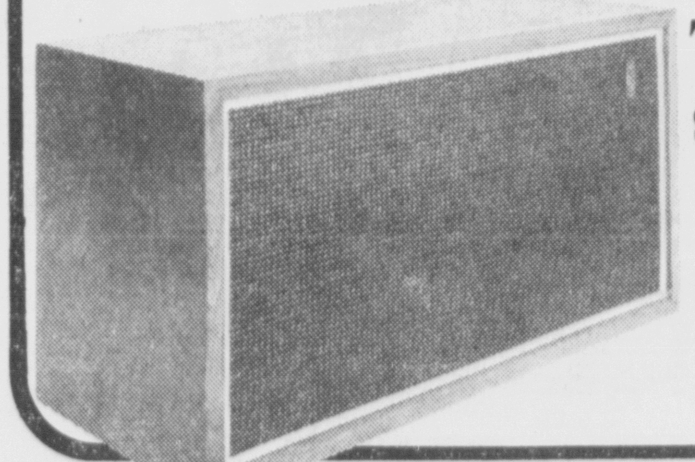
Shure's M44E elliptical cartridge is an ideal replacement for that conical cartridge in your record player now; your records will last longer and sound better too. And our Grand Opening price is only $8.95, a substantial reduction on the nationally advertised $24.95.

$8.95

Say, you're always wearing those 'phones...

The Pioneer SE-L40 stereophones are so light weight and comfortable you may well forget you're wearing them, and the open air design lends a natural quality to their sound. They're a good buy at the regular $39.95 price and a better one now at $29.95.

$29.95



That's pretty good sound for $59...

ADC 303ax's have a ten-inch bass speaker and a three-inch treble speaker in each oiled walnut cabinet. Their most important characteristic is that they sound great; our own tests show well-defined reproduction of the entire musical range. They normally sell for $84.95 each, but we have an extremely limited supply at just $59

An integrated amp for only $50

If you're looking for a good small integrated amplifier for the rear speakers in a four-channel system, or if you want an inexpensive start in stereo, the Superscope A225 could be just the thing. It puts out 10 watts (RMS) of power and has all the connections and controls you'll need. Its regular price is $79.95; we have a small supply at a low

Aides Ignored Watergate Tip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intent on protecting President Nixon, two key White House aides last June dismissed a warning they should "look into" the Watergate affair before it grew into a national scandal, according to sworn testimony released Thursday.

Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh L. Sloan Jr. testified he visited presidential advisers John Ehrlichman and Dwight Chapin six days after the break-in and bugging at the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee.

He said he told them he was worried that close to $1 million in campaign funds that he had shelled out under mysterious circumstances might be linked to the political espionage. And he said he warned them "somebody ought to look into it."

"Chapin's reaction," Sloan said, "... essentially was (1) you are overwrought and (2) the important thing is to protect the President and (3) you ought to take a vacation."

Sloan said Ehrlichman cut him short. "He told me to go no further, that he didn't want any of the details, (that) if I had any personal problems I had a special relationship with the White House and they would be glad to arrange an attorney," he said.

Ehrlichman also indicated that Sloan should not talk about these matters, according to the testimony. Sloan said he was told by Ehrlichman that he would "have to take executive privilege until after the election in any case."

Chapin, Nixon's appointments secretary, left the White House earlier this year and Ehrlichman, domestic adviser, was eased out two weeks ago.

Sloan also said that two other campaign officials, Jeb Stuart Magruder and Frederick LaRue, pressured him to lie under oath about how much cash he had given G. Gordon Liddy—who was convicted in the Watergate break-in.

The testimony was taken in the Democrats' $6.4 million Watergate civil suit.

Security Guard Seeks Fame From Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank Wills, whose discovery that something was amiss at the Watergate apartment-office complex last June 17 led to the current bugging scandal, is trying to cash in on his newfound fame.

Wills, 25, was the $80-a-week security guard who noticed that tape had been placed over the locks of doors to the building and called Washington police. The police subsequently arrested five men inside headquarters of the Democratic National Committee.

Wills, now an $85-a-week guard at another building, has hired a lawyer and is demanding fees up to $300 for interviews with the news media.

His lawyer, Dorsey Evans, said four news organizations, including the British Broadcasting Co. and the London Times, have paid for interviews and that several other media have refused.

He said Wills also got $300 for allowing his picture to be used on a record album to be released soon dedicated to him.

"The Washington Post, the TV stations, lots of people are making money off Frank Wills," Evans said. "They shouldn't mind sharing a little of it."

New ACTION Chief At Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Michael P. Balzano Jr., a onetime garbageman who worked his way up to a Ph.D., has officially taken over as director of ACTION, the government agency which includes the Peace Corps and VISTA.

Presiding at Balzano's swearing-in yesterday, President Nixon called him "a self-made and self-educated man in the very best sense of the word."

Balzano, 37, dropped out of high school at the age of 16 and was a garbage collector in his hometown of New Haven, Conn., until a back injury prompted him to look for less physical work.

Cuban Says He Helped In Break-in

MIAMI (UPI) — A refugee from Cuba said Thursday that he and two convicted Watergate burglars used masking tape and glass cutters to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and photograph his files.

The refugee, Felipe DeDiego, said the three believed they were working for the CIA when they entered the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding in 1971.

In testimony before state attorney Richard Gerstein, DeDiego said he and Bernard Barker and Eugenio Martinez used masking tape and glass cutters to break a window, pushed down a door, then photographed Fielding's files.

"Martinez was the photographer," Gerstein said.

DeDiego said he and the other two men flew from Miami to Los Angeles and checked into a hotel in Beverly Hills. He said Barker left the room for a few minutes and returned with a briefcase containing photographic equipment, 35 millimeter film and spotlights.

The testimony revealed that three visits were made to the psychiatrist's office. After a daylight "reconnaissance" visit, they returned at 9 p.m. and convinced a cleaning woman to let them into the office where they left a briefcase, DeDiego testified.

They returned the third time at 1 a.m., entering by a first-floor window, according to the testimony.

Prosecutor Expected Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General-designate Elliot L. Richardson probably will name his special Watergate prosecutor sometime next week, and it is likely Richardson himself will not gain Senate confirmation until then.

Richardson told the Senate Judiciary Committee late yesterday that he had no objection to providing members with the names of the six to eight finalists in his search for a special prosecutor.

Richardson said he would submit a large list of names in alphabetical order today to retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, the presidents of the American Bar Association and the American College of Trial Lawyers and other persons for their evaluation.

He said their recommendations of six to eight names will be turned over to the committee and then to the FBI on Monday for spot checks, adding that he hoped to name the prosecutor "by the end of the week."

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., a committee member, said after the hearings that it was important for the committee, before confirming Richardson, both to know who the prosecutor will be and to have "specific guidelines" spelled out on what authority the attorney general will give him over Watergate matters.

In close questioning, Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., have sought to get Richardson to give the prosecutor final authority over all Watergate matters. They said they want to avoid any appearance that Richardson as a member of President Nixon's official family would be dictating the investigation.

Richardson has consistently argued that he will give the prosecutor "complete authority" to do the job, but that he, Richardson, will retain "ultimate authority" over him.

Bayh asked Richardson whether the prosecutor would have full authority, for instance, over grand jury proceedings and grants of immunity to witnesses.

"Yes," Richardson said, "always assuming it is a judgment in which reasonable people can differe."

"You do a maginificent job of making one secure," Bayh answered, "and then you add on another sentence to pull the trapdoor. You insist on adding that caveat."

"Yes, I do," Richardson replied. "That is a caveat that has to be there if I am to be attorney general at all. It is a caveat that is not going to create a problem, however."

Questioned by Kennedy, Richardson said the prosecutor should check out "the involvement of White House personnel, major administration appointees and people who were part of the Committee to Re-elect the President."

Krogh Will Testify Before Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh has agreed to testify before a county grand jury here looking into the Ellsberg burglary, which he has admitted ordering, according to Deputy District Attorney Richard Hecht.

Hecht flew to Washington this week to talk to Justice Department officials about the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the Watergate team.

District Attorney Joseph Busch has said that local charges will be brought against those responsible.

Krogh, in an affidavit to the judge in the Pentagon Papers trial, said that as an assistant to John Ehrlichman in the White House, he ordered the break-in at the psychiatrist's office, in the belief that it was needed to obtain information important to the national security.

FLOWER FOR MOTHER

Mother of the year Ruth Y. Nelson of Minneapolis was all smiles yesterday as her husband, Clarence, pinned a flower on her after she was named mother of the year by the American Mothers Committee, Inc., of New York. Mrs. Nelson, 69, is a water-skiing grandmother of 16 grandchildren. She and her husband, a Lutheran minister, raised four children of their own and three foster children.

Butz Urges New Outlets For Farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today America's farmers can outsell the world if Congress gives President Nixon power to make concessions in order to open new markets for U.S. foodstuffs.

In testimony prepared for the House Ways and Means Committee, Butz appealed for passage of Nixon's trade bill.

The bill gives Nixon unprecedented powers to open U.S. doors to foreign manufactured products in exchange for a relaxation of Europe's barriers to the products of America's farmland.

Exports now account for the produce of more than 80 million American acres and more than $1 out of every $5 earned by farmers, Butz said.

Projected annual increases of 5 per cent a year will prove too modest if "we negotiate the reduction of barriers which distort the flow of agricultural trade among nations," he said.

Allowing farmers to put idle land into production benefits everyone, he said. Last year's increased exports of grains and soybeans—to Russia and elsewhere—created over 100,000 non-farm jobs, he said.

The time is right to increase exports, he said, because the world's appetite for American meat and wheat is growing.

The world's appetite for better diets has already forced Europe to relax restrictions on meat exports; Japan, to welcome more beef and to drop a tax on pork; and Canada, to reduce tariffs on meat, fruits and vegetables.

"Demand is booming for agricultural products, both at home and abroad, and American agriculture—because of its increasing productive capacity—is uniquely suited to meet this demand," Butz said.

"No other industry today faces quite the same combination of growing worldwide demand and competitive superiority."

Further Challenges Are Likely Against EPA Emission Standards

DETROIT (UPI) — The decision by the U.S. automakers not to challenge the interim 1975 standards for automotive emissions in court won't prevent further legal battles against the Environmental Protective Agency.

The four auto companies had until today to begin judicial proceedings on last month's decision by the EPA establishing a double set of emission standards—one for California and another for the other 49 states.

But the EPA has yet to set new test procedures for 1975. There may be new legal battles when these test procedures are spelled out.

But, based on the current test procedures, EPA Deputy Administrator Erick Stork earlier this week said there is "a high degree of confidence that the automakers can meet the 1975 standards, in some cases without a catalytic converter, based on the 1973 test."

"It is not correct to say any 1973 model cars have met the 1975 standards because between now and 1975 there will be a change in the test procedure," Stork said.

General Motors said the time is too short now "to wait for the outcome of further time consuming legal proceedings" even though the interim standards still are stricter than the company believes are necessary to clean up the nation's air.

GM President Edward N. Cole, in a letter to Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the EPA, said work on emission control systems for 1975 models must begin immediately to "have as much assurance as possible that they can meet the EPA certification requirements."

The interim standards for 1975 call for an 83 per cent reduction of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide emissions from pre-1968 uncontrolled vehicles. The original standards had called for 95 per cent reduction of hydrocarbons and a 96 per cent reduction of carbon monoxide emissions. In California in 1975, both emissions must be reduced by 90 per cent from pre-1968 vehicles —something that can be accomplished only with costly catalytic converters, the automakers contend.

At the Ford Motor Co. annual meeting yesterday, chairman Henry Ford II said the interim standards probably can be met in California with the muffler-like devices using platinum and palladium catalysts. But, he said the converters probably will be necessary on some engines in the other 49 states and some engines may disappear completely because they can't meet the standards.

Both Ford and Cole called for congressional reconsideration of the Clean Air Act of 1970 and elmination of the 1976 standard which sets limits for emission of oxides of nitrogen which they claim are impossible to meet.

How Span Toll Hike Would Work

By DAVID DIETZ

A raise in Golden Gate Bridge tolls from 50 to 75 cents, endorsed yesterday by a district committee and sent to the full board, would be coupled with revenue-boosting changes to the convenience book system.

The increase for bus and ferry support long has been discussed but originally wasn't scheduled for at least another year.

The bridge's finance-auditing committee approved the changes by a 3-to-1 vote, although dissenter Carl Daubenbeck seemed more concerned with procedure and gaining public reaction than with the substance of Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Leuhring's new rate proposal.

Amid assurances that citizens will have a chance to speak on the issue, it was scheduled for discussion by the full board on May 25.

Luehring proposed that the revisions go into effect July 1 to create an extra $3.8 million in revenue in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Other than the switch to one-way payment, it would be the first change in the toll structure since 1955, when the roundtrip rate dropped in two increments from 80 cents. Before that, the round-trip toll had been $1 since the opening of the bridge in 1937.

"The community is not going to jump with joy at this," said bridge director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, sitting in at the meeting. "But with reflection, I think the majority of people will understand and appreciate it because of our fine transit system."

Under the convenience book changes, the 25-cent special discount for bus and ferry use would be discontinued but two tickets would be added to the 20-stub book. The books, costing 75 cents, $1, $1.25 and $1.50 per ticket, would sell for $15, $20, $25 and $30, depending on the user's departure point.

Overall it would mean an average 15-cent increase in the per-ticket cost.

The general manager told the committee he expected that the new revenue "would be adequate during the coming five-year period to permit continued expansion of the presently envisioned bus and ferry systems and the scheduling of bridge improvements, while maintaining the necessary reserves and enabling operating subsidies and capital costs to be met from annual incocome."

Using reserve outlays matched by federal grants, the district has been developing a public transit system in recent years to combat auto congestion. But reserves are dwindling, and Luehring estimated yesterday that with just present commitments and without any increase in revenue, the "emergency" reserve level of $7.5 million would be reached in a year.

While an operating profit of $900,000 is expected this year, he said, the district probably would reach only the break-even point next year without new revenue.

The general manager said in his report that it first was thought a toll hike wouldn't be needed until next year, but the spiraling cost of fuel and intentions to increase the size of the bus fleet had changed the picture markedly.

The full board was expected to vote today on a committee recommendation to add 32 more buses to the fleet, beginning next spring, at a capital cost to the agency of $520,000.

Other capital costs in the offing within the next three years include projected bridge additions and improvements, addition of a fourth ferry in 1977-78, expansion of bus maintenance facilities and acquisition of railroad right-of-way in Marin for future rapid transit.

$8.9 Million Bus Budget Wins Support

The fiscal arm of the Golden Gate Bridge District board approved yesterday an $8.9 million bus transit budget for 1973-74 that foresees an operating deficit of $3.3 million.

District officials told the finance-auditing committee, which sent the spending program to the full board, that the deficit is expected to exceed the current year's figure by about $69,000.

While nearly 7.5 million passengers are expected to ride the bridge's 188 buses next fiscal year, most are commuters. Many coaches therefore are sparsely ridden at other times.

The largest outlay in the pending program is $4.3 million for driver salaries, or about $19,000 per driver. That total is up $500,000 from the current fiscal year.

Revenue is placed at $4.7 million, up $1 million. The district also expects $300,000 more in state aid, while the Marin Transit District subsidy for intra county operations is placed at $325,000, down $65,000.

Other proposed outlays, with corresponding figures from the current years in parentheses, are mechanics' salaries, $494,900 ($267,300); administrative salaries (operations), $296,800 ($307,000); coach depreciation, $289,000 ($250,000); insurance, $250,000 ($240,000) and top administrators' wages, $244,600 ($190,000).

The budget does not include capital outlay such as the proposed order of 32 new coaches at a cost of $522,000. Those items are to be considered later.

Last month the committee approved a $14.2 million budget for operating the growing ferry system in 1973-74. The sum is triple the current spending level.

Green Light Urged On Larkspur Ferry Terminal

Despite the appeals of conservationists, a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors said yesterday planning should proceed on the Larkspur ferry terminal at a site near the mouth of Corte Madera Creek.

Representatives of the Sierra Club and Marin Conservation League, who want the terminal moved east to San Quentin lands, asked a halt at least on direct terminal design until both sites can be studied to determine which would suffer the least environmental damage.

District Engineer Robert E. Shields told the transportation committee that the district could lose $545,000 if planning is halted and the Corte Madera Creek site is ultimately found to be best anyway.

At least three directors criticized the conservationists, who include Lester Cohen of the Sierra Club, as "Johnny-come-latelys" and for advocating an impractical alternative in view of prison reluctance.

"This site (San Quentin) wasn't mentioned until a month ago," said director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley.

Daniel F. Del Carlo, another board member, objected to the "Sierra Club telling us what to do."

Cohen questioned whether the terminal would be ready by June 1974, as district officals hope, because of the need for review by governmental agencies such as the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, Regional Water Quality Control Board and the Army Corps of Engineers.

He saw no urgency. It seems, he added, that the bridge officials are saying, "The ferries are coming; the ferries are coming, and we have to get the terminal ready."

But Meyer viewed the opposition as "tantamount to killing the Golden Gate goose that laid the Golden Gate egg."

The committee position, a unanimous one, was to be considered by the full board today.

A Modern-Day Lady Godiva Takes A Ride

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — It was a beautiful spring day Thursday, and one young sun worshiper took advantage of it by riding a bicycle nude for about four miles in the busy suburban Clayton shopping district.

The attractive, blonde tressed young lady wore only a sign saying, "Don't arrest me, I'm en route to analysis."

Security Guard Walter Stogsdill gallantly offered the modern-day Lady Godiva his coat when she paused at a stop sign, but she refused it, saying, "I want to get a sunburn. It looks like you could use some sun yourself."

She told police who finally picked her up and took her to St. Louis County Hospital for observation, "I guess nobody

81-Year-Old Juggler To Be Circus Feature

An 81-year-old juggler and his wife will highlight the Happytime Circus, to perform three times Saturday at the KQED Fun Fair to publicize the educational television station's annual fund-raising auction.

Harry and Peggy Baker will perform during the half-hour circus shows scheduled for noon, 2 and 4 p.m. in the parking lot of the Strawberry Town and Country Village Shopping Center. Baker is billed as the world's oldest juggler still performing regularly.

Besides the Bakers, the circus will feature balancing and acrobatic acts, clowns, ponies, goats, a llama and Fluffy the wire-walking and diving dog.

The fun fair will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Loan Is Granted Firm Linked To Nixon's Brother

ATHENS (UPI) — The newspaper To Vima said Wednesday that a government-owned bank recently granted a $10 million loan to a Greek shipping company connected with President Nixon's younger brother Donald.

The newspaper said the loan was granted for remodeling the Aegean cruise ship Stella Solaris, jointly owned by Sun Lines, a shipping company based in Greece, and Marriott Co., a catering concern whose vice president is Donald Nixon.

Marriott controls 45 percent of the Stella Solaris, the newspapers said, and Sun Lines controls the other 55 percent.

Berlin Observes 85th Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Irving Berlin, who wrote the melodies and lyrics for almost 1,000 songs, celebrated his 85th birthday today in the quiet of his Catskill Mountain home.

Berlin once said "I think too much fuss is made over my birthdays. Of course, I appreciate the well wishes, but why should I get credit for reaching a certain age. Age is no mark of credit unless you do something constructive with it."

Berlin, who never learned to read or write music, penned, among others "God Bless America," the score of "Annie Get Your Gun," "White Christmas," and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Fireman's Test Ruled Irrelevant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's examination for firemen flunked a federal court test Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert ruled the exam was not proven to be reasonably related to the job and violated the Civil Rights Act because it discriminated against minorities.

Sweigert ordered the city Civil Service Commission to fill its firemen positions by using results only from oral and physical exams.

This was the third time in three years a federal judge issued such a ruling.

Fire Chief Keith Calden said his department has 122 openings.

Wet Roundup Staged In Utah

The wranglers tossed ropes from the banks of Deer Creek Reservoir to fishermen in boats who helped tie them to 50 cows that stampeded down a steep 100-foot embankment into the lake.

The cows, which went over the embankment after traffic noise panicked 200 animals, were all herded to safety.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDDUP

Year-Round License System Is Proposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, has proposed legislation establishing a system of year-round registration of California's 16 million motor vehicles.

Biddle said his bill would substitute 120 "due dates" throughout the year, beginning in 1975, for the present single statewide registration deadline. He said the system would result in a nearly-equal number of vehicle registrations expiring every three days throughout the year.

Biddle said his proposal would eliminate the massive "11th hour rush" on Department of Motor Vehicles offices on the first Friday in February —the final deadline for renewing registrations. He said it also would eliminate the current once-a-year "log jamming" workloads on the department.

VET HIRING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $5 million bill giving California employers a financial incentive to hire Vietnam veterans was approved by the Assembly Thursday on a 57-6 vote and sent to the Senate.

The legislation (AB276) by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, requires the state to reimburse employers for half the wages paid to Vietnam veterans during the first 18 months of employment.

UNDERGROUNDING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, has proposed legislation requiring most above-ground utility power lines in urban areas go underground by 1985.

He said power companies were now proceeding at a "snail's pace" in putting lines underground.

PRISONER PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Saying inmates were paid only three to 16 cents an hour, Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, proposed legislation Thursday requiring they receive the state minimum wage of $1.65 an hour.

Psychiatrists Are Hit By Santa Cruz Attorney

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — The district attorney of Santa Cruz County, where several mass murders recently havee occcured, Thursday attacked " 'tell-me-about-it' specialists and bleeding heart advocates" in the psychiatry profession.

The prosecutor, Peter Chang, urged the profession to make a careful reassessment of its role in the judicial process because, he said, it has largely failed to carry out the responsibilities given it by the courts.

His criticism followed a series of mass murders for which former mental patients were charged in this beach and mountain county 80 miles south of San Francisco. Chang has called the county "the murder capital of the world."

"Too many psychiatrists think they can determine a defendant's sanity, potential for violence, or degree or recovery by a simple one-hour 'tell-me-about-it' interview," Chang said.

"Many psychiatrists never bother to read the police files describing the offense. Instead they take the defendant's rationalized version at face value. On occasion, they even have been known to alter the defendant's version so that it does not conflict with their own diagnosis of the defendant."

Chang recently reported that Edmund Kemper III, 24, who killed his grandparents as a teen-ager and confessed eight killings in the past year, was declared no threat to society by two psychiatrists who examined him two days after he killed and dismembered a 15-year-old girl.

The D.A. said he did not want psychiatrists abolished from court, since they have often helped judges reach proper decisions, but he wanted the profession to consider "confining 'tell-a-about-it' specialists and bleeding heart advocates to their private patients in their office interviews."

Cases Of Tick Fever Reported

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State health officials reported yesterday the occurrence of two non-fatal cases of Colorado tick fever and possibly a third case in which the disease was fatal in northeastern California.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine, state health director, warned campers and other visiters to the Modoc, Lassen, Siskiyou, Shasta and Plumas county areas to be alert for ticks.

The fatality in which the disease is suspected was a 10-year-old Susanville girl who died April 22. Another Susanville resident, a 10-year-old boy, was stricken the same day with fever muscle pains, nausea and a rash on the back, while a 51-year-old woman from Fort Bidwell in Modoc County became ill April 17 with fever, aching and loss of appetite.

$950,000 Mansion Wins Senate Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $950,000 proposal to build a two-story governor's mansion with a swimming pool and tennis court has been endorsed by a Senate subcommittee.

The proposal, contained in Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year, was approved by a subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee yesterday on a 7-to-1 vote with little debate.

HARMLESS BUGS

Midges Make Many Mosquito Conscious

Last month the Marin Mosquito Abatement District got more service calls from bug-bothered residents than it did in the entire year of 1971.

Everyone was worried about the dreaded mosquitoes hovering around their homes.

But they were mostly wrong.

And the chironomid midge isn't a villain at all. It's a short-lived harmless bug that doesn't spread disease and doesn't bite.

So said the Marin Mosquito Abatement District board of directors at its meeting this week, according to district secretary Doreen Nasowitz. The district got 1,252 service calls from anxious residents in April, she said, more than the 1,230 for the whole of 1971. (This morning the district office at 201 Third Street, San Rafael, got 40 calls in two and a half hours.)

Mrs. Nasowitz said the board was told that the vast majority of calls, when inspectors checked the premises, turned out to be attributed to the chironomid midge. Very few mosquitoes were discovered.

The midges' emergence was caused by the wet winter and early hot weather, said Mrs. Nasowitz. Their life span is only two to three weeks from hatching to death, and the district doesn't spray to control them. Misting to kill mosquitoes is done on individual's requests.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, the board agreed to lease its property at McDowell Road, Petaluma, to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for $300 a month, provided the county counsel approves the lease.

Mrs. Nasowitz said the dirt lot in Petaluma is used for occasional storage of district trucks and equipment and will still be so used. PG&E wants to use it to store trucks and will probably install a mobile office there too.

A salary committee to review pay of the district's nine regular employees and summer extra hire was appointed. Members are William Mosden of Ross, Evan Pugh of Belvedere, Paul DiPietro of San Rafael, Robert Koenitzer of Petaluma, Phillip Economon to represent Marin county at large.

San Francisco Crime Increases

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco crime rate, which has been almost steadily declining since 1969, rose 5 per cent in April over the same period of last year, it was announced today.

The last month for which the rate increased from the previous year was July, 1971.

Police officials were uncertain as to why the April statistics went up, or whether the jump is significant. For the first four months of the year, the crime rate was down 3 per cent from the same period last year.

The crime rate is computed from a compilation of seven major crimes —homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, thefts over $50 and auto theft.

Project Affects Highway Traffic

A project in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic Monday was announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Northbound traffic will be routed into two lanes north and south of the Richardson Bay Bridge between 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. during paving.

Boyle's Brother Is Now Retired

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) — The United Mine Workers Union district office is closed, and district president and secretary-treasurer R.J. "Dick" Boyle has retired.

A spokesman for the union's regional office in Denver said Thursday the disagreement which led to a court battle earlier this year has been resolved.

Boyle, the brother of ousted UMW president Tony Boyle, said, "I am retired, but I haven't seen a penny of retirement."

Boyle filed suit in February to retain his position and prevent the dismantling of the Billings office. The union spokesman in Denver said Boyle is eligible for retirement benefits.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Abel Green, editor of Variety, the show business' daily "bible," died last night.

Survivor Of Plane Crash Said Serious

I-J Special Report

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE — A Mill Valley woman, daughter of the president of the giant Dillingham Corp. of Hawaii, remained in serious condition today following a plane crash that killed her husband and stepson.

The Federal Aviation Administration, investigating the cause of the accident, planned to talk to Heather Dillingham Bradley, 25, when her health permits.

A spokesman at Washoe County Hospital in Reno, where Mrs. Bradley is a patient, said her condition appears to be improving. Mrs. Bradley suffered internal injuries and burns over 20 per cent of her body.

She is the daughter of Lowell Smith Dillingham.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Wilson Family Mortuary here for James Joseph Bradley III, 41, and his son, Kevin, 19.

A single-engine Aero Commander carrying the three crashed and burned shortly after takeoff from South Lake Tahoe Airport yesterday. Mrs. Bradley managed to flee the burning wreckage about a quarter-mile south of the airport runway.

The family, of 81 Del Casa Drive, had moved to Mill Valley from Colorado six months ago.

Actor's Surgery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — British actor Laurence Harvey, 44, is expected to leave the UCLA Medical Center next week following abdominal surgery.

Sanity Hearing Set For Monday

Albert LeRoy Smith, also known as Albert Harris and Alpha C. Zero yesterday was ordered by Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman to undergo a sanity hearing Monday in Marin Superior Court.

He was arrested May 2 in San Francisco by Novato police on a felony warrant charging him with stealing an auto from Novato Datsun, Inc. in February and abandoning it in San Francisco two weeks later — leaving his briefcase inside.

Panelist Is Not Ready To Leave

Marin County Planning Commissioner Rebecca Watkin said yesterday she is interested in serving at least another year while the countywide plan is in its early stages of implementation.

The Independent-Journal erred Monday in reporting she is not seeking reappointment in June because of the frequency and duration of commission meetings.

Two Doctors Indicted For Death Of Patient

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Two doctors were charged today with involuntary manslaughter in the death of a woman at Santa Rosa General Hospital last Nov. 21.

The Sonoma County Grand Jury returned the indictments against Dr. Henry T. Gunter, a gynecologist, and Dr. J. R. Jenkins, an anesthesiologist.

They were charged in connection with the death of Linda Stephenson, 29, a Santa Rosa divorcee and mother of one. She died during a sterilization operation.

According to District Attorney John W. Hawk, the doctors used carbondioxide under pressure from a tank which did not have a meter to show how much gas was being inserted in the woman's vaginal cavity.

Death was caused by ruptured internal organs and shock from the excessive gas, according to a pathological report.

Man Convicted As Plane Bomber

BANGKOK (AP) — A military court today charged a former police lieutenant with blowing up a Cathay Pacific Airways plane over South Vietnam last June killing 81 people.

Police said Somchai Chaiyasut, 31, had insured his 7-year-old daughter and girfriend, both of whom died in the crash, for $270,000. They said he placed a bomb which exploded 22 minutes after the plane left Bangkok airport bound for Hong Kong. There were no survivors.

The chief judge charged Somchai with premeditated murder, possession of war articles, destruction of property and forgery of documents.

Tentative Agreement On Remapping The Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democratic and Republican leaders yesterday said they have reached "tentative agreement" on a new Assembly reapportionment plan, apparently breaking a bitter two-year impasse.

"We are very, very close to final agreement," Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., GOP caucus chairman, said. "We still have some loose ends that have to be worked out, but we've reached a tentative agreement." '

It was the first time this year the Assembly Republican leadership has publicly backed a Democratic reapportionment proposal.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Assemblyman Ken Meade, the Democrats' reapportionment negotiator, also predicted quick approval of the redistricting plan and said it would win 60 votes or more. They said a vote could be taken as early as next Thursday.

There also was a new flurry of reapportionment activity in the Senate Thursday with a showdown vote scheduled for May 22.

The new negotiations were spurred by the state Supreme Court's appointment of three special masters to draft a statewide reapportionment plan. If the legislature doesn't act soon, the court has promised to impose its own redistricting plan.

The breakthrough in the Assembly came when Democrats offered Republicans one more "safe" GOP seat in the Los Angeles area. The new proposal is designed to preserve all incumbents and give Democrats about a 46-34 margin after the next election.

Murphy said the GOP leadership early next week will ask fellow Assembly Republicans formally to accept the reapportionment deal. Until that approval is won, leaders of both parties are declining to release specific details of the new plan.

Meade said he believed the Watergate bugging case had made Republicans more cooperative on the reapportionment issue. Previously, several GOP lawmakers said they preferred the court to reapportion the political districts, which could result in many incumbents losing their seats.

"There is a new political insecurity on part of the GOP caucus because of Watergate," Meade said. "Republicans know they will have to rebuild their party and know they should have all of their current incumbents to achieve it."

"It was a facing up to reality on the part of the GOP leadership," he said.

However, Murphy said the new reapportionment plan would result in "substantial benefit for the Republican party. It will give us four new seats and every seat now held by a Republican."

The present Democratic margin is 49-27 with four vacancies.

In the Senate, a once-defeated Senate redistricting bill favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan won reconsideration from the Senate Reapportionment Committee.

The measure (SB195) by Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno, and John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, was granted reconsideration on a 6-0 vote. The bill is now scheduled to be brought up for committee approval May 17.

Then the bill and a rival remapping proposal (SB62) by Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, would face a floor vote May 22.

Board Can't Agree On Sex Education

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Board of Education failed to agree yesterday on how much California's junior high school students should be taught in the classroom about sex.

The board last January endorsed a textbook titled "Human Sexuality" and was scheduled at this month's regular meeting to give final approval to a revised edition, which eliminated what some members felt was misleading, objectionable or overly explicit material.

However, after a number of state legislators registered strong opposition, board members withheld final approval of the text pending further revisions.

In a statement read to the board by an aide, Sen. John L. Harmer, called the book "a flagrant example of brainwashing."

Harmer, a Glendale Republican and member of the Senate Education Committee, said even the revised edition of the one-time college-level book was "inappropriate" for 12 and 13 year olds, and asserted the text "contains numerous inaccuracies, falacies and misleading innuendos."

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, vice chairman of the Education Committee, submitted a prepared statement, saying, "The thrust of the book is to play down the family as a source of information of sex and to play up the role of the teacher . . ."

Dr. David A. Hubbard of Pasadena, also a board member, agreed that a sex education book was needed at the junior high level but urged that "some of the propaganda items" be removed from "Human Sexuality." He said an example was a portion of the book that urged young people to oppose any type of censorship on obscenity.

On a voice vote, the board accepted Hubbard's suggestion that a committee of board members, outside consultants and staff workers be formed to work on further revisions.

Candlelight Concert Is Set

Seven Marin women musicians will perform in a candlelight concert at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians at 8 p.m. May 20.

The performers will be Cecile Cox, Ruth Elliot, Naomi Kirschner and Chris Jennings, who form a string quartet, flutist Jan Wilson and pianists Kathy Von Seggrew and Anne de Cook.

Music will include selections by Chopin, Caplet and Dvorak.

A wine tasting party at 6 p.m. will precede the concert. Both events are benefits for the Unitarian fellowship.

IN TWISTER'S WAKE — The debris of some 15 mobile homes was strewn over a wide area after one of several tornadoes touched down yesterday in Kenton, Ohio. Thirty twisters were reported in Ohio and tornado watches were posted in ten Midwest states.

Twisters Kill Several In Midwest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tornadoes and high winds battered Ohio Thursday and hit parts of Kansas and Missouri early today, leaving behind death, destruction and untold damage.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said at least two persons were killed in Joplin, Mo., and more than 100 others were injured in many communities in southeast Kansas and southwest Missouri. At least four were killed and 150 injured in Ohio.

In Joplin, one woman was killed when a wall of a clothing store collapsed. Another resident was killed in a mobile home park.

Injuries also were reported in Kansas at Weir, McCune, Chanute, St. Paul and Galena but the number was not immediately determined.

Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, reached by telephone at the Republican Governors Conference in New York, mobilized the National Guard and ordered 500 guradsmen to Joplin.

Col. Sam. S. Smith, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, set up a 25-man disaster headquarters near Carthage, just north of Joplin.

Communication lines were knocked down across the path of the winds—an area 25 miles long and 25 miles wide. Gas meters were ripped up. Mobile homes were scattered. The roof of a Joplin high school was ripped off.

Within an hour after the twister hit Joplin, Mo., about 7 a.m., a spokesman at Freeman Hospital said "10 to 12 persons" were rushed in, "and they're still coming in."

One man was dead on arrival, the hospital said.

A police dispatcher said it appeared the tornado raked "the whole city."

The situation was complicated at Joplin by fallen power lines. Much of the city was without telephone communication and streets iced by hail hampered emergency vehicles..

Unofficial reports said five house trailers were blown over at Weir and that one "has a tree through it."

The number of casualties at Weir were not immediately determined.

More than 30 tornadoes were reported in Ohio Thursday afternoon and evening.

Willard, a north-central Ohio community of 6,000, was hardest hit with three dead, at least one hundred persons injured, and up to 10 persons reported missing. Damage estimates were well into a million dollars.

Another death resulted from a twister that touched down in Republic. Injuries, missing persons and extensive damage was reported in Kenton, Bellville and Savannah, where the National Guard was called in to prevent looting. Tornadoes also hop-scotched around the Columbus area.

"All it is is debris. That's all," said Huron County Sheriff John Borgia in the aftermath of the tornado that struck Willard. "Things are just scattered everywhere you can believe. Phones out. Hundreds of cars are torn into shreds."

Slosser said the funnel passed about 300 yards from his home.

"I could see roofs, sides of barns and sheds all churning inside the twister. It was unbelievable."

Mrs. Margaret A. Bogart, of Republic, was killed on Ohio Route 19 in Seneca County when a twister lifted her car and carried it several hundred yards.

Neighbors told officials Mrs. Bogart had been afraid of the stormy weather and was driving to nearby Bloomfield to spend the night with a relative. However, she drove into the path of the tornado.

No other injuries were reported in the area, although the twister heavily damaged 12 buildings.

In Kenton, at least 12 persons were injured and another reported missing after a twister touched down in a trailer park in that northwestern city of 8,300. The twister hit about 6:20 p.m.

Frank Telak, who lives near Savannah, said a tornado touched down six times over a stretch of about seven miles around 6:50 p.m.

"It wasn't rolling like clouds that you normally see in tornadoes," Telak said. "It seemed like five fingers of clouds that would come down and then go back up in a swirling motion. It was one big black mess."

Six residents in the Savannah area received minor injuries, and 15 houses and trailers were either damaged or detroyed.

Another 20 persons were injured in Richland County in central Ohio when a tornado swept through the rural community of Bellville around 7:30 p.m. Damage was reported to several homes and farm buildings.

Pledge Made To Fire Boss

DETROIT (UPI) — State Sen. Coleman Young launched his campaign to become mayor of Detroit yesterday with a pledge to fire Police Commissioner John Nichols and to abolish the city's controversial STRESS police squad.

Nichols, a tough-talking career policeman, is expected to announce as a mayoral candidate shortly. Although there are several other candidates, the race could shape up as a battle between Young and Nichols.

"The police should be the servant of the people," Young said. "In Detroit, the police now run the city."

The STRESS unit has been criticized for what many blacks see as excessive use of force and over-free use of firearms.

Six Die In Suspicious Blaze At Boston Hotel

BROCKTON, Mass. (UPI) — At least six persons were killed today when a fire of suspicious origin roared through the old Ardmore Hotel, a four-story wooden structure in the downtown section.

One of the victims, Nicholas Bryant, 50, leaped to his death. Officials at Brockton Hospital said Bryant, a resident at the hotel, died of severe spinal injuries and a skull fracture shortly after he was brought in.

The other dead were not identified immediately. There were 15 known survivors.

Authorities said the entire center of the structure collapsed at the height of the blaze and it was feared that additional victims might be trapped in the rubble. Firefighters began searching through the debris shortly after daybreak.

Police said there was no accurate count on how many persons were staying at the 54-room hotel. At least 30 were believed registered.

Area hospitals reported treating six persons, including one fireman.

Fire chief Edward H. Burrell said the blaze, which began in the front entrance to the building, was "definitely of suspicious origin." Police said they were working with fire officials to investigate the blaze.

The blaze was first reported at 2:55 a.m., firemen said, and by the time they arrived "the building was fully involved and people were hanging out windows."

A spokesman for the fire department said at least a dozen persons were rescued by ladder and a few others escaped by using knotted ropes.

One fireman said the blaze apparently "mushroomed through the hotel's 54 rooms within minutes." He said it spread to the upper floors through an elevator shaft.

Five of the 15 known survivors were taken to hospitals for treatment and two were admitted.

Accident Victim Off Critical List

Kathy Scalon, 15, of Sonoma, who suffered head injuries in a traffic accident April 22 on Highway 37 at the Marin side of the Petaluma River Bridge, has been taken off the critical list at Marin General Hospital.

She was reported in serious condition today at the hospital, the first sign of improvement since the accident.

Reaction To Price Boost By U.S. Steel Is Cautious

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Industry and government officials reacted cautiously to Thursday's price increase announcement by U.S. Steel Corp., setting off speculation that the 4.8 per cent hike on strip and sheet steel products would eventually be passed on to the consumer.

U.S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 producer, said prices would go up June 15 from $8 to $12 a ton on nearly a third of its shipments used chiefly in the production of automobiles and home appliances.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. today joined U.S. Steel Corp. and increased prices 4.8 per cent on its sheet mill products.

J&L said the increases become effective June 15, the same date that U.S. Steel selected Thursday to hike prices from $8 to $12 per ton on various sheet steels used widely by car and appliance manufacturers.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., indicated that auto producers probably would pass the increase on to consumers.

Ford said his firm would "still maintain the 1973 prices until the end of the model year, but it (the steel increase) will add to our request for a rather substantial increase on 1974 models."

In Washington, the Cost of Living Council gave no indication it would force a rollback but asked U.S. Steel to show justification for the increase. John T. Dunlop, council director, said this was necessary "in view of the very important role of the steel industry in the American economy and the fact that this price increase would affect almost one quarter of the company's steel business."

Westinghouse Electric Corp., one of the major producers of home appliances, said it was "very concerned about the rapid rise in prices of all raw materials, including steel."

U.S. Steel said the increases —the first in more than 17 months—affects six product categories and averages out to about 1.3 per cent on its total product line. The boost would be allowed under the 1.5 per cent limit established by the economic stabilization program, the firm said.

Board Chairman Edgar B. Speer cited rising production costs, declining profit margins and soaring costs of meeting strict antipollution standards as reasons for the price hike.

U.S. Steel said prices on hot rolled strip, hot rolled sheet and bands, cold rolled sheet, vitrenamel sheet, long terne sheet and galvanized flat and formed sheet steel would go up an average 4.7 per cent with shipments June 15.

Prices on electrical resistance weld trunk-line pipe and submerged arc weld pipe, both widely used by the oil industry, will be increased Aug. 1, the firm said.

Fighter Group Seeks Pictures

The 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base is seeking pictures of the squadron's activities since it was formed at Baer Field, Ind., until the present.

The squadron, compiling a pictorial history of the last 30 years, has requested anyone with such pictures to forward them to the commander of the squadron at the base.

Pictures will be returned with a complimentary copy of the history, according to First Lt. John M. Thomas, executive officer.

RETURNS TO WOUNDED KNEE

Silas Grant, one of the first residents to return to Wounded Knee, S.D., after fleeing when members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) took over the town on Feb. 27, examines the bullet holes in the windshield of his car. Grant returned yesterday, two days after AIM members left the town on Tuesday. Meanwhile today it was announced a meeting between Indian representatives and White House officials will be held Thursday, but that leaders of AIM will not attend.

Reformatory Hostages Are Freed

ROCKWELL CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Officials at the women's reformatory today broke down the door of a cottage where two hostages were held by inmates and quelled a disturbance triggered by a dispute over an inmate's request to attend her father's funeral without a prison escort.

Reformatory superintendent Ted Wallman said the hostages, guard matron Florence Conrad and counselor Marge McKowan, were freed without injury to anyone. Both women said they had been treated well.

Twenty female inmates were involved in the disturbance which began early today after Maria Spates, 21, of Waterloo was denied an unescorted furlough to attend her father's funeral in Waterloo.

Wallman said Miss Spates' request was denied because of her prison record and she refused to accept an offer of an escort to attend the funeral.

Wallman said the decision to break down the door came after the inmates refused a request to let the hostages walk from the cottage. He said the inmates were keeping the cottage door locked with a "barricade of kitchen knives."

Seventeen of the inmates involved in the cottage takeover then left the area voluntarily, Wallman said. Three others remained locked in their rooms and refused to come out.

Miss Spates became "unruly and very upset" according to Wallman and Miss Conrad was sent to the cottage to talk to her. She was later joined by Mrs. McKowan.

Buhl said Miss Spates was held on both federal and state convictions of forgery and that prison policy prohibits women held on federal charges from receiving unescorted furloughs.

China Trade Increase Said Coming

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — David J. Mahoney, board chairman and president of Norton Simon Inc., told the Commonwealth Club Friday that China is a country on the move with which the U.S. will increasingly trade.

"We are going to do business with China, if for no other reason than that we cannot afford to concede to our competitors a market which represents almost a quarter of the world's population," he said.

Mahoney, who recently visited China, said, "Chinese trade is now growing 10 per cent a year with an annual target of 15 per cent.

"Right now, exports are only 4 per cent of China's gross national product, compared to 10 per cent here in the U.S., so they have room to grow."

"I think it's a country on the move. It has already come a long way and I think it is going to surprise us all in the next 15 or 20 years."

Mahoney said his firm has arranged to import "some of their high quality ginger" for ginger ale and some edible oils. He said good candidates for export to China are petrochemicals, fertilizer plants and oil drilling equipment.

Novato Firemen Schedule Circus

The Novato Professional Firemen's Association will present the American Continental Circus June 20 at 2 and 8 p.m. at the Novato Horsemen's Arena, off Bugeia Lane.

Telephone solicitations will be under way during the next few weeks according to fireman Fred S. Pfeifer, publicity chairman.

Water Board Selects Panel To Decide On Connections Policy

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District last night approved a committee to decide a variance procedure for the district's new connection ban — a matter which had deadlocked the board the night before.

Directors Jack R. Felson and Dr. L. Martin Griffin were named to the panel, along with J. Dietrich Stroeh, manager of engineering, and Robert Goodwin, a special attorney hired by the district.

Stroeh said the committee will formulate a variance procedure and also a permanent ordinance to replace the temporary moratorium enacted April 30. The moratorium bans all new water hookups in the district due to a threatened water shortage.

The board was able to agree on the committee last night even though it had deadlocked, 2-to-2, on the same motion Wednesday. Director Ronald T. Stafford, who was absent Wednesday attended last night's adjourned meeting and supported Felson's committee idea. The final vote was 4-to-1, with director John M. MacPhail Jr. dissenting, Stroeh said.

The variance procedure — which will set up guidelines for granting exceptions to the connection ban — should be ready for the board May 23 meeting, Stroeh said. A growing number of variance applications is piling up in the district office, joined by seven variance requests postponed at Wednesday's meeting.

Goodwin, a special counsel from Santa Barbara County, will participate in the committee because the board Wednesday fired attorney Robert W. Elliott, who had been the district's counsel since 1964.

In other action, the board agreed to ask for a delay in court proceedings in a suit pitting a developer against the district until after developer presents his case to the board in a hearing May 23.

The McCarthy Co. of San Rafael has sued the district to force it to supply water to the 292-unit Foothills Oaks project planned for the Civic Center area.

The district had been told to appear in court Wednesday to show cause why it shouldn't supply the project, but directors asked last night to postpone the court date until after a hearing. Stroeh said the McCarthy Co. will study the request.

Directors also continued discussion of new sources of water to alleviate the threatened shortage, then set a field trip to the Walker Creek area in Northwest Marin for 7 a.m. May 22. The party will meet at district headquarters before heading out to the watershed, most frequently mentioned as a reservoir site for future water supply.

Stroeh said a consultant's report on water sources will be finished and presented to the board May 23.

Soviets Get Space Training

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — Three Soviet space engineers are being trained at Grumman Aerospace Corp. in preparation for joint Apollo-Soyuz space flights in July 1975.

The Russian men, who were not identified, are undergoing a two-week training course in the use of Grumman-made radio communication equipment which will be installed in the Soyuz spacecraft, a company spokesman announced Wednesday.

The spokesman said they are also receiving training in the operation of testing devices used to check the communications equipment prior to launch.

Hurt In Crash

Donna Zich, 27, of 49 Crescent Avenue, Sausalito, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured right knee and cut forehead said to have been suffered in an auto accident Wednesday. No details of the accident were available.

Longshore Union Strike Averted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — West Coast shippers and longshoremen announced preliminary contract items designed to avert a strike this year but union leader Harry Bridges warned the Cost of Living Council not to "butt in."

Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and Edmund Flynn, chief negotiator for the Pacific Maritime Association, held a joint news conference Thursday to announce the terms and said negotiations on a new pact would start next week.

The current contract covering dock workers and clerks at West Coast ports expires July 1. It was signed after a 134-day strike that ended in February of 1972.

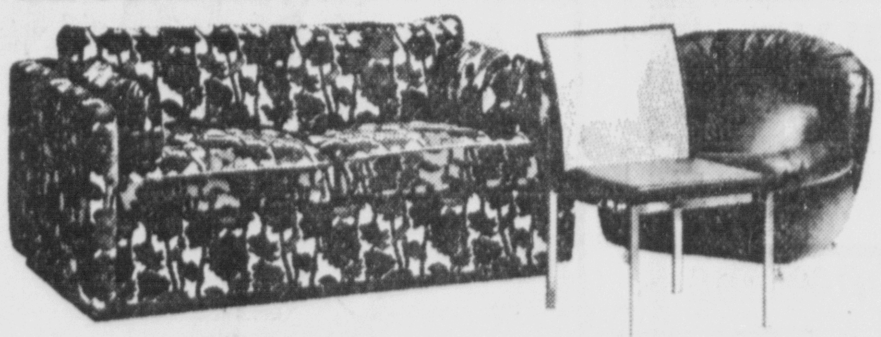
THIS SIX-FOOT SOFA AND TWO CHAIRS CAN BE COMPLETELY COVERED BY A VOLVO.



In a Volvo 145 station wagon, it all fits behind the front seat. Which isn't a sofa but rather two bucket seats.

They don't just sit there, stuffed. They go forwards, backwards, up, down. The seat cushions tilt. The backrests recline. The headrests adjust. Lumbar supports adjust to the small of your back. Heavy-duty vinyl makes them easy to clean. Empty the back and you come up with a rear seat that holds three adults. And provides as much legroom as an Olds Vista Cruiser.

Come in and check out our Volvo wagons.

They're covered in our choice of seven decorator colors.

DR. HENRY KISSINGER — The President's adviser was greeted by Mrs. Marjorie Sonnefeldt, wife of one of his staff members, as he arrived at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland, yesterday. Kissinger returned from a visit to Moscow to meet with the President before he goes to Paris for a meeting with Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger, Tho Plan To Discuss Vietnam Cease-Fire Violations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger, just back from a Moscow trip, will meet in Paris Thursday with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho to discuss ways to shore up the shaky Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the White House announced today.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the Kissinger-Tho meeting probably would last three to four days. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, and Tho, Hanoi Politburo member, negotiated the agreement in January.

Kissinger will be switching his focus to the Indochina situation after reporting to Nixon on what he described as "major progress" in discussions with Leonid I. Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders on issues preceding Brezhnev's forthcoming Washington summit visit.

Kissinger arrived back in Washington late Thursday night and met this morning with the President.

The groundwork for his meeting next week with Tho has been laid during Paris conferences by U.S. and North Vietnam representatives.

The United States and Saigon have accused the North Vietnamese of committing or supporting hundreds of violations of the cease-fire. Hanoi has made similar charges against the United States and South Vietnam.

Asked if the Kissinger-Tho sessions would consider charges of cease-fire violations on both sides, Ziegler said the purpose of the meetings — at least as far as the United States was concerned — is to discuss "strict implementation" of the accords.

Ziegler said the possibility of resumption of talks about U.S. economic aid to Hanoi and mine-sweeping operations in Haiphong harbor — suspended by the United States in protest of cease-fire infractions — would be among topics of discussion.

A text of a joint U.S.-North Vietnamese announcement on the Paris meeting on the Vietnam cease-fire stated:

"The governments of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States have agreed to hold discussions in order to review the implementation of the Paris agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam and to find measures to bring about the strict implementation of that agreement.

Kissinger and Tho last met in Hanoi Feb. 10-13.

Accompanying Kissinger to Paris will be William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state, who has been working out advance arrangements for the meetings; Graham Martin, named by Nixon to be new ambassador to Saigon to succeed Ellsworth Bunker who departed for home today; and two members of Kissinger's national security staff, William Stearman and Peter Rodman.

Children Score Low Once Again

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California school children have scored below the national average on aptitude and achievement tests for the fourth consecutive year, and the trend continued generally downward.

Those were the results of examinations taken this year by California 6th and 12th graders, and submitted to the state Board of Education Thursday by state schools superintendent Wilson C. Riles.

Sixth graders performed somewhat better although their overall scores "continued to decline." Achievement results in reading, language and math, however, improved" slightly," reversing a three-year trend.

Since 1969, the state Education Department has been required by law to conduct the tests in the two grades as a measurement of basic skills and scholastic aptitude. From the beginning, California students have scored below what test publisher say is the overall norm.

With a per cent score of 50 considered average, California 6th graders dropped in scholastic aptitude from 46 per cent last year to 43 per cent in the latest test.

In the measurement of skills, there were slight increases in reading, language and math, and a slight decrease in spelling, but not enough to change last year's percentage ranking. They were 44 in reading, 39 in language, 42 in spelling and 38 in math.

For 12th graders, scholastic aptitude "continued to drift downward" but not enough to change the per cent rank of 39.

Reading scores of 12th graders dropped from 49 to 47 and language or expresssion results declined from 38 to 36. There were small increases in math and spelling scores, but not enough to change last year's percentage rank of 47 and 48.

The report was based on the 6th grade Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills and the 122th grade Iowa Tests of Education Development.

The continued poor showing by California students in math was the subject of another study submitted to the board by Riles, showing that 4th through 8th graders are particularly deficient in the everyday skills of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

The report called for a comprehensive study of the problem and the distribution of test results to teachers throughout the state "to emphasize the conputational weaknesses found in this study."

Taxable Sales Up In Marin

Taxable sales in Marin County for 1972 were up 14.9 per cent for a total of $455,379,000, of which $401,233,000 were in cities and $54,146,000 in unincorporated areas.

Taxable sales in the various cities were: Belvedere $1,241,000; Corte Madera $39,723,000; Fairfax $7,414,000; Larkspur $14,071,000; Mill Valley $23,841,000; Novato $46,412,000; Ross $826,000; San Anselmo $17,706,000; San Rafael $190,633,000; Sausalito $31,981,000; Tiburon $10,833.000.

In Southern Sonoma, Petaluma had $63,802,000; Cotati $6,339,000; and Rohnert Park $9,346,000.

Strep Infection Leading Disease

Streptococcus infections with 119 cases reported last week, was the most prevalent communicable disease in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer.

There were 21 cases of gonorrhea, seven of infectious hepatitis and one each of syphillis, tuberculosis and salmonella reported.

Oil Company Sets Gasoline Limits

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — American Oil Co. began limiting passenger cars to 10 gallons of gasoline today at the firm's four stations on the Kansas Turnpike. Trucks were limited to 25 gallons beginning at one minute after midnight.

A spokesman said gasoline was recently rationed for two days "as a test" in Lawrence, Kan., and customers were "irate." But the spokesman said the nation's fuel shortage left the company with no other alternative.

An Explosion Rocks Beirut Refugee Area

BEIRUT (UPI) — A thunderous explosion rocked Beirut today on the second day of a cease-fire between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas and an army communique said many persons were killed or seriously wounded. New fighting also was reported on the border with Syria.

(A seven-point cease-fire plan announced yesterday in Damascus was thought to have ended the fighting, now in its ninth day, but Israel was taking no chances and its experienced Golani Brigade continued "military exercises" in the Golan Heights in an implied warning to Syria to keep hands off. A military spokesman said tanks and planes were involved in the war games.)

The army communique said the explosion near the refugee camps in Beirut's southern outskirts at 9:30 a.m. was caused by a Mercedes car running over a mine, apparently laid during the recent clashes in the area between the army and guerrillas.

Newsmen, however, said they believed the explosion was caused by a timed explosive device placed in the car which was parked in a side street.

The explosion was the only incident reported in Beirut in the 12 hours between midnight and noon.

The army also reported a guerrilla attack on a customs post at Al Arida, 72 miles north of Beirut on the Syrian border.

"The post was attacked with rockets and mortars despite the cease-fire," the communique said. "Our forces returned the fire and the armed men were forced to retreat behind the (Syrian) border. We suffered no casualties."

In Beirut and five other cities a curfew imposed Monday night was lifted by the army between 8 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.

Traffic jams developed in the streets and the banks opened for the first time since the clashes started May 2.

Earlier today, Lebanese authorities strengthened security at military air bases in north and east Lebanon following the Thursday attack on the Mirage airbase at Koleat.

The army also warned citizens to watch out for snipers who it said were "trying to create an atmosphere of fear and panic by firing shots from concealed areas."

Beirut newspapers credited the relative calm to the intervention of Arab peace mediators, including Arab League Secretary General Mahmoud Riad and guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

But there was sporadic fighting yesterday in Lebanon's southern, northern and eastern regions.

Lebanese Air Force jets for the third straight day hit guerrilla positions, bombarding the Kleat military air base near Lebanon's northern border with Syria.

Decision On Housing Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The North Central Coast Commission has put off until next Thursday a decision on whether to allow construction of a 200-unit housing development next to Lake Merced.

A group called Save Lake Merced submitted a lengthy report yesterday to the commission asserting that the $9 million project was environmentally detrimental.

It was one of that group, Allen Riley, 18, a student at UC Santa Barbara, who last week obtained a court order blocking work on the development.

Trade Keys Are Oil And Soybeans

By HARRY B. ELLIS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Soybeans and petroleum, for very different reasons, preoccupy the thinking of officials charged with managing United States trade relations with the outside world.

Soybeans have become far and away the most valuable U.S. export, outranking jet aircraft, computers, wheat, or anything else sold abroad.

Last year the United States sold $2 billion worth of soybeans to foreign customers, including one million metric tons to the Soviet Union alone.

Ninety per cent of all soybeans in international trade are U.S. grown, and the United States now produces 75 per cent of all soybeans in the world.

"World needs for protein feed," says C. Kyle Randall of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, "continue to grow. The sharp decline in production of fish meal in Peru makes the demand for oilseed meal even stronger."

Already U.S. farmers sow 53 million acres of land to soybeans — roughly one of every seven acres of farmland in the country. Release of set-aside lands by the Nixon administration will boost the soybean acreage.

"Soybean meal," states world food expert Lester R. Brown, "which sold for $2.60 per bushel in the mid-1960's, now goes as high as $7 a bushel."

The United States, then, is in the happy position of selling — without serious competition — a product which the rest of the world avidly wants.

"Agricultural trade," remarks Peter M. Flanigan, "has been our brightest spot," and — within the realm of U.S. farm exports — soybeans are the leading moneymaker.

Flanigan, executive director of President Nixon's Council on International Economic Policy, makes the following points:

Since 1960 the United States has had a persistent agricultural trade surplus, which reached a record $2.9 billion in 1972."

For minerals and fuels, principally oil, by contrast, the U.S. had a whopping $5.4 billion in deficit last year.

A sharp turnaround also has occurred in the area of U.S. manufactured exports. "Through 1965," says Flanigan, "the United States had an annual surplus in this category well in excess of $5 billion."

By 1971 the U.S. trade balance in manufactured products was equal, and last year the United States slumped to a $3.5-billion deficit in this category.

In short, the U.S. buys more manufactured goods than it sells, and far more minerals and fuels — oil, natural gas, bauxite, and others. Only American farm exports, as a major category, continue in the black.

Without that $2.9-billion farm export surplus last year, the United States trade deficit would have been far higher than the actual $6.4 billion recorded.

The obvious lesson is to increase export sales of U.S. farm products, and soybeans are a natural candidate. The Soviets, for example, will not need to buy more American wheat, if they enjoy good harvests.

But Moscow will, so far as can be seen, remain strongly in the market for soybeans and other American feed grains, as Soviet leaders strive to increase the protein content of their citizens' diet. The same, in varying degree, will be true of other East European states, Communist China, and a number of developed nations in the West.

All in all, the United States last year suffered a balance-of-payments deficit in excess of $10 billion, of which the $6.4 billion trade gap was the largest, but not the only, element.

Clearly the payments deficit can only be narrowed, if the trade shortfall is corrected. The role of U.S. farm exports is crucial, and will become even more important as the United States pays more and more for energy.

"The landed costs of U.S. oil imports in 1980," declares Flanigan, "could be two to three times the 1972 level of $5 billion.

"After crediting the United States with estimated profit repatriation from oil companies and U.S.-controlled shipping companies, the direct effect of oil transactions on our current account balance — goods, services, and investment income — could amount to an outflow of from $5 to $10 billion (each year)."

This estimate is conservative. Nongovernmental experts assert the United States may be forced by 1985 to spend more than $30 billion yearly to import foreign oil and gas, mostly from Arab lands.

Whichever estimate is correct, and the figure may fall in between, there is no visible way U.S. exports can be expanded enough to keep the overall trade gap from widening.

Beyond 1985, nuclear and solar energy may reduce the nation's need for oil and gas. In the interim, however, Americans — comprising 6 per cent of the world's population — will pay an enormously high bill for the privilege of consuming one-third of the world's energy.

Against this dark background soybeans are a bright spot indeed. There are, however, limitations on the degree to which soybean production can grow.

Experts have been unable, comments Lester Brown, to increase the soybean yield per acre beyond 1 per cent each year. This compares with 4 per cent for corn.

New acreage is limited, and — pending a breakthrough in methods of boybean cultivation — the crop's annual increase also has limits.

Meanwhile, President Nixon is determined to erase what he considers to be discrimination against U.S. farm goods in the world market, particularly in the European Economic Community (EEC).

This nine-nation body gives preference to crops grown by its own farmers and tacks levies on foreign farm products, including those from the United States, to make them more expensive than homegrown food.

The Common Market also subsidizes the export of its farm surpluses to markets outside the EEC. This, in the U.S. view, cuts unfairly into American farm sales abroad.

Through his trade-reform bill of 1973, Nixon is asking Congress for authority to use carrot and stick selectively in trade talks opening in Tokyo this September.

The President wants fairer trading terms for farm goods, which more than pull their weight in the U.S. struggle to balance its commerce with the outside world.

The Pedibike Is Geared For All-Weather Travel

By PETER TONGE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WINDSOR, Conn. — My wife had long since dismissed the bicycle as "too tiring" a mode of transport. Yet, here she was, pedaling Bob Bundschuh's Pedicar at a rapid clip.

"It's so much easier than I thought," she said after several minutes of propelling the leg-powered four-wheeler. She was enjoying the ease of a drive mechanism that makes a bicycle or ordinary pedal car seem sadly inefficient.

As developed by aeronautical engineer Bundschuh, the system, using pulleys, transfers 97 per cent of the muscle energy to the rear wheels, calculated to be a 50 per cent improvement on the rotational crank system of the bicycle.

Maximum thrust on the rotational crank system apparently can be exerted each 360 degree turn only when the pedal is horizontal on the downward thrust. Thereafter it trails off drastically. In contrast, the Pedicar's drive pedals employ a straight back and forth motion allowing for a constant driving force whatever the position of the pedals.

Much of its efficiency comes from the fact that when an operator's back is braced against something rigid (in this case the seat), the legs can exert a force roughly equal to twice the body weight.

The system can be likened to the coiled rope starter on many motor-driven machines. The pedal cables are wrapped around a pulley. As you push, the unwinding pulley transmits the force to the rear wheels and the vehicle moves along. The pulley then recoils and the pedal is in position for another push forward.

The pedals operate independently. They can be pushed one at a time or both together. Also, only one pedal need be used.

"It's so easy," says inventor Bundschuh, "that, at walking-level expenditures of energy, you can pump the pedicar at 10-12 miles an hour."

That may be so —once you have become conditioned to the physical exercise involved.

Fred Beitch, whose job it is to sell the little car for Bundschuh's Environmental Trans-Sport Co., admits to having a few stiff muscles the first week he began riding one. Now he can push the car along at 12 miles per hour without tiring. He frequently averages 15 miles per hour. And he has pushed it up to 25 mph over a short distance.

I found the Pedicar a perky, maneuverable thing. In top gear (the car has five forward gears and one reverse gear), it moves along at around 12 m.p.h. with just steady pumping of the pedals. In bottom gear, the car readily took a 30 degree gradient at walking speed. When I took my feet off the pedals, the car did not run back down the incline. Similarly, it would not run forward in reverse gear.

Bundschuh feels the explosive growth of adult bicycle sales in the U.S. points up a need for vehicles such as his. The bicycle is a fair-weather vehicle, he points out. The Pedicar is not. It even rides along merrily in four inches of snow. Baggage-carrying capacity, more generous than saddlebags or basket, is another advantage. However, at $550, it costs a good deal more than a bike.

Right now there are just three of these yellow-cabbed, single-seater prototypes riding around the streets of this Connecticut River town. However, the company hopes to produce 15,000 of the Pedicars this year, increasing to 50,000 a year thereafter.

Meanwhile other man-powered vehicles are in the planning stage: A two-seater car, a snowmobile and a propeller-driven boat. Looking further ahead, various forms of man-powered agricultural vehicles are planned.

Says Beitch: "We have the drive system. There's no end to the number of applications."

A flying machine, perhaps!?

Bank Robber Is Blown Apart

KENORA, Ont. (UPI) — A robber who said he carried a detonator in his mouth and a duffle bag full of dynamite was blown apart by an explosion yesterday when he walked out of a bank.

Witnesses said police were shooting at the man at the time of the blast at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. It was not clear if the robber set off the explosion himself or it was caused by police bullets.

The force of the blast tore the unidentified man apart, blew out windows in the bank and nearby stores and scattered holdup loot across the street.

Behr Proposes Limit On Use Of DMV's Records

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill limiting access to Department of Motor Vehicle records was introduced this week by state Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure primarily is intended to prevent the practice of selling DMV records in bulk to private firms for a profit, Behr said.

The bill, SB 1325, bans all commercial use of the information but permits noncommercial statistical use, such as by investigating officers and statistical researchers, Behr said.

Firms such as financial institutions and insurance companies still would be able to get the information they require for individual applicants, the senator said.

Prize-Fixing Case Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge has approved settlement of an antitrust suit involving alleged price-fixing in the sale of lithograph paper labels.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert Thursday granted a settlement for $4 million in damages plus an additional $670,000 in attorney fees for Guido Saveri, San Francisco. Saveri filed the class-action suit on behalf of all label buyers against International Paper Co. and Diamond International Corp., New York City, and H.S. Crocker Co., Inc., and StecherTraung-Schmidt Corp., San Francisco.

Saveri said 430,000 buyers of labels would share in the settlement.

Black Militants Arrested On Murder Charges

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Reputed Black Liberation Army leader Joanne Chesimard and a male companion were indicted Friday on murder charges stemming from a shootout with police May 2 in which a trooper and one gunman were slain.

First Assistant County Prosecutor C. Hudson Hamlin said the indictments charged Miss Chesimard, 25, convalescing from gunshot wounds at Middlesex General Hospital, and Clark Edward Squire, 36, with murder in connection with the deaths of Trooper Werner Foerster, 35, and their other companion, James F. Coston Jr.

Both Miss Chesimard and Squire are being held without bail.

An Important Gas Discovery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Standard Oil Co. of California reports that a gas discovery has been made on acreage near South Marsh Island off the shore of Louisiana.

Standard Oil yesterday described the discovery as "important" and said it was made by the Chevron Oil Co., its subsidiary.

Officials said the discovery well was 15 miles south of Tiger Shoal and the Mound Point gas fields. They said gasbearing sands were encountered above 10,000 feet.

$276,233 Tab For Upkeep

BERKELEY (UPI) — Maintenance and upkeep of University House, the residence of University of California Berkeley campus chancellor Albert Bowker, will cost $63,881 this year, a university spokesman said Wednesday.

Maintenance of the residence of the university president, vice president and nine chancellors will total $276,233.

Bowker's home is the most expensive to maintain, the spokesman said, because of its age. "There is no money right now for the major refurbishing it needs," he said.

Golda In Hospital

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir entered Hadassah Hospital yesterday for what her spokesman described as two days of routine medical tests.

FIRE ON A FREEWAY

Rush hour traffic in Los Angeles was badly snarled yesterday as firemen battled flames which reduced a custom-bodied Avenger GT sports car to a molten mass on the Santa Ana freeway. There were no injuries when the car collided with a small pickup truck. (UPI Telephoto)

Mine Hazards Are Monitored

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — To dtect perilous conditions and prevent mine disaster, West Virginia University has installed what is believed to be the world's first electronic monitor system for a coal mine.

The experimental system is designed to summon miners from their work places before dangerous conditions produce noticeable signs of crisis.

Technicians have installed sensors at strategic locations in a mine operated by Eastern Associated Coal Corp. near Morgantown. The sensors are connected through data relay stations to the university's engineering sciences building, where a computer analyzes the sensors' findings and signals any danger.

Septic Tank Permits To Be Delayed

The county health services department has notified the Marin Municipal and North Marin water districts it won't issue septic tank construction permits until further notice because of recently enacted moratoriums by both districts on water connection bans.

Earlier county officials announced building permits wouldn't be issued either.

William L. Desmond, director of the division of environmental control in the health services department, said his office would consider hardship cases for septic tank work if the water districts grant moratorium variances.

Septic tanks still predominate in West Marin areas.

Interest-Oriented Students Deliver

BRUNSWICK, Me. (UPI)— Add to proof of the excellence of contemporary youth: the most recent Dean's list at Bowdoin College in Maine contains the names of 512 students, more than half of those eligible.

Prof. Paul L. Nyhue, dean of students, said one of the factors in the record-size list of students making honors is the increasing opportunity being given Bowdoin students to design courses of study which develop their distinctive interests and talents. It adds up to strong motivation.

Ellsberg Defense Seeks Dismissal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The defense in the Pentagon Papers trial argued today that all charges should be dismissed because of an FBI wiretap of telephone conversations of defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ordered both sides to argue this morning on throwing the case out of court because of a disclosure yesterday that the FBI had put a tap on the telephone defense assistant Morton Halperin and had withheld the information that Ellsberg was overheard on it throughout nearly two years of litigation in the case.

Byrne said he had received no further turnover of information from the government concerning the Ellsberg interception, but the FBI reported it had twice overheard Halperin in telephone calls to another home under surveillance.

The judge said the logs of the Halperin calls indicated they had no bearing on the Pentagon Papers trial.

Defense attorney Leonard Boudin, in beginning arguments for a dismissal, said "We see the situation as involving two problems—the statutes and decisions of the court involving wiretapping, and the rights of the defendants here and the administration of criminal justice.

"The government simply did not comply with your honor's orders to turn over any evidence of electronic surveillance on members of the defense team."

Developments yesterday caused optimism among Ellsberg's supporters and one of his attorneys grasped his hand and told him, "It won't be long now."

"I think this is going to be the camel (sic) that broke the camel's back," exulted Ellsberg.

Byrne made it clear he expected to make a quick decision in the case.

The judge has had the Justice Department under orders for a year to reveal any wiretapping against Ellsberg or the defense team. Halperin is a consultant to the defense team, and was an important defense witness.

The prosecution has maintained throughout the trial that there were no such wiretaps. A wiretap issue caused a mistrial earlier in the case.

The wiretap revelation came at the beginning of yesterday's session, when Byrne was scheduled to hear arguments on a motion for a judgment of acquittal.

Although the defense previously has asked for a dismissal, attorney Leonard Boudin said now the defense would prefer an order of acquittal to "remove any stain" from Ellsberg and Russo.

"To have the case disappear because of the extreme wrongdoing of the government would be an insufficient remedy for the defendants, as individuals accused of a crime," Boudin said.

However, Byrne said the wiretap matter had taken precedence and he would "follow the appropriate procedure."

Byrne announced that he had received from the government a memorandum from acting FBI director William Ruckelshaus indicating that Ruckelshaus learned of the wiretap on May 8.

The FBI memo said it had maintained records of the taps, but that they were now missing.

"If there are no logs and records I want to know why not," the judge told the prosecutors. "If they are gone, I want to know where."

Funds Voted For Study Of Barrier

Golden Gate Bridge district directors today decided to proceed with plans for design and wind tunnel testing of a suicide barrier for the Golden Gate Bridge, despite a claim by one director that the project may eventually cost $1 million and alter the structure's appearance.

Directors voted 12-6 to appropriate $67,500 for the study.

The action came after director Lowell Edington unsuccessfully argued that the barrier would change the appearance of the bridge and alter the maintenance program by requiring erection of up to four miles of fencing along the bridge.

Edington argued that the bridge accounted for only 4 per cent of 11,457 suicides in the nine bay area counties last year.

One of the reasons that the bridge is attractive to leapers, he said, is because of its pedestrian walkways. He proposed for "discussion" that the bridge be closed to pedestrians, a move rejected by colleagues.

Director Michael Wornum called the study "a justifiable project," saying it was "a matter of conscience to save some lives" from this "attractive nuisance."

"All we're doing today is passing an expenditure of $67,500," declared director Ben K. Lerer.

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini, a director who opposed the funding appropriation, said district staff and consultants would complete the tunnel testing and design study within about two months.

In other action today district directors set a public hearing on increasing bridge tolls from 50 to 75 cents. The hearing will be at 8 p.m., May 24, in the bridge district office.

Wornum said he would raise the toll hike issue at Tuesday's meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Wornum predicted a public hearing would be set in Marin on the matter because "people paying the tolls should have a chance to express themselves."

Nixon's Poor Kin Don't Like Politics

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — The financial plight of President Nixon's Grass Valley cousins has worsened. But Anna Milhous, mother of the small clan of relatives here, believes poverty is better than politics.

"I receive state disability aid," Mrs. Milhous, 49, said in an interview today. "We're poor money wise of course. But I'd rather be on welfare than in a bunch of gangsterism and I've about come to the conclusion that's all politics is."

Mrs. Milhous and her husband, Phillip, Nixon's first cousin, attracted national attention two years ago when it was disclosed they were ill and she depended in part on state welfare.

This week their son, Ronald, appeared in federal court filing for bankruptcy, saying he had lost his money in an unsuccessful hog raising venture.

Mrs. Milhous said it was unfortunate her son's court action came to the attention of the press. "If his name had been Smith, it would never have happened," she said.

"I draw $46 a month. I'm not ashamed of it," she added. "I don't know what has been written about this."

Asked to elaborate on her "gangsterism" comment, she said: "We've got a bunch of guys going to jail don't we? It seems to be a thing of do as I say not as I do.

"We teach our morals at home. We teach our children to respect our country. Our elected officials should be somebody who our children can respect but you read in the paper every day about something dirty," said the woman.

"I think I might be getting in hot water," she added. "I'm not really interested in all that scandal stuff."

Closed Session

The Sausalito School District board has called a closed session at 9 a.m. tomorrow in the district office at 630 Nevada Street to instruct its negotiators in salary talks with employees and to discuss whether to reassign a school principal.

Community Center Use Is Restricted

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District directors decided last night to restrict use of the community center to Bel Marin Keys residents and organizations starting July 1.

The district has been renting the center for weddings and private parties, but there have been "too many conflicts" with dates when district residents wanted to use the center, according to Secretary Betty L. Zoeller. The center is financed by district taxpayers, she said.

Director Benjamin F. Kump, whose term expires Dec. 30, resigned from the board because he will be moving to Newport News, Va. The board, seeking a successor, will consider applications for the post, Mrs. Zoeller said.

The district also is seeking a pool attendant to work full-time from June 15 to Sept. 15 at $2 an hour. Applicants must have a Red Cross Life Saving certificate.

Mrs. Zoeller said she will accept applications evenings at her home, 917 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard.

Red Tape Hit By President; Says: 'Think'

NEW YORK (AP) — C. Peter McCologh, chairman of Xerox, each year gives an interview to the company's employee newspaper.

He is bothered, he said, by the way red tape creeps into large organizations at an alarming rate.

"I am finding that the most effective way to combat red tape is to ridicule silly regulations whenever I spot them.

"Often the guy who is insecure in a big company tries to learn all the rules as carefully as possible because he feels that if he doesn't make any mistakes he'll get ahead.

"While we necessarily have to have some rules, we want our people to think, not just follow rules."

Marin Women

EXCHANGE STUDENT

The Year Has Been Very Busy

By BETTY FROST

"Caught between two worlds" is the way Paulien Lens, 17, feels as her year in Mill Valley comes to an end.

The Dutch girl feels a strong attachment to the family of Rev. and Mrs. L. William Eichhorn where she is living, and nostalgia for her own parents in Holland.

Paulien's home is in the town of Heerde in the province of Gelderland, about 80 miles east of Amsterdam. Her father is a physician, who works with the handicapped.

Her year in this country is under the auspices of the International Christian Youth Exchange. Reverend Eichhorn is the minister of the Mill Valley Community Church. Organizations such as the Community Church Club, assist with financial support for the program.

Because she already was graduated from high school under the "havo" system in Holland, Miss Lens has been able to have a varied educational and service experience here. She has been participating in the urban-on-location program at Tamalpais High School, a community involvement program offering studies in minority problems, and American political and foreign policy matters. She has also attended classes at the College of Marin, taking courses in psychology and about American Indians. Paulien volunteers one day a week at the Marin Community Workshop Annex in San Rafael, where she assists with the recreation program for mentally retarded adults.

THE VOLUNTEER work has influenced the young woman to consider a career in social work when she returns to the Netherlands. Since her goals in seeking the opportunity to be an exchange student were "to travel and have a chance to think about a career," she finds those aims well fulfilled.

She finds that "Holland and Marin have a lot of comparisons," because both are near the water. At first she was impressed with the wealth of Americans, noting dishwashing machines, two or more cars to a family, "huge" cars, and many luxury items in the home. She likes the natural beauty of Marin and the fog rolling into the valleys.

"In Holland it is a status thing to have your house and garden neat," she said, but observed "Americans are hard working, too."

She has enjoyed being part of the Eichhorn's young family, where the children are twin girls, Beth and Becky, 12, Marty, 8, and Matthew, 3. "In this household everyone helps. Each week a list of chores is posted by Mrs. Eichhorn and we children choose what we want to do."

In her home in Heerde, Paulien explained, "My mother has a maid, and I also helped. Now I will have to educate my younger brother to take a share of the duties."

WHEN SHE first came to Mill Valley, Paulien was disdainful of the constant use of automobiles. "Now I have a better understanding of why people need cars here, because the distances are so great. I still like to walk, but it takes so much time," she said.

"In Holland," she explained "there is no need for a car, because you can take the bus, train or bicycle. Everybody has a bike in Holland. The distances are short, the country is flat, and there are many beautiful bike paths."

Opportunities for travel have made Miss Lens "appreciate that Marin is unqiue," she said. During the Easter vacation she went by car to Utah with Mrs. Carolyn Meyers and her children. She also went to Stockton for the "Exchange-Exchange" Week this spring, when foreign students studying in Northern California go to other communities.

In late June Paulien will be with the Eichhorn family when they drive to Ohio. From there she will fly to Philadelphia where she will meet the other exchange students and all will leave for Europe on Aug. 2, just a year after their arrival in the United States.

Her happy experience here has caused Paulien to consider living in Marin in the future, "but now I must go home to see my people," she said.

EACH WOODEN shoe is carved out of one piece of wood, Paulien Lens, exchange student from the Netherlands, explained. She is living in the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. William Eichhorn in Mill Valley, and she is in Marin under the International Christian Youth Exchange program.

View Of Critically Ill Children Toward Death Is Subject Of Talk

By PAT BALMES

Dr. Eugenia Waechter, a professor at University of California at San Francisco School of Nursing, spoke on death awareness in children with fatal illness to a small group of physicians, nurses, social workers and lay people at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere on Wednesday.

A doctor of philosophy in child development, Eugenia Waechter explained the results of her study which measured death anxiety in fatally ill children.

She found less anxiety in children who had had the opportunity to talk about death with their parents than in children who were discouraged from asking about death and so had no chance to question the real issues they feared — mutilation, pain, loneliness and loss, according to Dr. Waechter.

A CHILD sometimes will give a hint that he knows about his impending death, such as, "You be a good girl or I will not invite you to my funeral," mentioned Dr. Waechter.

Nurses question Dr. Waechter, "If the child asks me about death, what shall I say to him; his parents have written across the chart "Do not tell my child.' "

It is an easy out; a conspiracy of silence against the child. Or the nurse will say 'I cannot say anything, it's up to the physician,' she said.

The main question is not "should you tell them?" but "can you deal with what they want to ask about?" Dr. Waechter said. Children usually feel that the disease is too terrible itself and ask peripheral questions such as, "Am I going to be able to stand it? Am I going to be left alone?"

Doctors, nurses and parents should give out clues that it is all right to ask these questions.

If the child can ask the question about his death, then follow his lead, advised Dr. Waechter.

For the child it is necessary to have his parents' support. For parents it is necessary to feel that they are helping in the dying. They feel terrible in terms of the disease, but we do not have to make them feel helpless as mothers. We should encourage parents to do everything possible for the dying for their own sake, so when death comes they do not feel guilty, the nursing educator said.

Dr. Waechter became interested in doing this study when, as a registered nurse, she worked with dying children in pediatric units.

"NURSES AND physicians were leaving the child alone as he became more critical," she said. They felt professional failures, helpless to keep the child alive; so they withdrew. They did not have enough training in how to deal with death.

What does this mean to that lonesome child? She wanted to find out how fatally ill children look upon death.

She searched literature and found little written in 1970. She read that children under 5 think only of separation, from 5 to 10 they wonder about mutilation procedures and only after 10 do they think about death itself.

"I questioned this and concentrated my study between ages 6 and 10, testing children with fatal diseases, mainly cystic fibrosis, leukemia and cancer," she said. She also tested three control groups, children with chronic illness, brief illness and normal children.

Showing them pictures of children in various situations, she asked the children to tell the story. She also gave standard anxiety scale testing

"The 16 children with fatal illnesses had anxiety twice as high as the 32 other hospitalized children and three times as high as the 16 normal children," Dr. Waechter said.

Only two had been told their specific diagnoses, she said.

Their tales of hopelessness, concern about body integrity and loneliness ended in death or magical reversal; the death theme predominated, she said.

THEIR STORIES often expressed anger toward parents, nurses and God. They believed their parents had abandoned them to all the terrible things being done and would not try to prevent them, she said.

"Children take personal responsibility for their illness; they feel guilty that they have done something wrong." They think they are being punished by being put in the hospital. They even think death is a punishment, she said.

After her study was completed, Dr. Waechter wanted to tell the parents that their children already knew that they were going to die.

"Some would not listen; they were adamant that their children would never hear the word leukemia or cancer. If they wouldn't listen, I suggested they meet with the social worker, doctors and nurses," said Dr. Waechter.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wife Takes Revenge, But Now The Little Game Should Be Called Off

DEAR HELEN:

I had an affair and my wife found out. She was very mad because it was with one of her girl friends. But she "forgave" me, on the condition I'd baby-sit twice a week.

I thought she meant she'd go out with the girls, but instead she goes to dances, and comes home with the boys.

I know she wouldn't be unfaithful, but she flaunts these guys at me when she brings them in for coffee at 1 a.m. If I say anything, she reminds me of our bargain. The trouble is, this isn't "getting even" anymore — she enjoys these "singles" dances, and knowing she still attracts men, etc.

Is this any way to preserve a marriage? — ONE YEAR OF PENANCE

DEAR OYOP:

It's a good way to pickle a relationship! Tell your wife all's square: you're straight, she's even. . .then hire a baby-sitter and join a good married couples' dance club. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a somewhat elderly friend who is starting to grow a few long, scraggly hairs on her chin — the kind you get with age. She's a proud person. Dare I mention that she should keep them cut close? — ONLY WANTING TO HELP

DEAR ONLY:

Your friend might appreciate the suggestion —for chances are she hasn't noticed those stragglers. Mother Nature's not very nice: just about the time a woman starts growing wild hairs on her chin, her dimming eyesight keeps her unaware of them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

People who become frustrated at supermarkets should take a tip from one who has learned to wait. When one of those pushy people crowds in front of me, I don't fight, I just "borrow" a magazine from the rack at the checkout stand and read the time away.

I do get slightly upset, however, at shoppers who leave their grocery carts in parking spaces — or directly behind my car when I want to back out. And those who just give the empty cart a shove, which results in a nearby scratched car, should be tied in a cart and shoved out on the freeway! — CALM SHOPPER — WITHIN LIMITS

DEAR HELEN:

Would you please mention this in your column so that young parents (especially my neighbors) will get the idea?

Please, please don't burn soiled paper diapers in your fireplace! — CAUGHT IN THE DOWNDRAFT

DEAR CAUGHT:

Duly mentioned. But I'll never understand why neighbors use a national column to settle problems which could easily be resolved with a few words over the back fence. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This answers your correspondent who took issue with a man saying "Thank you" when someone tells him he has a goodlooking wife.

Why shouldn't he show good manners by acknowledging a compliment? It doesn't mean he "owns" his wife or is responsible for her looks, though I suppose he could better say, "Thanks, I think so too."

On the other hand, if a woman is supremely happy in her marriage, her husband is certainly partially responsible for it, and when it shows on her face and makes her beautiful, a little of the credit belongs to him. — CATHERINE

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

MRS. CARROL G. VARNER
Sorority president

Tri Gamma Sorority Picks Slate

Tri Gamma sorority members have elected Mrs. Carrol G. Varner of Novato president of the organization. She has also served as secretary and vice president during her five years as a member.

The ultimate purpose of the organization is community service and social and cultural programs. The members plan a summer picnic, participation in a rummage sale at Sinaloa Junior High School, fall rushing events and participation in the Holiday Show in Novato.

Mary Ann Varner is also active in Our Lady of Loretto Parent-Teacher Guild and is a teacher aide and office volunteer in the Novato Unified School District. She was born in Evanston, Ill., and was graduated from St. Raphael's School and San Rafael High School. She attended College of Marin and has lived in Marin County 23 years.

Mrs. Varner and her husband, owner of Varner Supply, are the parents of Martha, 13, John, and Timothy, 8 years old. Mary Ann belongs to a women's softball league, and her other interests include gardening, caring for horses, rabbits and other animals, swimming in the family pool and taking trips to the family cabin in Lake County.

Bel Marin Keys Club Picks Slate

Mrs. John H. Klein of Novato is the new president of the Bel Marin Keys Women's Club. She has also served as first vice president and social chairman during her three years as a member of the club and a resident of the keys.

The club works on a fund raising project each year to raise money to furnish and improve the community center kitchen at Bel Marin keys.

Rose Rita Klein was born in Minnesota and has a teaching credential for kindergarten, primary and elementary grades. She was graduated from Minnesota State College in Winona and taught several years in Minnesota.

She and her husband, part owner of Western Pet Products of San Rafael, moved to Marin County in 1962. They have four children, Tom Klein of San Rafael, twin daughters, Mrs. Frank Vucci of Corte Madera and Mrs. James Gruenberg of Madison, Wis., and Malia, 16 years old.

Prior to moving to Marin County, Mrs. Klein and her family lived in Honolulu, where she taught and then became director of a private primary school and later operated her own nursery school for two years. After moving to Marin County she taught first grade at the 3-R School in San Rafael for six years and the past few years has done mostly remedial reading work and private tutoring.

The new president's hobbies include art, bridge, sewing and gourmet cooking.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Klein are Mmes. Martin Zoller, first vice president; Charles Osborne, second vice president; John Green, recording secretary; Mike Lanzit, corresponding secretary, and Hal Parsons, treasurer.

Multiethnic Center Kept Open By Volunteer Efforts

When the Multiethnic Resource Center for the Mill Valley School District was established last fall, Mrs. P. D. Nairn and Mrs. Naomi Mills were hired as coordinators.

Since April 4, when the funds allocated to multiethnic committee ran out, they have continued to work at the center as volunteers, and will continue to do so until the end of the school semester.

The resource center was established in the former nurse's office at the Alto School, which is now being used as the district office building. It serves the eight schools in the district.

With a budget of $2,000 the two coordinators collected records, films strips, artifacts, art reproductions, sculpture reproductions and posters on ethnic subjects. Alfred Gordon, principal of the Strawberry Point School is chairman of the district's Multi-ethnic committee. Mrs. Nairn and Mrs. Mills visited similar centers in the county and asked for suggestions from teachers.

When the April 4 cut-off day came, all of the things that had been ordered had not arrived, so the two women agreed to continue their work of organizing the material. Other volunteers assist them in keeping the center open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., each day, and additional hours of 2 to 4 p.m. Monday and Wednesday. More volunteers take materials to classroom teachers when they need it.

Guessing Game: The Hemlines

Hemline watching becomes a guessing game on the fashion scene once more. European designers, notably in Paris, have been showing lowered hemlines — going down to somewhere near the calf of the leg.

There's no need to panic — the hemline in this day of liberated fashion remains a matter of to each his own.

Correct Colors

In choosing interior paints, the home owners should keep in mind that a light color makes a small room larger and dark colors tend to shrink a room.

Mrs. Branson Epler Heads Upsilon Gamma

Sewing, painting, needlework, reading, bowling and camping are among the hobbies and pastimes of Mrs. Branson Epler, newly-elected president of Upsilon Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority in Novato.

Sally Epler and her husband, lieutenant commander with the marine inspection office of the Coast Guard, are the parents of Diana Lee, 16, and Scott Kim Epler, 3 years old. Mrs. Epler was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. She has lived in Marin County three years and is active in the Forget-Me-Not Bowling League and the Coast Guard Officers Wives Club.

Mrs. Epler has served as recording secretary for two years in the Upsilon Gamma chapter. Purpose of the organization is to unite women for social, cultural and service events. The club members will participate in Western Weekend activities, Novato Boy's Club, Cystic Fibrosis, Stanford Kidney Research Center and the Holiday Bazaar, and they will provide birthday cakes for boys at St. Vincent's School for Boys and holiday food baskets.

Six Agencies Using Human Needs Center

The Novato Human Needs Center board has reported that six agencies are now using the center at 1523 South Novato Boulevard.

Agencies operating the center are the Marin County Department of Social Services, Community Mental Health, Catholic Social Services, Family Service Agency, Marin County Probation Department and KINSHIP (Kids in Need Seek Help in People), according to director Dianne Ryken.

Directors reported Monday night that there is a need for furniture, rugs, kitchen tables and chairs, beds, dressers and bedding for needy families, Mrs. Ryken said.

Volunteer workers and those interested in becoming volunteers have luncheons at noon on Mondays and a volunteer class is to be scheduled, giving information on working as a volunteer, she said.

The center will have an election of new directors at 7:30 p.m. June 11 at the center, Mrs. Ryken said.

A TEEN'S LIFE

The Crucial Years Can Be Made Easy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The teen years are among life's most difficult. But if parents take the time, the years can be less fraught with frustration for all.

The teen-ager, given careful guidance and understanding, can grow into the well-adjusted adult without such problems as drugs, dropouts, runaways and, if dress is a concern, look less like Halloween every day.

Remember. The adolescent is in a period of transition, shedding his childhood and beginning to assume his role as an adult, says one guidance counselor.

Even if the teen does not display outward signs of rebellion, he probably is going through a stage of sorting and sifting values.

HERE IS where the parent must be of vital help.

Let the young person know that it's all right to think differently from his parents and other adults.

Help him to realize that an idea is not necessarily good because it is modern, or poor simply because it is oldfashioned. An idea is good if it is appropriate and effective, regardless of the era in which it was popular.

Help the teen-ager to examine the reasons for his beliefs. It is not enough for a boy or girl to believe or disbelieve something only because his or her parents do. A belief should make sense to the person who holds it.

These points are made in "Parents and Teenagers", a new publication of the Public Affairs Committee, a New York-based nonprofit educational organization. Author is Margaret Hill, counselor and author of several articles on education, child development and mental health.

MRS. HILL cites a recent study in which high school students were asked the simple question, "Who are you?". More than one third of the responses, she said, "reflected confusion, insecurity, alienation, a sense of unfulfillment, a feeling of being trapped ... overwhelmed by the confusion in the roles he is expected to play, the adolescent does not tell who he is; he tells how he is"!

A teen-ager may complain, "My parents expect me to be perfect. They're always telling me to act like a grownup, but they won't give me a chance to be grown up."

Mrs. Hill stresses that parent-child communication is of the essence. "Good communication involves not only listening for the true meaning behind the spoken word but also "listening" to what a person does," she says. "Behavior is a reflection of the way a person feels about himself and the people in his life."

Behavior might involve little more than staying out too late —"I'm not a child anymore to be ordered around and told what to do."

Or it might embrace the whole family "lifestyle." Mrs Hill says that "problem" youth often comes from "problem" family where running away is a way of life.

Vows Are Repeated In Virginia

Catherine M. Szostak of Ft. Eustis, Va., and Joseph Matrisotto of Peoria, Ill., were married in the Catholic chapel at Fort Eustis on May 3.

Catherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Szostak of Novato, and Joseph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adalbert Matrisotto of Chicago, Ill.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Newport News, Va. The couple went on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, N.Y., and they will live in Peoria.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and the dental assistant school at College of Marin. She is serving in the Women's Army Corps as a dental assistant. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. J. Sanislawski of Detroit, Mich.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lane Technical High School in Chicago and the University of Illinois in Champaign, Ill. He is employed at Commonwealth Edison Co. in Peoria.

James W. Jackson Claims Sheri Fenton

Sheri Christine Fenton became the bride of James William Jackson in Saturday rites at the Church of the Nativity in Marinwood.

Lynn Satmary of San Rafael was maid of honor and Janice Siciliano of Chico was the bridesmaid.

Al Anderson of San Rafael served as best man. The ushers were Bob Hamilton and Dennis O'Brien of San Rafael.

The reception was held at Maple Lawn in San Rafael. Hawaii was the destination of their wedding trip.

Sheri and James will live in Novato.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Fenton of San Rafael. She is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin and is employed with the United Telephone Answering Service in San Rafael.

Sheri is the sister of Gary Fenton of San Francisco, Chris Fenton of Chico and Mark Fenton of San Rafael. Chris Bertelsen of Seattle, Wash., is her grandfather.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jean Crabtree of San Rafael and William C. Jackson of Camp Meeker. He also was graduated from Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin. He is employed by Union Oil Co. in San Rafael.

James is the grandson of Mrs. Harriett Blackwell of San Pablo and Mrs. Jane Gonzales of San Francisco.

School Booklet Is Distributed

Edited by Carol Capron of Mill Valley, the booklet is an aid to parents of pre-school age children in selecting a nursery school and describes the school's philosophy of education.

Profits from the sale of the booklet will be used for the branch's fellowship fund.

ON BEING BLACK

The Hills Are Alive With For Sale Signs

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

OAKLAND — The hills are alive with the tap-taps of for-sale signs being nailed on houses in several residential areas.

"There are limits to anything," sighed exasperated Susie Seller. "I'm not prejudiced, and the open enrollment wasn't too bad, but if that Black Panther guy becomes mayor. My God. We've just got to get out."

"I know what you mean," consoled Rita Benedicta Realtor. "I saw the writing on the wall two years ago and sold my house for a good price."

"We hate to leave," confided Susie. "It's close to my husband's job and has a great recreational area for the kids. We've spent years fixing up the house."

"OH, YOUR place is lovely," agreed Rita, "but I have the house for you. It's in a little scenic community called Whitesville. You'll love it.

"Do you really think we can get enough for this place?" Susie Seller is righteously skeptical.

"No problem. I have buyers who simply want to live in this area. But there are a few sellers' tips I want to pass on to you.

"Your place should be squeaky clean when we show it. Careful what you cook the night before — no fish, curry or other highly odorous food that might offend."

"I could bake an apple pie."

"You'd be surprised how little details sell a house. Turn your record player on softly, something by Tchaikovsky.

"Now if you and your husband will just sign right here, I'll have you out of this house — at a profit — and into another house in no time," stated Rita Realtor with understated jubilance.

ENTER BETSY Buyer.

"Oh, it's lovely!" she exclaimed.

"It is," agreed Rita Realtor. "Made for you and your family. It's so close to schools." That will soon be integrated by bussing, thinks Susie Seller, smiling sweetly all the while.

"What smells so good — apple pie?" asked Betsy as she looked through the kitchen.

"How quiet and pleasant it is. No loud traffic sounds. No competition for your stereo."

These magnificent trees screen out television reception, too. And these magnificent trees happen to be quite dead from the early winter freeze, and now they're a fire hazard. Estimated cost of removal: $700. Susie Seller is still smiling.

"By the way, why are you moving?" Now Betsy Buyer is smiling sweetly.

"HER HUSBAND has a new job, and they'll be leaving the state," Rita Realtor intervened quickly.

"Have you had any problems with break-ins?" asked Betsy.

"Why, this is one of the safest areas in the city." Rita jumps in feet first.

Those iron bars on all the ground-level windows aren't there for show, Cookie, thinks straight-faced Susie.

"Some of these hill houses have sliding problems. How about this one?" asked Betsy as she observes the living room floor slants a bit.

"Oh, not this one. Solid as a rock!" Rita hangs in there.

Solid as a rock, except the rock is rolling down the hill.

"Let's go back to my office where we can talk privately," smiled Rita Realtor. "I think we've found your new home."

"This is a far cry from being the house for my family," said Betsy frankly. "By the way, tell Susie to try potato pie and the musical score from 'Superfly' next time. This place needs all the help it can get."

THE BEAUTIFUL CHRYSANTHEMUM IN MINIATURE

Bonsai is an artistic offshoot of gardening that claims scores of Marin enthusiasts. But few of them think in terms of the chrysanthemum as their cultivar. One who does is Dave Wahler of Mill Valley, president of the Chrysantheumum Society of Marin. In this week's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, he tells and shows you how to plant, grow and train a bonsai 'mum plant. And he informs you, as well, where you can acquire the proper cultivars to begin your own participation in a fascinating hobby. The story could well serve as your introduction to hours of pleasure and satisfaction.

Sometimes A Little Help From The Enemy Needed For A Victory

There are some situations in which you cannot succeed without a little help from the enemy. The important thing is to know how to get that help even from reluctant opponents. The secret seems to elude government officials and bxinessmen, but it isn't much of a problem to bridge players.

DIAMOND ACTION

West opened the jack of hearts and East took the ace. East returned a heart and South won with the king. It was now up to South to limit the diamond loss to two tricks.

If South goes after the diamonds fairly early, East will win the first diamond trick as cheaply as possible and will get out safely with a spade or a club. South will then lose two more diamond tricks.

The fact is that South can make the game contract only if he can persuade East to lead diamonds. What sort of persuasion is necessary?

ROUNDABOUT WAY

After winning the second trick with the king of hearts, South draws two rounds of trumps and then all three clubs, ending in his own hand. Only then can South afford to touch the diamonds.

South leads a low diamond from his hand and finesses with dummy's ten. This loses to East's jack, as expected, but now East must co-operate. If East returns a diamond, dummy will win a trick with the king. If East returns anything else, dummy can ruff while South discards a diamond. In either case, the game contract is safe.

PLEASE NOTE

You persuade East to co-operate by making it impossible for him to do anything else. State Department, please note.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A J 9 7 3
♥ - 8 5
♦ - K 10 4
♣ - K Q 10.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

At your next turn you can try for game in notrump. If you try for no-trump first, the spades may never be shown.

New Way Found To Purify Water

SYDNEY (UPI) — An Australian scientist yesterday announced development of a new way of purifying water.

George Cullen, manager of the metallurgy department at Melbourne university, said research workers discovered the process—which uses a brown coal "sponge" to remove bacteria from water polluted by sewage.

Tests on a Melbourne river, he said, showed that pollution rated 200 times above the safe swimming limit was reduced by 99.9 per cent in two hours.

Cullen said in a statement the coal also could be used to treat industrial chemical solutions and waste.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Famous figures! How old are they today?

1. MORT SAHL, American humorist, is 46, 56, or 61 today. Politicians run when they see this wit coming because he's made a fortune turning their speeches into nightclub and television acts. He studied city management and engineering at the University of Southern California and served as an Air Corps private in World War II.

2. PHIL SILVERS, stage and screen comedian, is 46, 56, or 61 today. Learned about Army life doing USO shows for GI's overseas during World War II, then made himself famous on television as the clever operator, "Sergeant Bilko," during the 1950's. His Broadway credits include performances in "Top Banana," "High Button Shoes," and "Do-Re-Mi."

3. SALVADOR DALI, modern artist, is 61, 69, or 85 today. Born in Spain, he showed talent early, completing two famous paintings before he was 10 years old. He left for America to study jazz under Paul Whiteman, but became famous for his surrealist art work. He entitled his autobiography, "Diary of a Genius."

4. IRVING BERLIN, popular composer, is 61, 69, or 85 today. Born in Russia, he was brought to the United States at the age of five. His songs were hits in World War I ("Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning") to World War II ("God Bless America"). Altogether he has written about 800 songs, starting with "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

ANSWERS: 1 - Mort Sahl, 46; 2 - Phil Silvers, 61; 3 - Salvador Dali, 69; 4 - Irving Berlin, 85.

ART REVIEW

Three Artists Are Featured As May Fiesta II Is Opened

By ADA GARFINKEL

Music and festivities celebrated the opening of May Fiesta II and the exhibits of three featured artists in the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley.

The elemental forces of nature which nurture and shape — or destroy — our terrestrial environment are the essential theme of Naomi Hardy's paintings.

Using very thin mixtures of oil paint and turpentine, Mrs. Hardy stains her canvases, adding compounds for texture and imagery definition to recreate roiling, turbulent energy and mountainous formations, as, for example in "Primordial Forces."

And in "Pond Frozen in Winter," blocks of ice — rectangular, transparent planes —encasing straggly, dry root systems, presents nature at her severest.

One gets the impression that Mrs. Hardy sometimes takes a small segment of nature and expands it macroscopically upon her canvas, as, for instance, in "Afternoon of the Grove," inspired by Mendocino's Pygmy Grove. This painting in soft pinks and russet-gold tones reveals a more poetical side of nature.

Two further diametrically opposed manifestations occur in "Green on the Hill," and "Relentless Time."

In the former, in an almost aerial perspective, slanting sheets of rain in moist, atmospheric blues breathe life into the yellow-green meadow and hills below.

But the barren topography, the eerie light and advancing spaceship of "Relentless Time" is visually realized in the metaphoric terms of Ray Bradbury and "2001" combined.

The landscape idiom is seen in a more personalized version in the matte, casein paintings of Virginia Kraemer.

Low-keyed in color, and built up with layer upon layer of palette-knife textural strokes which allow transverse exposure of color, Mrs. Kraemer's paintings express a deep affinity with nature and intuitive forces.

Jane Featherstone's stoneware and porcelain figure sculptures recall Egyptian tomb pieces.

Executed primarily as portrait busts of people, they are either mounted on planks or bases, or, as with the one of five young Chinese children, on a tondo-shaped wall plaque.

Mrs. Featherstone's favorite idiom is ethnic, either from her own ancestral background — "The Shtettle" — a group of four Polish villagers in 1905, or the commemorative "Munich 11" dedicated to the fallen Olympic athletes and presenting three-dimensional portrait busts of each upon a single wall plaque.

Works by other artists which are noteworthy, are: Petra Luchetti's "Rectangles," Anne Weinholt's bronze and aluminum wall sculpture, Christine Atwood's "Sunlight through the Forest," Esthermae Riley's sculpture entitled "Wooden Sextant," Pat Terheun's "Blue Nude in Garden," and Dianne Weiss's woodcut: "Church at Vrarona."

This exhibit will continue through May 31 and may be viewed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The gallery is located at 2 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

DANCING LEGS IN REVUE

Ex-Governor Can Run Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes is eligible to run for a third term as governor in 1974, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

Rhodes, who served in the post from 1963 to 1971, challenged a section of the Ohio constitution providing that "no person shall hold the office of governor for a period longer than two successive terms of four years."

Rhodes filed petitions to run in 1974, but was turned down by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown so the matter could be resolved in court.

FAMILY

"Dr. DoLittle" — A rare treat for all. A "people doctor" decides to devote his knowledge to animals, fish and fowl patients. A visual delight of color, costume and music.

"Modern Times" — Reissue of great classic which is a satire on mechanization and an affirmation of the importance of love as presented by Charlie Chaplin.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Camelot" — Film based on stage musical of 13th Century King Arthur and the love affair between his wife and his best friend, Lancelot. Costumes and music spectacular.

"Fist of Fury" — Although the deadly art of self-defense (Kung-Fu) provide much violence in this story it also shows the oriental philosophy of self control. English titles.

"HOT ROCK" — Not the best lesson to absorb since crime pays in this mild comedy. It relates the experiences of accident prone thieves who steal a diamond from a museum only to lose it.

"Jeremiah Johnson" — Violence is intrinsic in the life style portrayed. A drama about a mountain man whose quest for peace becomes a battle for survival against savage Indian tribes.

"Night of the Lepus" — Bumbling ecologists let loose a strain of giant rabbits who invade Arizona and shred everyone in their path.

"Red Sun" — Violence and cursing in generous portions in this western about betrayal and vengeance among outlaws. Good cast.

"Sleuth" — The cast's dynamic performances create excitement and suspense in this film about rivals who play at a murderous game of wits.

"Tales From the Crypt" — Five chilling tales are told by some tourists lost in a catacomb in this British shocker. Good cast.

"War Between Men and Women" — Comedy based on Thurber's writings. Cartoonist who is anti-women, children and dogs marries a divorcee who has both.

"Wicked, Wicked" — Is a murder mystery about a psychopathic killer filmed in a new process called Duo-Vision, which presents action from two different points of view. (Boxoffice Magazine)

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — A raw, raucous satire on subjects formerly held sacred. Plot is an excuse for all kinds of hilarious situations.

"Bullit" — A Chicago mobster is a prime witness in a Senate crime hearing. Protecting him becomes a bloody suspenseful chase around San Francisco. Very violent.

"Butterflies Are Free" — A blind young man tries living alone. His encounter with a zany girl and their sexual involvement has his domineering mother making as many adjustments as he does.

"Class of '44" — There is sex, cursing and violence in this sequel to "Summer of '42" which sees the teen-agers off to college.

"Campaneros" — An Italian-Spanish-German made western combining very violent action and some comedy. Set in Mexico 1900's a revolution, double-crosses, etc. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Cries and Whispers" — Beautiful photography in this psychological drama set in the last century. Two sisters return to their ancestral home to comfort a sister dying of cancer.

"Nelson Affair" — This historical melodrama provides boudoir history of Admiral Lord Nelson and his mistress, Lady Emma Hamilton. (Catholic Film Newsletter)

"SCORPIO" — Unflattering portrait of CIA presented in this murderous, suspense-packed espionage thriller about assassinations by fellow agents on command without compunction.

"Slither" — Many vulgarities and violence in this comedy suspenser. Ex-convicts in pursuit of stolen money in Sonora, Pismo Beach and Mendocino. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Travels With My Aunt" — A prim British accountant becomes embroiled in drug smuggling, illegal currency and theft. Film seems excessive, turning a light comedy into heavy fantasy.

"Up the Sandbox" — A seriocomic story of the weird fantasies of a housewife with a hyperactive imagination. Nudity.

"Vault of Horror" — Five more "tales from the crypt" each with a comic twist but reveals novel ways to maim and kill. Very violent.

"You'll Like My Mother" — Violence and a graphic birth scene add terror to this story of a pregnant war widow who receives a hostile reception from her late husband's family. She uncovers some shocking secrets.

ADULTS ONLY

"Bonnie and Clyde" — A chapter in the gangster history of the 30's brought to vivid life. Sadistically violent. Well acted.

"Grisson Gang" — This 30s gangster movie has much violence, gore, sex and nudity. The plot centers around the kidnapping of a Kansas City Heiress and a million dollar ransom.

"The Mack" — To blacks Mack means a pimp. The rise of a small time crook to a large scale operator is told in realistic terms. Nudity, sex and rugged violence. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Play Misty For Me" — Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes in this suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him.

Concert Set May 22 At Seminary

The Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary oratorio choir will be augmented by singers from various Bay Area communities for the spring concert at 8 p.m. May 22 in John A. Broadus Hall Chapel on the Strawberry Point campus.

Cantata 78 by Bach and "Gloria" by Vivaldi will be performed under the direction of John P. Johnson, assistant professor of church music at the seminary.

Orine Suffern, seminary music instructor, will be the organist, and additional accompaniment will be provided by a chamber orchestra.

Soloists will include Robin Miller, soprano, Florence Bierman, alto, both graduate students at Dominican College.

Daniel Parkerson, soloist at Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, will be the tenor soloist, and Joshua Law, director of music at Chinese Cumberland Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, will sing the bass solos.

'Intimacy' Series To Conclude

A musical program illustrating society's changing attitudes toward intimacy and its reflection in popular music will be given Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

"Hearing the Changes" will feature Ed Denson of the Blue Bear School of Music in San Francisco, a contemporary rock and roll college, playing a wide variety of recordings. Before founding the school, Denson managed Country Joe and the Fish and the Joy of Cooking.

The program concludes the college's "Intimacy: Then and Now," series.

Crafts Display And Sale Slated

A public arts, crafts and handiwork display and sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., June 9, at the R and B Furniture parking lot at 3773 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, sponsored by San Rafael Meadows Improvement Association.

The association will collect 7 per cent of the gross sales for cleanup purposes, said chairman John A. Allen.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Four-Six-Four In Larkspur Offers New Menu Every Night

Quite probably you have been invited more than once to a home in which the hostess excels in cooking dinners.

And it is just as probable that you do not know in advance what she plans to serve. But in spite of this you always welcome another invitation and are seldom if ever disappointed in the outcome.

Two young men from Michigan, Michael Goldstein and Terry Irvin, have applied this premise to a dinner house — the recently opened Four-Sixty-Four Restaurant at that number on Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

To allow some margin for difference in tastes, each night they offer a choice of two entrees, and now on Fridays and Saturdays four. But the menu is constantly being changed. You can go there unannounced and be surprised — or you can phone ahead and be informed. Since reservations (particularly on weekends) are advised, the latter procedure might be the better choice.

If you like the place (and it's quite possible you will) and become a regular customer, the chances are that you can have your name put on a weekly mailing list of forthcoming servings.

To give you some idea of entree choices available, tonight and tomorrow night the Four-Sixty-Four menu will feature Chinese roast pork, basted with honey and served with sweet and sour sauce; filet of petrali sole a la Bretonne, served with French cream sauce and julienne of vegetables; homemade manicotti stuffed with four cheeses and topped with a mushroom cheese sauce, and stuffed eggplant, made the Indian way with spicy vegetables.

The menu has an international flavor. Other entrees may be a chicken Kiev, chicken dauphinoise, moussaka a la Greque, Japanese tempura or a thinly sliced Chinese pepper steak (I sampled the last two and they were quite delicious). There are many more.

Mind you, Michael (who does the cooking) and Terry, who is in the dining room, are not simple entrepreneurs. They have had professional restaurant experience and are applying it to their own particular ideas. Their place is nicely appointed, with immaculate napery, large tables and chairs.

TERRY IRVIN
Commands the tables

MICHAEL GOLDSTEIN
Provides changing menu

It's a quiet little dining room with a capacity that could be half again as large — but the crowding would not be nearly so comfortable.

There is an excellent wine list and a good house wine. No lunches are served (except to groups by advance reservation) and the restaurant is closed Monday nights.

ALSO IN LARKSPUR, near the theater on Magnolia, the I-Zii Sicilian Restaurant is building up quite a following — and now its menu.

Look for such recent additions as meatless meat balls (egg croquettes), mushroom frittatas and also Swiss chard frittatas, linguini with clam sauce, fettuccini Alfredo, Sicilian pizzas (they are quite thick, with homemade dough), eggplant sandwiches and several others.

The Carminatis are specialists in Sicilian fare and if you have never tried it you should.

I just learned, too, that they are the uncle and aunt of Roland and Victor Gotti, who are now preparing the Lark Creek Inn for a reopening. Good cooking runs in the family.

Lark Creek, by the way, is still in the midst of remodeling and definitely won't be ready to reopen by Tuesday. New target date is May 28th, but even that could be deferred a few days more.

You'll be surprised at the many changes being made — new woodwork in the dining room, new wallpaper. The former glass-topped wrought iron tables are being replaced and are up for sale. There will be lots of greenery in the dining room.

Marin Dining And Wining

SUNDAY IS MOTHER'S DAY — the busiest restaurant day of the year. Restaurants that played to a good house on Easter will do so again, but even better, with many serving both brunch and dinner.

The available choices are many — too numerous to mention in their entirety, for they would constitute a full restaurant guide. But here are a few that announced their plans.

LE CAMEMBERT, which celebrates completion of its second successful year at 200 Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley, at the end of this month, will serve its regular dinner menu from 5:30 p.m. Mother's Day. Reservations are virtually a necessity here.

And if there is a new face at the bar that seems familiar, it probably is. You're looking at Ray Brunal, who used to own the Oak Tree Inn at San Geronimo and is a mixologist par excellence.

KIRBY ATTERBURY, whose shoreline Caprice dinery in Tiburon has just received a four-star rating in the new Mobil-guide, plans on serving both lunches and dinners on Mother's Day — lunches from noon to 3 p.m. and dinners following that period. Regular menu will be served. With any clear weather over the water this should be a beautiful place to dine.

CAFE AMBROSIA in San Anselmo will be open this Sunday from 3 p.m. and serve its regular dinner menu with no change in prices. Make reservations.

RECENTLY CLOSED ON SUNDAYS, the Medallion in San Rafael's West End will definitely be open Mother's Day with a special dinner menu featuring prime rib, leg of lamb, veal scallopini and roast turkey. Service starts at 3 p.m.

Black Point brunches will be served from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Dinners, with a special holiday menu offering five entree choices will be from 2 to 9 p.m. A child's plate is also offered.

WORD FROM the House of Kebab in the east Northgate area is that two new dinner entrees (which have been going well on lunches) will be offered beginning on Mother's Day. These are "toss kebab," ground lamb and beef baked in the oven with mushrooms and other adds, and liver kebab — beef liver, charcoal broiled on a skewer.

IT HAS BEEN touch and go for the Valans getting their new Grotto seafood restaurant at 3751 Redwood Highway (across from the Civic Center) ready, and at this writing it still wasn't definitely known if they would make it this week.

DINING

Odds favored an opening by tonight if not last night, but if you are going there and have a few miles to drive, better phone ahead to be sure. It's a beautiful place, inside and out.

AT 909 LINCOLN AVENUE, San Rafael (the Grotto's former location), it is definite that there will not be a reopening of the Old Vienna Restaurant by Tuesday. Much work still has to be done. My own guess would be about the end of the month. But that too could be optimistic.

THE JEAN HOFFMAN TRIO returned this week to Gatsby's in Sausalito for a month's engagement and will be playing Wednesdays through Sundays, with a special early performance on Sundays beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Other jazz groups will appear on Monday and Tuesday nights, with all performances through the week starting at 9:30 p.m. (except for the early time on Sundays).

Charlie Peet, who put in 27 months and 35,093.9 miles aboard his yacht Santana voyaging around the world, is now showing portions of the movies he took on the trip every Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. —a different segment each week.

Chamber Picks Vice President

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday elected long-time board member Wally Raymond as chamber vice president.

Some Benefits To Elderly May Be Axed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new study by a government-supported legal service for senior citizens said that some aged, blind and disabled persons in 36 states, including California, may lose welfare benefits when the federal government takes over the administration of aid to 6.3 million persons next Jan. 1.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI), enacted in the waning days of the 92nd Congress and signed into law by President Nixon last Oct. 30, will replace the state-administered welfare programs of Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Needy Blind and Aid to the Disabled and will guarantee an individual a minimum cash income of $130 a month and a couple, $195.

But if states do not choose to supplement the amounts paid by the federal government, as the law allows them to do, some recipients actually will lose public aid under the new system, said the National Senior Citizens Law Center.

"There are 36 states in which SSI's replacement of current benefits, without state supplementation, will mean a reduction in some recipients' income," said a report issued by the center's Washington office. The center is supported by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

Among reasons given for loss of benefits is the elimination of food stamp bonuses for persons covered in the new federal program, the loss of medical care benefits under Medicaid for some recipients and anticipated rent increases for recipients living in public housing because of the federal income guarantee.

Another important factor is that among 54 states and jurisdictions, 24 now provide more aid for a single aged person than the $130 standard that takes effect in January. The administration has argued that those states will choose to at least maintain or even supplement the new federal levels of aid because the financial responsibility for aiding the aged, blind and disabled will be lifted from their shoulders.

SSI will be financed from general federal revenues at an estimated $3.5 billion a year.

A series of reports by the legal aid service was released at a meeting held here Monday by the three million-member National Council of Senior Citizens to launch a campaign to convince state legislatures during sessions this year to supplement the federal aid that will take effect next Jan. to the aged, blind & disabled.

Lecture Is Set

College of Marin philosophy instructor Donald Palmer will give a free public lecture on "Kirkegaard and Therapy" on May 18 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 165 of the college's Harlan Center, the last in the Humanities Colloquia series.

AWARD WINNER — Soprano Nora R. Gohl of 65 Corte Cordova, Greenbrae, has been awarded a $250 scholarship by the East Bay Opera League. Miss Gohl was among four winners in a field of 27 entrants for scholarships given by the non-profit group.

Fairfax Council To Fill Vacancies

The Fairfax Town Council will announce appointments to two vacancies on the town parks and recreation when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Womens Club.

The council will also hear a progress report from the general plan committee and consider plans for safety facilities approved by voters last month.

Training Center Is Opened

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An advanced training center for California's law enforcement officers has been opened in suburban Broderick by the State Department of Justice.

Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger announced yesterday that with a budget of about $450,000 a year, the center is expected to give about 1,200 officers advanced training in narcotics, intelligence and other police topics in the next fiscal year.

The first class in the rented quarters convened April 29.

The state has been offering advanced training since 1944, but on a limited basis, Younger said. The new center will house the first "extensive" advanced training program.

Sonoma State Sets Piano Festival

Eighteen Sonoma State College pianists will join to present the second annual 36 hands piano ensemble festival May 17 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Ives Hall.

Music will include works by Bach, Mozart, Debussy, Brahms, Stravinsky and Ravel.

Drive For Restoration Of Death Penalty Opens

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Correctional Officers Association, representing 3,248 prison guards across the state, has launched a letter writing campaign to gain Assembly support for restoration of the death penalty.

"Nearly 5.5 million Californians voted to reinstate capital punishment last year" on Proposition 17, said Ken Brown, spokesman for the group. "We're asking that these citizens help us again by writing now to their assemblymen asking for their support."

The legislation by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, presently is in the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

"The important question here is whether one man will be allowed to defy 5.5 million voters," Brown said yesterday.

He charged that Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, "stacked the deck against us in this matter, apparently in the hopes the resulting publicity will provide a springboard into the governorship next year, and we are urging capital punishment supporters to act now to prevent his success."

Moretti, a contender for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year, said Wednesday he believed there was "some possibility" of a capital punishment bill clearing the committee this session.

Told of Moretti's comments, Brown said, "We're very happy that he's apparently given in."

Brown also said, "We're not asking members of the committee who oppose capital punishment to vote for SB450, but instead to move it onto the Assembly floor with no recommendation to at least allow a representative vote on this major issue."

Proposed Budget Wins Support

The Marin Mental Health Foundation board has approved a proposed 1973-74 budget of $84,192, said president Michael F. Silberstein.

The total is about 5 per cent higher than this year's budget, said Silberstein, and doesn't include any grants which the foundation may receive, or fund raising activities.

Directors discussed making an application for available federal funds for an alcoholic rehabilitation program at the foundation's meeting Wednesday.

Eat at Dominic's.

A friend of ours recently spent the evening up on Broadway, instead of driving all the way to San Rafael where we are. It cost him $3.00 for parking, $51.87 for dinner, $48.50 for drinks, tips, and cover charge at a topless night club, and $75,000 plus his lawyer's fee of $3,500 for his subsequent divorce. Dominic's isn't cheap, but considering the atmosphere, superb food, and the possible savings, we're certainly worth a fifteen minute drive.

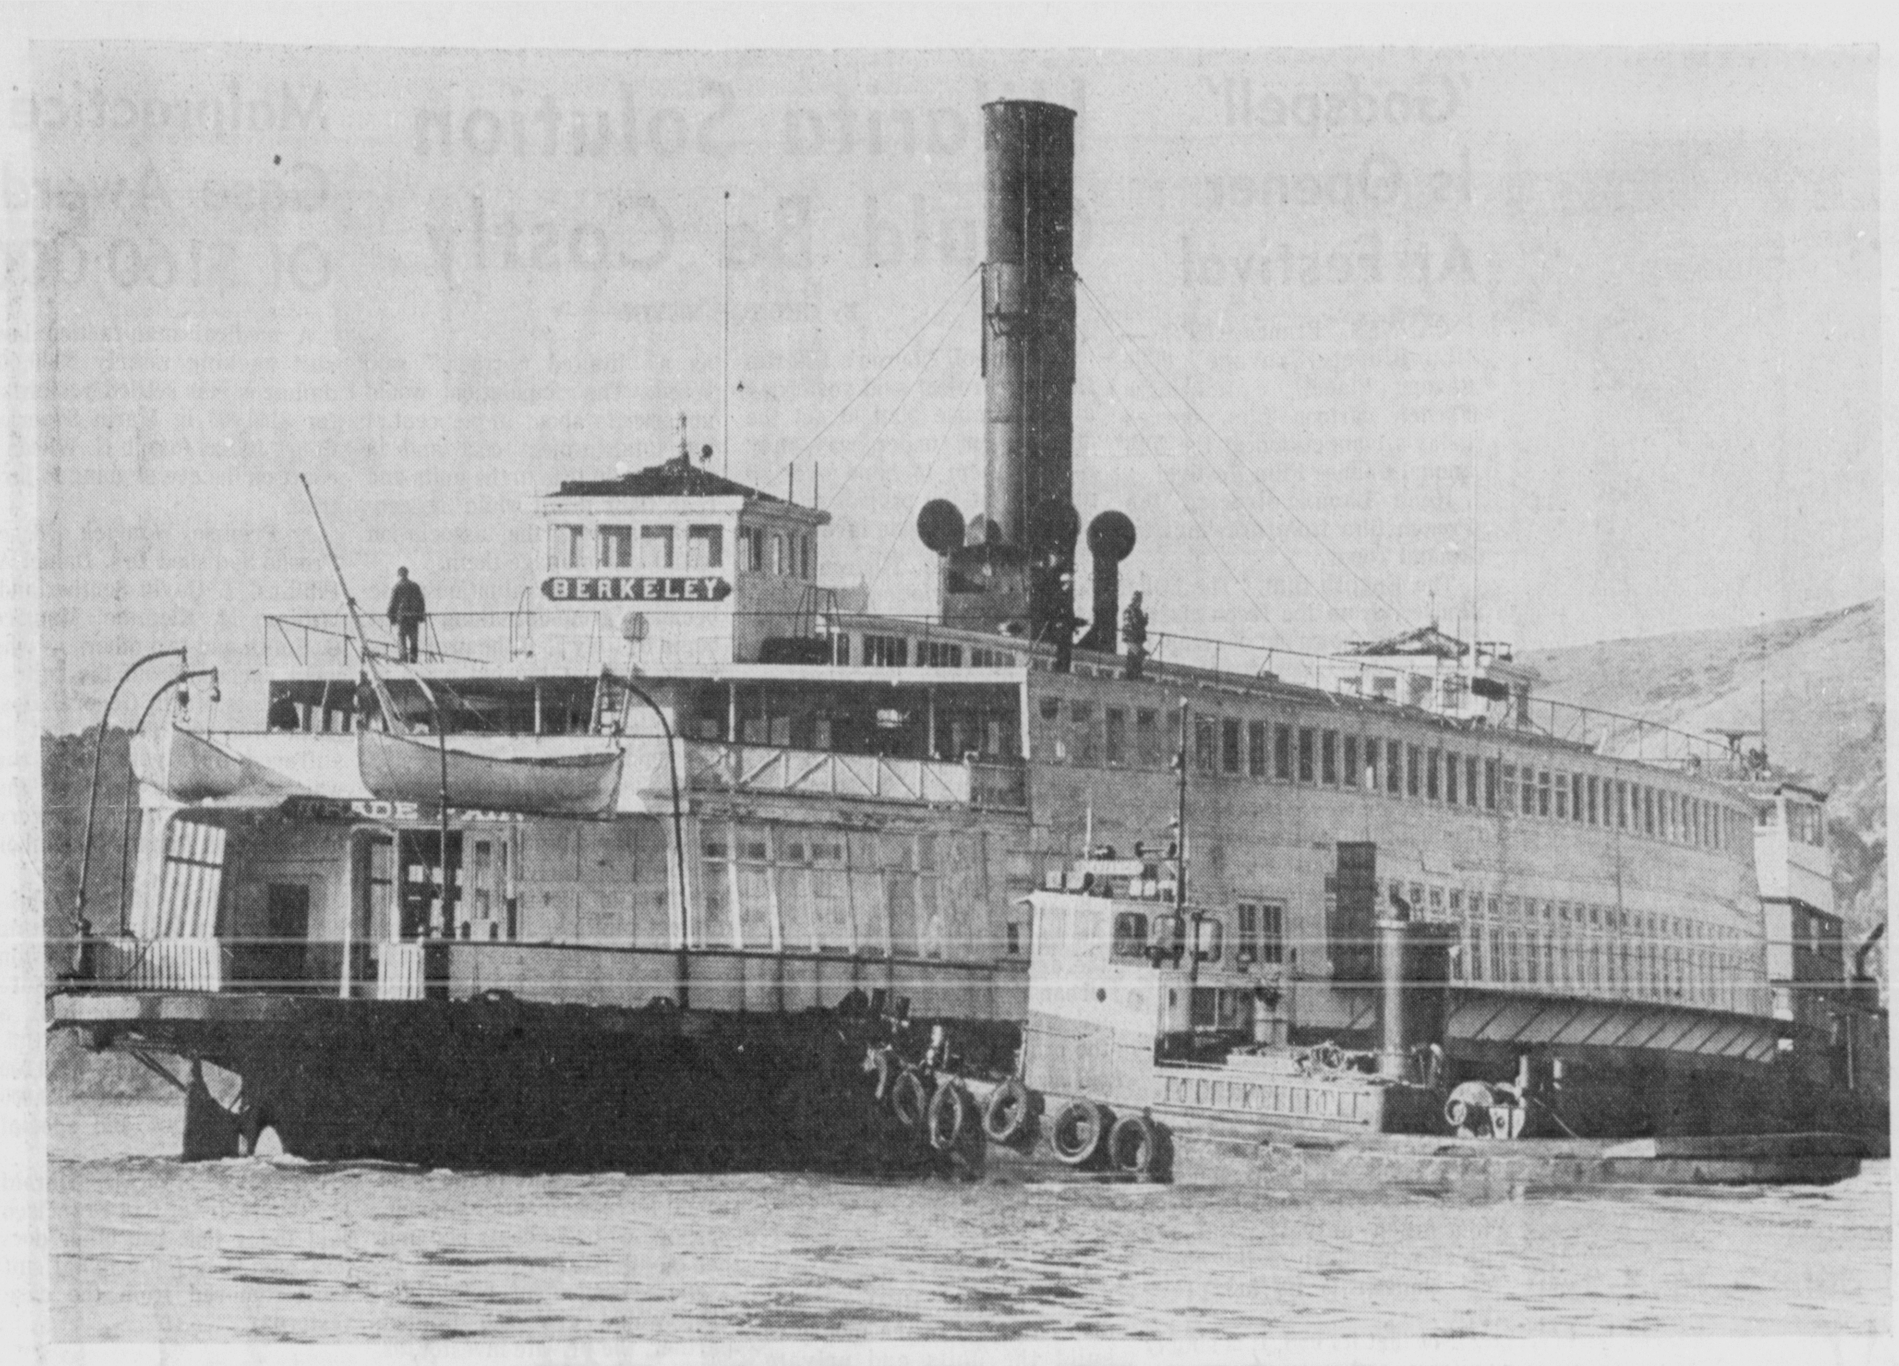
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY



THE LONG VOYAGE BEGINS

The old ferryboat Berkeley, her days of travelling under her own power long, long gone, is nudged from Sausalito into San Francisco Bay by a tug for towing to the Bethlehem shipyard in San Francisco. There she will be fitted out for towing to San Diego where she is to be a star attraction in a maritime museum. This move yesterday ended 13 years servitude as a floating gift shop on the Sausalito waterfront. Prior to that time the 300-foot, 75-year-old vessel spent nearly 60 years carrying passengers and cars between the East Bay and San Francisco until retirement in 1957. After a few years enforced idleness she became the Trade Fair gift shop when bought by Luther W. Conover and brought to Sausalito.

Sheriff Is Opposed To Corrections Plan

Marin Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos charged yesterday that a special committee appointed by county supervisors is attempting to "hoodwink the public" with its proposed department of corrections.

"I don't want anything to do with it," Mountanos told the Independent-Journal. "It's an attempt to hoodwink the public into thinking crime will be reduced and money saved."

The department of corrections proposal, to be considered Tuesday by county supervisors, was developed by the San Quentin Prison Task Force, which had been asked to study the closing of San Quentin.

In effect, the proposal would place many of the functions of the probation and sheriff's departments under a new corrections department, charged with custody and rehabilitation of prisoners.

The proposal would strip Mountanos of his responsibility for running the county jail and soon-to-open honor farm, which would be supervised by "custodial officers" instead of sheriff's deputies.

The new department also would swallow probation department functions, which only last Tuesday supervisors agreed should be placed under a new department of health and human services.

The board's action Tuesday, according to County Administrator John F. Barrows, does not preclude supervisors from forming the corrections department and placing it under the new health and human services superagency.

Mountanos complained yesterday, and in a letter to the board, that neither he nor his staff were contacted by the prison task force about the proposed department of corrections.

"To develop a department of corrections in Marin County as outlined by the prison task force and budget it as outlined by the county administrator does not reduce crime or cost less as they have stated," Mountanos said.

He said nowhere in the voluminous report prepared by the task force does it give specifics on how money will be saved or crime reduced. Nothing but theoretical assumptions, sheriff said.

He said the administrator's proposed work force for the department shows 27 "custodial officers" who, according to the task force report, will be well trained in prisoner rehabilitation.

However, he continued, the administrator is proposing a starting salary of $700 per month for the custodial officers and "who are they going to get for that?"

He said the $700 per month figure was cranked in by the administrator to reduce the budget to a figure that would appeal to county supervisors.

"I would like each member of the board of supervisors to be completely aware of the fact that I will always support changes for the betterment of the county," Mountanos wrote in his letter, "But I will have no part in any presentation that I am thoroughly convinced is misleading to the board and the people of Marin."

Study Of School Programs Slated

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization has decided to study the educational programs offered at middle schools in Marin County, reported Robert E. Spain, asst. county schools superintendent.

The committee met Wednesday night when it considered sample data from the Larkspur and Kentfield school districts, said Spain, and requested more information.

The committee decided to meet on the third Wednesday in each month, but not to meet in June, July and August.

Play Tour To Ashland Is Set

Sonoma State College will offer a travel-study course to Ashland, Ore., for the Shakespeare Festival in August.

Dr. Alan Sandy, an associate professor of English, will teach the course and lead the trip. Four plays will be presented Aug. 10-13 including "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Othello," "As You Like It" and "Henry V."

Reservations and a deposit must be made by June 12, he has announced.

Isabel Cook School To Be Closed

The San Anselmo School District board last night declared the district will phase out Isabel Cook School because of declining enrollment.

The action was greeted by applause from an overflow crowd of about 200 residents who packed Red Hill School for the two-and-one-half-hour public hearing, according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott. Although about 25 per cent of the crowd expressed opposition to the action at the beginning of the meeting, most seemed to favor the phase-out as the meeting ended, he said.

The board directed Elliott to reassign all kindergarten through third graders at the school by September. The facility now accommodates 385 pupils through the sixth grade.

Elliott said he expects a total phase-out of the school to be completed within three years, a move that could eventually save the district more than $30,000.

Pupils reassigned next year will be sent to Wade Thomas, Brookside and Yolansdale schools, he said.

Parents who at first opposed the closing argued it would require busing of students and have an emotional impact on them, he said.

Parents supporting the move argued the facility was old anyway and cited noise generated by nearby Sir Francis Drake Boulevard as harming the educational process.

The possibility of closing small neighborhood schools because of declining enrollment is also being considered by other school districts in the county.

The board last night also announced only two teachers — April Prentis and Marilyn Shaffer — will be dismissed next year due to sagging enrollment. Although the board originally notified 12 teachers they might not be rehired, additional positions have opened up because of attrition and resignations, Elliott said.

In other business, the board approved a health plan and a complaint and grievance procedure for employees.

The board continued the remainder of a lengthy agenda to 8 p.m. May 24.

Zaro Is Named Acting Principal At Cummins

The Larkspur School District Board last night appointed Leo Zaro acting principal of Neil Cummins School for the 1973-74 school year. Zaro, 48, of 8 Espalda Court, San Rafael, has been vice principal of the school for the last two years, and was previously vice principal of San Clemente School.

District Supt. Milton S. Cohen said Zaro was named acting principal rather than principal because the board indicated it wanted to review his performance after one year.

The district got 10 applications for the principalship vacated by Catherine W. Burch, who retires next month after 20 years at Neil Cummins.

In other action the board revised its policy and announced that extended leaves will no longer be granted to employees. Cohen said sabbaticals and maternity leaves and one year's leave without pay can still be granted, but no extensions will be possible.

In past years most school districts have given teachers extensions on such leaves. Cohen said decreasing enrollment and the possibility of overstaffing dictated the change in policy.

The Larkspur School District Also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of four teachers: Marilyn McQueen, presently on maternity leave from Neil Cummins; Jane Purkey, temporary teacher at Larkspur-Corte Madera; Pamela Purcell, on maternity leave at Larkspur-Corte Madera; and Dorothy Walters, of the Henry C. Hall school, moving from the area.

STAFFING — Announced that despite the four resignations it won't be hiring any more teachers for 1973-74 because of decreasing enrollment.

SALARIES — Received a request from the Larkspur Teachers Association presented by president Roy Gustafson, for a 5.5 per cent salary raise; the association will meet with district representatives in a "meet and confer" session May 17.

FEDERAL — Approved budgets for federal fund applications to be forwarded to the state dept. of education: $13,369 for a reading program, and $1,655 for library books.

BUDGET — Discussed but took no action on a proposed 1973-74 budget of $2,148,201 until the issue of teachers' salaries is resolved.

CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year, with school starting Sept. 11 and ending June 14, 1974; there will be 177 teaching days.

REDEVELOPMENT — Received a letter from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino offering to keep a "watchful eye" on redevelopment proposals by Corte Madera and its effects on district finances.

RECREATION — Agreed to let the Larkspur Park and Recreation department use Henry C. Hall school for summer classes — indicated all its school facilities will be fully used during the summer vacation with a combination of the district's summer program and classes offered by the cities of Larkspur and Corte Madera.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting, June 14 at 8 p.m. in the district office.

'Impeach Nixon' Banner Costly

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The students at Cal Tech's Debney House who hung an "Impeach Nixon" banner on the school library said that, in light of the Watergate scandal, they "just wanted to see what response it would generate."

"That picture is going to cost $1 million," said oilman Ross McCollum Thursday, after seeing a picture of the banner in a newspaper.

McCollum had planned to give Cal Tech the million.

In an open letter to the students at Debney House, McCollum said, "I would be just a damn fool to contribute my money to the kind of institution that can't control its students. There are other places I can put my money."

Competing Tonight

Lori Gieleghem, 17-year-old Novato High School state Junior Miss, will be competing for the national title tonight in Mobile, Ala. in a show to be telecast at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

Tam Board Will Meet On Budget

The Tamalpais High School District board will hold a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Redwood High School's faculty lounge to discuss proposed 1973-74 budgets for the district's three high schools.

A forecast budget for fiscal 1973-74 for the Tam District has been estimated at $11,468,864. This total, however, would require an increase in the tax rate from this year's figure of $2.135 per $100 assessed valuation to about $12.18.

District business manager Frank Cassou said the district is aiming at keeping the budget below $11 million to avoid an increase in the tax rate.

Individual budgets to be presented by the high schools are: Tamalpais High School, with anticipated 1,810 enrollment, $1,996,983; Drake High School, 1,643 enrollment, $1,806,676; Redwood High School, 2,620 enrollment, $2,658,365.

Network Links Card Centers

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — National BankAmericard Inc. (NBI) has developed and is operating a nationwide data transmission network linking all BankAmericard centers in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii.

The network, known as BASE (BankAmericard Authorization System), reduces the time it takes for BankAmericard merchants to get authorization necessary on sales exceeding certain dollar amounts. Assume that a merchant in Portland, Ore. wants to check a cardholder's home bank in Baltimore, Md.

The entire authorization procedure takes only about one minute as compared with about four and one-half minutes under the previous teletype system.

Cotati Sign Compromise Is Offered

The Cotati Planning Commission last night attempted a compromise with businessmen on the proposed sign ordinance.

Businessmen had complained the ordinance is too restrictive and said proposed changes may make it workable.

City Councilman Annette Lombardi suggested the commission delete the section requiring permits for real estate salesmen on each "for sale" sign posted. The only regulation remaining would be to remove the sign within two months after the close of escrow.

Commission secretary Donna Olson said commissioners also agreed to permit illuminated signs if in subdued colors, small and not disturbing to residential neighborhoods. Moving and flashing signs would still be banned.

Commissioners agreed to study the changes and set a joint meeting with the city council and businessmen on the ordinance for May 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

MOBILE PARK — Approved plans for a 200-unit mobile home park at 6825 South Santa Rosa Avenue.

ZONING — Denied without prejudice the request of Silvestre Cervantes for high density zoning at 8690 Water Road. Members said apartments could damage the rural atmosphere.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to review the proposed hillside development ordinance and open space and conservation element of the general plan.

Nuclear Natural Gas Blast Draws Critics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Colorado congresswoman contended today the Atomic Energy Commission has failed to find out if Americans are willing to use natural gas that is radioactive.

A government official countered that the radioactivity expected in a nuclear blast to shake loose natural gas would be a tiny fraction of the dose the average American gets by looking at color television.

The comments were at a hearing by the Public Lands subcommittee of the Senate Interior Committee, considering the scheduled May 17 nuclear explosion called Project Rio Blanco in Colorado.

Subcommittee chairman Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., said, "I do not believe the decision to proceed with Rio Blanco was the best one —especially in light of the many unresolved problems —but I could be convinced otherwise."

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., accused the AEC officials of proceeding mostly out of fear they will outlive their usefulness if they don't think up new uses for nuclear bombs.

"I think they think we got started down the path of atomic energy and, by golly, one way or the other, we are going to use it," she said. "The suspicion arises that the AEC has a technology in search of a use."

She contended the AEC has failed to ask "whether the consumer even is interested in using radioactive gas?"

But Gerald W. Johnson, director of the division of applied technology at the AEC, said a previous project, Rulison, produced a tiny amount of radioactivity in the final product.

"The maximum potential annual radiation exposure to users of Rulison gas ... would be about one-hundredth of what we receive annually from viewing color television," Johnson said.

Haskell said he is worried that the AEC is committed to "full field development" by nuclear bombs, which he said would take "22,000-plus atomic bombs" to get all the available natural gas from the Western fields.

Johnson said the AEC has not spent or committed money to any phase of Rio Blanco beyond the first explosion, and "we have not addressed the question" of full field development with the blasts.

Haskell said the technique of hydrofracturing, a water-injection method of breaking up rock to free gas, is about at the same stage as nuclear stimulation.

"Why is it you have not pursued these conventional methods, which may or may not work, before you proceeded with nuclear explosions, which may or may not work?" Haskell asked.

"It is a question of judgment, senator," Johnson said.

Considering the energy problems of the nation, "We cannot afford to not investigate this source of energy," Grier contended, "since it represents perhaps the least expensive of the alternate sources of natural gas."

CER Geonuclear is the corporate operator of the blast, scheduled and federally authorized for May 17 west of Denver near Fawn Creek in Rio Blanco County, Colo.

Warning Of Storm Delays Raft

I-J Special Report

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands — The departure of the raft Acalia, which will float across the Atlantic in a man-woman living experiment, was delayed today by storm warnings.

Meanwhile, one of the female crew members, Ilana Kochen, an Israeli doctor, dropped out. She said she was returning to Tel Aviv because her practice was suffering.

Remaining aboard, however, is Mary Gidley of San Rafael, who will be navigator on the voyage.

Newsmen reported tension among the crew members as the Acalia prepared to cast off. The three-month trip has been called an experiment in social behavior.

Rohnert Park To Get 2 Buildings

Architectural plans for two apartment complexes were approved last night by the Rohnert Park Planning Commission.

Taylor and Gross Associates received approval for a 64-unit complex on Santa Alicia Drive at Avram Avenue and for a 42-unit apartment complex on Avram Avenue.

In other business, the commission approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance which increases the number of required off-street parking spaces to two per apartment unit. In the past, only 1.5 spaces have been required per unit.

Little Bighorn Truth Is Sought

HARDIN, Mont. (UPI) — A group of 16 persons, including seven Indians, is trying to figure out what really happened in 1876 at the Battle of Little Bighorn.

The National Park Service is initiating a program it hopes will result in a new format for the telling of the story.

"Our aim is to tell more of both sides of the story—the Indian side and the cavalry side—rather than concentrating on the Custer Massacre."

Children Like Parent Stories

LONDON (AP) — Many youngsters rate stories told by mom and pop above professionals' work, according to a survey by Nicholas Tucker, a lecturer at Sussex University.

He found that a number of children put under the "favorite author" heading, "My parents."

'Godspell' Is Opener At Festival

Rene Laoux directed the French film from drawings by Roland Topor.

The English film, "The Dolls House," from the Ibsen classic play, was shown out of competition. Joseph Losey directed the latest version of the Ibsen piece with performances by Jane Fonda, Delphine Seyrig, David Warner and Trevor Howard.

Film critics attending the Cannes film festival had praise with reservations for the U.S. film "Godspell" which opened the festival last night.

The Paris newspaper France Soir said the film was made with "a great deal of ingenuity" and praised the "admirable photography" of New York's Time Square, Lincoln Center and other sites.

However, the newspapers critic said, "at other moments there is a great deal and even too much naivety. But the greater handicap of this musical comedy is its interpretation".

"Not that its bad, it is simply uniform and a good average. That gives the work a tone of amateurism. One can not help imagining what 'Godspell' would have been like with the dancers and singers of West Side Story. It would have come off marvelously but that is not the case here.

"But because of the photogenic City of New York, because of the musical full of tunes already popular, Godspell inaugurated the festival in acceptable fashion."

Waldie Seeks Emergency Aid For Civilians

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-14th District, introduced legislation yesterday to enable emergency relief and assistance to civilian employees losing jobs as a result of military base cutbacks.

In Marin County, Hamilton Air Force Base felt the effect of the Defense Department trims and is to go on reserve status in September. About 128 civilians are expected to lose their jobs at the base.

Waldie said the bill would guarantee a percentage of the worker's weekly wage, continue for a time health insurance benefits and provide counseling and retraining.

Young Bikers Aid The Police

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five teen-age boys jumped on their bikes yesterday and followed a bus carrying a robber for 12 blocks before flagging down a policeman who made the arrest.

Police said the boys, aged 14 and 15, saw the man run from the Sunnydale Milk Farm in Brooklyn after a robbery and get on a bus. They leaped on their bicycles and followed the bus for 12 blocks before they spotted a police patrol car.

The police stopped the bus and took the suspect off after he was identified by the boys.

Hilarita Solution Could Be Costly

By GEORGE NEVIN

Backers of Tiburon's Hilarita Housing Project said yesterday a compromise plan to get the development under way may require them to hand over 98 per cent of the project and all its profits to private investors.

Although the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, the non-profit group planning the low and moderate cost housing, would manage the development, title would pass to a private foundation under such a plan.

Edwin G. Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, said cutting the number of units from 112 to 102 to placate six neighbors who have sued to block the project means the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will not subsidize as big a loan for the project.

The reduction in size has been proposed in hopes it will persuade the opponents to drop the suit that threatens to carry start of the project beyond the deadline that must be met to qualify for HUD funding.

If the number of dwellings is cut, Weed said, HUD will furnish only part of the money to build the units and private funding would have to make up the difference.

The ecumenical association, a group of Tiburon churches, will discuss the alternatives, including seeking private capital, at a meeting at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Reed School in Tiburon.

One possible private source is a housing foundation, which would enter the Hilarita project as a "limited partner," said Weed. The foundation would underwrite about 10 per cent of the total project cost and in return gain title to the units and reap their profit while the general partner, the association would still manage them.

Weed said the situation arose because groundbreaking must begin by July 13 if the project is to be built at the bid price of $2,415,600, but a suit by six neighbors has been holding the development up.

E. Morton Schaffran, consultant to the project, explained that HUD's subsidy is based on a formula derived from the number of bedrooms in the project multiplied by a set figure. If the size of the project is cut from the original 112 units to 102, the amount of the HUD subsidy would decrease correspondingly, he said, to make up the difference, private capital would have to be found.

Under the limited partnership arrangement, rents in the units would increase a small amount, perhaps 60 or 70 cents per unit per month, Weed estimated.

The arrangement being studied would give the limited partner, the private investor, 98 per cent of the ownership of the project, leaving the general partners, the ecumenical association and another group yet to be found, to split the remaining two per cent, Schaffran said.

The Hilarita project, intended to replace existing World War II barracks with low and moderate income housing, has been bitterly fought by neighbors for years, some of whom complained about an "instant ghetto."

The suit filed by six opponents was rejected in Marin Superior Court but has been appealed to a state court, with a hearing set for June 5.

Fourth Sentence For Life Given

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bill Holliman received his fourth life sentence for a rape he committed after escaping from San Quentin Prison last June.

Holliman, 24, had been serving three consecutive life sentences for separate rape attacks when he escaped from a minimum security dormitory.

The defendant was convicted of raping a 27-year-old secretary in her Hyde Street apartment last Dec. 27. He was captured shortly after the attack.

Holliman also faces the possibility of a fifth life sentence for his prison escape.

Malpractice Case Award Of $160,000

A medical malpractice lawsuit seeking nearly $900,000 damages was settled yesterday for $160,000 in Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson's court on the eve of going to jury trial.

J. Printise Womack, 58, of Fresno had sued Drs. Daniel A. Phillips, J. Gavin Southerland, William M. Klemme, Maurice C. Smith and two others — who were excused from the suit — as well as Marin General Hospital. Womack alleged that he suffered paralysis from the waist down as a result of the use of a new spinal surgery technique on him in December 1970.

Womack had suffered a broken spine in a fall while visiting the home of a brother, Thurston Womack in Mill Valley. Before becoming disabled, he was a librarian at Fresno State College. His suit sought $750,000 general damages and $129,000 medical damages and special damages.

Womack's attorney, Harold E. Rogers Jr. of San Francisco said today that two other doctors named in the original suit were removed from the case yesterday.

$37 Million BART Budget

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District Board of Directors Thursday proposed a $37 million annual budget which will be presented to a public hearing June 10.

About half of the system's expenses would come from fares and the rest from taxes and reserves.

The budget was cut back $1.7 million from General Manager B. R. Stokes' original recommendation.

CONGRATULATIONS—You are reading about one of the loveliest properties we have seen in ages. Both beauty & value. It is located in a superb area of beautiful homes on a dead-end street with privacy, convenience & lots of class. The view alone is fantastic & you don't have to be a billy goat, either, because it is close-in. You get the feeling & beauty of Switzerland! The home has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, shake roof, formal dining room, fireplace, large patio off kitchen, weatherstripped, insulated, etc., etc. Plus a gigantic, separate carriage house that would be ideal for a guest cottage, cabana, play room, workshop, what-have-you. The grounds (⅓ acre) are all professionally landscaped with ease of maintenance & maximum beauty, including rock walls & terraces. There is a fantastic sun-drenched pool site. Truly a unique property that you won't find very often to say the least! We are proud to offer this rare find on an exclusive basis only with.

CREAMPUFF
'67 BUICK
$1095

This just has to be the cleanest, nicest, best mechanical car we've had in months. We sold this 4-dr. LeSabre brand new in '67 to local couple who just traded on another new Buick. We've serviced since new in our shop and we don't know of one thing to do to this car before we sell it to the new owner.

This light green sedan has the custom full vinyl interior and you'd swear nobody has ever sat in the back seat, it's so clean and new looking. Fully equipped including automatic, radio, heater, power steering, tinted glass, etc. A low mileage car with years and years of life for some lucky buyer.

RIVIERA
$2195.

Here's the rarest car on our used car lot — a clean, luxurious, low-mileage custom Riviera coupe. This chocolate colored Riviera was purchased new by local lady who has been the only driver since then.

There isn't a scratch or mark of wear inside or out on this beautifully-maintained Riviera that has all the extras like GM factory air conditioning, full power equipment including the windows, vinyl top and custom interior. If you're looking for luxury and dependability — see this really like-new '68 Riviera. XZE 829.

THE ULTIMATE IN GRAND TOURING

Covering a super strong 350 V-8 engine and 5-speed transmission is a flawless white body designed by Ghia in the sleek Italian fashion. The beautifully finished interior is instrumented with Veglia Borlette gauges. Additional pleasure and comfort is supplied by factory air conditioning, power windows and a Becker AM-FM stereo. All this sits on 185-70X15 Semperit radial tires and Campagnalo alloy wheels. This fantastic mechine hardly qualifies as used with only 7800 miles. 040 GLF.

VISTA CRUISER
$2650.

Only 34,000 miles on this one-owner 9-passenger Oldsmobile Vista Cruiser that we just took in trade on a new Buick wagon from former owner who purchased new from local Olds agency in '69.

Light blue with the custom all-vinyl interior and the custom wood grain exterior paneling — this strikingly handsome wagon has had excellent care by the former owner. Fully equipped including GM factory air conditioning, luggage rack, power steering, automatic and the 3-seats. The perfect family wagon for some Marin resident.

If you've been looking for a low-mileage, clean wagon you will know they are really hard to find. Check this wagon out if this is the type car you're looking for. 14166F.

The Once Hawkish House Beats Call For Cambodian Bomb Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time has run out in Congress on President Nixon's policies in Indochina.

For the first time since the war began, both houses now appear to have solid majorities demanding an end to U.S. involvement in the conflict. The House reversed its eight-year stand of unwavering support for the war and voted 219 to 188 yesterday to block funding for the bombing of Cambodia.

Cheers went up as the electronic scoreboard clock clicked off the final seconds of the vote handing President Nixon a major foreign policy setback.

"Five, four, three, two, one," the critics of the war chanted in unison as if watching the closing seconds of a basketball game. The new, computer-controlled voting machine then was locked and the verdict sealed.

"Give them a little more time," pleaded Chairman George Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee, his lanky Texas frame leaning over a lectern in the well as he faced nearly 100 of his colleagues and urged that Nixon be given a few more weeks to obtain compliance with the Jan. 28 cease-fire accords.

"The Communists are testing us," Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., warned. "They want to see how far they can push us. This amendment would play into their hands."

"We are at the verge of possibly getting a peace agreement now," implored Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif. "Right today, Henry Kissinger has been in Russia to talk about the possibility of getting them to twist some arms. Don't pull the rug out from under him."

But the old arguments did not go down. The House rose up in a roar and passed an amendment by Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., to block a $430 million funds transfer to relieve budget shortages at the Pentagon created by the war's continuing drain of resources.

That action was followed minutes later by approval of another amendment to the $2.8 billion catchall supplemental appropriations bill by Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., barring use of any of funds in the bill to "support directly or indirectly combat activities in, over or from the shores of Cambodia by United States forces."

A subdued House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, shaken by the day's events, said afterwards it was "a sad day in the House of Representatives." He spoke of "cringing and crumbling" in the body that had formerly backed Nixon to the hilt.

The votes themselves, even if they become law, in no way mandate an end to the war. Defense Secretary Elliot Richardson made it clear beforehand that the bombing of Cambodia would continue regardless of the action on the Addabbo amendment. The Long amendment applies only to the money in the supplemental bill and does not specifically forbid the use of other appropriated funds to run the war.

If Congress does try to pass more sweeping legislation to cut off all appropriations for the war, it probably will elicit a Presidential veto. Neither the Senate nor the House now has the two-thirds majorities necessary to override.

The Senate, which has opposed Nixon's Indochina policies on many occasions, may try to attach a provision soon to the State Department authorization bill that would bar outright using any funds for bombing Cambodia.

But members proudly said afterwards the House votes do demonstrate that Congress now is prepared to take the President to the mat when it feels its powers to make and declare war have been usurped.

This was the theme of Thursday's two hour debate that preceded the approval of the Addabbo amendment: that the President was continuing the war without a shred of constitutional authority, since neither House had authorized it.

The withdrawal of the last platoon of U.S. troops from Indochina and the release of the last group of prisoners of war, the supporters of the amendment claimed, left the President without further claim to be protecting his men under the role the Constitution assigns him as commander-in-chief.

"Have we become so impotent, so stupid and so uncaring that we no longer exercise our prerogatives under the constitution?" Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., thundered.

In the end, it was the unity and discipline in the ranks of controlling Democrats that led to the passage of the antiwar amendments.

Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., contending that Congress should in no way be led into a backdoor endorsement of Nixon's policies, acted quickly when the Pentagon request for transfer authority was first proposed and steered a resolution through the Democratic caucus and coalesced the once-scattered war critics behind a single goal. It was the first time Albert has ever exercised such leadership on the war.

Albert even arranged for 11 of 13 junketing members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to return from Europe for the vote.

On the Long amendment, 171 Democrats joined 53 Republicans to produce the majority. Only 49 Democrats opposed it, along with 123 Republicans.

On the Addabbo amendment, the scoreboard registered 184 Democrats and 35 Republicans for, 45 Democrats and 143 Republicans opposed.

On previous antiwar votes in the House, doves have been able to muster only 193 supporters.

Bolinas PUD Eyes Plans For Water

Various long-range plans to create an ample water supply for Bolinas were presented Wednesday night to Bolinas Community Public Utility District directors by engineer-consultants William Oswald and Lorne Swanson.

The dozen plans will be narrowed to about three by the directors and they will be presented to the community at a special meeting.

Commissioner Orville Schell acting chairman in the absence of William Niman, urged that the best utility system, not the cheapest, be sponsored by the board as the community will rely upon it for many decades.

Housing and urban development funds are now frozen, Oswald reported, but later be available to help pay for the system.

Director Gregg Hewlett stated that a water bond election would have little chance of success at this time unless "fat bait" were attached to the bonds, such as preservation of open space which otherwise would go into development.

The Bolinas Public Utility District board also:

ARROYO HONDA REPAIR — Adopted a resolution prepared by Commissioner Mark Ireland, authorizing the Army Corps of Engineers to prepare specifications and obtain bids to repair the Arroyo Honda roads and dams.

SEPTIC TANKS — Set May 16 at 7:30 p.m. for a meeting to deal exclusively with the review of the Peter Warshall septic tank survey.

LITTER — In answer from a complaint by Frank T. Green, agreed to place more public use garbage cans on Wharf Road.

NEW RESTAURANT — Agreed with the Regional Water Control Board that the cease and desist order imposed on Bolinas, should be amended to prohibit new discharges into the existing sewer system as well as new connections. This amendment would close the technical loophole that is permitting a large new restaurant to connect to the sewer.

RENTAL — Approved the Building Use Committee's recommendation that a room in the PUD building be rented out for business use.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 2 p.m. tomorrow when the board will meet with John Wilson of Farm and Home Administration to discuss final details in FHA sewer bonding.

Daughter Of UC Chancellor Gets Fellowship Grant

PALO ALTO (UPI) — Caroline Bowker, daughter of University of California chancellor Albert H. Bowker, has received a graduate fellowship from the California scholarship and loan commission.

The fellowship is based on academic achievement, potential, financial need and the estimated manpower needs of the state. Maximum award is full tuition and fees.

Miss Bowker, 22, lives and works in Palo Alto. Her father earns $48,000 a year.

Miss Bowker Thursday told the Daily Californian, campus newspaper at the University of California, she will use the fellowship to study medicine at Stanford University. She refused comment on the amount of the fellowship.

"I don't want to talk about it," she told a reporter for the Daily Californian. She said she is living independent of her parents.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

1:21 p.m., San Rafael — Accidental alarm from auxiliary alarm system at Trombetta Liquor warehouse, Francisco Boulevard and Hoag Avenue.

4:40 p.m., Tamalpais Valley — Tree rubbed insulation from power lines at 132 Stadium Avenue; no fire or damage.

5:18 p.m., Larkspur — Smoke check at 50 Belardo turned out to be from barbecue.

TODAY:

1 a.m., San Rafael — Car fire at 901 Lincoln Avenue caused $200 damage to auto owned by Joe Barni of San Rafael; probably caused by cigarette igniting clothing on rear seat.

1:27 a.m., San Rafael — Roof fire on pool heater shed at Louis Zanze residence, 1726 Grand Avenue; out on arrival; damage $150; cause undetermined.

Congressman Goes To Jail For Three Days

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, went to jail for three days today, taking with him only a shaving kit and a book of verse which he said "got me through World War II and it'll get me through this."

Ashley, 50, who has served in Congress since 1954, was sentenced to three days in the House of Correction, after pleading no contest to charges of having physical control of his car while intoxicated and resisting arrest. He was also fined $350.

"I had one drink too many," said Ashley at the time of his plea.

"We have one system of justice in this country —treat everyone equally," Ashley said. "This is really what this is all about.

Pleas Changed In Hash Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Mill Valley man and two companions from Oakland, reversing a previous stand, have pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to charges stemming from the confiscation of $100,000 worth of hashish oil.

The trio entered guilty pleas Tuesday after reversing previous pleas of innocent to charges of possession of hashish oil with intent to distribute it, according to a court clerk.

The Mill Valleyan, Thomas Paul Mabie of 690 Camino del Canon, and two Oakland men were arrested Feb. 26 in Sausalito while reportedly in the process of selling the powerful drug to undercover agents.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli set trial of the three for June 8.

Rock Concerts Set At Kezar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Recreation and Park Commission has granted rock promoter Bill Graham permission to stage two rock concerts in the 58,000-seat Kezar Stadium.

They will be held May 26 or 27 and June 2.

Graham predicts crowds in the 50,000-range, which would be the largest paid attendance for a music event in the city's history.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, May 11, the 131st day of 1973 with 234 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

American song writer Irving Berlin was born May 11, 1888.

On this day in history:

In 1858, Minnesota entered the Union as the 32nd state.

In 1910, Glacier National Park in Montana was created by an act of Congress.

In 1928, the first regularly scheduled television programs were begun by Station WGY in Schenectady, N.Y.

In 1963, a truce between whites and Negroes ended in Birmingham, Ala., with the bombing of the home of Martin Luther King's brother.

A thought for the day: American statesman Benjamin Franklin said, "Experience is a dear school, but fools will learn in no other way."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Phone Increase Recommended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The staff of the California Public Utilities Commission recommended Thursday a rate increase of 7.9 per cent for the Pacific Telephone Company, which wants a hike to 9.5 per cent.

The rate of return is currently 7.8 per cent.

The staff said the recommended increase would maintain Pacific Telephone's stock earnings at about the present level.

The discrepancies between the staff figures and those of the company are based mainly on different accounting procedures.

Hearings on the requested increase have been going on since February and will continue.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Those With Gallstones Could End Colic Problem By Surgery

An attack of biliary colic is not easily forgotten. The pain stems from sudden tenseness of the wall of the gallbladder or the bile duct, usually as a result of spasm or of blockage by a stone.

Pain is steady and so intense that the victim tosses and turns, hoping to find a position that offers the slightest comfort. The worst of the bout is over in 10 to 40 minutes; however, residual soreness may remain for a day or more.

Each attack of colic means that a stone, in trying to escape from the gallbladder, has wedged in the biliary passageway. The stone is too large to ease through the tube that leads to the intestine. In some instances, the stone is forced out of the gallbladder when the organ is stimulated to empty by a meal containing fats.

COLIC OFTEN starts in the middle of the night without any obvious dietary reason. The pain generally is centered under the ribs, on the right side of the abdomen. Taking a deep breath hurts, and the area is tender to the touch. Many sufferers are nauseated and vomit when the distress is at its peak.

Any person with gallstones who has had one or more attacks of colic should have the gallbladder removed. There is no better way to bring about a cure. Furthermore, unless surgery is done, the individual may anticipate recurrences of the colic, not to mention complications. Gallstones cannot be dissolved by any known substance, surgery is needed.

DURING THE acute stage, relief can be obtained with painkillers, such as Demerol or morphine. Atropine is added to the mixture to ease spasms. Relaxation is induced also by applying a hot water bottle or a heating pad and remaining quietly in bed. Between attacks, the person who harbors stones is comfortable. He should not, however, be lulled into a false sense of security, because his troubles are not over.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

LOW CALCIUM DIET

K. L. writes: If a person is on a low calcium diet for kidney stones, won't lack of this mineral weaken the bones?

REPLY

No, because it is only the excess calcium that is eliminated in the urine. In addition, it is difficult to eliminate all the calcium from the diet. The major calcium foods are milk and cheese; hard water also contains calcium. But even when these major contributors are omitted, considerable calcium is found in the urine, possibly because when the need arises, more calcium from other foods is absorbed by the intestine.

EFFECT OF STROKE

B. E. writes: What makes a person who is recovering from a stroke want to cry all the time, when there is so much to be thankful for?

REPLY

Stroke involving the base of the brain induces these kinds of symptoms. The individual is moody and cries one moment and laughs the next. This condition is involuntary and cannot be controled by the individual.

DIET AND KIDNEYS

G. F. writes: Will any special diet benefit the kidneys?

REPLY

No special foods aid or strengthen the normal kidneys. However, drinking an adequate amount of water makes them function better.

EARLOBE CYSTS

M. F. writes: I have pea-sized lumps in each earlobe. They swell periodically and discharge pus.

REPLY

These lesions may be infected cysts or related to piercing of the earlobes or the use of earrings.

PRESSURE

B. L. writes: Could a spastic bowel push against the chest, causing chest pain?

REPLY

Gaseous distension of the intestine may press upon the diaphragm. Occasionally, pain from the bowel is referred into the chest or feels as if it is in the lower chest, even though nothing is pushing or pulling.

VITAMINS

Mrs. D. writes: The doctor who took care of my first two babies started them on vitamins at two weeks of age. Our new doctor said my third child does not need vitamins. Please advise.

REPLY

Vitamins are not needed if the child is getting an adequate diet. The exception is vitamin D which is needed when the infant is not getting sunshine.

APPETITE STIMULANT

A. B. writes: Is there a hormone pill to increase appetite?

REPLY

Yes, several. Nilevar is an example of a hormone product that is stripped of the sex-stimulating factor.

APRICOT JUICE

A reader writes: Mother has the whole family upset because she puts apricot juice in a glass of milk. When it curdles she drinks it and says it makes her stomach feel good. Could this concoction harm her?

REPLY

No. Milk curdles the moment it enters the stomach and getting a head start with apricot juice does no harm. Many persons drink buttermilk because they feel it settles the stomach.

SPINAL SURGERY

Mr. E. E. writes: I had surgery for a ruptured disk in my lower spine a year ago. Is it safe to exercise — swim, lift, etc. — and resume my previous activities or must I always be "careful" of my back?

REPLY

Ask the surgeon who did the operation. Exercise is safe and advisable. However, don't strain the back unless you want another disk to rupture.

Preliminary Is Scheduled On Burglary

John Moissant, 26, and Alice Beatrice Darby, 22, both of San Francisco, will have a preliminary hearing on burglary and other charges May 22 in Marin Municipal Court.

Moissant pleaded innocent yesterday to burglary and possession of an unlicensed firearm in an appearance before Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas. Miss Darby pleaded innocent to burglary and narcotics possession charges.

Sausalito police arrested the pair early Wednesday near a boutique on Bridgeway, after finding the shop window broken and merchandise strewn in a nearby alley. Officers said they found what appeared to be narcotics in the woman's purse and a handgun and knives in the car the pair used.

Thomas released the two on their own recognizance. Both had been held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail each.

Salk's Views On The Battle Against Cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Researchbiologist Jonas Salk said yesterday that seeking the cause of cancer was "like looking for 10,000 needles in 10,000 haystacks."

Salk, who 17 years ago developed a successful vaccine to combat polio, told a news conference that the cancer cell "has, in a sense, committed the perfect crime."

He also said that in birth defects research "we are finding increasing evidence that diseases are involved we never thought would be."

One example, he said, turned out to be that "certain forms of cancer have a hereditary component."

Salk, here to address a March of Dimes luncheon, said he was working on a new science called "metabiology." This, he explained, would expand biology into the fields of ethics and even in philosophy.

Marin Is Ninth In The Tax Rate List

Tax rates are higher in eight other California counties than they are in Marin, according to the state Board of Equalization.

The board has issued a statistical report listing average rates which shows Marin in ninth place for the current fiscal year, the same position it occupied for the previous year.

Neighboring Sonoma County, which had the fifth highest average rate in fiscal 1971-72, dropped to sixth this year — although its rate went up.

The report shows that taxpayers in Sacramento County pay the highest average rate this year, $13.54 per $100 assessed valuation. Sacramento took over the top spot from Contra Costa County, which had the highest average rate last year at $13.37. Contra Costa's average rate dropped to $13.15 for the current year, in second place.

Following Sacramento and Contra Costa are Alameda at $13.15, San Francisco at $12.60, San Joaquin at $12.18, Sonoma at $12.14, Santa Barbara at $12.13, Los Angeles at $11.97, and then Marin at $11.87. Statewide, the average rate is $11.44.

The Marin average went up 13 cents from the previous year. The state average went up one cent.

Real winners on the tax rate are residents of little Alpine County, where the rate per $100 assessed valuation averages $4.31 — down 86 cents from the previous year, when it also was lowest in the state.

Crossfiling Turned Back By Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation restoring crossfiling—the practice of a candidate seeking the nomination of both major parties—was rejected yesterday by the Senate Elections Committee.

The bill (SB351) by Sen. Goerge Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, was turned down on a 2-to-2 vote. Five votes were needed for approval. The measure was kept alive, however, by Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno, asking to have it reconsidered.

Deukmejian said restoration of cross-filing, abolished in 1959,, would help cut campaign expenditures and could reduce unnecessary partisanship in legislature.

Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, opposed the bill, declaring that under cross-filing officeholders sometimes ignored their own parties.

He said he knew of Democrats who were "more responsive" to their Republican constituents during cross-filing than to Democrats. He cited cases in which Democratic county central committee members endorsed Republican candidates over Democrats.

Deukmejian challenged the contention that cross-filing would provide a "big advantage" to incumbents. He said incumbents now have as much of an advantage —-"if not more" —than under crossfiling.

Under cross-filing, which was practiced for 40 years in California, a candidate who secured the nomination of both the Republican and Democratic parties faced virtually no contest in the general election.

Time To Boost Alimony Payments

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Elizabeth K. Anderson wants her alimony boosted from $166 to $750 a month, arguing her former husband has assets of $1.8 million.

Mrs. Anderson, 98, was divorced from her husband, 89, in 1929 after 14 years of marriage. Both live in Seattle nursing homes.

Sam Semi-Sudden In Giants' Victory

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Sam McDowell hasn't made it all the way back but he seems headed in the right direction.

Thursday, the San Francisco left-hander, who has had all sorts of problems getting started this year, went six strong innings. With help from Randy Moffitt over the last three innings, he wound up with his first victory, 6-3, over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moffitt, of Mill Valley, was said to be in good health today despite statements yesterday which claimed he was to visit St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco for tests to determine if he had appendicitis.

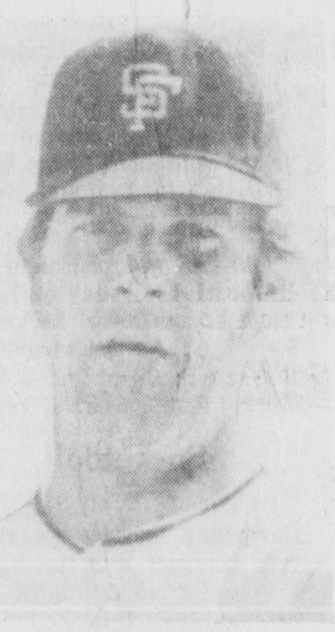
"I just talked to him, and he says he feels fine," said Jerry Donovan, assistant to the president of the Giants, this morning. "If he has appendicitis, we don't know anything about it. He's going to come to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Palace Hotel today."

Moffitt was scheduled to speak last night at the KTIM Sportsman's Banquet in Mill Valley, but did not appear. Joe Orengo, head of the Giants' speakers bureau and the other featured speaker on the program, explained Moffitt's absence by saying, "He was supposed to go to St. Luke's for a blood test, and it (his condition) appeared to look toward appendicitis."

Moffitt was unavailable for comment.

"It wasn't all that good a performance," said McDowell, "but at least I threw hard when I had to, and for me that's the important thing."

McDowell, who suffered from shoulder problems last season and again this spring, gave up six hits and all three St. Louis runs. He walked four batters, still a bugaboo with him, and struck out only one.



SAM McDOWELL
A good day

"I made a lot of good pitches," he said, "and, all in all, it was encouraging. I missed a few times with my curve but that will come around with more work. Also, my elbew got a little tired and that's why I stopped after six innings."

McDowell won 122 games over eight seasons with Cleveland but was a disappointing 10-8 for the Giants last year, mostly because of a sore shoulder. He even "quit" for a day this spring, then changed his mind, and now seems determined to make the Giants feel they didn't get stung in getting him from Cleveland for Gaylord Perry.

Giants manager Charlie Fox was pleased with McDowell's work but said he still hasn't won a regular job.

"We'll keep spotting him and see what happens," said Fox. "It's too early to tell about Sam. I liked what I saw in this performance, though, because he threw hard. He has to do that more often to be effective."

Home runs by Willie McCovey, his eighth, and Dave Kingman, his fifth, plus a two-run triple by Jim Howarth and a bases-loaded single by Chris Speier gave McDowell strong offensive support.

McCovey also was ejected in the fifth inning for complaining too hotly to plate umpire Jerry Tata about a called third strike.

Moffitt now has appeared in half of the club's 34 games, working a total of 34 innings and allowing only 25 hits and seven earned runs for a classy 1.85 ERA. He has six saves.

"Randy's successful because he throws tough pitches to hit," said manager Charlie Fox. "He has a good sinking fastball, a hard slider, changeup and curve."

"How can I gripe about working too much when so many other guys are dying for a chance to pitch?" Moffitt reasoned. "I thrive on work — and I certainly can't complain about pitching enough."

ALL THE WAY BACK — New York Knicks' Willis Reed (19) drove past Los Angeles Laker Wilt Chamberlain (13) for two of his 18 points yesterday as the Knicks won the fifth game of the National Basketball Association championship series in Los Angeles, 102-93, and with it the NBA title which had eluded them last year when they lost to the Lakers, four games to one, with the injured Reed on the bench. Willis was named the series' most valuable player this year. (UPI Telephoto)

New York Defense Decisive

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Defense is the name of the game as far as the New York Knicks are concerned and they've parlayed it into their second National Basketball Association title in the last four years.

The Knicks, who give up points like they're $100 bills, and 6-foot-10 Willis Reed, all but written off a year ago, displayed poise and a glove-tight defense Thursday night to climax a hard-fought climb to the title.

With Reed performing like the man who led New York to its first championship ever in 1970, the surprising Knicks beat Los Angeles 102-93 for the fourth straight time to end the Lakers' one-year NBA reign.

For the second time in four years, the hustling Reed was voted the final series Most Valuable Player.

"It's great to come back and do it all again," smiled the nine-year pro from Grambling, who played in only 11 games last season because of tendinitis in his left knee. In 31 minutes Thursday night, Reed scored 18 points and led the Knicks with 12 rebounds.

"I got down at times this season," he added, "but I'm the world's greatest believer in myself. We're a group of old pros who work hard and play well."

Although Reed provided the spark and Earl Monroe led the way with 23 points in the Knicks' well-balanced attack, Red Holzman's defense was the difference again. New York held the Lakers, a team which averaged 111.7 points during the regular season, under 100 points for the fourth straight time.

Against the Knicks, the League leaders with a 98.2 regular season defensive average, the Lakers were only able to average 96.8 points for five games.

Surprisingly, Reed said this

ABA Title Game Set Tomorrow

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Kentucky's defense Thursday night carried the fate of the American Basketball Association championship back to the Colonels' home floor at Louisville for the seventh and deciding game Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky evened the series 3-3 with the defending league champ Indiana Pacers with a resounding 109-93 triumph here. The game marked the fourth contest in the six that the visitors have come away victorious.

Towering 7-foot-2 center Artis Gilmore dumped in 28 points and grabbed 21 rebounds to spearhead the win but both Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney and Indiana boss Bob Leonard praised the efforts of Louis Dampier.

The Kentucky coach said the Colonels won because they established their game early. "If we had gotten behind, it would have been tough for us," he explained.

Leonard hinted that Ken-

Montreal Takes Cup, Champagne

CHICAGO (UPI) — The only record that stood out for the Montreal Canadiens Friday was possession of the Stanley Cup.

The Canadiens tripped the Chicago Black Hawks 6-4 in their best-of-seven championship series to win hockey's most valued prize for a record 18th time in a finale marked by records.

The fact that it was the 18th trophy for Montreal was obvious in the Canadiens' postgame discussions. There was restrained exuberance, wide grins and general satisfaction at completion of a deed they were expected to perform.

Although National Hockey League resident Clarence Campbell had barred photographers from the winning dressing room for fear their pictures would reveal an abundant use of champagne for bathing as well as drinking, there wasn't enough champagne in the Montreal dressing room for a duck to swim.

Ken Dryden, who played in the nets for the Canadiens in every game of the final series as Montreal won the trophy for the fourth time in the last six years, and the sixth time in the last eighth, expressed the opinion of the team:

"It's unfair to try to compare this with the last time we won the Cup," he said. "In 1971, we were very much the underdog and winning it was totally unexpected. This is different. We were expected to win and we did.

"It doesn't make it any less important, but we never had doubts about winning it. We were never far enough behind to have doubts," he said.

Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman expressed the same view.

"It was a tough series, as I thought it would be," he said. "And we won it, as I thought we would."

One of the Montreal veterans, Yvan Cournoyer, got the winning goal on a freak rebound,

A's Blue Pitches Tonight

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Oakland A's shone bright, at night, deep in the heart of Texas.

Jumping on four Texas pitchers Thursday night, the A's mounted a 23-hit attack to bury the Rangers 17-2. The victory moved the A's above the .500 mark for the first time this season with a 15-14 record.

Catcher Ray Fosse featured Oakland's highest run-producing game of the season by rapping a two-run homer and run-scoring single. Designated hitter Deron Johnson chipped in with his third homer of the season while Joe Rudi drove in two runs with three hits.

Lefty Ken Holtzman coasted to his sixth victory against two losses, giving up only one run and three hits in seven innings. Horacio Pina cleaned up.

Bert Campaneris and Rudi led off with singles, Gene Tenace walked to load the bases and Reggie Jackson delivered two runs with a double. Johnson then walked and Sal Bando struck out before Fosse singled in Tenace. Dick Green drove in two more runs with a single before Bill Gogolewski came in to retire the side.

Tennis Battle Of Sexes Sunday

RAMONA, Calif. (UPI) — The much publicized tennis battle of the sexes with 55-year-old Bobby Riggs going against women's champ Margaret Court will be settled Sunday in this remote mountain community in East San Diego County.

"The most important tennis match of the past 150 years," is what Riggs terms the match. There is no record of what important match occurred 150 years ago, probably because the first patent for a tennis court was not requested until 1874 in England.

But Riggs is not deterred by details such as this.

In making his original challenge to Billie Jean King or any of the world's other great female tennis players several months ago, Riggs said there is no way a woman can beat a top male player.

Now he says it could go either way.

"I'm a physical wreck, just a shell of my former self, but I'm a ham," the former Wimbledon champ said. "I like a challenge. This is a fun thing for me."

Riggs' original challenge was for $5,000, winner-take-all, best two-of-three sets. Tony Trabert, pro at San Diego Country Estates, provided the location and the money was put in the bank.

CBS television entered the picture, however, and now the match is worth $20,000 to the winner and $10,000 to the loser.

Riggs denies he is a hustler and calls himself a businessman who has been successful in investing money on his prowess through the years. He often accepts challenges such as so many chairs on his side of the court or even playing with an umbrella in one hand and gripping a leash chained to two poodles.

he called the latter troublesome because "poodles don't have good court sense."

Except for the money, it is hard to determine why Mrs. Court would take the challenge. While Riggs is a ranking senior, the only advantage of a win is that Mrs. Court could say top women are better than top seniors, and there aren't that many people who care.

A loss could be a major blow to distaff players, who have been attempting to secure higher purses.

Even the match itself would not seem to prove the superiority of the sexes.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Court is six feet tall and plays a power game more associated with the men. Riggs, at about 5-feet-7, relies more on finesse and placements.

Mrs. Court, mother of a 13-month-old son, may have the sentimental advantage because it will be Mother's Day.

"If I lose," Riggs said, "It seems only fair that she'll give me a rematch on Father's Day."

Marin Tars Defeated By De Anza '9'

CUPERTINO — Bill Sherbert hit two home runs, but it wasn't enough for the College of Marin baseball team, as the Tars dropped a 7-5 Camino Norte Conference decision to host De Anza College yesterday.

The other home run of the game, by De Anza's Ken Lenter, brought in three runs in the sixth inning, breaking a 3-3 tie. Sherbert, who has four homers this season, hit his to lead off in the second. His other blast scored two in the eighth.

De Anza's left fielder, Ken Egusa, a sophomore who played varsity for UCLA last year, set a school record his last time up this year for the Dons with his 36th hit of the year.

The Tars dropped further below the .500 mark with their 11th loss in 20 conference starts.

U.S. CAGERS SET FOR TRIP TO CHINA

WASHINGTON (AP) — An all-star men's team will be joined by a college women's squad when the United States invades mainland China for an amateur basketball tour in June.

Two Providence University stars, 6-foot-8 center Marvin Barnes and 6-4 guard Kevin Stacom, reportedly are assured of spots on the team.

Ernie DiGregorio, the Friar's all-American guard and star of the recently concluded U.S.-Soviet series, is expected to be invited, but may not make the trip because of impending negotiations with professional teams.

The championship women's team of John F. Kennedy College in Wahoo, Neb., also will make the trip.

The Chinese initially asked that national champion UCLA represent the United States, but the Bruins declined when too many players had prior commitments. Several other college teams subsequently turned down the trip before a decision was made to pick an all-star squad.

Nicholas Rodis, athletic director at Brandeis University and president of the U.S. Collegiate Sports Council, said a coach will be chosen within days and most of the team will be selected within the next few weeks.

Mayer Beats MacKay In Tennis Match

PORTOLA VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Upset winners Dick Borhnstedt of Redlands and Richard Russell of Jamaica joined six seeded players in today's quarter-finals of the California State Tennis championships.

Bohrnstedt scored a three-set, tiebreaker win over thirdranked Harron Rahim of Pakistan and UCLA 6-3, 5-7, 7-6 Thursday. Russell pinned a 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 loss on seventh-rated Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles.

Dick Crealy, the tourney favorite from Australia, and Sandy Mayer, the defending champion from Stanford, won their matches. Crealy defeated Dick Bell of Bethesda, Md., 6-4, 6-4 and Mayer downed former champion Barry MacKay of Ross 7-5, 7-5.

Also advancing were Tom Edlefsen of Los Angeles, Tom Leonard of Chicago, Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley and Ray Moore of South Africa.

Borowiak defeated John Zwieg of Greenbrae, 6-4, 6-3. In doubles play, Zwieg teamed with Greg Shephard to beat Andy Moffat of Mill Valley and Dennis Gibson, 7-5, 6-2.

Barbara Downs of Alamo, the pre-tournament favorite in woman's singles, won her third-round match from Barbara Wojcik of Burlingame 6-0, 6-0 Thursday.

KTIM Banquet Is 'The Best One Yet'

Even the absence of scheduled speaker Randy Moffitt did not prevent last night's 15th annual KTIM Sportsman's Club Banquet from being "the best one yet," in the words of station manager and master of ceremonies Bob Dinsmore.

The banquet at Sabella's of Marin restaurant in Mill Valley honored two outstanding athletes from each of the Marin County Athletic League's eight schools.

Moffitt, San Francisco Giants relief pitcher and Mill Valley resident, missed the affair because he was to go to St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco for blood tests to determine whether or not he had appendicitis, according to Joe Orengo, head of the Giants' Speakers Bureau and the banquet's other featured speaker.

As usual, the format called for each athlete to introduce his counterpart from the same school, and the introductions ranged from sentimental through straightforward to humorous —so witty, in fact, that M. C. Dinsmore kept issuing mock warnings to the students to stop upstaging him.

"The kids always make the show," said Dinsmore, "and this was the best one yet." It also had the highest attendance in history, about 150.

Orengo's short speech praised the athletes for "having enough sense to listen. . .to your parents, who made all this possible. . .through their sacrifice."

The athletes also disclosed where they would attend college. Their choices:

HAMILTON FIGHTERS WIN TWO

BOSTON (UPI) — Hamilton Air Force Base boxers Claudio (Chicky) Rivera and Jerome Bennett scored decision victories over their rivals yesterday in the National Amateur Athletic Union boxing championships here.

Rivera defeated Claubell Atkins of the Ozark region in a 106-pound bout, while Bennett whipped Tyrone Phelps of Metropolitan New York in a 156-pound fight.

Bennett and Rivera are among the 11-man Hamilton team competing in the AAU event.

Major Hunting Court Decision

I recently received a release from Fish and Game Director Ray Arnett. It has significant interest.

Sport hunting and the 25 million Americans who follow this form of recreation faced the moment of truth the other day, and neither the sport nor the hunters was found wanting.

In hunting's (and the hunters') first major court test, U.S. District Court Judge Charles R. Richey, dismissed a lawsuit that sought to stop public hunting on three federal wildlife areas.

The suit, filed by the Humane Society of the United States, challenged the decision of Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton to allow limited public hunting on three refuges in New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia.

According to Morton, the purpose of the hunt was to reduce deer herds that had multiplied to the point at which they were upsetting the ecological balance of the three refuges.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY attempted to prove that Morton did not adequately substantiate the need for the hunt and did not consider alternate methods of herd reduction such as live-trapping and relocation or cropping by professional hunters.

According to their brief, the Humane Society maintained that either of the suggested methods would be more in keeping with the principles of sound wildlife management.

However, when the Humane Society had rested its case, Judge Richey ruled the society had failed to prove that Secretary Morton had abused his discretionary power in authorizing such hunts under state game commission control.

"PUBLIC HUNTING is a form of public recreation for which the refuges in mention were established," said the judge.

More significantly, he added that public hunting was not inconsistent with the principles of sound wildlife management.

The court contest grew out of a decision by the Interior Department to let 150 hunters, picked at random hunt deer on the Great Swamp Wildlife Refuge in New Jersey more than two years ago.

That hunt was blocked by an injunction obtained by the New Jersey chapter of the Humane Society. The case was enlarged to include deer control hunts that took place in 1970 and 1971 at the Chincoteague Wildlife Refuge in Maryland and Eastern Neck Refuge in Virginia.

In its effort to prevent future hunts, the Humane Society argued that public hunting on these refuges violated the principles of sound wildlife management and the purposes for which such preserves were established.

THEY FURTHER charged that the Interior Department had yielded to political pressure from sportsmen's groups and state fish and game departments in opening up the wildlife sanctuaries to hunting as a means of population control.

The trial was followed with intense interest by many conservation organizations, all of which were aware of the precedents it would set for future legal action.

It was not known whether the decision would be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals, but it was noted that Judge Richey's decisions have been reversed only twice in his judicial career.

ABOUT 60 anglers are now registered in the Loch Lomond Bait Shop derby. No bass have been registered as of Wednesday evening. More sturgeon have been showing than stripers.

One angler, Oliver Anderson of San Rafael, gave it a go Wednesday, using three hooks — all with different baits. He caught a 59 pound sturgeon on the top hook; a small hook baited with a bait for perch. You can't beat luck!

Petaluma Golf Team Defeated; Rancho Beaten

Petaluma High School was clobbered by host Hogan, 302-333, in a North Bay League golf match at the Blue Rock Golf Course in Vallejo yesterday. The Trojans are now 6-5-1 in a league play.

In other Southern Sonoma Golf action yesterday, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park had its Sonoma County League record dropped to 1-8 with a 401-427 loss to visiting El Molino of Forestville.

Alan Keller and Brenton Sharratt shot 80's to lead Petaluma. Brent Jorgenson took medalist honors with a 73, as all four Spartans beat 80.

Dennis Bramlett shot a 77 for El Molino to take medalist honors, and Scott Wlodarczyk led Rancho Cotate with an 80.

49ers Stop Ticket Sales Orders

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco 49ers are assured today of huge crowds at their National Football League games this year.

Team officials announced Thursday their pre-season ticket sale has reached 57,000 and that they have stopped taking orders.

The 49ers said they are cutting off the sale of additional tickets so that they will have 2,000 general admission reserved seats available on an individual game basis for people who cannot or do not wish to buy season tickets.

"Candlestick Park's 61,000-plus football capacity makes it possible for us to sell about 59,000 season tickets after visiting team and other commitments are met," said 49ers president Lou Spadia. "But we are cutting that off at about 57,000 season tickets in order to make available the 2,000 for sale on an individual game basis."

LOS ANGELES — Maury Wills' legendary talents for stealing bases — 104 in one season — will be put to use in the Los Angeles Dodgers farm club system.

Wills, who holds the major league record for stealing 104 bases in 1962, was signed Thursday as a tutor in base running and infield play.

He will tutor the minor league players, starting Monday with a four-day visit to Albuquerque, N.M., between his assignments as a color broadcaster for a national network.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Stock car driver Clarnece Lovell was killed early today in the crash of his pickup truck on a slippery street.

Lovell's truck went out of control on a curve and slammed into a bridge abutment, according to police.

The 26-year-old race driver finished fourth in the Texas Twin 200 and fifth at the Talladega, Ala., 500 this year, and was consistently among the top 10 finishers in events across the country this year.

Tennis

TOKYO — Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals tonight entered the group A singles semi-finals of the first women's professional tennis tournament ever held in Japan.

Mrs. King, top favorite to win the $8,400 first prize in the $30,000 Toray Sillook Tournament among 16 foreign professionals, defeated Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, 6-2, 6-3 in the second round at Shizuoka.

Miss Casals, of Sausalito, beat Wendy Oventon of Ormand Beach, Fla., 6-7, 6-2, 6-0 in the other singles match at Shizuoka.

BOUNEMOUTH, England — Romania's Ilie Nastase Thursday defeated Geoff Masters of Australia 6-1, 8-6 and advanced to the semifinals of the $67,000 British Hard Court tennis championships.

DALLAS — Australian Ken Rosewall Thursday outlasted Englishman Roger Taylor 4-6, 6-2, 6-7, 6-1, 6-4 and advanced to the semifinals of the $100,000 World Championship of Tennis.

Basketball

DETROIT — All-Star guard Dave Bing signed a new three-year contract with the Detroit Pistons for an estimated $75,000, the National Basketball Association club announced today. Terms were not disclosed.

OLEAN, N.Y. — Larry Weise has resigned as head basketball coach at St. Bonaventure University to devote full-time duties to his position as athletic director, it was announced today.

The Very Rev. Damian McElrath, university president, said Jim Satalin, Bonaventure freshman coach for the past three years, will become the new head coach.

Weise, who had been both coach and athletic director the past couple of years, compiled a 202-90 won-lost record during his 12 years.

Hockey

VANCOUVER — Vic Stasiuk was fired Thursday as coach of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League.

Stasiuk, 42, was hired a year ago on a one-year contract to coach the Canucks, who finished seventh in the eight-team East Division of the NHL.

Canucks' vice president Norman (Bud) Poile made the announcement after a meeting of the team's board of directors. He said Stasiuk has been asked to remain in the Canucks organization in another capacity.

Stasiuk was not available for comment on the announcement. No successor has been named.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Boston's Lee Goes Distance, Triumphs

Combined AP & UPI

The Terra Linda left-hander, who earned a starting nod only two weeks ago, went the distance for the first time in his five-year major league career yesterday to beat Cleveland and boost his record to 3-0. He gave up only six hits in winning 4-3 at Fenway Park. Lee struck out four and walked only two in subduing Cleveland.

He pitched hitless ball through the first three innings but was tagged for a leadoff single by Walt Williams in the fourth. He picked Williams off first but gave up a double to Rusty Torres, who went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Charlie Spikes' sacrifice fly as Cleveland grabbed a short-lived, 1-0 lead.

In the only other American League action, Chicago edged California 4-3 in 12 innings, Kansas City whipped Detroit 8-2 and Oakland routed Texas 17-2.

San Francisco beat St. Louis 6-3 in the only scheduled National League game.

The Red Sox, trailing 3-1 entering the eighth inning, rallied for three runs to defeat the Indians, with Luis Aparicio scoring the clincher on a throwing error by third baseman Buddy Bell.

A double by Doug Griffin, a walk, a sacrifice and singles by Aparicio and Carl Yastrzemski produced the first two runs of the inning. Orlando Cepeda then bounced one to Bell, and his hurried throw to first skipped past Chris Chambliss as Aparicio scored from second.

Fred Patek's run-scoring triple snapped a 2-2 tie and started Kansas City off to a five-run fifth inning as the Royals rallied to defeat Joe Coleman. The Royals sent 11 batters to bat in the fifth with Ed Kirkpatrick and Cookie Rojas contributing run-scoring doubles to the rally. Dick Drago went all the way for the victory while Coleman was charged with his second loss after six victories.

Girl Makes Li'l League Bow In Loss

YPSILANTI, Mich (UPI) — Jersey No.9 on the Orioles Little League team just may be retired after 12-year-old Carolyn King leaves the formerly all-boys group.

Carolyn marked her first start in the all-male Little League circuit Thursday night. She was reportedly the first girl in the nation to make the baseball lineup.

"I don't feel like I've done anything historic," Carolyn said after the game. "Maybe I did, but I don't feel like it."

The Williamsport, Pa., national headquarters had threatened to take the baseball charter away from the city of Ypsilanti if the "no girls allowed" rule was violated.

Carolyn may have struck a blow for women's lib but she struck out at the same time. She was also thrown out trying to steal second base and walked twice.

Some 650 persons, including the entire city council and local women's rights enthusiasts, cheered the pigtailed Carolyn on. But several boys booed as Carolyn took the field.

But while the girl wearing No. 9 was the highlight of the night, Tim Roberts, the Yankees hurler who just happened to pitch a no-hitter, stood around.

No one seemed to care about that or the fact that Carolyn's opposition, the Yankees, won the contest 15-0.

DAVIS CUP NET

'Didn't Come To Lose'—Ralston

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "We didn't come here to lose," said Dennis Ralston, captain of the United States Davis Cup tennis team as the Americans began their quest today for another victory over the Mexicans in the American Zone final.

The Americans, 5-0 winners over Mexico in last year's zone championship, were favored again, but their task this time was expected to be tougher because of the loss of Stan Smith and the improvement of the Mexicans.

Smoth, who has turned pro since last year's Davis Cup competition, is competing in the $50,000 World Championship Tennis tournament at Dallas.

"Although we're without Stan Smith, the team has a lot of Davis Cup experience," Ralston said.

Gorman, taking over the role as the Americans' No. 1 player after the loss of Smith, was paired in the opening singles match against Raul Ramirez, Mexico's No. 2 player.

GOLF NOTES

Marin Courses Getting Busy

Marin County golf action continued to warm up like the weather last week — particularly at Marin Country Club in Novato.

At the busy Novato course, assistant pro Paul Fakundiny and teaching pro Bill Henderson are preparing for a stab at the U.S. Open qualifying. Additionally, the course will be hosting two important tournaments in the next 10 days.

Fakundiny and Henderson will compete in the U.S. Open qualifying May 21-22 at Silverado Golf and Country Club in Napa. They will be playing 36 holes, 18 per day.

MARIN COUNTRY CLUB will host the eight-team Bay Area Golf League play Friday, May 18. A noon, shotgun start is slated for the team consisting of 12 players, 11 amateurs, one pro, playing in two-man teams with handicaps.

THE NOVATO CHAMBER of Commerce is sponsoring an invitational golf tournament Monday, May 21 at Marin Country Club. Tee off time for the 18-hole affair is from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. A $9 green fee will be levied to cover a golf ball, trophy and prize costs.

ART SCHALLOCK of San Rafael, the former New York Yankee pitcher, earned low gross honors with an 82 in the spring Marin County Board of Realtors golf tourney last Friday at Marin Country Club.

Low net honors went to Vern Nathe with a 69. Mike Smith won the hole-in-one competition at 6-feet-5.

MEADOW CLUB (near Fairfax) member Kai Thomsen teams with Eric Garrett of Ancil Hoffman Golf Club in Carmichael in the Northern California Golf Association Four-Ball Stroke Play Championship today through Sunday at Spyglass Hill in Pebble Beach. The Thomsen-Garrett team was to tee off today at 8:45 a.m.

THE TROUBLED Bay Area Golf Association may be attempting to blast out of a proverbial sand trap with a fly swatter, but the one-man organization's brain trust, John Farr, is confident it can succeed.

The San Francisco golf mogul, plagued by a plethora of tour problems, will again attempt to launch his program for club pros — this time on Wednesday, June 13. Tee off time is scheduled at 8 a.m. at Franklin Canyon, near Martinez.

In his first, abortive starting attempt in April, Farr had only 18 paid club pros lined up; he needed 40 to make it work. Farr, who had envisioned a plan calling for a 40-man field playing 36 holes at different Bay Area courses, was saddled with a $3,200 loss — and the determination to try again.

Car Show Slated In Pebble Beach

Some 125 antique vintage and classic cars will be on display at the 23rd annual Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance Sunday, Aug. 12 on the lawn in front of Del Monte Lodge.

The event will benefit Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., of San Rafael, a non-profit organization where guide dogs and blind persons are trained as teams, enabling sightless individuals to lead relatively normal lives.

picking up a bouncing puck 20 feet from the Hawk cage with less than 12 minutes to play after it had bounced off the plexiglas behind the net on a shot over the cage.

His shot went into the net to clinch the triumph while Hawk goalie Tony Esposito was "off balance and didn't know where the puck was going" Cournoyer said.

The Hawks made a fight of it in the finale, although for the second time for the six games of the series, they failed to hold a two-goal lead. Pit Martin, who scored his second playoff hat trick this year, tallied twice in 54 seconds of the first period to put the Hawks in front 2-0, but Montreal came back with goals by Henri Richard, Pete Mahovlich, and Rejean Houle for a 3-2 lead.

Chicago tied the score twice on goals by Dave Kryskow and Martin, but Montreal three times broke out of a tie to go ahead.

The two teams scored 56 goals to break a playoff record of 54 set by Montreal in Boston in a 1971 quarterfinal series and Montreal with 33 goals broke a record of 28 by Boston in a 1958 series and by the Canadiens in 1971.

Martin, and linemates Dennis Hull and Jim Pappin tallied 55 points to break the previous mark of 53 last year by Boston's John Bucyk, John McKenzie and Fred Stanfield. The other record went to Cournoyer and it was the big one. His 15th goal, which was the game-winner for the Cup broke the record of 14 set by Frank Mahovlich with Montreal in 1971.

KENTUCKY

tucky's defense was the deciding factor but the Colonels overall play was superb.

"They took our inside game away from us—I thought they played a fine ball game," Leonard said. "The only time we got going was when we went to the hoop and made the play."

After trailing 55-43 at the half, the Pacers rebounded in the third period by outscoring the visitors, 33-25 and at one point pulled to within two at 78-76 before Kentucky slipped in a basket to hold an 80-76 spread heading into the final 12 minutes of play.

Mullaney said that down the stretch "everything went right for us—especially when we got eight points to start the fourth period."

That opening upped the Colonels lead to 12 at 88-76 and the spread widened until Dampier hit a pair of free throws to push the lead to 94-77 and the seventh game was all assured.

San Rafael Tops Redwood Golfers

San Rafael High School knocked Redwood out of second place and possibly out of contention for the Marin County Athletic League golf title yesterday with a 196-199 victory over the Giants at Peacock Gap.

In yesterday's other Marin golf matches, Terra Linda stayed on top by pounding winless Marin Catholic, 195-258, and Tamalpais decisioned San Marin, 219-229.

Seven of 10 golfers scored 40 or under in San Rafael's crucial win. Bulldog John Fahrner shot an even-par 36 to take medalist honors, while teammate Steve Taylor had a 37. Mark Ohrenschall was low man for Redwood with a 37.

San Rafael remains one match behind Terra Linda (9-1) in the MCAL race with an 8-2 record, tied with Novato. Redwood is 7-3.

Four Trojans shot under 40 in their easy victory over Marin Catholic. Jim Mullowney led with a 37.

Tam Netters Rally To Beat San Marin

Tamalpais High School fell behind 3-0, but came back to sweep the final four matches and beat host San Marin, 4-3, yesterday in Marin County Athletic League tennis match.

Terra Linda dropped Marin Catholic, 6-1, Redwood shutout San Rafael, 7-0, and Drake dumped Novato, 7-0, in other MCAL tennis action yesterday.

Tamalpais (5-5) evened its record for the fourth time this season. Eric Rayner's victory over Steve Baldocchi in the fourth singles match put the Indians on the winning track.

Terra Linda's Doug Carlisle dropped the first singles match to talented Wildcat John Doherty, 7-6, 7-5, but the Trojans won the remaining singles matches to clinch its victory. Terra Linda remains in second place in league standings with a 9-1 record, behind undefeated Redwood (10-0).

The Giants registered their ninth shutout in 10 starts with its victory over San Rafael. The Bulldogs are in third place at 7-3.

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — The 4-2 combination brought a $5,478.50 Exacta payoff for 14 ticket holders in Thursday's fifth race at Golden Gate Fields.

Outsiders Velia's Gem, a $151.60 longshot, and Bug Aweight, a 40-1 shot, finished 1-2.

Suburban Wins

SAN FRANCISCO — Defending champion Suburban Auto Pistons of San Rafael defeated the San Mateo Kings, 7-4, in San Francisco A League softball play last night.

Crampton In Sand, Lead In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Between the heat and all the sand he was in Thursday, streaking Bruce Crampton easily qualified for membership in the Lawrence of Arabia fan club.

The group he is trying to join, however, is the exclusive "millionaire club," and Crampton passed another initiation test Thursday.

Crampton survived the springtime heat and six bunker visits to shoot a four-under-par 66 over the testy Colonial Country Club course for a two-stroke lead after one round of the $150,000 Colonial National Invitation.

Ken Still was alone in second place at 68, while six golfers were tied at 69—Gibby Gilbert, Julius Boros, Phil Rodgers, Tom Weiskopf, Bobby Nichols and Jerry Heard. Napa's Ron Cerrudo carded a 77.

Crampton, already the winner of three tournaments this year, victor in the Houston Open last week and this year's leading money winner, had voiced little optimism before Thursday's round that he could continue the pace he set for himself in Houston.

Knicks' Defense Key To NBA Win

championship meant more to him than one four years ago.

"The first one," he declared, "is always a great thrill. I think it means more the second time around."

Bill Bradley pumped in 20 points and Walt Frazier added 18 as New York, an 8-5 underdog when the series began, became the second NBA team in 14 years to win it all without the home court advantage. The Knicks' 4-1 series victory avenged a five-game loss to the Lakers a year ago.

The Knicks outscored the Lakers by just 19 points—503-to-484—in the five games but Laker giant Wilt Chamberlain said "the better team" won.

"They were able to take advantage of the breaks," said Chamberlain, who had 23 points in addition to a game-high 21 rebounds. "But four losses in a row seems almost impossible. We could have won a couple of those games but ... "

Holzman, the architect of the Knick defense, applauded the selection of Reed as the MVP in the series.

"I think Willis has come back a long way and he came to his peak at the right time," the New York coach said. "He's a very determined guy. He was great for us and I think the team was great for him."

While Holzman refused to compare his two title clubs, Bill Sharman did.

The Knicks won the series-clincher by outscoring the Lakers 32-18 in the third quarter, enabling them to forge into a 71-59 lead after trailing 41-39 at halftime.

But the Lakers came back strong in the final quarter—after Dave DeBusschere left the game with a sprained right ankle after scoring his only basket of the game to put the Knicks in front 79-65 with 7:55 to go.

Led by Gail Goodrich, who scored 10 of his game-leading 28 points in the fourth period, the Lakers crept to within four at 86-82 with three minutes remaining. A Reed jump shot and a three point play by Monroe lifted New York into a 91-82 advantage.

Study Of Corporate Debts And Liquidity

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. From time to time you mention long-term debt and current ratios. How does one determine what amount of debt is safe for a particular company? — S.P.

A. There are no hard and fast rules since ratios vary widely from industry to industry as well as from company to company within the same industry. There are some guidelines which may be applied but only in relation to the overall operating and financial structure of the corporation. The need for borrowed capital, especially long-term funds, is particularly heavy for utilities, natural gas and communication companies, thus a debt-to-equity ratio in these groups of 55 per cent/45 per cent is not uncommon.

Conversely, retail companies have less need for long-term money, since plant and equipment represent a smaller portion of their assets and short-term borrowing is used to finance inventory. In either case, it is liquidity — the ability to meet current obligations — which is the important consideration.

The Securities and Exchange Commission recently proposed new disclosure rules for financial statements to be effective late this summer. The purpose of the suggested changes is to reveal more information to investors regarding corporate liquidity.

These proposals would require the disclosure of: cash which must be left on deposit in banks, available but unused lines of credit, annual interest costs on short-term borrowing and the amount of commercial paper outstanding. These proposals recognize the increasing use of short-term borrowing by corporations.

The use of debt is justifiable — companies generally earn more on borrowed money than the cost of interest and interest charges receive favorable tax treatment which effectively reduces the cost. In assessing an industrial company's financial position, a current ratio in excess of 2-to-1, with cash, securities and receivables representing over half the current assets is considered healthy.

Stocks Fall, Discount Rate Up

Brokers said the rise in the discount rate late Thursday has given rise to fears of an impending credit crunch. They noted the discount rate, now 6 per cent, is at its highest level since the "credit crunch" of 1969-1970.

International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. led the actives, off ½ at 37 ¼ on 79,600 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were broadly lower by noon in slow trading. Plant Industries was the most active stock, off ¼ at 4 ⅜ on 47,000 shares.

Big Board oil issues, especially those with international ties, continued a week-long decline that followed the breakdown of talks with oil producing nations.

Ernie's Wine & Liquor Corp. Planning More Stores In Marin

Ernie's Wine & Liquor Corp. of South San Francisco, the rapidly expanding chain with almost 70 outlets in Northern California, plans three new stores in Marin by the end of next year — two in Novato and one in Mill Valley.

Ernie's first and only store in Marin thus far was opened last November in Larkspur Square near Alpha Beta Market at Magnolia Avenue and Doherty Drive.

Donald H. Althoff, president of the firm, was in town this week with plans for these three new stores in Marin County:

Another outlet at Nave Shopping Center at Center Road and South Novato Boulevard, where Alpha Beta Market plans to take over the old Purity Market. Ernie's Liquor at Nave Center is scheduled for 1974.

Also scheduled for next year is Ernie's Liquor in Mill Valley, between East Blithedale Avenue and Lomita Drive, west of Red Cart Market. It will be part of a shopping complex that will include another Alpha Beta Market.

Ernie's Liquors is putting increasing emphasis on wines, with more than half the floor space devoted to wine display. Althoff said his company is the first in the country to develop the concept of private labeling of quality products produced by major wineries and distilleries. The firm employs its own wine taster who goes by the single name of "Picante."

Ernie Van Asperen, former Tiburon resident and now of St. Helena, started the Ernie chain in 1938 with his first store in San Francisco. Asperen, now chairman of the board, owns The Dock and Windjammer restaurants in Tiburon.

Althoff Peck

INDEPENDENT INSURANCE Agents Association of Marin gave a $5,000 grant to the Colleges of Marin Foundation to provide short-tem emergency loans for needy students. Leonard S. Peck of Mill Valley, president of the insurance group, presented the $5,000 check to the college foundation.

Medical, business and science students at either College of Marin in Kentfield or Indian Valley College in Novato are eligible for up to $150 in emergency funds. Only Marin County high school graduates and first year students at the colleges are eligible, and the loans must be repaid in one year.

A FREE CIRCUS will highlight the Fun Fair to be held at Strawberry Town & County Village at Strawberry tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A "big tent" circus will give free performances at 12 noon, 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. tomorrow. John Rudolph, public relations director, said the Fun Fair is sponsored by KQED and Strawberry Town and uCountry Village.

Attractions include game booths, clowns, an 81-year-old juggler, trained animals, a nuclear-environmental exhibit by PG&E, and TV and radio personalities like Ron Magers, Barry Tompkins, and Carter B. Smith.

Composer Vince Guaraldi will present special awards including a first prize to Gail Ablow, a fifth grader at Old Mill School in Mill Valley, for winning the children's art contest. The art contest, to publicize the KQED auction (June 1 to 10), drew about a thousand entries.

DESCO REALTY Corp., headed by President Lawrence I Serkes of San Anselmo, has opened a new real estate office at 935 Lootens Place in San Rafael. The firm deals in all phases of real estate.

Serkes was with Frank Howard Allen as vice president in investment real estate for the past year. Before that, he operated his Desco Realty office in Berkeley at 2160 Shattuck Avenue for about two years.

ANDREW PARODI of Terra Linda has joined Frank Boland Company Inc. at Stonestown in San Francisco as a fire, casualty and life insurance agent.

Parodi was with Liberty Mutual for 13 years before moving to the Boland firm.

WATERBED WORLD, which opened at 1403 Grant Avenue in Novato last month, is owned by Orville and Stephanie Hubbard, who established their first Waterbed World in Santa Rosa six months ago.

The Novato store, across the street from the Novato Medical Clinic, carries waterbeds and waterbed furniture of all sizes and prices.

Hubbard was formerly a photographer for the Novato Advance for three years.

Boise Cascade's Chairman Sees Brighter Future

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The chairman of Boise Cascade Corp. has told shareholders the company has turned the corner in its battle to overcome financial difficulties.

Stephen B. Moser told a shareholders meeting the corporation's outlook now is favorable and the company has experienced three profitable quarters in a row.

"The last months have been trying ones for the company," he said. "But we have had maximum cooperation in our effort to restore the company's profitability. The drain of unprofitable operations has been stopped, and our financial position now is very sound."

Shareholders reelected 14 incumbent directors. Since last year's meeting two directors of the company have retired, but a spokesman said they would not be immediately replaced.

Very Efficient

BOSTON (UPI) — One of America's most efficient industries is the soft drink business. Aout 3,000 bottling plants turn out more than 3.5 billion cases of beverage annually (there are 24 containers in a standard case). In 1940, about 550 million cases were produced, but by 6,118 plants.

Naziism Is Nothing But A Memory In West Germany

New Nation Progressive, Modern And Democratic

By DAVID R. FRANCIS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

BONN, Germany — "I don't feel burdened any more by the sins of our fathers," remarked Klaus Higgin, a young civil servant in West Germany's Ministry of the Interior.

"I don't feel any guilt."

Higgin, smiling, wearing a red shirt and smart, tan corduroy suit, with blondish hair almost to his shoulders, was born two years after the start of World War II. He obviously has no sound reason for feeling any responsibility for the Nazi era.

Like an increasing number of his fellow citizens, he is proud to be German. "This is a respected nation," he says.

That is true. Within the community of nations, West Germany again has practically full respectability.

Golda Meir feels able now to invite Willy Brandt to visit Israel in June.

Because of Germany's Third Reich heritage, these forthcoming events would have been unlikely only a few years back. But West Germany gradually has proved to the world that it today is modern, reformed, progressive, democratic. It is not the same as old Germany.

West Germany has a government clean of Nazi tinges. The Social Democrats in the governing coalition were the main opposition of the National Socialists in the 1930's. Chancellor Brandt, having resisted Hitler, was forced into exile in Norway and Sweden during the Third Reich. Israelis cannot rightly lay at his door blame for the murder of Jews. So it's politically safe for Prime Minister Meir to arrange the first visit ever of a German chancellor to the Jewish homeland.

Modern Germany also has decided to make amends to its former enemies in the East.

Symbolic of German penitence was the occasion in 1970 when Chancellor Brandt knelt before the memorial to the Jews who died in the Warsaw ghetto uprising. Brandt was there to sign a treaty of friendship with Poland. He had earlier that year done the same with the Soviet Union. West Germany signed a basic treaty establishing normal relations with East Germany last fall.

In effect, West Germany thereby accepted the consequences of losing World War II. It no longer feels so much pain from the loss of former Eastern territories. Though not happy about the division of Germany into two states, West Germans have become more resigned to it.

Furthermore, last year's four-power agreement on Berlin removed that city as a hot spot in East-West relations. It does not now threaten the world with nuclear devastation.

It is this ostpolitik that paved the way for the first official visit of a Soviet party head to Bonn.

In propaganda, Communist media may occasionally talk of revanchism in West Germany. In their own minds though, East bloc leaders cannot take such charges seriously.

In fact modern Germany possesses a strong democracy. Bonn does not suffer from the confusion and feebleness that destroyed the Weimar Republic.

In the elections last fall, Chancellor Brandt's coalition government won a clear majority. His own Social Democratic Party (SPD) for the first time won a plurality of votes.

Without any compulsion, 91.2 per cent of eligible West Germans voted. The campaign discussion was vigorous and sharp — but not viscious.

Under a picture of Chancellor Brandt, thousands of SPD election posters proclaimed: "Germans, we can be proud of our country." In defeated Germany, no major postwar politician had ever adapted such a bold slogan.

The election results indicate that certainly the younger generation of Germans, now moving into positions of responsibility, agree with Brandt. Youth voted overwhelmingly for the SPD.

Their pride is not the old, irrational, super-race variety of nationalism. It is a quieter self-confidence. What's more, this new nationalism is modified by a sense of being European as well as German. Germans are on average more in favor of European integration than any other West European nation.

NEW WEST GERMANY — Smokestacks in background of this pastoral scene outside Blexen attest to the strength that gives West Germany a key role in modern-day Europe.
(Christian Science Monitor Photo)

It is not that the bearded 26-year-old dislikes his country. He admitted, after a sigh and pause, that he is proud of Germany. "But not in a nationalistic sense," he added.

Germans are no longer flag-waving, assertive patriots. They have no thirst for territorial expansion. The glorification of military might belongs to the past. If anything, the German defense forces suffer today from excessive disrespect and derision.

Germans see their culture as a great one. There may even be a tendency to look down at other cultures. Yet this remains somehow mixed with an admiration of things foreign.

German politicians do not hesitate to mix a few English phrases into their pronouncements. German television picks up with little fuss British, American, or French productions, sometimes in their original language.

When asked for the basis of their pride, West Germans quickly note their nation's "economic miracle," its rapid post-war development into a major industrial power.

Some of them now talk about Germany's constructive diplomatic accomplishments. The Federal Rpublic has played a leadership role in the development and expansion of the European Community. Its ostpolitik, which won Brandt a politically valuable Nobel Peace Prize, has brought about much reconciliation with the East Europeans.

"We have become a respected nation because we are so well represented by our government," asserted Higgin in probably a somewhat partisan statement.

Nonetheless, it is quite certain that Chancellor Brandt is the most respected, popular, and powerful politician in Western Europe today.

He is the only European statesman who has a substantial appeal outside his own country, said an editorial in the London Times. "Were European integration another generation further on, it is almost inconceivable that he would not be elected as President of Europe against any competitor."

There are other signs that other nations have upgraded West Germany's image.

For instance, when Federal President Gustav W. Heinemann traveled to Britain last fall, he received public acclaim and rave notices in the press. Considerable sour notes had marred the official visit of his predecessor, Heinrich Luebke, some years before.

German-French friendship has become an accepted fact — something new in terms of their historical enmity.

At the European Security Conference consultations in Helsinki, German was accepted as an official language. That means something to West German diplomats.

The entrance of West Germany into the "high society" of nations will be capped off next fall when both Germanys are expected to be admitted into the United Nations.

Chancellor Brandt has still some way to go in sweeping away the clutter of World War II in his relations with Germany's Communist neighbors to the east.

Stalled talks over a treaty normalizing relations with Czechoslovakia were to resume this month. There are indications that the two nations have reached a compromise on the key issue holding up the treaty — the status of 1938 Munich pact that led to Hitler's takeover of Czechoslovakia.

If that can be cleared up, treaties with Bulgaria and Hungary are expected to follow shortly. At least no major hindrances are foreseen.

Establishing normal relations with the "other Germany" is proving more difficult.

Nearly every evening, the television news shows East Germans meeting with West Germans to examine various issues. But progress has been slow and limited.

"The East Germans are worried about the effect of new contacts on their domestic political stability," commented one diplomatic expert here.

Chancellor Brandt's greatest challenges now are primarily domestic. Perhaps the most dangerous threat to his government is inflation. It is running at 6.8 per cent. Economists expect it to rise above 7 per cent in the coming months.

Another issue for West Germany is its 2.3 million foreign workers who comprise 10 per cent of the work force.

The nation has not yet fully accepted the likelihood that a sizable proportion of these foreigners want to stay. It does not look on itself as an immigrant country.

On the whole, however, West Germany should consider itself today relatively fortunate among nations. It does not have the labor unease that troubles Britain. It does not face the administrative stagnation and social sluggishness of Italy.

'Going Conglomerate' Adds To Tax Bills

Marin County taxpayers probably can look forward to higher tax bills as result of the board of supervisors' decision Tuesday to merge health, welfare and probation departments into a "super-agency" or "conglomerate department" or whatever you want to call it.

We say this on the basis of experience.

MERGING COUNTY departments into "super-departments" has been repeatedly advocated by County Administrator John F. Barrows and by his predecessor and preceptor, Alan Bruce.

Most of the proposals have been turned down by the supervisors. But they have heeded the plea for "improved efficiency" and "better delivery of services" a couple of times. Let's take a look at what happened.

In 1966, Dr. Donovan O. Cooke was elected county coroner-public administrator. The budget that year for the coroner's office was $45,349 (up substantially from $37,383 the previous year); that for the public administrator, $9,772, or a total of $55,121.

In May, 1969, the supervisors combined the county medical department with the coroner-public administrator's office. The budget that year for the medical department was $361,950.

Interestingly, the medical department budget for fiscal 1968-9 was exactly $110,000 LOWER than the budget for the same department three years earlier (the year Cooke was elected coroner). However, the budget for coroner had risen to $75,723; that for public administrator, to $23,390, to total $99,113.

In February, 1970, the supervisors added mental health to Dr. Cooke's portfolio. On June 22, 1971, it placed the public health department also under Dr. Cooke, thus creating a coroner-public administrator-medical-health-mental health department.

IN FISCAL 1969-70, before this series of amalgamations began, the budgets of the various services performed by health, medical and mental health departments added up to $3,849,245. This fiscal year, they total $4,232,343. (Don't try to find this total with a quick look at the county budget; the various functions have been reassigned in the budget so that it takes careful searching to sort them out and put them back together.)

In the meantime, the budget for coroner plus public administrator (which, remember, totaled $55,121 when Cooke took over) has grown to $181,102. The medical department budget, which was $361,950 before it was merged with coroner-public administrator in the first of these "efficiency streamlining" processes, has grown to $1,110,684.

Dr. Cooke, who has made this remarkable record of cost-saving and efficiency, is not to head the new multi-multi department, however. It is to be headed by Betty L. Presley, director of public social services (welfare).

IT IS PERHAPS unfair to mention that the cost of the various welfare operations in Miss Presley's department has risen from $9,371,094 in fiscal 1969-70 (the last year before the county started to "go conglomerate") to $12,435,996 this year. Miss Presley had little or no control over most of this increase.

As we said in the beginning, look for bigger tax bills as result of the latest amalgamation of departments. That's what has happened when this same kind of "streamlining" for "greater efficiency" was tried in the past.

Czar Riles Puts Schools On The Metric System

By RUS WALTON

This stuff called "new math" may have its good points but it sure bugs me.

First, how come so many of the new math kids can't seem to add or subtract, or multiply or divide.

Second, this new math is contributing to the generation gap. The way things are, discussing fractions with my 12-year-old daughter is like trying to talk to an Eskimo.

Take the division of fractions. A simple chore. Just turn the second fraction upside down, multiply across the top and multiply across the bottom and then divide the under into the over. Nothing to it.

But, the new math book takes at least one page of complicated steps and arrows and symbols to show kids some new-fangled approach that somehow comes up with the same answer.

And if you have ever chewed through the kitchen table while trying to explain all that to a sixth-grader, you know what I mean.

BUT EVEN THAT torture is not enough.

Now the state's education czar, Wilson Riles, has decided kids will make an abrupt shift to the metric system, come the autumn of 1976.

Riles has decided: the spirit of '76 will be in metrics.

He wants the International System of Measurement Units taught exclusively, starting in three years. Out with the traditional U.S. system of weights and measures. In with metrics.

And, no comparative tables to ease the transition. Don't confuse the kids, says the czar.

I can see it now: parents grumbling in pounds and gallons with while kids do their homework in grams and liters.

"Hey, Adam. Run down to the store and pick up a half-gallon of milk and an extra yardstick. Okay?"

"Poor old pop. What he means is 1.90 liters of lo-fat and a meter-reader."

THE CONVERSION to metrics may or may not be a good deal. I suppose if you're dabbling in foreign trade or look forward to a one-world constant, it makes sense. Congress hasn't decided yet — and neither has the State Board of Education.

But, Czar Riles has and that's the real problem at hand.

The law says the State Board of Education shall decide such policy matters for our schools, not Mr. Riles. The law says the superintendent of public instruction shall take his policy directives from that board, not vice versa.

Junking that law and jumping those traces is nothing strange for Riles.

BACK IN 1971, Riles decided the state's educational hierarchy should be restructured to give his office more power — and the board less. The board wasn't too happy about that, even though the governor's office supported the bill.

Then there was the Bagley busing bill. The one, now invalid, that decreed local school districts should achieve something called racial balance. Mr. Riles decided the states education establishment was in favor of that one. He told the governor the board agreed.

But, a review of the records showed the board had never even discussed the bill, let alone endorsed it.

Now the czar has decided to convert our math books and our kids to metrics.

How did the State Board of Education members find out about all this? Through reading the news accounts of Riles' press conference where he announced his intentions. He said he would present the matter to the board at this week's meeting. Strictly routine.

After all, the czar has decided.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Who Is Responsible For Palestinian Refugees?

Ever since nearly two million Palestinians fled from Palestine and the Israelis occupied it, we have heard various explanations as to why the Palestinians left their homeland. Now we hear that the Israelis actually begged the Palestinians to stay, and the Egyptians somehow got over there and induced them to leave.

The Palestinians were not herded into refugee camps by their Arab hosts. Caring for two million refugees is an enormous task, and the United Nations established camps to care for the Palestinians, who had suddenly been made both stateless and homeless . . .

Spend Money On Those Who Want To Live

I just had to do a follow-up on that letter concerning the Gate span suicides. Not only would a barrier cause the wind to howl, but it would cause a lot of people to howl. I, for one, feel, if these jumpers want to go, let them go. We should all have the choice to live or die. I would rather spend my money on people who want to live, and are fighting to live in this society. It takes a strong person to exist in this world, and they're the wons who should be helped, not the ones who give up and let others carry their load.

If these people want to kill themselves, an expensive barrier isn't going to stop them.

Predator Control Program Questioned

Predator control in Sonoma County will soon be up for renewal before the board of supervisors. Under this program some $19,000 of local tax funds (plus additional state and federal money) are used every year on the trapping and killing of coyotes and other wildlife.

Chief backers of the program are some large sheep ranchers who insist that rampaging coyotes threaten their very livelihood.

However, a close look at the county trappers' official records reveals that in the last nine months fewer than 200 sheep (out of a county sheep population of 78,000) were reported as predator kills by the ranchers requesting the program, and a sizable number of those kills were unconfirmed.

Because of this overblown coyote scare, hundreds of wild creatures — bobcats, raccoons, foxes and other species as well as coyotes — suffer an agonizing and lingering death in non-selective steel traps.

People who want to help preserve our remaining wildlife, and who object to having their tax dollars used in this cruel trapping program, should express their views immediately to their Sonoma County supervisors.

'Sphere Of Influence' Decision Protested

The recent LAFCO decision, placing the Strawberry area within the "sphere of influence" of Tiburon, further emphasizes the total disregard of "government" at all levels of the will of the people.

As recently as 1971, an election was held to determine whether the Strawberry area would be annexed to Tiburon. This was voted down 727 to 437. Apparently, the outcome of this election is of insignificant value to the LAFCO board.

The decision of LAFCO is arbitrary. There are no figures as to increase in taxes, although at best they could only be approximations. Services evidently are not taken into consideration since Tiburon has little to offer.

Technically, Strawberry can remain unincorporated, unless an election is held in which a majority of voters determine that they want to join Tiburon. Certainly, any requests made to the county will be responded to with regard to policies practiced by Tiburon and not our own needs.

What little voice our community has had with the county has been diminished by their decision. This serves to siphon the power that only belongs to the people.

JOANNE GIACOMINO

(Placing Strawberry in Tiburon's "sphere of influence" does not mean it should annex to Tiburon; it does mean that Tiburon should be consulted on developments in Strawberry that may affect it. — Editor)

Corte Maderan Applauds Fireworks For Sally

What a great way to show a free spirit our appreciation, for bringing the unexpected, unusual and always colorful into otherwise routine civic affairs.

How many free spirits do we have?
Hang the expense, it's worth it!
What can be done for her next birthday? The 100th should be a beaut!

'Happenstance' Park A Pleasure For All

May a final word be said about the courthouse square before remanding it to its century of progress?

A park which occurred so haphazardly has resulted in a lovable little oasis which children, teen-agers and oldsters have shared alike with equal enjoyment. The square has a head of trees which is surely as fine as any in America. The World War I Doughboy who watched over them for so many years might, in fancy, echo the immortal words of Joyce Kilmer:

"Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."

Reader Thinks Nixon Should Be Impeached

The recent and overwhelming evidence that has come to light pertaining to Watergate, coupled with the direct criminal violation of the present administration in the Ellsberg case, and the fact that our "President by mandate" deliberately led us to believe all war in Indochina would be ended promptly (when in actuality it only moved slightly in position) surely must be just cause for impeachment of such a President.

Electronic bugging as in Watergate, is against the law, yet there is no law to stop the President from continuing the economic and human slaughterous course he chooses to pursue. He refuses to bow to the "mandate of the people" in that respect, who have chosen to abandon such a useless and destructive course. I am wondering if his aides of such impeachable character have misguided and duped him on the true situation of our war, as they supposedly did on the Watergate matter. Or have his decisions been made with full knowledge of the facts of each situation? Somehow I feel safer thinking he has been misguided and duped, rather than coldly premeditating each move.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

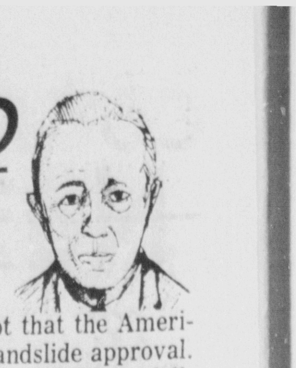
"Don't telephone to me from the office today unless it's important," my wife said, "because I'll be spring housecleaning and I'm not going to answer the phone."

This is the same gal who missed an important long distance call by ignoring the machine's insistent ringing. When asked why she hadn't answered the phone she said, "It sounded like a wrong number."

Another time she asked me to dial a number for her. "I think Alice is mad at me," she explained, "and if I dial she may not answer her phone."

On or off the telephone, feminine logic is fallacious, shallow, inconsistent, irrelevant, capricious — and irrefutable.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND



An Open Letter To Congress Calling For Political Reform

WASHINGTON — To members of Congress:

Is it inevitable that the presidency must be diminished and enfeebled in the long aftermath of Watergate?

Some say that a crime which had such an inglorious inception can have nothing but an inglorious end — damaging the whole nation.

Some say that public trust in the political process has worn so thin that it is doubtful whether any President of either party can govern effectively for a long time to come.

Must it be this way? Is yes the only answer to that question? Do the American people have to suffer for offenses committed over which they had no control and would never condone?

I venture to say no. It is up to the Congress to prevent it — not to salvage a particular President but to safeguard the presidency itself.

How?

DISCOVERY, CONVICTION, punishment — that's the least to be done.

What is needed to turn the miasma of Watergate into a boon is evidence that the toughest, most searching and surgical measures of political reform will be taken.

The instrument of reform is crucial.

In its formative work it should embrace both political parties, both legislative and executive branches, both national committee chairmen, and outstanding public representatives.

To that end I urge the Congress to create without delay a national commission on campaign reform mandated to search out every weak provision of the law, show how it can be repaired, and report to Congress quickly what needs to be done, what must be done.

This would make light visible at the end of the Watergate tunnel.

There can be no doubt that the American people would give landslide approval.

It would equip Congress with a full-scale blueprint of reform equal to the need.

It would be reassuring proof that the unworthiness of Watergate will be made to yield a worthy dividend.

It would begin to reverse the onrushing public distrust of government and politics.

EVERY THOUGHTFUL member of Congress of both parties agrees that a weakening of the functioning of the presidency means a weakening of the nation itself.

Evidence that Watergate will not be allowed to grind to an inglorious end but will be capped with basic reform will do more than anything else to rescue the presidency from being immobilized.

Now is the time to act. The initiative should be with Congress. If Congress assumes the lead to turn outrage and dismay into the channels of reform, it will take a giant stride toward recovering its own eroded powers.

The makeup of a national commission on campaign reform should reflect the experience of both parties, since both parties will suffer if reform is not forthcoming. But it should also reflect full citizen particpation.

Such a commission should demand of Congress stronger laws than some may think Congress will enact. The commission should then mobilize public opinion which will encourage Congress to act. Congress may need no such compulsion.

Let's put campaign reform in the hands of those who believe in reform. Let's consult the American people. Let's make the crime of Watergate pay a real dividend of reform which will benefit the presidency, the Congress and the country.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Has Time Come For Restless Americans To Put Down Roots?

WASHINGTON — For millions of us, it was as natural as sap rising. Through the 1800s, this was the time of year for saddling up, loading the Conestoga and heading out — usually west. Now it has become more complicated, and to re-equip oneself with wheels requires a major investment. Finding a new place to settle demands advanced scouting, and often commitment to a lifetime of debt.

No matter. The tradition continues.

SPRING SYMBOLIZES America, or used to: new starts, limitless promise. Moving to reach them became our deepest habit. We have been proud of it because it says all things are possible if we are willing to lift roots and go.

Only now, in 1973, are more than a few isolated thinkers bringing that tradition into serious question. Together they make a strong, almost convincing argument that we would serve ourselves and our country well by reversing it. Imagine that — America, the land of deep roots and stay-at-homes.

Unlikely as it is, it is the obvious conclusion from a variety of evidence at hand. Census analysis, welfare rolls, energy crisis, abuse of the land, the frustration of so many young people who have no feeling for who they are — all say in different words: Sit still!

As the computers dissect and redissect the data fed in by the 1970 Census, they report that about 36 million Americans move their homes every year. Many of those moves are still to the west, or to Florida, but most do not even cross a county line. Seventy per cent of the nation still lives in the same state where it was born. Yet the picture is of insistent motion, fed more by economics than any other motive.

THERE ARE NEW and contradictory patterns of movement. From the earlier westward flow there have been diversions, until now the strongest current is outward from the center, toward the coasts. The big gainers in the 1960s were California, Florida, New Jersey and Maryland; the big losers Pennsylvania, Mississippi, West Virginia, Alabama, New Mexico and the Dakotas.

The historic flight of blacks from the South continued but slowed, and that region showed a net gain because the black exodus was more than matched by a white influx accompanying southern industrialization.

Within states and regions, the mass movement away from the farms has not slackened. Yet within urban areas, most center cities have lost while their suburbs gained. Newcomers to the cities were heavily black, and those crossing city lines for the suburbs were mostly white.

None of this is startlingly new, but the way in which its effects interlock with each other and the great domestic problems of this decade is just being recognized.

IF BLACKS and poor whites had stayed in the South or on the farm, many of them would be better off than in the city. The welfare burden on major cities would be far less.

If the compulsion to ricochet about like restless molecules could be controlled, federal officials would not be warning of gasoline shortages this summer. The rate at which the countryside is being paved over would not be so menacing, the rush to condominiumize our entire coastline would slacken.

If middle-class whites began upgrading instead of abandoning the cities, the ever-widening ring of suburban claptrap might slow down at least enough to be rationalized.

FOR MORE than three centuries, we have equated movement with freedom. Now so many of us have left our roots that few remember them. Among high-rise pizza parlors, our young have reached the point at which it is the older, rooted America that seems peculiar. We have grown plastic tastes and plastic morals to replace traditional ones. What kind of freedom is that?

Rather than freedom, all pointless motion produces for us today is change and newness, and those become ends in themselves. Any clear identity, anything that fits understandably in one stationary group or place, has been redefined as conformity.

The remedy, or a start toward one, would be to call a national freeze while we all think through who we are and where we are going, and whether we really have to go anywhere at all. But we are not about to sit still, even if we see that keeping moving is taking us like lemmings into the sea.

Even those of us inspired to write about it are likely to be in the midst of mortgage negotiations, booking moving vans, changing snow tires and reserving train seats. This is May, after all, and America is out there waiting.

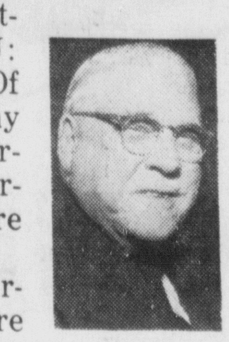
COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

New Consolidation Admission That Previous One Failed



Big as life —four-column, front-page headline, in Wednesday's I-J: "County Board Merges Trio Of Departments." There are many facets to this action of three supervisors, any one of which is important enough to devote an entire column in properly discussing it.

The board appointed me chairman of the health and welfare departments when I first became a supervisor. During the 22 years I served, I worked closely with both departments, spending many, many hours with each, learning their problems. Also the members of the commission of the probation department came to me with their problems. So as a result I know about all three.

When le Baptiste said that this has been under study for five years and that it was time to act, he was speaking without personal knowledge as he has only been a supervisor for two years and four months.

People know that he and Arrigoni were the ones who pushed through the appointment of John Barrows as administrator, without any competition. Wornum, the records will show, wasn't too sure but he went along for the ride to get rid of the annoyance.

BETTY PRESLEY has done a magnificent job during the years she has been director of the Welfare Department. She has been under constant pressure, with the ever-increasing load brought on by changing federal and state requirements. It was enough to break one's health, I tell you. It's a lousy trick, whether she is willing or not, to load her up with this sort of thing. If it goes sour, in spite of her efforts, who will get the blame? Just our girl Betty, that's who.

This is a smooth attempt to cover up the fact that the administrator, the supervisors and Dr. Donovan Cooke have failed miserably in the grand consolidation of the health services instituted two years ago.

This whole deal is like a loser at the gambling tables plunging to try and cover the losses. What a lame admission of failure in Dr. Cooke's alibi, "There are benefits to be gained but it takes awhile for them to show up."

When le Baptiste says that "territorial barriers" would prevent any cooperative effort by the departments to avoid duplication, one might ask, "Just when does he think any such barriers will disappear after a consolidation?"

THERE IS THE OLD saying that "there is safety in numbers." How true in such a case as this! If for any reason whatever, the person around whom a big operation is built, is no longer available, then comes the moment of truth. All the eggs in one basket rarely works. It isn't working by the consolidation of the health services.

By their action, whether they know it or not, the three men who voted to do this thing are broadcasting that they don't know and don't intend to learn what to do, so they turn it over to someone else. I am sorry to see Bob Roumiguiere be a party to this, as he has been showing the qualities that the taxpayers are entitled to.

Riles Plans Whirlwind Tour Of Marin County

A split-second schedule for every minute of State Superintendent of Instruction Wilson Riles' visit to Marin County on June 6 has been issued by the county schools office.

Starting with a 9:30 a.m. visit to Olive School in the Novato Unified School District, Riles will travel all over the county visiting schools, teachers, administrators and residents.

Schools Riles will visit include Short School, San Rafael, Tamalpais High School, Martin Luther King School and Sausalito.

He will attend a noon picnic lunch at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, and a public reception at Mill Valley Middle School from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

After a one hour "rest" period between 5 and 6 p.m., and a similar one hour "relaxation social" period from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., the state education chief will go to a dinner at Dominican College and give a speech, "Mid-Term Report," at 9 p.m. His 12-hour visit ends at 9:30 p.m.

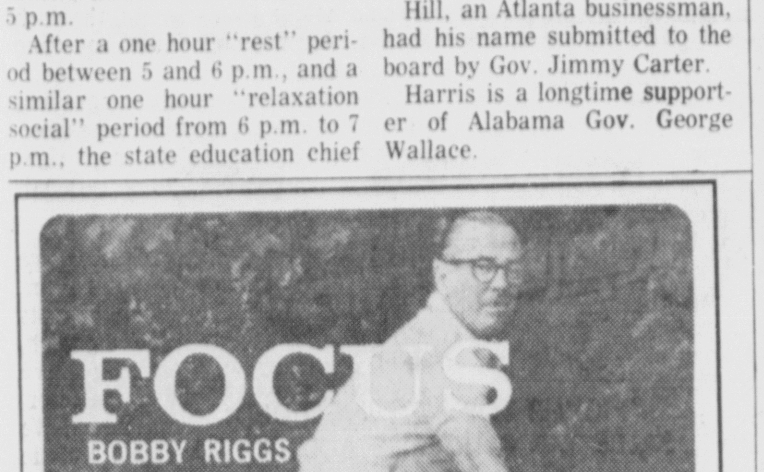
The Governor's Wishes Followed

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first black member of the Georgia Board of Regents was unanimously elected Tuesday with a white supremacist moving for the nomination.

"We normally elect a person nominated by the governor," said board member Roy Harris of Augusta. "In view of this, I move we elect Jesse Hill."

Hill, an Atlanta businessman, had his name submitted to the board by Gov. Jimmy Carter.

Harris is a longtime supporter of Alabama Gov. George Wallace.



Riggs vs Court

Are women athletes able to compete equally against men? In tennis, anyway, most experts believe not. With the advantages of strength and size, even boy champions have defeated the best women players in the world without too much difficulty. But what if the men are handicapped . . . by about 25 years? At the peak of her career, world champion Paulene Betz won matches from famous Bill Tilden. But then he was 55 years old. At the same age today, Hall of Famer Bobby Riggs is matched against Margaret Court in a $10,000 contest this weekend.

Paving Proposed For Cedar Lane

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission has recommended that Cedar Lane, now a dirt path held in place by wood risers, be paved and steps installed to cut down on maintenance.

Chairman George L. McCoy said the commission Tuesday recommended that the city council approve the project, estimated to cost $7,000. About $6,500 has been budgeted for lane work this year, he said.

Cedar Lane runs from Beach Road past Bayview Avenue to Bella Vista Avenue.

Dominican Will Award 133 Degrees Next Week

A total of 133 students is to receive degrees from Dominican College of San Rafael in commencement ceremonies at 10:30 a.m. May 19 in Forest Meadows Theater on the campus.

Commencement speakers chosen by the graduates will include John Savant, assistant professor of English, and Christine Mary Waters, a senior from Camarillo, Ventura County.

Savant will discuss "The Inevitable Past." He is chairman of the college council and the first faculty member to be selected as a commencement speaker.

Miss Waters will speak about the "Freedom to Be." She is the third of three daughters in her family to graduate from Dominican and has served as house chairman for Fanjeaux residence hall.

Awards for distinguished service to the college will be presented by the board of trustees to Sister M. Martin Barry, professor of English, and chairman of the graduate division of the college from 1950 to 1972 and Sister M. Anita Healy, registrar since 1943.

The outstanding student award will be presented for the first time. The recipient will be announced at the ceremonies.

Degree candidates will be presented by Paul M. Hupf, attorney and chairman of the board of trustees. The degrees will be conferred by Sister M. Samuel Conlan, college president.

Ninety-three students will be awarded bachelor degrees and forty will receive master degrees. An additional 55 men and women, who will not participate in the commencement, will have completed work for elementary, secondary or special education teaching credentials.

Six graduates will receive the bachelor of arts degree, magna cum laude: Elissa Benn, Santa Rosa; Aurora Mercedes Gurdian, Leon, Nicaragua; Mary Ellen Ritter, Tiburon; Kathleen Jane Rond, Vallejo; Madeline Diane Rule, Sacramento, and Alicia Marie Snyder, San Anselmo. The bachelor of science degree, magna cum laude, will be awarded to Janny Ching Yee Chan of Happy Valley, Hong Kong.

Five students will receive the Bachelor of Arts degree, cum laude: Sister Antoinette Keogh, Auburn; Annie An-Li Lai, Taipei, Taiwan; Margaret Rose Machado, Sacramento; Roma W. Robbins, San Rafael, and Barbara Jane Thomas, San Francisco.

Other students and their home town include:

Budget Will Be Topic Of Forum

The San Rafael Town Meeting Association has announced plans for a community forum on the San Rafael city budget at 8 p.m. June 6 in city hall.

The forum will be aimed at exploring the philosophy behind the budget, according to association member Dorothy L. Breiner. City officials are expected to be in attendance, she said.

The educational and information session will be held before public hearings on the city budget, she said.

Sewer Line Contracts Announced

Contracts to repair two sewer lines damaged by January's heavy rains have been awarded by the Tamalpais Community Services District.

Publicity director Glenn Lambacher said a $7,049 contract was awarded Tuesday to Brabo Construction Co. of Mill Valley to repair a line in Northern Canyon. The federal government will pay $2,708 of the cost.

The other contract, for $2,600 was awarded to Tam Sewers Inc. to repair a washed-out line at Erica Road and Brookline Avenue with the federal grant paying $1,650.

In a related action Tuesday night, the board rejected four claims for $50,000 each from residents who say they suffered damage to their property when the Erica-Bookline sewer washed out. They are John F. Shirley, 513 Brookline Avenue, Robert W. Greenman Jr. of 515 Brookline, Martin L. Rhodes of 516 Brookline and T. Noren of 504 Andre Lane.

Awarding of a third contract for garbage service in the district was delayed to allow the board to hold an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. May 22 to study four bids, Lambacher said. A decision on the garbage franchise will be made at the board's June 12 meeting.

Lambacher said the board sold three surplus Jeeps for a total of $1,316.

Hemingway's Son Loses Libel Suit

HAILEY, Idaho (UPI) — A $600,000 libel suit brought by a son of the late author Ernest Hemingway against a weekly newspaper in Sun Valley was dismissed Wednesday by a judge.

Jack Hemingway sued George T. Fritz, editor of the Wood River Journal, for an article and editorial published last October. The paper criticized Hemingway, a member of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, for his purchase of the Half-Way Ranch in Lincoln County.

The editorial said the land purchase "finds one of the commissioners, Hemingway, doubling the bid that was offered by the Fish and Game Department."

Hemingway's attorney plans to appeal the case to the Idaho Supreme Court.
